HOUSTON (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - American General Corp. (NYSE:AGC) Friday announced the election of Joseph M. Grant to the position of executive vice president and chief systems officer, effective March 29,1990.

In addition to corporate-wide responsibility for systems, Grant will be responsible for the following corporate functions: personnel and benefits, training and development, and legal and government affairs. He will also serve on the senior management and investment committees.

Grant, 51, has, since April 1986, been serving as chairman and chief executive officer of Texas American Bancshares Inc. He joined Texas American in 1975, and was named president of its lead bank, Texas American Bank/Fort Worth, in January 1976 and chairman and chief executive officer in January 1983.

He began his business career with Citibank in New York City in 1961. During 1970-1973, he was senior economist for Texas Commerce Bancshares. Grant received his Ph.D. in finance and economics and his MBA from the University of Texas at Austin. He received his undergraduate degree from Southern Methodist University.

Grant, a native of San Antonio, served as international president of the Young Presidents' Organization in 1987-1988. His civic activities include past chairman, Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce; past chairman, North Texas Commission; Southern Methodist University board of trustees; Texas Christian University board of trustees.

He also served on the boards of directors of the Fort Worth Museum of Modern Art, Van Cliburn Piano Competition and the Southwest Exposition and Livestock Show. In 1970 he co-authored a book, ''The Development of State-Chartered Banking in Texas.''

American General is an insurance and financial services organization with assets of $32 billion and total equity of $4.5 billion. Headquartered in Houston, the company has subsidiaries that operate in 50 states and Canada.

The company groups its operating subsidiaries into three business segments: Insurance -- Home Service; Insurance -- Special Markets; and Finance/Real Estate. American General common stock is listed on the New York, Pacific, London, and Swiss Stock Exchanges.

MARLBORO, MA. (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - Data Translation Inc. (NASDAQ:DATX) Friday announced sales and earnings for the first quarter ended Feb. 28, 1990.

Net sales were $9,281,000 and net income was $185,000 (6 cents per share) compared to net sales of $11,193,000 and net income of $924,000 (30 cents per share) for the same period last year. Sales for the first quarter decreased 17 percent and net income and earnings per share decreased by 80 percent from the corresponding period in 1989.

''While these results continue to trend downward from a year ago, the results of this specific quarter have not caught us entirely by surprise '' said Fred Molinari, president. ''The business softening became evident in the third quarter of last year and at that time we instituted programs and strategic plans to help us return to more profitable levels.

''This was, and still is, a long-term strategy that we are committed to following. We instituted cost controls, revised pricing and discounting, and increased our investment in R&D. Additionally, we have recently embarked upon a promotional campaign to highlight both our existing and recently announced new products.

''We believe that we have strengthened the company by organizing around five distinct business units in order to tailor the requirements to the varied markets in which they sell.

''Financially, we are maintaining a strong position. We have continued to increase cash, maintained a level inventory and and have reduced accounts receivable. The company enjoys a debt-free balance sheet. This strength should enable us to carry out the operating plans and strategies that we have formulated over the last six to nine months.

''While the second quarter, most likely, will show little, or perhaps no, improvement, we expect to start to enjoy the fruits of our efforts toward the latter part of this fiscal year.

''Data Translation Inc. designs, manufactures and markets high-performance data acquisition and image processing board products and software that serve the laboratory, medical and industrial markets. Its products are compatible with many widely used microcomputers, including those from Apple, DEC, IBM, Intel and Sun.

''Emerging markets of multimedia and color desktop publishing are also targets for new products that are increasingly pushing the company's products into more commercial markets.

MONTGOMERY, AL (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - The Enstar Group Inc. (OTC; NASDAQ: ENST) Friday announced the results of operations for the fourth quarter and year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Net profit for the fourth quarter was $20,178,000 or 37 cents per share. Net loss for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989 was $150,670,000 or $2.74 per share compared to a profit of $43,268,000, or 80 cents per share for the year ended Dec. 31 ,1988.

The company had a pretax loss from continuing operations for the fourth quarter and the year of $82,094,000 and $201,761,000, respectively, compared to a loss of $4,762,000 and profit of $14,216,000 in the comparable year ago periods.

The fourth quarter net loss from continuing operations were $86,857,000 and $5,260,000 for 1989 and 1988 respectively. Net earnings from discontinued operations were $107,035,000 for the fourth quarter, including the impact of the corporate restructuring, compared to $5,962,00 in the year ago period.

Results for 1989 were impacted by several factors, including the corporate restructuring, the effects of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989, (FIRREA), on its subsidiary, American Savings & Loan Association of Florida, realized and unrealized investment losses, and the discontinuance of certain business segments; the company has reaffirmed projections for 1990 of $30 million to $33 million or 55 cents to 60 cents per share.

The Enstar Group Inc. has projected earnings for 1990 of $30 million to $33 million or 55 cents to 60 cents per share, reflecting the distribution to shareholders of one-half of the common stock of ASLA. Quarterly results will be affected by the seasonality of Specialty Retail and are expected to be strongest in the fourth quarter.

PICKERINGTON, OH (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - Physicians Insurance Company of Ohio (PICO) recorded consolidated net income of $2.3 million or 76 cents per share in 1989, compared to a consolidated net loss of $1.5 million or 47 cents per share the previous year.

These earnings advanced shareholders' equity by 9 percent to $26.1 million or $8.49 per share in 1989, up from $23.9 million or $7.77 per share for the previous year.

During the fourth quarter of 1989, consolidated income from continuing operations was $670,000, up significantly from $363,000 a year earlier.

On a per share basis, continuing operations in the fourth quarter produced income of 22 cents per share, up 83 percent over 12 cents per share for the like period in 1988. Income from continuing operations also increased between the third and fourth quarters of 1989, from 14 cents per share at Sept. 30, 1989, to 22 cents per share at Dec. 31, 1989.

According to Robert L. Dion, president and chief executive officer, performance during the fourth quarter and for the year 1989 continued the company's trend of profitability. ''The final quarter of 1989 marks the fifth consecutive quarter in which PICO recorded a profit,'' Dion said, ''and it is the seventh consecutive quarter in which the company achieved a profit from continuing operations.''

The company's primary line of business, medical malpractice insurance for physicians and other health care professionals, generated a major increase in operating income for the year to $2.8 million, up from $1.0 million the previous year. The effects of corporate streamlining and operational efficiencies were key factors in this growth of nearly 180 percent, Dion said.

PICO's consolidated net written premiums in 1989 were $47.5 million, nearly level with the previous year. This included business written by PICO and by its subsidiaries, The Professionals Insurance Co. and American Physicians Life Insurance Co.

Net written premiums for professional liability coverage for the year were $43.5 million at year-end 1989, compared to $45.3 million in 1988. Totals reflect the impact of changes in the malpractice marketplace, Dion said, as well as restructuring of the company's reinsurance programs. In addition, PICO experienced a shift in product mix in 1989, and changes in underwriting which affected the risk classification of policyholders.

Net life and health insurance premiums written by American Physicians Life Insurance Co. increased in 1989 to $4.0 million, up from $2.9 million a year ago.

The company's other operations generated a fourth quarter profit of more than $108,000. For the year, these activities posted a loss of $378,000 due principally to the impact of restructuring and realignment during the 12-month period.

Net investment income for the fourth quarter of 1989 was up 51 percent to $3.6 million. The year was accompanied by a highly favorable investment climate and saw PICO's net investment income increase 23 percent, from $12.5 million in 1988 to more than $15.4 million at the close of 1989.

PICO's net property and casualty loss reserves rose to $135.6 million in 1989, up from $123.1 million at year-end 1988. Fund accumulations and reserves for the life insurance subsidiary were $31.9 million for the year up from $30.7 million at year-end 1988. According to Dion, these substantial balances reflect PICO's emphasis on long-term reserve adequacy and surplus growth.

At year-end 1989, PICO's consolidated assets had risen to $225.2 million, up from $221.3 million a year earlier.

SAN FRANCISCO, CA. (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - The Pacific Telesis Group board of directors Friday approved a first quarter dividend increase of 7.45 percent or 3.5 cents, from 47 cents per share to $0.505.

''This is our sixth consecutive annual dividend increase since divestiture '' said Sam Ginn, chairman and chief executive officer.

''It demonstrates our continued confidence in Pacific Telesis' future. That confidence stems from strong business fundamentals, our flagship cellular properties, a strategic foothold abroad and the potential to increase earnings under the recently adopted regulatory framework in California.''

Ginn added, however, that the corporation anticipates its first quarter 1990 earnings will be below those of the like period in 1989. He cited the $391 million rate reduction (effective Jan. 1, 1990) associated with the new regulatory framework, increased expenditures for network improvements and internal operating systems, and higher labor costs (a) as the cause.

The dividend will be paid on May 1, 1990 to shareowners of record as of April 9, 1990.

Pacific Telesis is a diversified telecommunications corporation based in San Francisco. The corporation is listed on the New York, Pacific and Midwest stock exchanges as PAC and on the London and Swiss exchanges as Pacific Telesis. (a) Higher labor costs are a result of the 1989 union contract.

COLUMBUS, OH (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - Appalachian Power Co. and Virginia Power Co. Friday announced an agreement in principle to reinforce the ability to exchange electricity between the two companies by the construction of major new electric power transmission facilities.

The companies will need to carry out additional engineering studies to finalize specific technical details prior to requesting appropriate regulatory approval, according to W. S. White Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of American Electric Power. Appalachian Power is an AEP subsidiary. Virginia Power is owned by Dominion Resources.

The agreement concludes a joint study begun in March 1989 to address concerns over the adequacy of the companies' existing transmission capability in light of current and long-term requirements.

Based on the initial study, the transmission reinforcement program includes about 212 miles of new transmission lines and related substation improvements in West Virginia and Virginia. Details of the programs are:

o A 110-mile, 765,000-volt line from Appalachian Power's Wyoming Station in southern West Virginia to its Cloverdale Station near Roanoke, Va.;

o An 88-mile, 500,000-volt line from Appalachian Power's Joshua Falls

o A 14-mile, 500,000-volt line from Virginia Power's North Anna Station to its Ladysmith Station.

White noted that the overall program as outlined will cost in the range of $430-450 million. Appalachian Power's share will be approximately 58 percent.

''Both companies recognize that reinforcement of existing transmission systems is necessary to meet our customers' future power requirements and to provide adequate capacity for regional power interchanges,'' White said.

The next step is for Appalachian Power and Virginia Power to investigate and agree on final details of the program. Completion of the project is dependent on the timing of final regulatory approval. Barring unforeseen delays, the project's actual construction would be three or four years after approval.

Appalachian Power is one of eight AEP System companies serving seven million people in parts of Virginia, West Virginia, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and Tennessee.

INDIANAPOLIS (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - INB National Bank officials Friday announced that the Comptroller of the Currency had approved the bank's July 1987 application to establish a retail branch office in Bloomington, Ind.

INB National Bank is an affiliate of INB Financial Corp., a multi-bank holding company with headquarters in Indianapolis.

Indiana law allows state-chartered savings and loans to do business statewide. ''The basis for our request was that banks should be allowed the same branching rights as state-chartered S&L's,'' explained David T. Fronek, the INB executive vice president who heads the bank's retail banking divisions.

''The Comptroller's finding in favor of our application confirms our long-standing position that since Indiana savings and loans are engaged in the banking business, national banks should have the same branching privileges as thrifts.''

''We are pleased with the Comptroller's response since it supports rulings that are consistent with his findings for national banks in other states '' Fronek continued.

Since filing its 1987 application, INB has established three branches in Bloomington as a result of its merger with Morgan County Bank & Trust Co. The Comptroller's approval of the 1987 request is significant because it effectively allows national banks more geographic expansion flexibility when considering branch locations in other Indiana communities.

''As a result of this decision, INB will have the opportunity to compete in other Indiana cities through an expansion of our banking center network. This ruling provides us with new options in our effort to bring more diversity and better services to a competitive and dynamic marketplace,'' Fronek said.

INB officials indicated that a fourth Bloomington branch is under consideration, but they have not targeted an opening date.

ACTON, MA. (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - The Co-operative Bank of Concord (NASDAQ:COBK) announced Friday that it had sold its equity investments in The Plymouth Five Cents Savings Bank and the Mayflower Co-operative Bank.

Concord formerly held 9.9 percent of Plymouth's and 5.6 percent of Mayflower's outstanding shares.

The $1,600,000 net loss resulting from the transactions will be reflected in the bank's fourth quarter. Previously, the decline in market value of Plymouth and Mayflower's stock had been reflected as a reduction of stockholders' equity.

In selling the investments, the bank was able to take advantage of tax carryback alternatives that would have expired on April 30, 1990. Because the bank can apply the loss against prior year's earnings, the net after tax effect of the transactions will increase stockholders' equity by approximately $1,067,000.

The Co-operative Bank of Concord, the largest co-operative bank in Massachusetts with assets in excess of $650 million, is a state chartered, FDIC insured co-operative bank with headquarters in Acton, Mass., and fourteen retail banking offices in Middlesex, Norfolk, and Plymouth counties.

BEIJING (MARCH 23) - China is in the process of developing five high-tech robots and is aiming to set up a robot production industry by 1995, the New China News Agency said Friday.

The five are anti-chemical and anti-nuclear reconnaissance robots, assembly robots, cableless underwater robots, movable program-controlled robots for adverse environments, and wall-crawling inspection robots.

The news agency said the robot development program will be carried out by the Shenyang Automation Institute and other scientific research departments at major higher-learning institutes.

The Shenyang Robot Experimental Engineering Center, built at a cost of 50 million yuan (10.5 million dollars), has already developed underwater robots and multi-functional robots, it said.

Shenyang, in northeastern Liaoning province, has benefitted from being a experimental city for many of China's urban economic reforms.

SOFIA (MARCH 23) - The Bulgarian government has adopted a decree bringing free market principles to agriculture, including an end to fixed prices, in a range of liberalisation measures, Bulgarian news agency BTA said.

But the state will retain control of bread, milk, meat, sugar, oil and baby food prices.

Farmers' taxes will be halved from 20 percent to 10 percent and will be applied equally to cooperatives and private farms under the decree adopted Thursday.

Farmers will be allowed to retain half the foreign currency obtained for exporting their produce, and the agriculture sector will have its 2.1 billion leva (2.1 billion dollars at the official rate) debt to the state written off.

The government on Thursday also said that there would in future be no limit on the number of people a private company could employ, instead of the maximum of 10 as at present.

Such companies will be allowed to sell their products abroad, but 20 percent of their foreign currency earnings will have to be handed over to the state.

The cabinet also decided that small shops, workshops, cafes and snack bars would be privatised and the fixed-price system abolished in this sector.

Duisburg (MARCH 23) - The West German industrial group Thyssen said Friday its surplus for the 1988-89 business year surged 21 per cent to 825 million marks (483.5 million dollars), and earnings in the current year remained strong.

Thyssen chairman Dieter Spethmann said the ''earnings situation has so far been good'' in the first five months of the new year since October 1.

He announced an increase in the shareholder dividend to 20 percent, from 15 percent a year ago.

Group turnover in the five months dipped slightly, by three per cent, to 13 billion marks, but Thyssen's order book volume at 16 billion marks was now higher than at the outset of the year, Spethmann said.

For the 1988-89 year ending last September 30, the company's turnover reached 34.2 billion marks, up 17 percent from the preceding year.

Spethmann said Thyssen's restructuring from a mainly steelmaking company to a diversified high-technology and industrial equipment group had prepared the firm well for the 1990s.

''Today we are stronger than ever before,'' Spethmann said.

ROUBAIX, France (MARCH 23) - French shipping group Delmas-Vieljeux is to take a 34 percent stake in French freight group Dubois, Dubois management announced Friday.

Delmas-Vieljeux will buy a minority bloc of shares, and will acquire further stock in Dubois through a reserved new share issue bringing its holding to 34 percent. Patrick Dubois will remain president and general manager of the Dubois group, in which the Dubois family will retain a 66 percent stake.

Dubois, which posted sales of 4.5 billion francs (800 million dollars) last year, employs 2,700 people and operates warehouses and freight lines throughout France.

Delmas-Vieljeux, which operates 53 ships, posted sales of more than five billion francs (890 million dollars) last year from its sea freight, handling and international shipping businesses.

WARSAW (MARCH 23) - Poland's economic reforms are beginning to bear fruit but lower inflation and better-stocked shops are being offset by falling industrial production and rising unemployment.

Poland's radical reform of an economy ruined by 45 years of communist management launched on January 1 by Finance Minister Leszek Balcerowicz aimed at giving the country a better future, but in the meantime it is bearing the brunt of a brutal cure.

Prices, no longer fixed, are rising at the same rate as unemployment, and people's buying power has already fallen 40 percent since the beginning of the year.

The success of the reforms is also linked to the fact that the Solidarity government is still enjoying the benefits of a "honeymoon period".

Prime Minister Tadeus Mazowiecki is riding an 85 percent support level in opinion polls, which have also shown that 54 percent of the population support the Balcerowicz plan as the only way to turn the economy round.

The first signs are evident: instead of the bare shelves of recent years, both state and private shops can now offer cooked meats, sugar, milk, coffee and above all meat.

The prices are prohibitive for most Poles, it is true, with salaries virtually frozen, but enterprising citizens are short-circuiting the system and selling their produce on the streets - a competitive market practice now allowed by the authorities as a way to keep prices down.

The farmers however are not happy. The Peasants' Party on Wednesday threatened to leave the government coalition if the programme was not rapidly modified because it was "suffocating agriculture".

But the government's ambitious aim of creating a market economy in the space of months "is on the right track," one western expert said, adding that the government could already claim several successes.

BONN (MARCH 23) - West German group Beiersdorf, which makes Nivea beauty products and Tesa adhesives, on Friday posted net consolidated profit of 97.3 million Deutsche marks (60.8 million dollars) for 1989, up five percent from 1988.

Beiersdorf said its profit would have risen 20 percent had it not been for unfavourable currency fluctuations.

The group's sales rose 10 percent to 3.79 billion marks (1.99 billion dollars), more than 60 percent of which came from exports.

The product line that showed the sharpest sales growth was its Tesa adhesives, with an 18.1 percent increase to 1.3 billion marks (812 million dollars).

Sales of the Nivea cosmetics line rose 7.5 percent to 1.6 billion marks (one billion dollars). Its pharmaceutical products sales increased 4.1 percent to 900 million marks (562 million dollars).

BONN (MARCH 23) - Bayerische Vereinsbank AG (BV), West Germany's fifth biggest bank, on Friday announced an 11 percent leap in its net unconsolidated profit for last year to 220.3 million Deutsche marks (137.6 million dollars).

The bank did not announce its consolidated profit, which was 272 million marks in 1988.

It said shareholders would receive a dividend of 13 marks per ordinary share and 14.50 marks per non-voting share, unchanged from the previous year.

KATHMANDU (MARCH 23) - Hundreds of riot police cordoned off central Kathmandu on Friday and foiled demonstrations by supporters of a multi-party political system, while across the country at least 50 people were arrested.

Unofficial reports said police arrested about 400 people here and elsewhere in Nepal on Friday but a Home Ministry spokesman said only 50 people had been arrested, mostly in connection with observance of the opposition-called National Solidarity Day.

He said most would be released later Friday after questioning.

A heavy deployment of hundreds of riot police foiled opposition plans Friday to mark Solidarity Day with a large anti-government rally and demonstration in central Kathmandu's historic Basantapur Square, witnesses said.

Opposition activists and students, some shouting slogans denouncing Nepal's 30-year-old partyless panchayat political system, staged small demonstrations in at least six other venues around the capital before the police moved in and arrested them, witnesses said.

They said those arrested were treated roughly by police.

Solidarity Day was called by the banned opposition Nepali Congress party and the United Leftist Front to press their demands for the re-establishment of a multi-party system and full human rights.

But the heavy police presence here and in other cities appeared to have stifled the protest, while analysts noted that most of the top opposition leaders had been arrested in the past five weeks.

An opposition source said 150 people had been arrested in Kathmandu, 200 at a massive rally in Narayanghat some 100 kilometers (60 miles) south of here and 50 in the districts of Chitwan, Lalitpur, Dharan, Birgunj and elsewhere.

Earlier Friday about 400 students from the Nepal Adarsha secondary school marched through the streets here carrying blacks flags as a symbol of democracy before police dispersed them and were seen arresting three.

Police and students clashed at Mahendra Ratna Rajya College near Kathmandu and three policemen and two students were injured.

Riot police also arrested 19 students during a baton charge at the Nepal Engineering Campus near here to disperse some 1,000 students who were shouting anti-panchayat slogans, witnesses said.

A small demonstration of trainee nurses and students of the Tribhuvan University Teaching Hospital at Maharajgunj was also reported.

Speakers denounced police brutality, abuses of human rights and the indiscriminate arrests of their colleagues, professors and other professionals.

Staff members of the Teaching Hospital also held a prayer meeting in memory of people who were killed by police while demonstrating over the past five weeks. They have been demanding the release of medical personnel arrested by authorities.

COLOMBO (MARCH 23) - The last Indian soldiers will leave Sri Lanka on Saturday, a week ahead of the scheduled final withdrawal, Indian and Sri Lankan officials said Friday.

Several hundred troops are due to sail from the strategic eastern port of Trincomalee after a ceremony attended by Foreign Minister Ranjan Wijeratne and armed forces chiefs of both countries.

During the past six months more than 50,000 soldiers have pulled out of the north and east of Sri Lanka after a presence lasting almost 32 months.

The Indian Peace Keeping Force arrived in July 1987 when India and Sri Lanka signed a peace treaty designed to end ethnic conflicts between the minority Tamil and majority Sinhalese communities.

The deployment was opposed by both Tamil and Sinhalese groups. The Sinhalese People's Liberation Front launched a civil war against the government resulting in heavy casualties.

The radical Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam waged a guerrilla war against the troops in which more than 8,000 persons were killed. The Indians lost 1,500 troops during their stay.

The Tigers have taken advantage of the pullout to gain virtual control of the north and eastern regions of the country.

LONDON (MARCH 23) - Office equipment maker Ricoh of Japan is to open a research centre in Britain to improve the quality of components supplied by subcontractors, the company announced Friday.

The centre, to be located in Telford, near the English Midlands city of Birmingham, will work with local suppliers of Ricoh UK Products Ltd and Ricoh Industrie France.

It will open in April next year, and will be staffed mainly by Japanese.

Ricoh hopes to improve the quality of locally-made components so it can raise the percentage of European-made parts in products such as photocopiers to avoid being frozen out of the European Economic Community.

The community has in the past slapped tariffs on the products of Japanese assembly plants in Europe on the grounds that most of their components are manufactured outside Europe.

TOKYO (MARCH 23) - The average Japanese household spent 294,518 yen (1,960 U.S. dollars) in January, up 2.5 percent from a year before in inflation-adjusted real terms, the government said Friday.

It was the fifth straight year-on-year rise and represented "balanced growth," said an official of the Management and Coordination Agency.

The monthly income of wage-earner households in January averaged 385,947 yen (2,570 dollars), up 1.2 percent from a year before, the agency said.

LAGOS (MARCH 23) - Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze is expected here for a 24-hour visit Sunday, as part of his current African tour, a reliable source said Friday.

Mr. Shevardnadze is due to meet President Ibrahim Babangida and Minister of External Affairs Rilwanu Lukman, for talks about bilateral relations and political developments in East Europe, the source added.

In a recent interview published by the influential Newswatch magazine here, Gen. Babangida expressed doubts about the ability of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to maintain the which he had started.

PARIS (MARCH 23) - French soft drinks and mineral water producer Perrier may sell its soft drinks business to British confectionery and soft drinks group Cadbury Schweppes, Perrier executives said Friday.

French business weekly Le Nouvel Economiste reported Friday that the two comopanies had already signed a preliminary agreement.

Perrier executives denied the report, but said negotiations were under way.

Perrier chairman and general manager Gustave Leven had announced in November that his group was ready to sell its soft drinks business for 1.7 to 2.5 billion francs (300 to 450 million dollars).

"The sale would allow us to concentrate our efforts on the water market which is booming," Mr. Leven had said.

Perrier markets soft drinks under the brand names Pschitt, Bali and Oasis, as well as holding licences in France for Pepsi-Cola and Gini. Its soft drinks sales were more than a billion francs (180 million francs) last year.

The company suffered losses earlier this year after it had temporarily to withdraw its water from the market following the discovery of benzene contamination.

PARIS (MARCH 23) - Total Marine Norsk, a subsidiary of French oil company Total, has bought the Norwegian subsidiary of U.S. oil company Unocal for 322 million dollars, Total announced Friday.

Unocal's oil and gas holdings in Norway represent some 80 million oil equivalent barrels.

Its biggest asset is an 18 percent stake in the Veslefrikk oil field which came on stream at the end of last year and is expected to produce up to 3.5 million tons a year.

The deal is expected to double Total's gas and oil production and crude reserves in Norway.

Total said the deal reflected its strategy of developing its North Sea production.

Total's oil and gas reserves in the British and Norwegian sectors of the North Sea represent more than a third of its reserves outside the Middle East, which amount to some 1.5 billion oil equivalent tons.

Total said it had signed a preliminary agreement on March 22, which will take effect from January 1, 1990. It is subject to the approval of the Norwegian authorities.

BERLIN (MARCH 23) - The winged goddess and her horse-drawn carriage on top of East Berlin's historic Brandenburg Gate headed for restoration Friday after suffering serious damage in this year's New Year's celebrations.

The works on the 6.3-metric-ton team will be carried out by a West Berlin foundry which had already recast the lady, representing the Greek goddess Athena Nike, and her four horses in 1957 from ancient moulds.

The so-called quadriga was lifted on top of the former city gate, now situated on the borderline between East and West Berlin, in 1793 but was almost totally destroyed during World War II.

From above it was witness to the erection of the Berlin Wall in 1961 which runs a few meters (yards) to its back and its breaching on November 9 last year.

The orginal goddess was removed only once in 1806 when French emperor Napoleon had it shipped to Paris as a war trophy after his victory over Prussia. The quadriga returned to Berlin after Napoleon's defeat in 1814.

The gate will also undergo restoration works to be finished for its 200th anniversary next year.

MOSCOW (MARCH 23) - The Soviet Foreign Ministry has told the embassy of a Western country to recall staff currently in Lithuania within 12 hours, a Western diplomatic source said here Friday without identifying the mission.

Other embassies had "apparently" received similar orders, the source added.

Meanwhile Soviet embassies and consulates had been told to study visa requests for travel to Lithuania on a case-by-case basis, according to the official news agency Tass.

In the Lithuanian capital Vilnius, a helicopter flew over the city in the early evening, throwing down photocopies of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev's decree on Lithuania, as printed in the Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda, an Agence France-Presse reporter said.

The decree, issued Wednesday night, tightened border controls and ordered Lithuanians to surrender firearms within one week.

U.S. Secretary of State James Baker said Wednesday that Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze had told him military intervention would not be used in the break-away republic, which declared indepedence March 11.

The two men were in Namibia for the new African state's independence celebrations.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov repeated the pledge at a news conference here Thursday.

However the same day Mr. Gorbachev gave Lithuanian president Vytautas Landsbergis 48 hours -- until Saturday -- to stop recruiting "volunteers" for a future Lithuanian border defense force.

SOFIA (MARCH 23) - Bulgaria became the fifth eastern European country to establish diplomatic relations with South Korea on Friday, the official news agency BTA said.

Hungary, Poland and Yugoslavia have already established full diplomatic ties with South Korea.

Mr. Choi told a news conference negotiations were underway with Moscow on opening consulates in both countries and that talks were continuing with East Germany and Romania on diplomatic relations.

While here, he also signed an agreement on Bulgarian-South Korean economic, scientific and technical cooperation.

South Korea said it was prepared to extend long-term credits to Bulgaria to encourage the creation of joint enterprises between the two countries.

Areas in which the Southeast Asian country wants to boost cooperation include electronics, ship-building, communications, petroleum treatment and production of consumer goods, BTA said.

Mr. Choi also met with President Petur Mladenov and Prime Minister Andrei Lukanov during his stay here.

JOHANNESBURG (MARCH 23) - A black man was shot dead and five people injured when police fired shots at a group of armed strikers outside a paper mill at Springs near here Friday, police said.

A police spokesman said they used teargas and shotguns to fire on strikers when they ignored orders to disperse after allegedly destroying property and intimidating workers who had opted out of the wage-related strike. Police said the strikers were armed with axes and clubs.

Four of them were seriously injured in the shootings.

A management statement claimed workers had attacked non-strikers, stabbing one of them and beating up others after pulling them out of their vehicles.

But The Paper, Pulp, Wood and Allied Workers' Union denied that workers had attacked and intimidated "scab" workers. "It's a lie, Workers had gone to demonstrate," a union statement said.

PRETORIA, March 23 (AFP) - The target range for South Africa's broad-based M3 measure of money supply measure has been lowered by three percentage points, Reserve (Central) Bank governor, Chris Stals, announced here Friday.

In a move intended to curb inflation, Mr. Stals said the new guidelines for rate of increase in money supply have been set at 11 to 15 percent between the fourth quarter of 1989 and the fourth quarter of 1990.

M3 includes all money in circulation plus deposits in banks, building societies and the post office.

Mr. Stals said he believed the lower guidelines were reconcilable with projected growth in real domestic product in 1990 of up to one percent, a surplus on the current account of the balance of payments and a gradual rise in official gold and other foreign reserves.

The lowering of the limits was an indication that the economy was already on the right track, he said, adding that this was shown by an improvement in the balance of payments reflected in the stronger exchange rate of the rand, fiscal moderation and two years of relatively restrictive monetary policy.

These factors should act together to bring down the country's 14.9 percent inflation rate this year, he said.

"To ensure continuous downward pressure on the inflation rate, a further reduction of the guidelines for M3 growth may be called for in 1991."

BERLIN (MARCH 23) - The leader of the Christian Democratic Union (CDU), Lothar de Maiziere, said here Friday that he had accepted the task of forming East Germany's first democratic government.

The CDU emerged from Sunday's general elections as the largest single party with 163 deputies.

Under the constitution, drawn up by the communists who ruled the country for over 40 years, the largest party puts forward a prime minister who is then ratified in a vote by the full parliament.

The CDU is the main component in a three-party centre-right Alliance for Germany which has 192 deputies out of 400 sitting in the People's Chamber.

Parliament was expected to meet on March 30.

CDU officials have indicated that Mr. de Maiziere, 50, a descendant of French Huguenots who fled their home country around 1700 to escape religious persecution, was at first reluctant to take over the post of premier for personal reasons.

But he apparently gave in to pressure from Chancellor Helmut Kohl, leader of the West German branch of Mr. de Maiziere's party.

Mr. de Maiziere had practiced as a lawyer since 1975 and repeatedly called for the abolishment of legislation outlawing unorthodox political activities. His uncle was a former chief of staff in the West German army.

He was deputy prime minister for religious matters in the government of outgoing communist reformer Hans Modrow.

Mr. de Maiziere said talks with the centrist Liberals on setting up a coalition government were making good progress. They have 21 parliament seats.

The three-party Alliance for Germany dominated by the CDU has also been seeking support from the Social Democrats (SPD) in a bid to secure a two-thirds majority in parliament necessary to amend the constitution and pave the way for a unified Germany.

But there was still no word from the Social Democrats, who came in second, on whether they would accept a coalition offer. The SPD has 88 deputies.

In another development, CDU leaders rejected calls for a systematic screening of the 400 new members of parliament to detect possible former links with the hated secret police Stasi.

MOSCOW (MARCH 23) - Kremlin pressure on wayward Lithuania hung over the opening Friday of the Estonian Communist Party congress, which could vote to follow its Baltic neighbor in splitting from the central party structure.

But there were growing signs that Estonian separatists might slow down their drive for independence for their republic -- despite winning a solid 75 percent of the republic's parliament in Sunday's elections.

A spokesman for the Estonian foreign ministry in Tallinn, where the congress was held, said the opening ended up in stormy debate over the agenda.

According to the Soviet news agency Tass, a key agenda item was a draft program for the party submitted to delegates that supports independence for Estonia but concedes that it is a "arduous" process that requires negotiations between Estonia and Moscow.

Indpendence, it said, is an "arduous and controversial process that requires, along with a legal foundation, the establishment of a solid economic and social basis".

The Communist Party of Estonia, it continued, favors "independence of the Estonian state on the basis of the free expression of the people's will with due account for processes taking place in the Soviet Union and Europe".

The draft program stressed that "Estonia's accession to real independence should proceed through negotiations between Estonia and the Soviet Union."

Observers saw the path implied by this proposal as clearly different that than followed by Lithuania, whose parliament defied Moscow with its unilateral proclamation of independence on March 11.

This had followed the initial Lithuanian Communist Party vote in December divorcing itself from the central Soviet Communist Party in Moscow.

Now, after the fact, Lithuania is pressing for "immediate negotiations" with Moscow, which has rejected its secession.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev has offered to enter "dialogue" but rejected formal "negotiations" with Lithuania.

He also issued a decree ordering the KGB to increase security along Lithuania's border with the rest of the Soviet Union. Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis protested Friday by charging Moscow with conducting "psychological warfare" against Vilnius.

The Estonian party congress will also discuss a political report by party First Secretary Vaino Valjas, and a draft resolution on the party's history, Tass said.

The latter item called on delegates to acknowledge the "serious past errors committed by the Estonian Communist Party".

It blamed these on the fact that the Estonian party "was hardly ever an independent political force", Tass said.

The agency raised the question of whether the "Estonian communist will actually follow the example of the Lithuanian Communist Party".

The daily of the Soviet armed forces, Krasnaya Avezda or Red Star, meanwhile, stated flatly that the "current situation in Lithuania had a definite influence on the political and social life in Estonia".

It quoted the local Estonian Communist Party leader in Tartu, Yuri Tamme, who said the "experience of Lithuania would be unacceptable for us".

ULAN BATOR (MARCH 23) - Mongolia formally ended 66 years of one-party communist rule in true democratic fashion Friday, clearing the way for multi-party elections promised for later this year.

Working late into the evening, the People's Great Hural (parliament) repealed sections of the state constitution which declared the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party to be the "leading and directing force" in politics and society.

By doing so, Mongolia, the world's second-oldest communist state after its closest ally, the Soviet Union, became the first socialist state in Asia to shrug off one-party rule.

There was no immediate reaction from Mongolia's young but militant opposition groups responsible for speeding up the pace of reform in the past three months with demonstrations and a brief hunger strike in the capital, Ulan Bator.

Earlier this week they accused the ruling party of trying to slow down democratic reform in order to hang on to power, and have threatened to stage more protests to keep the pressure on.

Historically a rubber stamp for ruling-party diktats, the Hural exploded in passionate and sometimes heated debate Friday as the 368 delegates haggled over the fine print of the constitutional amendments.

State television broadcast the proceedings live, its cameras leaping between close-ups of delegates addressing the floor and long shots of the chandeliered meeting hall in Government House, dominated by a giant bust of Sukhebator, founder of the modern Mongolian state.

The delegates accepted the amendments as proposed by the ruling party's central committee, but added words enabling government ministries to draw up lists of key civil servents deemed ineligible to join political organizations.

It also wrote in an obligation for political parties to "work by peaceful means" and to register themselves according to Mongolian law.

Separately, the Hural adopted a comprehensive election law, and President Punsalmaagiyn Ochirbat announced that parliament would meet again soon to enact legislation governing political parties and set an election date.

Opposition forces are pushing for elections to take place in July or August, though they may conflict with hay-making and grain harvesting in this vast prairie nation, where three-quarters of its two million people live in the countryside.

The Hural, as expected, also unanimously adopted a radical foreign investment law permitting wholly foreign-owned enterprises to do business in Mongolia.

The law is seen as a vital part of Mongolia's efforts to open its doors to Asia and the West, after six decades of pervasive Soviet influence.

Ninety-four percent of Hural members belong to the ruling party, and one point of argument Friday was whether the revised constitution should refer to "the Mongolian People's Democratic Party and other political parties."

The original proposed amendment speaks only of the right of Mongolian citizens to join any political party having a platform corresponding "to the national interest and unity."

But some delegates contended that after being in power since 1924, the ruling party deserved to have its name enshrined in the constitution.

In the end, it was not.

Another hot issue was whether to change a proposed reference to "humane, democratic socialism" to "the interests of the motherland."

Those opposed to the idea argued that a reference to the "motherland" might engender a fascist party.

LONDON (MARCH 23) - A court here on Friday jailed a man suffering from terminal cancer who used firebombs to blackmail a West German supermarket chain in an effort to provide for his wife after his death.

But Jeremy Bryant, 37, was only sentenced to two years in jail after his attorney told the court that Mr. Bryant had only five years to live and made a plea for mercy.

"I invite you to pass a sentence that gives hope to him and his family that he may be released to spend his final months with them," defense lawyer Edmund Lawson told the court.

Mr. Bryant, whose business was failing at the time, admitted attempting to blackmail the supermarket chain Rewe Liebrandt and Co. and West Germany's Deutsche Bank last June.

Calling from a telephone booth in London, he told Rewe Liebrandt that he had planted 35 firebombs in the company's stores. Investigators in fact discovered six bombs hidden in pasta and vegetables at stores in Stein, Munich, Nuremburg, Kirchheim and Ingolstadt.

British police found instructions for the ransom payment in the telephone booth and also discovered bomb-making equipment such as weedkiller, sugar and matchheads in Mr. Bryant's car and in an outhouse at his farm.

Mr. Bryant had demanded 300,000 pounds (480,000 dollars).

"What I have to do is to impose a sentence which will reflect that part of the balance of your life it is proper for you to spend in custody," Judge Donald Herrod said before announcing the sentence.

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, SPAIN (MARCH 23) - Ten British nationals have been arrested on drug trafficking charges at Playa de las Americas in the Canary Islands, Spanish police said Friday.

Police did not name the 10 suspects, found in possession of 15.4 kilos (34 pounds) of hashish. They said the drugs had been flown in from Malaga on the southern Spanish mainland and may have come from Morocco.

A police spokesman said the 10 were part of a band who had been watched for a long time.

ULAN BATOR (MARCH 23) - Mongolia's new president Punsalmaagiyn Ochirbat said Friday his one-time Stalinist nation planned to stress building relations with Asia and the West.

In his first speech since taking office Wednesday, Mr. Ochirbat told the People's Great Hural (parliament) that Mongolia would maintain its traditional ties with its two powerful neighbors, the Soviet Union and China.

But he said Mongolia wanted to build diplomatic relations and expand economic cooperation with other Asian and Western nations, particularly Japan, India, the United States and members of the European Economic Community.

Mr. Ochirbat, 47, had been minister of foreign economic relations and supply before the Hural elected him by acclamation to succeed Jambyn

Batmonh, Mongolia's leader since 1984.

Diplomats say he is a strong supporter of opening up landlocked Mongolia to the outside world to counterbalance six decades of pervasive Soviet influence.

The maiden presidential speech was broadcast on state radio before the Hural abolished 66 years of one-party communist rule in the second-oldest socialist state after the Soviet Union.

Mr. Ochirbat said another session of the Hural would be called soon to enact legislation governing political parties and set a date for unprecedented multi-party elections.

Opposition forces responsible for speeding up the pace of reform want balloting to take place in July or August.

TYRE, LEBANON (MARCH 23) - Israel ordered villagers in southern Lebanon to supply "100 volunteers" to its proxy militia in the region by Saturday or face unspecified retaliatory measures, a security source here said Friday.

An officer of Israel's Shin Beth intelligence service, backed by Israeli troops and militiamen from the South Lebanon Army, rounded up the 3,000 villagers of Aaita Shaab on Tuesday and told them to provide SLA with "100 volunteers" by Saturday, the source said.

Israeli troops and SLA militiamen that it trains and finances jointly control the so-called "security zone" that runs along the international border, covering 850 square kilometers (340 square miles) inside Lebanon.

Last week the SLA banned Lebanese men under 35 from leaving the "security zone" to travel to Israel, following reports that 400 youths aged between 20 and 25 had recently gone to Israel to obtain emigration visas from Western embassies there.

But relatives of some 2,000 "security zone" residents who travel daily to Israel to work in factories and fields have been exempted from the ban, the source added.

Those who do hold jobs in Israel for a monthly salary of 300 dollars must have at least one family member enrolled in the SLA and pay 70 dollars in revenue and municipal taxes.

The 2,150-strong SLA has been trying unsuccessfully over the past few years to recruit fighters.

JERUSALEM (MARCH 23) - Foreign Minister Moshe Arens Friday said Hungary's decision to scrap charter flights for Soviet Jews travelling to Tel Aviv had been triggered by Arab "terrorism".

"We are surprised and disappointed by this decision which is the result of efforts deployed by the Arab countries to stop the emigration of Soviet Jews," Mr. Arens said.

"The Arab nation has put pressure on the Soviet government and the governments of countries used as transit stops by Jewish emigres travelling to Israel."

"The Arab nation has now recourse to terrorism," he said, adding that he hoped Hungary would not jeopardize its newly acquired democracy by giving in to such action.

Mr. Arens also stressed that Israel would try to find "alternative routes" to allow Soviet Jews to travel to Israel, although he gave no details, echoing similar comments by caretaker prime minister Yitzhak Shamir.

The Israeli foreign ministry earlier called on its embassy in Budapest to demand an "explanation" from the Hungarian authorities following a decision Wednesday by the Hungarian national carrier Malev to suspend flights taking Soviet Jewish emigres to Israel.

Malev's decision came after the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, an underground group holding U.S. hostages in Lebanon, threatened on March 15 to attack airline companies and airports helping Soviet Jews emigrate to Israel.

The Hungarian company has however said it would maintain regular flights to Israel.

The Israeli daily Maariv repoted Friday that Hungarian consulates in Moscow and other Soviet cities were to stop issuing visas for Soviet Jews to pass through Budapest -- a main transit point for the emigres.

According to Israeli sources in Moscow, the Israeli consular section in the Soviet capital issued 10,000 visas for Soviet Jews last month alone.

PRETORIA (MARCH 23) - South Africa could not build a safe future on injustice, President Frederik de Klerk said here Friday.

Speaking at a banquet where he was awarded the Pretoria Press Club's Newsmaker of the Year award, he said justice "is the challenge of our generation. It is the challenge I accepted and towards which I strive with my whole heart and soul."

South Africans are cresting a "wave of history," he said. "If we fail to move forward we will flounder and sink."

PRETORIA (MARCH 23) - The neo-fascist Afrikaner Resistance Movement (AWB) which routinely calls black people "kaffirs", pledged support Friday for a mixed-race leader's quest for his own homeland, correspondents said.

Captain Hans Diergaardt wants his Baster people around Rehoboth, south of Windhoek, to secede from newly-independent Namibia.

The Rehoboth territory was first formally recognised in 1870 in an agreement between the then-dominant Herero and Nama tribes, which according to Mr. Diergaardt made the Rehoboth Basters, now 50,000-strong, the first fully independent "volk" or people in southern Africa.

The Baster, or bastard, people bought 1.4 million hectares (3.36 million acres) of communal lands nearly 100 years ago when South West Africa was a German colony, and former car dealer and cattle farmer Capt. Diergaardt objects to handing them over to the new Namibian government.

Fiery AWB leader Eugene Terreblanche stood in front of his organization's swastika-like emblem at a joint press conference Friday proclaiming: "We pledge our total moral support for the brave step taken by Mr. Diergaardt."

He said the co-operation between white separatists seeking a Boer homeland and Mr. Diergaardt dashed suggestions that calls for the sovereignty of a people were related to apartheid or race.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) - President George Bush Friday said he still opposed lifting U.S. economic sanctions against South Africa but added that he wanted to see more progress toward ending apartheid.

Mr. Bush applauded the Secretary of State James Baker's meeting Thursday with South African President Frederik de Klerk despite strong criticism by South African black leaders against the meeting.

He said he also supported Mr. Baker's dialogue with African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela.

"But I don't think this is the time to change the policy on sanctions," said Mr. Bush. "I want to see more progress."

In remarks to reporters, Mr. Bush added that he also opposed toughening sanctions against Pretoria as some legislators have recommended.

U.S. law specifies that the sanctions adopted in 1986 -- notably an embargo on loans and American investments and a ban on the import of South African minerals and agricultural products -- may not be lifted until Pretoria meets certain conditions.

Those conditions include freeing all political prisoners, lifting the state of emergency and to make substantial progress toward ending apartheid.

LISBON (MARCH 23) - The Angolan army chief-of-staff General Antonio dos Santos said rebel UNITA forces could be integrated into the regular Angolan army if the two sides agree to peace.

In an interview Friday with the Lisbon newspaper Publico, Gen. dos Santos said the warring forces could constitute a national army once a negotiated peace was accepted.

But he said the current army was operating "beyond its economic capabilities" and should be reduced by "nearly two-thirds."

Publico estimated the strength of government troops at 120,000 men, but Gen. dos Santos declined to confirm the figure.

The future national army could absorb all UNITA officers, he asserted, even despite cutbacks, because there were within both UNITA and government troops many soldiers who "wanted to leave military life."

Gen. dos Santos, who is directing the government's current offensive against UNITA troops in southeast Angola, said he opposed bringing in third countries to monitor a future ceasefire.

"We do not want to internationalize the conflict further," he said. "We want to reduce interference because this is an internal conflict and the solution must be found among Angolans."

He denied that the aim of the army's offensive in the Kuando-Kubango province was to take UNITA headquarters, located at the eastern edge of the province.

But his troops intended to maintain their positions in the Mavinga region, he said, denying UNITA claims that they were running out of provisions.

NEW DELHI (MARCH 23) - The student movement crushed by China last June was "not democratic" but subversive, and foreign pressure will not have any effect on the government in Beijing, Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen said here Friday.

"East Europe is different ... I think the situation in China is exactly the opposite ... China has the support of the people, the peasants, the workers... we will follow the (socialist) road to the end," a tough-talking Mr. Qian told a press conference here.

"It was not a democratic movement, it was aimed at subverting the Chinese Government, foreign pressure does not work on China," he said when asked how long he thought China could hold out against the total rejection of communism sweeping East Europe.

The Chinese foreign minister, here for two days of talks with India's new government, also slammed the United States for giving refuge to leading Chinese dissident Fang Lizhi who sought asylum in the U.S. embassy in Beijing after the Tiananmen Square massacre.

A solution to the problem of Mr. Fang's status "depends on the initiative of the United States," he said, adding that the offer of asylum had amounted to interference in China's internal affairs.

He also criticized U.S. "political pressure and economic sanctions" on China since the massacre as "unreasonable," but hastened to add that there were "many in the United States" who stood for the maintenance and restoration of relations between Washington and Beijing.

Mr. Qian, whose visit here was dogged by exile Tibetan protestors demanding an end to martial law in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa, also said he hoped the Soviet Union would "overcome its (current) difficulties" and be able to retain stability.

LAGOS (MARCH 23) - The Nigerian department of meteorological services is being computerized to ensure greater reliability in weather forecasts, Minister of Aviation Tonye Graham-Douglas said here Friday.

This is being done through technical assistance from China and the United States, the minister, quoted by Radio Nigeria, said in a speech to mark world meteorological day.

Most Nigerians have always blamed officials of the department for their inability to give credible weather forecasts, observers noted here.

Good weather forecasting instruments would enhance officials' capability to predict most natural disasters with a view to averting them, the minister added.

In Nigeria alone, 146 persons were killed in 1988 while property worth 650 million naira (100 million dollars) was destroyed by floods which devastated 14 states and Abuja, the nation's future capital, the radio said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) - U.S. President George Bush Friday called for free elections in communist Cuba as President Fidel Castro slammed "Yankee arrogance."

"The United States will rejoice in being able to help a democratically elected government in Cuba," the U.S. president told a press conference at the White House.

"I'm convinced that the people of Cuba want ... democracy and freedom. Castro has not changed, he is swimming against the tide."

Mr. Bush said he did not believe there would be any resistance from any quarter for helping the people of Cuba once they had the right to express themselves in free and fair elections.

That was taken by observers as a reference to congressional reluctance to agree to a Bush request for 500 million dollars in emergency aid for Panama and 300 million dollars for Nicaragua.

"I don't think it will do much good," Mr. Bush said, "but I would encourage Castro to move towards free and fair elections.

"I would encourage him to lighten up on the question of human rights where he is unwilling to even welcome the United Nations to take a look again.

"I'm not going to change the policy of the U.S. Government towards Mr. Castro. W're going to continue to try to bring the truth to Cuba just like we did to Czechoslovakia and Poland and other countries."

Mr. Castro, in an interview published Friday in the Mexican newspaper Excelsior, said socialism was going through its greatest crisis since the Russian revolution in 1917.

"It is a tremendous crisis, and we can feel it close by with the increase in the arrogance of the Yankees and their propaganda that socialist Cuba will disappear," he said.

The old revolutionary, who came down from Cuba's hills to seize power from dictator Fulgencio Batista in 1959, said socialism "will experience advances and retreats, but it will triumph."

He described the situation in Eastern Europe, with countries embracing capitalism and even passing into the "imperialist camp," as "catastrophic."

For Cuba, he said, this was a "very, very difficult moment," but "what are revolutionaries for if not to confront difficult moments?"

Mr. Castro emphasized that his Caribbean island nation would not copy changes being made in the Soviet Union "because it's necessary."

"We used to be criticized as being a satellite of the Soviet Union," he said. "Now we are being criticized because we are not doing what they are doing."

Mr. Castro said Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev was not trying to substitute himself for the Communist Party, nor for socialism, but was trying to perfect both and correct "immense errors."

But he slammed Poland and Hungary for attacking Cuban human rights at the United Nations, saying they were about to get the reward for their "slander" in the form of loans from the International Monetary Fund.

He also said he was "disappointed" by the false internationalism practiced by some Eastern European countries, saying Cuba sent them high quality sugar and nickel and received "obsolete junk" in return.

TOKYO (MARCH 23) - Japan's Kobe Steel Ltd. said Friday it planned to boost capital investment 61.4 percent from the current year to 134 billion yen (87 million dollars) in the fiscal year starting in April.

Investment in the company's iron and steel division alone is to climb 73.1 percent to 90 billion yen (58 million dollars), including the construction of a new steel-powder plant at its Takasago works in western Japan, it said.

Other projects include remodelling a blast furnace and a hot-strip mill at the company's Kakogawa works, also in western Japan, and continued work on the construction of a second strand for a continuous slab caster at the same plant.

Major investments in the company's aluminium and copper division include upgrading a hot rolling line at its Moka aluminium plant north of Tokyo and building an extrusion press at its Chofu plant in western Japan.

The extrusion press is to make products for motor vehicles and rolling stock, it said.

Kobe also said it would improve its tool-cutting activities by investing in increased capacity and labour-saving equipment.

STUTTGART, West Germany (MARCH 23) - A member of th central bank's governing body has warned that monetary union with East Germany this summer involved immeasurable risks.

Monetary union would not bring a marked improvement in East Germans' standard of living, and efforts should be made to strengthen the country's economy before sujbecting it to competition from the West, Wilhelm Noelling said in an interview published Friday in the Stuttgarter Nachrichten newspaper.

Monetary union by the summer would involve "risks that we cannot even measure," he said, urging the Bonn government to prepare thoroughly for the move as "we cannot allow ourselves a badly thought out reform."

Mr. Noelling also said that the West German government's proposal of a one for one exchange rate for the Deutsche mark to the Ost mark to at least some extent could cause inflationary pressure in West Germany and push up unemployment in the East.

SEOUL (MARCH 23) - A high-ranking Soviet business delegation kicked off here Friday a conference with South Korean businessmen with calls for increased trade and investment between the two East Asian neighbors.

Chung Ju-Yung, the founder of South Korean conglomerate Hyundai which has growing interests in Siberia, told the seminar that Soviet obstacles to business had to diminish if Moscow wanted to attract investment.

South Korea does not have diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, an important ally of communist North Korea.

Trade between the two has blossomed quickly however since the Soviet Union opened a trade office here last year, with two-way trade now standing at more than half a billion dollars a year. Moscow and Seoul exchanged semi-consular offices in December.

Victor Kotevsky, head of the Asian economic relations department at the Soviet Ministry for External Economic Relations, recalled how fast trade had increased and said it was due to two factors, Soviet changes and Asian needs.

While there had been a "radical reform of the foreign economic links in the USSR," South Korea and other Asian countries were trying to diversify "their foreign economic links, in a quest for new markets for their industrial products and investment," he said.

The deputy chairman of the Soviet trade association Technoproimport, Yury Dashkevich, asked for an increase in technology transfer to the Soviet Union.

"We believe that South Korean companies may be interested in cooperation ... in exporting know-how" to the Soviet Union he told the seminar.

Among the industries which could use South Korean technology were "enterprises producing electronic and electrotechnical consumer goods," he said.

KUALA LUMPUR (MARCH 23) - Malaysia's Primary Industries Minister Lim Keng Yaik on Friday told palm oil producers and refiners to sell up to 400,000 tons of palm oil at current price levels to cut huge stocks.

Mr. Lim said after talks with industry officials here that stocks of over a million tonnes were dampening price levels.

He said that producers would not suffer a loss by selling off 300,000 to 400,000 tons at the current price of 680 Malaysian dollars (252 U.S.) a ton. "At this price people will buy, but we must sell," he said.

Malaysian officials have expressed concern over low palm oil prices which analysts say is the result of over production and producers holding stocks in the hope of seeing a price revival.

Mr. Lim said that producers and refiners should not play a waiting game for better prices before selling, adding that he had given growers and refiners three weeks to come up with recommendations to deal with the stock position.

Officials said that although palm oil was a more versatile oil, it was currently being sold at a discount of between 190 U.S. dollars and 200 U.S. dollars a ton to other vegetable oils such as soyabean oil and rapeseed oil.

Malaysia produced six million tonnes of crude palm oil last year, a production level the government had earlier forecast for this year. Production totalled five million tons in 1988.

Although a government report released in January said production would slow down this year, output in the first two months was up 22 percent from the same period last year, official figures show.

KUALA LUMPUR (MARCH 23) - Natural rubber prices are expected to show little improvement in the near term as demand from major consumers such as the Soviet Union and China remains soft, the Malaysian rubber board said Friday.

The Malaysian Rubber Exchange and Licensing Board said a continued lack of demand in the open market had depressed prices despite the seasonal slowdown in production.

The board said prices for ribbed smoke sheet (RSS) and tyre grade standard Malaysian rubber (SMR) were not expected to recover steadily although latex concentrates and latex grade SMR could move higher.

April RSS I closed at 228 cents (84 U.S.) cents a kilogram on Wednesday, down from 299.38 cents (110.88 U.S. cents) a year ago while SMR 20 ended at 212 cents (78.5 U.S. cents) a kilogram against 252.58 cents (93.55 U.S.).

OTTAWA (MARCH 23) XINHUA - CANADIAN PRIME MINISTER BRIAN MULRONEY HAS APPEALED TO CANADIANS TO PARTICIPATE IN SOLVING AN IMPASSE OVER A CONTRAVERSIAL CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT WHICH GRANTS THE STATUS OF A "DISTINCT SOCIETY" TO THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

IN A TELEVISED NATIONWIDE SPEECH THURSDAY NIGHT, MULRONEY APPEALED FOR NATIONAL UNITY AND SAID, "I BELIEVE THAT CANADIANS WANT TO PARTICIPATE THEMSELVES IN THE RESOLUTION OF THIS GREAT NATIONAL ISSUE."

THE CONTRAVERSIAL CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT, KNOWN AS THE "MEECH LAKE ACCORD", RECOGNIZES CANADA'S ONLY FRENCH-SPEAKING PROVINCE OF QUEBEC AS A "DISTINCT SOCIETY" WITHIN THE COUNTRY AND ENJOYS A UNIQUE RIGHT TO PRESERVE AND PROMOTE ITS CHARACTERISTIC IDENTITY.

HOWEVER, THE ACCORD, SIGNED IN JUNE 1987 AT MEECH LAKE NORTH OF OTTAWA BY FEDERAL PRIME MINISTER AND THE TEN PROVINCIAL PREMIERS, REQUIRES THE RATIFICATION BY ALL THE TEN PROVINCES BEFORE IT COMES INTO EFFECT ON JUNE 23 THIS YEAR.

THE SO-CALLED "MEECH LAKE IMPASSE" RESULTED FROM THE FACT THAT SO FAR THE ACCORD HAS BEEN RATIFIED BY EIGHT PROVINCES, OF WHICH NEWFOUNDLAND IS MOVING TO RESCIND ITS RATIFICATION, WHILE THE PROVINCES OF MANITOBA AND NEW BRUNSWICH HAVE NOT RATIFIED.

THE ACCORD WILL BECOME INVALID UNLESS IT IS RATIFIED BY ITS JUNE-23 DEADLINE.

SOME POLITICIANS IN QUEBEC THREATEN THAT THE PROVINCE WILL "DIVORCE" FROM ENGLISH-SPEAKING CANADA IF THE ACCORD FAILS TO BE RATIFIED. MEANWHILE, ANTI-MEECH LEADERS ARGUE THAT THE ACCORD WEAKENS CANADA'S FEDERAL CONSTITUTIOANL POWERS.

BOTH THE FEDERAL PRIME MINISTER AND PROVINCIAL POLITICIANS HAVE WARNED REPEATEDLY OVER PAST MONTHS THAT CANADA COULD FACE SEPARATION IF THE CONTRAVERSIAL ACCORD FAILS.

ON WEDNESDAY, NEW BRUNSWICK PREMIER FRANK MCKENNA PRODUCED A SOLUTION TO THE IMPASSE. MCKENNA MAINTAINS THAT HIS SOLUTION DOES NOT CHANGE MEECH LAKE ACCORD, AS LONG AS THERE IS SOME AGREEMENT ON A COMPANION ACCORD RATIFIED PREFERABLY, BUT NOT NECESSARILY, AT THE SAME TIME.

THE COMPANION AGREEMENT IS FOCUSED ON CALLING ON THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO PROMOTE AS WELL AS PRESERVE LINGUISTIC DUALITY ON THE AGENDA OF FUTURE CONSTITUTIONAL TALKS. MEECH, ON THE OTHER HAND, SAYS OTTAWA COULD PRESERVE

MINORITY-LANGUAGE COMMUNITIES, BUT QUEBEC WOULD BE EMPOWERED TO PRESERVE AND TO PROMOTE A DISTINCT SOCIETY.

BOTH ENGLISH AND FRENCH ARE CANADA'S OFFICIAL LANGUAGES WHILE FRENCH IS THE ONLY OFFICIAL LANGUAGE IN QUEBEC. QUEBEC PREMIER ROBERT BOURASSA TOLD A TELEVISION INTERVIEWER THURSDAY NIGHT THAT: "WE CAN MAKE NO CONCESSIONS ON THE CULTURAL SECURITY OF FRANCOPHONES IN QUEBEC. IT'S NOT NEGOTIABLE."

IN HIS TEN-MINUTE TELEVISED ADDRESS, MULRONEY ANNOUNCED THAT HE WILL INTRODUCE MCKENNA'S COMPANION SOLUTION IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS NEXT WEEK AND IMMEDIATELY REFER IT TO A SPECIAL COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE.

HE SAID THE COMMITTEE WILL BEGIN PUBLIC HEARINGS AT "THE EARLIEST POSSIBLE MOMENT."

NAIROBI (MARCH 23) XINHUA - KENYAN VICE-PRESIDENT GEORGE SAITOTI SAID HERE TODAY THAT KENYA WILL CONTINUE ITS SUPPORT TO THE ANTI-APARTHEID STRUGGLE IN SOUTH AFRICA UNTIL THE EMER- GENCE OF A NON-RACIAL DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY THERE.

SAITOTI WAS SPEAKING AT A RECEPTION HOSTED BY THE REPRESEN- TATIVE OF THE AFRICAN NATIONAL CONGRESS (ANC) IN KENYA, EDWARD MAKHASI, TO COMMEMORATE THE RELEASE OF NELSON MANDELA BY THE SOUTH AFRICAN GOVERNMENT.

HE SAID THAT KENYA HAS BEEN COMMITTED TO SUPPORTING THE ANC AND OTHER PATRIOTIC FORCES IN THEIR STRUGGLE FOR FREEDOM AND DIGNITY OF THE SOUTH AFRICAN PEOPLE.

FREEDOM FOR THE VAST MAJORITY PEOPLE IN SOUTH AFRICA AND THE CREATION OF A NON-RACIAL DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY THERE REMAIN TO BE OF PRIMARY IMPORTANCE, HE SAID.

SAITOTI SAID THAT KENYA NOTED THE RECENT INITIATIVES TAKEN BY THE DE KLERK GOVERNMENT INCLUDING THE RELEASE OF SOME POLITICAL PRISONERS AND THE LIFTING OF THE BAN ON THE ANC.

BUT HE ALSO REMINDED PEOPLE NOT TO FORGET THAT THE RACIST GOVERNMENT OF SOUTH AFRICA OFTEN TAKES TWO STEPS BACKWARD FOR EACH STEP FORWARD.

SAITOTI URGED THE SOUTH AFRICAN GOVERNMENT TO MAKE BOLDER MOVES TO CREATE APPROPRIATE CONDITIONS FOR POSITIVE NEGOTIA- TIONS WITH ANC AND OTHER ANTI-APARTHEID ORGANIZATIONS BASED ON EQUALITY AND MUTUAL TRUST.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) XINHUA - JAPAN AGREED TODAY TO MAKE CONCESSIONS ON OPENING OF ITS MARKET FOR U.S. SUPERCOMPUTERS, ACCORDING TO U.S. OFFICIALS.

UNDER THE AGREEMENT REACHED BY THE UNITED STATES AND JAPAN AFTER TWO DAYS OF TALKS IN WASHINGTON, JAPAN PROMISED TO OPEN UP THE PROCUREMENT PROCESS FOR SUPERCOMPUTERS TO FOREIGN FIRMS AND TO BASE GOVERNMENT DECISIONS ON PURCHASES ON QUALITY AS WELL AS PRICE.

AN OFFICIAL OF THE U.S. TRADE OFFICE SAID THAT IF THE AGREEMENT IS IMPLEMENTED, IT WILL GIVE THE UNITED STATES "FULL AND EFFECTIVE" ACCESS TO THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT MARKET.

IT IS ESTIMATED THAT THE POTENTIAL FOR SALES TO THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT IS ABOUT 130 MILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY.

THE MARKET FOR SUPERCOMPUTERS IS ONE OF THE THREE AREAS THAT THE UNITED STATES HAS PRESSED JAPAN TO MAKE CONCESSIONS SINCE LAST SPRING. THE OTHER TWO AREAS ARE U.S. SATELLITES AND LUMBER PRODUCTS.

THE UNITED STATES SAID IT WILL RETALIATE BY IMPOSING HIGHER TARIFFS ON JAPANESE PRODUCTS, IF JAPAN FAILS TO MAKE CONCESSIONS ON THE THREE ISSUES BEFORE JUNE 16.

NEGOTIATIONS ON SATELLITES AND LUMBER PRODUCTS ARE UNDER WAY, BUT THE TWO SIDES REPORTEDLY REMAIN FAR APART ON U.S. DEMANDS TO OPEN UP THOSE MARKETS.

PARSIPPANY, NJ (MARCH 22) PRNEWSWIRE - An improved expandable polystyrene (EPS) containing only about half the pentane currently needed to process this widely used building insulation and packaging material has been developed by BASF Corporation. Pentane is the blowing agent used to expand EPS beads for molding into foam. BASF is the inventor of expandable polystyrene and has been a leader in many developments related to EPS processing. With this development BASF is decreasing the need for this volatile organic chemical which is regulated by the Federal Clean Air Act.

The company reported that an intensive effort to develop products that would help molders meet emission standards in smog-troubled areas impacted by the Federal Clean Air has yielded an improved EPS material that contains only 3-1/2 to 4 percent of pentane instead of the 6 to 7 percent currently available in the marketplace. The product will be marketed under BASF's Styropor(R) expandable polystyrene brand name.

In addition to making it possible to furnish molders with a product that has more resin and less pentane, the new EPS material is reported to have several important processing advantages. Using existing expansion and molding equipment, molders will be able to reduce the "curing" time presently required by over 75 percent while materially improving the end-product, BASF said. After expansion, EPS beads now ideally undergo an aging process of up to 24 hours to gain mechanical stability before molding. The new material instead requires four hours or less.

As a result, expanding and molding Styropor EPS with standard two- pass expansion equipment can be completed within a few hours of opening a box of the EPS beads. The molded product's greater stability should make it possible to reduce aging time prior to shipment, and enable processors to obtain excellent cuts during fabrication, BASF said.

The company voted that the new Styropor EPS material is now available in commercial quantities and that BASF expects to convert an increasing proportion of its production to low-pentane EPS products.

While pentane is a naturally occurring gas and decomposes in sunlight, BASF concluded that the blowing agent's implication in creating smog makes reducing its use to the lowest possible levels required for EPS processing "a priority objective." States in which certain areas already are regulating the emission of pentane include Arizona, California, Georgia, Kentucky, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia.

ROCHESTER, NY (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Rochester Telephone Corp.(NYSE: RTC) and Telecom USA, Inc. (NYSE: TTT) today announced the signing of a letter of intent under which Rochester Tel would acquire Southland Telephone Company, the Atmore, Ala.-based subsidiary of Telecom USA.

Southland Telephone is one of the largest independent telephone companies in Alabama, serving approximately 9,000 access lines in that state and another 3,000 access lines in Florida, located in an area about 20 miles north of Pensacola. The company also has an interest in two cellular Rural Service Areas (RSA's) in Alabama.

Terms and conditions of the transaction were not disclosed. The sale is contingent, among other things, upon completion of due diligence, execution of a definitive agreement, and regulatory and shareholder approvals.

David C. Mitchell, president of Rochester Tel's Telephone Group, said the Southland purchase gives Rochester Tel a solid base in the Southeast.

"South expands our presence in Alabama and also places us in Florida for the first time," he said. "We will now be operating more than 22,000 lines in the South and we hope to extend our interests there."

Mitchell continued, "Before its sale to Telecom USA in 1987, Southland was owned and managed by Bill Corman, one of the major figures in independent telephony in this country. We look forward to building on the record that he and Telecom USA established at Southland."

Mitchell also announced that Jeff McGehee will continue as president and chief operating officer of Southland.

Rochester Tel's principal operating territory is a six-county area in Western-Central New York State. It operates a total of 23 other telephone companies located in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Wisconsin Michigan and Indiana. An additional five acquisitions are pending, including Monroeville Telephone Company (Alabama) whose territory adjoins that of Southland Telephone Company. When all transactions are completed including Southland, Rochester Tel will serve more than 660,000 access lines.

Rochester Tel also owns three unregulated subsidiaries: RCI Long Distance, a regional long distance carrier; Rotelcom Network Systems, which provides competitive telecommunications equipment and services, and Rochester Tel Mobile Communications, which manages its Rochester cellular operation.

Telecom USA, headquartered in Atlanta, provides a wide variety of long distance products to over 500,000 customers throughout the country.

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - The G.T. Greater Europe Fund, a newly organized, non-diversified, closed-end management investment company announced the completion yesterday of its initial public offering of 16 million shares at $15 per share, for a total offering of $240 million. The Fund's shares will begin trading on the New York Stock Exchange today under the symbol GTF.

"The European marketplace has experienced significant and rapid changes in recent months," said Chief Investment Officer Christian Wignall. "In investing the Fund's assets, we will attempt to identify those investment opportunities which will enable the Fund to take advantage of economic and political factors. Our strategy is to select investments that we believe will benefit from the exchange of capital and human resources that may occur when countries with different costs of labor remove trade and other economic barriers."

The G.T. Greater Europe Fund is managed by G.T. Capital Management of San Francisco, part of the G.T. Group, a leading international investment adviser which provides investment management services to the 10 G.T. Global mutual funds and to other institutional and individual clients. The initial public offering was conducted through an underwriting syndicate managed by Merrill Lynch Capital Markets and A.G. Edwards & Sons Inc.

The Fund's investment objective is long-term capital appreciation. It will seek its objective by investing under normal circumstances at least 65 percent of its total assets in a broad range of securities of European issuers in both established and emerging markets. The Fund is expected to be one of the initial means for many Americans to invest in Eastern Europe.

The Fund will invest the balance of its assets in the securities of issuers in countries peripherally linked to Europe and/or which stand to benefit from developments there. The Fund is authorized to invest in carefully selected special situations, such as joint ventures, private placements and similar investments, in Eastern Europe and elsewhere.

The G.T. Group, headquartered in London, currently manages assets of more than $9.2 billion including more than $8.2 billion in non-U.S. securities, more than $2.5 billion of which consists of European securities. In addition to offices in London, the G.T. Group maintains investment offices in San Francisco, Frankfurt, Zurich, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Sydney.

ATHLONE, IRELAND (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Elan Corporation, plc (AMEX: ELN) today said U.S. Patent No. 4908213, issued March 13 to Schering-Plough Corp. (NYSE: SGP) on a transdermal nicotine patch, is limited to a combination of nicotine and an anti-itching compound, offers no new art as suggested in a March 17 article in the New York Times and, if marketed, would appear to infringe on Elan's own U.S. patent application which was allowed late last year for its version of the technology.

In response to investor inquiries, Elan said its patent counsel's review of the Schering-Plough patent specification found no mention of the most relevant prior art and raised vexing issues about the completeness of disclosure in Schering's filing.

Elan said it was highly irregular for Schering not to have disclosed the November 1987 publication of Elan's international patent application covering full details of transdermal nicotine delivery, including the notion of combining nicotine with a compound to prevent possible skin irritation. This publication, which occurred nearly three months prior to the filing of Schering's application, discloses the only claimed novel concept in the Schering patent, making it clearly relevant to that patent's validity.

Elan said the U.S. Patent Office notified Elan in December 1989 that it was allowing all its claims of a proprietary technology that administers nicotine transdermally from a matrix at therapeutic levels for smoking cessation or other uses. A total of 43 separate claims were allowed, according to the company.

Elan filed a New Drug Application (NDA) for its once-daily nicotine patch with the U.S. FDA in May 1989, and last December received permission to sell the product in Ireland, marking the first government approval worldwide for a nicotine patch. No other company is known to have filed for approval of a nicotine patch with U.S. regulators.

Parke-Davis/Elan, a joint venture, will market the patch in Ireland, and Warner-Lambert has been signed as Elan's U.S. and international marketing partner. Elan said the patch delivers the equivalent of one cigarette's worth of nicotine per hour over a 16- to 24-hour period.

It operates research and manufacturing facilities in Athlone, Republic of Ireland; Enschede, Netherlands; Gainesville, Ga.; Cambridge, Mass.; and Brea, Calif.

MIAMI (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Southeast Banking Corporation (NYSE: STB) today announced it will strengthen its reserve for loan losses.

The reserve as a percent of loans will be increased from 2.15 percent at Dec. 31, 1989 to an estimated 2.48 percent as of March 31, 1990.

In addition, Southeast announced it will sell parts of Southeast Mortgage Company (SEMCO), a residential and commercial mortgage banker. The sale will strengthen Southeast's balance sheet and increase the company's ability to build its core businesses. SEMCO is a leading mortgage banking institution, which services a mortgage portfolio of approximately $8.8 billion.

The increase in the reserves will result in a net loss in the first quarter of $53 million to $57 million or $1.64 to $1.76 loss per common share.

This action follows a stringent examination of commercial real estate loans by Southeast personnel and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC). All significant commercial real estate loans were reviewed.

Southeast officials stressed that its primary capital ratio is estimated to exceed 6.9 percent at the end of the first quarter and will remain well in excess of the statutory requirement of 5.5 percent.

Total shareholders' equity will total approximately $772 million at March 31, 1990 with book value per common share projected to be $21.70 before any gain on the sale of Southeast's mortgage banking activities.

The examination of Southeast's commercial real estate loans resulted in charging off approximately $32 million in real estate loans against which the company had reserved $29 million at Dec. 31, 1989.

In light of present market conditions, Southeast has made a more conservative evaluation of its commercial real estate loans, applying current methods. As as a result, Southeast will report a provision for loan losses of approximately $92 million in the first quarter resulting in a reserve for loan losses of an estimated $260 million. Total non-performing assets at March 31, 1990 will range from $460 million to $475 million. This is an increase of $130 million to $145 million from year-end.

Lazard Freres and Co. will handle the transaction on behalf of Southeast.

Southeast Banking Corporation is the parent company of Southeast Bank, N.A. Southeast Banking Corporation had total assets of $16.5 billion and total deposits of $12.8 billion at Dec. 31, 1989. Southeast provides financial services at 227 locations throughout Florida.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - S&P lowers its rating on California Water Service Co.'s (NASDAQ: CWTR) senior secured debt to double-'A' from double-'A'-plus.

About $94 million of total debt was outstanding at Dec. 31, 1989. This action reflects expectations that financial parameters will not improve to levels appropriate for prior ratings.

The company's sales and earnings have been hampered by revenue falloff in the San Francisco area since 1988 when mandatory rationing went into effect in four districts covering about 20 percent of the utility's revenues. Most of the districts have ended rationing except Los Altos, which represents about 5 percent of total revenue.

Nevertheless, the company is burdened with heavy dependence upon rate relief that is now being awarded under lower authorized returns on equity than historical rulings. It is also burdened by an inability to fully recover lost sales associated with water rationing orders.

California utility regulators are still deciding upon possibly setting up a balancing account to recover lost rationing revenues, which could mitigate the effects of any future recurrence of mandated conservation programs. Still, while internal cash flow and earnings protection measures are certainly healthy relative to the industry, they are not expected to improve to levels commensurate with prior rating, S&P said.

HIGHLAND PARK, MI (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - As part of its commitment to the environment, Chrysler Corporation (NYSE: C) today launched a paper-recycling program.

"We are launching an office paper recycling program as part of our corporate-wide pollution prevention efforts, R.R. Boltz, Chrysler's vice president for Product Strategy and Regulatory Affairs, said.

The program was initiated at Chrysler Center -- the company's worldwide headquarters -- and will be extended to other offices and manufacturing locations. Chrysler Center alone generates more than 2,000 tons of paper each year.

"If we recycle one-third of that amount," Boltz said, "we will save 12,000 trees and 2,100 cubic yards of landfill disposal capacity for Advantage: Environment."

Boltz urged all employees to eliminate all unnecessary paper use and to join the effort to recycle the office paper that cannot be eliminated.

"The need to conserve our natural resources is clear and the office paper recycling program gives each of us the opportunity to make a meaningful contribution to the nation's environmental conservation goals," Boltz said.

"The concern of our employees doesn't end when they come to work. Their attitude and effort is an important part of Chrysler's concern with environmental excellence," Boltz said.

He said the office paper recycling program is part of Chrysler's Waste Minimization Program -- first launched in 1985.

"This is an approach which identifies and eliminates the root cause of waste rather than just providing end-of-the-process disposal controls. Reduction of the source of waste is the first priority," Boltz said.

For wastes which can't be completely eliminated, recycling is the second choice, he said. The program requires environmentally sound treatment and disposal for wastes which can't be reduced, recycled or reused.

ATLANTA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Delta Air Lines (NYSE: DAL) has announced the addition of Singapore Airlines to the international carriers featured in its Frequent Flyer program.

"Delta Frequent Flyers enjoy round-the-world travel opportunities as Singapore joins the five international carriers already featured in Delta's Frequent Flyer program," said Whit Hawkins, Delta's senior vice president - marketing. "Our program features some of the world's most prestigious airlines -- Air Canada, Air New Zealand, Japan Airlines, Lufthansa, Swissair, and, now, Singapore Airlines."

The entrance of Singapore Airlines into Delta's Frequent Flyer program on May 15, opens up additional destinations for mileage credit and award travel. Singapore Airlines operates the world's youngest fleet of 39 aircraft, including the Boeing 747-400. Delta and Singapore entered into a series of cooperative marketing agreements last year which in turn led to significant equity investments by each carrier in the other.

"Singapore Airlines is proud to join the Frequent Flyer program of Delta, which, like Singapore, strives for excellence in customer service," said Hwang Teng Aun, Singapore's senior vice president - The Americas. "Our participation in Delta's program further enhances the product of both airlines and is another step in the development of the alliance between Singapore Airlines and Delta Air Lines."

Members of Delta's Frequent Flyer program traveling on Singapore Airlines will receive actual mileage credit for full fare economy class travel, while Business Class will earn 125 percent of the actual mileage and First Class will earn 150 percent for travel in either direction between the cities of Honolulu, Los Angeles and San Francisco and the cities of Singapore, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Tapei and Tokyo. Singapore Airlines also will offer a wide range of travel awards from a Business Class upgrade to two free Business Class tickets between these same cities.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Air Canada is cementing its presence at Newark International Airport with the opening on April 30, 1990 of its own facility in the airport's Terminal B, which will consist of eight counter positions and three dedicated aircraft gates.

The airline's increased staff at Newark Airport will be headed by recently appointed airport manager, Alfred C. Zellers.

Since starting twice-daily weekday service from Newark to Toronto in 1987, Air Canada's flights have been handled by TWA at Terminal A. Air Canada currently operates four daily non-stop flights to Toronto and two to Montreal (reduced schedules on weekends), in addition to seasonal non-stop service to Halifax and to Calgary.

"Air Canada's expansion at Newark International Airport reflects the market growth for travel to Canada from New Jersey and Pennsylvania and the growing use of Newark's airport by travelers from the New York Metropolitan area," said Jessica G. Morris, general manager, NE & Midwest U.S.A., Air Canada, New York.

"Until now our routes from Newark Airport have operated only with DC-9's, but the new gates awarded Air Canada can handle wide-bodied aircraft, enabling us to eventually replace the DC-9's with larger airplanes including Air Canada's recently purchased A320 which is beginning to appear on some Canadian routes this year," said Morris.

Air Canada is negotiating with several domestic and international regional airlines to handle their services from Newark, including First Air, which plans to start flight service this spring between Newark and Canada's capital, Ottawa.

With its long established operations at New York's LaGuardia Airport of flights to Toronto and to Montreal, Air Canada offers more flights to Canada from the New York/Newark metropolitan areas than any other airline.

WORCESTER, MA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Transgenic Sciences, Inc. (NASDAQ: TSIN) announced today that it has entered into a collaborative research agreement with Boston Biomedica, Inc. to develop in vitro (test tube) tests to aid in identifying promising drugs and vaccines for acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS). The in vitro tests are based on a related virus called the simian immunodeficiency virus (SIV). The companies will also conduct research related to further developing the SIV model.

"The agreement is part of TSI's program to provide comprehensive preclinical testing services to companies developing therapeutics and vaccines for AIDS," said James P. Sherblom, chairman and CEO of Transgenic Sciences. "The increased availability of laboratory tests for SIV should enhance and expand use of this increasingly important disease model for AIDS." Sherblom noted that the agreement brings together TSI's expertise in disease models with Boston Biomedica's leadership in developing serum-based reagents.

Richard Schumacher, president of Boston Biomedica, said, "Our agreement to study retroviral infection in the simian model offers the potential for achieving a greater understanding of the serologic response to HIV infection in humans, and could lead to the development of new, clinically significant markers of early infection and disease progression, and for the response to treatment, as well."

Boston Biomedica, Inc., a privately held company based in West Bridgewater Mass., is a leading manufacturer and supplier of serologic products to a growing worldwide in vitro diagnostics research market. BBI's PERFORMANCE Panels are widely accepted as "Gold Standards" by which the quality of infectious disease tests is measured. In addition, the company manufactures serologic components for in vitro diagnostic test kits, and maintains a respected technical support laboratory which provides independent testing and evaluation services to manufacturers of diagnostic test kits.

TSI is a life sciences company developing advanced toxicology tests and disease models based on genetic engineering and transgenic techniques to improve the efficiency of the pharmaceutical/chemical development process. TSI is also developing animal strains capable of producing commercially valuable pharmaceutical proteins, as well as strains with desirable growth and genetic characteristics.

MOUNT VERNON, NY (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Dawn Capital Corp. (OTC) today reported revenues of $1,512,202 for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989 with net income of $44,935.

The results of the fourth quarter reflect the company's initial profitability from operations as well as a notable increase in revenues as compared to each of the prior three quarters of 1989.

Dawn also announced annual revenues of $3,783,203 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, the company's first full year of operation. Additionally, the company reported a net loss of $155,521 for fiscal year 1989 of which $95,000 was due to expenses incurred, principally during the first and second quarters of the year, in setting up executive and administrative offices and production facilities, as well as professional fees incurred in fulfillment of the company: securities law reporting requirements.

The company also announced a substantial increase in its backlog which totaled a $5,500,000 at Feb. 20, 1990, compared to $3,000,000 for the same period last year.

A spokesperson for Dawn Capital Corp., noted "Our profitability in the fourth quarter of 1989 is indicative of the success our company is having in establishing a solid base of operation on which to build a meaningful and profitable business. We feel confident that these efforts will continue to have a positive impact on future operations."

Dawn Capital Corp. commenced its present business activities in January 1989 with the acquisition of the Special Systems Division of American Technical Industries, Inc. The company manufactures and assembles components which are used in various industrial products and military hardware, and inspects and repairs circuit boards manufactured by a major

PROVIDENCE, RI (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - People's Bank, N.A., a subsidiary of Shawmut National Corporation, announced today that it is officially changing its name to Shawmut Bank of Rhode Island, N.A. The announcement was made during a half-hour ceremony at the Turk's Head Branch in Providence.

For the past three months, People's has been planning the conversion of its consumer products and services to match those of its Massachusetts affiliate, Shawmut Bank. People's Bank customers have been notified of specific account changes during the last few months.

The consolidation of the two banks' products and services and the name change occur three years after People's Bank was acquired by Hartford National Corporation. In February 1988, Hartford National Corporation of Connecticut merged with Shawmut Corporation of Massachusetts to form Shawmut National Corporation, which ranks among the top 25 largest bank holding companies in the country and is the third largest in New England.

"We are very excited because today marks the culmination of several months of hard work on the part of People's Bank employees and Shawmut employees. These employees have put in a tremendous amount of time and effort to ensure that our customers weren't inconvenienced as we integrated the operations of both banks," said People's Bank President Stephen Palmer. "Now that the process is complete, Shawmut Bank of Rhode Island will offer its customers a much broader range of products and services coupled with the same high quality, personal service that customers have come to expect from People's Bank and its 12-branch network."

In addition to the name change announcement, Shawmut also announced plans to work with the Children's Museum of Rhode Island. The bank will fund free admission Sundays the first Sunday of every month beginning May 6, 1990, and will be a major contributor to the museum's Our House Exhibit scheduled to open this summer.

Senior Vice President John Milligan cited Shawmut National's strong commitment to education as the rationale for supporting the museum: "We invest a great deal of time and resources training our employees so that they are qualified to satisfy all of our customer's banking needs. We believe that this is necessary to ensure our corporation's continued growth, just as we realize the important role education plays in Rhode Island's continued growth. Shawmut's support of the Children's Museum serves as an example of our commitment to educating tomorrow's business leaders."

Shawmut National Corporation is a superregional bank holding company with dual headquarters in Hartford, Conn., and Boston. It has a branch network of nearly 400 offices in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

DETROIT (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - The Uniroyal Goodrich Tire Company (UGTC) has earned its place among General Motors' highest-ranked suppliers by receiving a fourth "Mark of Excellence" award.

Uniroyal Goodrich's Eau Claire, Wis., plant is the latest facility to receive the recognition for outstanding quality and management performance as a supplier.

Of General Motors' 2,400 supplier locations assessed thus far, just over 100 have been awarded the "Mark of Excellence." Four of these have gone to Uniroyal Goodrich plants, which supply tires to all of the GM car and truck divisions. Along with the Eau Claire plant, UGTC plants in Ardmore, Okla., Opelika, Ala., and Fort Wayne, Ind., have been recognized with the prestigious award. UGTC's plant in Kitchener, Ontario, has also been approved to receive the "Mark of Excellence" honor. Kitchener will be the fifth plant to receive the award in the second quarter of 1990.

"Eau Claire is the latest of our plants to demonstrate their commitment to quality. The recognition these facilities receive through supplier awards reinforces the hard work UGTC employees continually dedicate to their products," stated Bob Cross, director, OE quality improvement at Uniroyal Goodrich. "With the prospect of the fifth plant in Kitchener, Ontario, being recognized, Uniroyal Goodrich will be one of only two suppliers with five 'Mark of Excellence' awards."

"Targets for Excellence," a supplier development process, was unveiled at GM in 1987 and applies to GM suppliers of productive materials and service parts, including GM manufacturing locations. The assessments are conducted by GM teams from purchasing, product engineering, manufacturing and quality control activities. The teams assess suppliers in five key areas: quality, cost, delivery, management and technology. The "Mark of Excellence" award is the top award available in this process.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Sequoia Partners, L.P. announced today that it is mailing to stockholders of Counsellors Tandem Securities Fund, Inc. (NYSE: CTF) a letter containing an analysis of the fund's performance over the entire life of the fund, which challenges statements made by the fund's management.

Sequoia's analysis shows that the total return, which consists of both price appreciation and dividends, of Counsellors Tandem's common shares has been a scant 5.8 percent since their initial public offering (IPO) in October 1986.

The fund's common shares went public at $10 per share. On March 2, 1990, the Friday before Sequoia mailed proxy materials, these shares closed at $10.125, a meager gain of 12.5 cents per common share. The fund has also paid aggregate dividends of just 45 cents per common share since the IPO.

In the Sequoia letter, Timothy Hurley, general partner of Sequoia, stated, "The performance of the common shares over the life of the fund has been dreadful for long-term holders."

Sequoia Partners continues to ask fund stockholders to support a new slate of directors which Sequoia has nominated to replace the current Counsellors Tandem board. Sequoia's nominees are committed to open-ending or liquidating the fund in order to eliminate the discount from net asset value at which the fund's shares have historically traded.

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - The G.T. Greater Europe Fund, a newly organized, non-diversified, closed-end management investment company announced the completion yesterday of its initial public offering of 16 million shares at $15 per share, for a total offering of $240 million. The Fund's shares will begin trading on the New York Stock Exchange today under the symbol GTF.

"The European marketplace has experienced significant and rapid changes in recent months," said Chief Investment Officer Christian Wignall. "In investing the Fund's assets, we will attempt to identify those investment opportunities which will enable the Fund to take advantage of economic and political factors. Our strategy is to select investments that we believe will benefit from the exchange of capital and human resources that may occur when countries with different costs of labor remove trade and other economic barriers."

The G.T. Greater Europe Fund is managed by G.T. Capital Management of San Francisco, part of the G.T. Group, a leading international investment adviser which provides investment management services to the 10 G.T. Global mutual funds and to other institutional and individual clients.

The initial public offering was conducted through an underwriting syndicate managed by Merrill Lynch Capital Markets and A.G. Edwards & Sons Inc.

The Fund's investment objective is long-term capital appreciation. It will seek its objective by investing under normal circumstances at least 65 percent of its total assets in a broad range of securities of European issuers in both established and emerging markets. The Fund is expected to be one of the initial means for many Americans to invest in Eastern Europe.

The Fund will invest the balance of its assets in the securities of issuers in countries peripherally linked to Europe and/or which stand to benefit from developments there. The Fund is authorized to invest in carefully selected special situations, such as joint ventures, private placements and similar investments, in Eastern Europe and elsewhere.

The G.T. Group, headquartered in London, currently manages assets of more than $9.2 billion including more than $8.2 billion in non-U.S. securities, more than $2.5 billion of which consists of European securities. In addition to offices in London, the G.T. Group maintains investment offices in San Francisco, Frankfurt, Zurich, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Sydney.

MARTINSVILLE, VA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Tultex Corporation (NYSE: TTX) late yesterday adopted a shareholder rights plan designed to protect Tultex shareholders from abusive takeover tactics and from attempts to acquire control of Tultex at an inadequate price.

"Our shareholder rights plan is not being adopted in response to any specific threat to acquire control of the company, nor is the company aware of any such effort," said H. Richard Hunnicutt Jr., Tultex chairman and chief executive officer. "The plan is being adopted after a lengthy review to enhance the ability of the board to protect shareholders' interests. Approximately 1,000 companies, including many Fortune 500 companies inside and outside Virginia, have adopted similar rights plans.

"The purpose of the rights plan is not to guarantee that the company will not be acquired, but simply to persuade any large acquirer of our stock to deal with the board," Hunnicutt said. "The board believes that it is in the best position to advance the interests of all shareholders and to pursue and evaluate alternatives." The plan does not preclude the Tultex board of directors from considering an offer to acquire all or part of Tultex if it believes the offer to be in the best interests of Tultex shareholders.

The plan provides for the issuance of one right to purchase one unit of preferred stock for each outstanding share of common stock. The rights will not be currently exercisable or transferable, and no separate certificates evidencing rights will be distributed unless a triggering event occurs. The rights will attach to shares of common stock outstanding on April 2, 1990, and will expire in 10 years.

The rights will be exercisable only if a person, group or other entity acquires or announces a tender offer for 10 percent or more of Tultex common stock. At the discretion of the board of directors, Tultex will be entitled to redeem the rights at any time before announcement that a 10 percent position has been acquired, and for 10 days after the announcement unless such period has been extended by the board of directors.

If the rights have not been redeemed and any person, group or entity purchases 20 percent or more of Tultex common stock, each right will entitle the holder, except the acquiring person, group or entity, upon payment of the exercise price, to acquire preferred stock, or at the option of Tultex, common stock having a value equal to twice the right's exercise price. Also, if Tultex were acquired in a merger or other business combination by such persons, group or entity, or if 50 percent of its earnings power or assets were sold in one transaction or series of transactions, each right would entitle the holder, except the acquiring person, group or entity, to purchase securities of the surviving company having a market value equal to twice the right's exercise price. This is the feature of the plan that is expected to deter hostile takeover attempts.

Details of the plan are contained in a letter that will be mailed to all Tultex shareholders.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Airbus Industrie has arranged a meeting for March 28 in Toulouse for A320 operators and customers to review flight crew operating procedures in the wake of the February crash of an Indian Airlines A320 at Bangalore Airport, according to the March 26 edition of Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine.

Senior European editor Jeffrey Lenorovitz reports that A320 airlines will be briefed on preventive procedures in connection with the initial findings of the Bangalore investigation. Those findings suggest that crew error caused the Feb. 14 crash, when the right-seat pilot allegedly switched the aircraft's autothrottle from speed mode to idle mode just before the crash. The throttles then went to idle thrust as the aircraft descended through an altitude of 500 feet, officials told Lenorovitz. Airbus Industrie managers said no evidence was found of an aircraft or system problem in the crash. The company is evaluating methods of protecting the aircraft against human error and will discuss possible steps with its A320 customers at the Toulouse meeting.

MINNEAPOLIS (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Black Hawk Holdings Inc. (NASDAQ: BHHI), announced today that it has signed an agreement to sell the stock of its subsidiary, First Choice Food Distributors Inc., of Fort Worth, Texas, a distributor of food and non-food items to limited-menu restaurants in Texas, to AmeriServ Food Company of Dallas, subject to the approval of Black Hawk's shareholders and to several conditions set forth in the agreement.

Dennis Evans, Black Hawk chairman and CEO, said, "The performance of First Choice has been disappointing, and growth potential is limited given the competitive existence of larger, stronger operating companies in the southwest region of the United States. The proposed sale will shift us away from the food distribution industry and allow Black Hawk to focus on the financial services industry, through its recently formed subsidiary, Black Hawk Financial Corp."

Black Hawk entered the food distribution business in 1988 with the purchase of First Choice and L.V.S. Food Distributors Inc., an Indiana-based distributor of specialty food products. In April 1989, Dennis Evans joined Black Hawk as chairman and CEO. In January 1990, Black Hawk sold the assets and business of LVS. Black Hawk's common stock is traded on the over-the-counter market under the NASDAQ symbol "BHHI."

AmeriServ, headquartered in Dallas, is one of the larger specialized food service distributors in the United States. Its operating companies include The Sonneveldt Company (Grand Rapids, Mich.), Interstate Distributors Inc. (Atlanta) and Post Food Service (Denver).

RICHARDSON, TX (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - SPI Holdings Inc., today announced the results of operations for the three months and the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

On April 12, 1989, SPI Holdings, Inc. was acquired by DP Acquisitions Corp., a company affiliated with Marvin Davis, through the purchase of 100 percent of the common stock of SPI Holding Inc. Due to the acquisition, the results of operations of the three months and the year ended Dec. 31, 1989 are not directly comparable to those of the three months and the year ended Dec. 31, 1988.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, revenues increased 13.4 percent to $33.5 million as compared to $29.6 million in the like period of 1988. The net loss for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989 was $20.7 million as compared to $17.1 million for the like period of 1988. The effect of accounting for the purchase resulted in an increase in amortization of intangibles contributing to the increase in the net loss. Loss per share was 47 cents for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, combined revenues increased 15.4 percent to $130 million as compared to $113 million for the year 1988. Combined net loss for the year 1989 of $75 million as compared to $57 million for 1988 was higher largely due to the increased amortization expense and an extraordinary loss due to the early extinguishment of debt. Loss per share was $1.31 for the period April 13, 1989 to Dec. 31, 1989 and 45 cents for the period Jan. 1, 1989 to April 12, 1989.

DETROIT (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Farmer Jack/A&P, the largest grocery store chain in Michigan and Detroit, announced that effective Monday, April 2, the company will divide its operations and advertising.

"The announcement is meant to keep the public aware of the exciting changes that the company will be bringing to the marketplace," said Gilbert Borman, spokesman for the company. "It continues to be the company's intention to provide the highest level of stores and services to our customers; to do that most effectively, some changes have to be made."

The first part of the company's plan is to transform some metro Detroit A&P stores into Farmer Jacks and some Farmer Jacks into A&Ps.

"Our research shows us that there are strong loyalties to their stores. A&P customers want their A&P to be an A&P. And Farmer Jack customers want Farmer Jack to be Farmer Jack. The transfer will make Farmer Jack and A&P stores more accessible to their respective customers. The average Farmer Jack and A&P customer will find that they don't have to drive as far to get the kind of store that they want," said Paul Borman, president of the Midwest Division.

"The company has spent considerable time and money and effort consolidating common operations and will continue to realize benefits from joint administration, accounting, warehousing and buying. Splitting operations and advertising makes it easier for A&Ps to be A&Ps and Farmer Jacks to be Farmer Jacks," he added.

The company is investing a substantial amount of money into the Michigan operation. "We will open five new stores this year and extensively remodel eight others. We have also completely renovated the Burt Road warehouse into a modern perishable warehouse which will ensure a fresher produce, frozen and perishable product for our customers. This level of investment demonstrates this company's commitment to the Michigan market," he added

LOWELL, MA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - COMFED Bancorp. Inc (AMEX: CFK) announced today that a jury verdict was entered in its favor in the amount of $2 million against commercial borrowers who had sued the bank on lender liability claims tried in Middlesex Superior Court. The borrowers alleged the existence of various agreements by COMFED to lend additional funds beyond the $1.6 million which had been identified in loan documents. They asserted that they were induced to enter into the loan by fraudulent misrepresentations made by the bank officers, and sought to be relieved of their obligations to repay the loan. They sought additional damages for lost profits arising from their inability to complete construction on their subdivision site in Hamilton, Mass. The jury determined that there was no fraud and no breach of any agreement, and returned a verdict for the bank on its promissory note for $2 million. The jury reduced the amount sought by the bank by $65,000.

The plaintiffs in the case raised issues in support of their fraud claim regarding internal policies and practices of the bank, officer compensation and other contentions suggesting that the bank had induced a lending relationship under false pretenses.

"This appears to be the first jury case in Massachusetts which has turned the tables on commercial borrowers seeking to advance lender liability claims," said COMFED's attorney, John D. Hanify, of the firm of Hanify & King. Another reported jury verdict in similar circumstances involved a claim against a Cambridge bank by developers who secured a judgement against the bank in the amount of $3 million.

Jefferson Allen, chairman of COMFED BANCORP, Inc., released the following comment on the jury's verdict:

"Unless there are signals sent by thoughtful juries that indiscriminate claims against banks will not be tolerated, the lending climate in Massachusetts is not likely to improve. I hope COMFED's victory in this case is a clear signal to the commercial world that banks should not absorb the loss when business and market conditions have propelled borrowers into financial difficulty."

COMFED BANCORP, Inc. is a $1.4 billion asset holding company headquartered in Lowell, Mass. Through its principal operating divisions: COMFED Savings Bank and COMFED Mortgage Company, the bank engages in residential mortgage lending, loan servicing, and retail banking. COMFED Mortgage Company maintains a network of 16 offices in five Northeastern states. COMFED Savings Bank operates 30 retail banking offices in Massachusetts and Connecticut. The bank's loan servicing portfolio ranks in the top 20 among thrifts nationwide.

NEWMARKET, NH (MARCH 23,) PR NEWSWIRE - New Hampshire Governor Judd Gregg awarded Vitronics Corporation (AMEX: VTC), a Newmarket, N.H. company, the Governor's Business Excellence Award for March 1990. Gov. Gregg presented the award to James J. Manfield, Jr., president and chief executive officer and toured the company headquarters and facilities located in the Newmarket Industrial Park. Vitronics is a leading producer of surface mount thermal technology used extensively to attach components to printed circuit boards. The company also is well known as an innovator in infrared thermal processing and associated equipment.

Vitronics was founded in Newburyport, Mass., in 1981 with a staff of five. The company relocated to the Newmarket Industrial Park in February 1985 with 30 employees to occupy a 20,000 square feet of manufacturing and office space. Vitronics currently has 105 employees in New Hampshire and 30 employees at a facility in England. Annual sales have grown from $3.7 million in 1985 to more than $20 million in 1989.

In response to environmental concerns over ozone depletion from the release of chlorofluorocarbon (CFC) solvents, Vitronics was the first company to market a cleaning system which uses a natural solvent solution. The Vitronics system uses non-CFC solvents such as terpene, which is derived from citrus fruits and is biodegradable, non-toxic and non-corrosive. The system is attracting substantial interest from domestic and multinational electronics companies.

"The Vitronics Corporation is an innovator in high-technology systems which should keep the company on the leading edge in the U.S. and international markets well into the future," Gov. Gregg said. "The company has made a substantial contribution to the economy of Newmarket and the region. In addition, company management has been very supportive of area community safety services and other charitable institutions. These factors make the Vitronics Corporation an outstanding example of the firms which the Governor's Business Excellence Award seeks to acknowledge."

Manfield said, "We are pleased with being named the recipient of the Governor's Business Excellence Award. It recognizes the contribution of our employees, customers, vendors and suppliers as well as the positive environment that the state of New Hampshire provides for the business climate in which Vitronics participates."

The Governor's Business Excellence Award is presented each month to a New Hampshire company identified for an outstanding contribution to the economic development of the state. The program is one aspect of the Governor's business development initiatives which are geared to: 1) assist and promote existing industry; 2) explore new export opportunities for New Hampshire products, and; 3) selectively recruit new industry.

Vitronics Corporation is a rapidly growing supplier of state-of-the- art thermal processing and associated equipment, with an established reputation as an innovator and leader in the surface mount industry.

GREENWICH, CT (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Paul W. Douglas, chairman and chief executive officer of the Pittston Company (NYSE: PCO), announced today authorization for its subsidiary, Pyxis Resources Company, to proceed with the development of a major new steam coal mine in West Virginia, subject to satisfactory resolution of remaining minor details. This new surface mining project will be based on low sulfur reserves leased by a Pyxis subsidiary and will cost approximately $27 million to develop. Initial production is expected to begin by late 1991. At full capacity Pyxis expects to sell 1.5 million tons to 1.7 million tons per annum to a major public utility under a five-year contract recently agreed on which related details are expected to be completed in the near future.

In announcing this important new development, Douglas said, "The project will add significantly to the scale and profitability of Pittston's surface mining activities. The new sales contract provides for appropriate pricing and cost escalation provisions."

Douglas also advised that Pittston presently estimates it will incur a consolidated loss of approximately 35 cents per share for the first quarter of 1990, greater than previously expected.

Although international air freight operations have been quite satisfactory so far, domestic results of Burlington Air Express, like those of most other major air freight companies, have been impacted negatively by seasonally-weak market conditions, unexpectedly high jet fuel expenses, extra costs to maintain service quality during several episodes of poor winter weather, inadequate industry pricing and by the general weakness of automotive and computer industry shipments. In addition, Burlington incurred extra costs in the modernization of its Fort Wayne, Ind., sorting hub to improve freight flow and operating efficiencies. Burlington's first quarter operating loss, therefore, may be in the neighborhood of $12 million. While domestic air freight revenues have reflected impressive growth of about 15 percent over year- earlier periods, they have fallen short of even higher planned objectives so far in 1990. As a result, Burlington is adjusting its manning and overall cost structure to better fit its present level of activity and market share with the expectation of significant productivity growth and improved financial results in March and subsequent months.

Douglas added that activities at the Pittston Coal Group mines are gradually returning to normal after conclusion of a 10-1/2 month strike. He expressed hope that these operations can attain by mid-1990 their pre-strike level of some 11 million tons per annum of output to go along with the 5-1/2 to 6 million tons of annual supplies of Pittston's American Eagle and Pyxis subsidiaries. If these levels are achieved, the coal segment loss anticipated for the first quarter should turn around to solid profitability in the second quarter with further improving results over the balance of 1990.

JACKSON, MS (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - First Mississippi Corp. (NYSE: FRM) today announced that a special stockholders' meeting will be held at 2:00 p.m., June 12, at Denery's Restaurant, 330 Greymont Ave., Jackson, Miss. Stockholders of record on April 23, 1990, will be entitled to vote at the special meeting.

The meeting has been called in connection with the company's previously announced proposed distribution to First Mississippi Corp. stockholders of 14,750,000 shares of its subsidiary, FirstMiss Gold Inc. (NASDAQ: FRMG). The request for a ruling concerning the tax-free nature of the distribution was filed with the IRS on March 16, 1990. The IRS is expected to issue a ruling in three to six months.

A stockholders' vote on the proposed distribution is not required. A record date for the proposed distribution, if it occurs, will be established by the board of directors after receipt of a favorable tax ruling.

At the special meeting, stockholders will be asked to approve amendments to the company's 1980 and 1988 long-term incentive plans. The amendments will clarify that the board may increase the number of shares of common stock issuable under the plans and adjust option exercise prices in order to make certain equitable adjustments in connection with the proposed distribution or other extraordinary corporate events. A meeting notice and proxy statement describing the proposed amendments will be mailed to stockholders in early May 1990.

FirstMiss Gold, incorporated in August 1987 and headquartered in Reno, Nev., is approximately 82 percent owned by First Mississippi Corp.

First Mississippi Corp., headquartered in Jackson, is a diversified resource company. After the proposed spin-off of the gold subsidiary, the company's primary businesses will include chemicals, fertilizers, energy and technology-based ventures.

HOUSTON (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Team Inc. (AMEX: TMI) today announced operating results for its recently-completed third quarter ended Feb. 28, 1990. Net earnings rose 133 percent to $1.1 million or 25 cents per share fully diluted compared to $453,000 or 16 cents per share in last year's third quarter. Third quarter earnings per share in 1990 were determined based on 4.6 million weighted average shares outstanding, an increase of 36 percent as a result of the company's common stock offering completed in November 1989. Revenues for the quarter were $23.2 million compared to $14.4 million in 1989.

All operating segments reported increased revenues. In the repair and specialty services division, revenues rose 39 percent to $13.9 million. As environmental legislation impacts Team customers, the company is continuing to aggressively market its emissions monitoring services which resulted in strong revenue growth during the quarter. Revenues from leak-sealing services were also up significantly due to marketing efforts, colder weather and moderate price increases.

In the privatized services division, revenues rose 239 percent to $6.6 million largely as a result of $3.8 million contributed by the company's new federal military contracts. Such contracts are multi-year agreements for maintenance, management and building services at five military base installations. Operating margins in this division declined during the quarter due to federal work which has a lower contribution level, geographic expansion and decreased margins in road maintenance work. Road maintenance margins should return to higher levels in the current quarter.

The transportation services division continued to report increased revenues reflecting improvement in market conditions and increased pricing. Operating margins were at 12 percent compared to a loss reported for last year's third quarter.

Team's chairman and president H. Wesley Hall stated, "We are pleased with the company's overall operating results and with our strengthened financial condition." The company completed the call of its 13 percent convertible subordinated debentures, converting substantially all of the $4.8 million outstanding debt to common stock during the quarter. This, along with the equity offering and strong operating results increased the stockholders' equity section of the balance sheet to $32.6 million on Feb. 28, 1990, up from $15.7 million at May 31, 1989. With a current debt-to-equity ratio of .4/1, the company has excellent financial flexibility to fund its future growth.

Team Inc. provides repair, specialty and transportation services primarily to industrial customers and privatized services to governmental entities. The company has 50 operating locations in 23 states and serves the international market through licensee arrangements in 10 countries. Team Inc. common stock is traded on the American Stock Exchange under the symbol TMI.

VEVEY, SWITZERLAND (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - In 1989, the Nestle Group's consolidated profit reached 2,412 million Swiss Francs, an increase of 17.2 percent as compared to the adjusted profit figure of the previous year. Comparative figures for the previous year have been adjusted after the company adopted the international accounting standards following the listing of its shares on the London stock exchange. The margin on sales, on consolidated sales of 48,036 million Swiss Francs (up 21.6 percent from the previous year) as reported earlier, is 5 percent. The trading profit rose at a somewhat slower rate than the sales; this is due to the fact that some of the recently acquired businesses have not yet reached the usual group-wide profitability levels. Adjusted for the equity increase of June 1989, profit per share rose by 13.3 percent to SFr. 656.

The holding company Nestle S.A. shows a net profit of SFr. 945.8 million for 1989, as compared to SFr. 830.5 million in 1988. At its meeting of March 23, 1990, the board of directors decided to propose to the general meeting that the dividend be increased from SFr. 175.- to SFr. 200 per share, and from SFr. 35.- to SFr. 40.- per bearer participation certificate. This corresponds to an increase of 14.3 percent. If the preceding dividend is adjusted for the equity increase of June 1989, the rise amounts to 16 percent. Furthermore, SFr. 205 million should be appropriated to reserves (SFr. 215 million in 1988.)

Provided the general meeting accepts the proposal, the total dividend pay-out will amount to SFr. 735 million, i.e. a pay-out ratio of 30.5 percent (adjusted ratio in 1988: 29.8 percent).

If the stock exchange conditions are favorable, the board will also propose that the equity of the company be raised in the proportion of one new share to twenty old shares or to 100 bearer participation certificates. The operation will include subscription rights for shareholders and holders of BPC's. Only registered shares will be issued and their issue price will be determined later.

The general meeting of Nestle S.A. will take place on May 31, 1990, at 3 p.m., at the Palais de Beaulieu in Lausanne.

CLEVELAND (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Sales of LESCO, Inc. (NASDAQ: LSCO) for the first quarter ended February 28, 1990, increased to $15,996,000 and the company reduced its loss from the year-ago quarter to $1,404,000, or 34 cents a share.

In the prior year's first period, sales were $15,335,000 and the loss was $1,833,000, or 45 cents a share.

Results in the first period are traditionally the slowest of the year for the company which manufacturers and sells fertilizer, turf control products and equipment to golf courses and lawn care operators.

"The most significant aspect of the quarter is that we continued to see the improvement we anticipated in the operations of our LESCO Service Centers which serve major markets in 15 states," James I. FitzGibbon, chairman and chief executive officer, said. He added that there was a modest improvement in gross profit margins, due in part to price adjustment programs and cost containment efforts.

"We also had a one-time gain from the sale of a building in Elyria, Ohio, which formerly housed some manufacturing activities. We have consolidated all equipment manufacturing at our Sebring, Florida, facility and believe this will have a continued favorable effect on production economy and efficiency," FitzGibbon said.

LESCO, headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, manufactures and markets fertilizers, turf protection products, turfcare equipment and golf course accessories. The company's common shares are traded in the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol LESCO.

TORRANCE, CA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Computer Communications Inc. (NASDAQ: CCMM) Vice President Marketing and Sales, Thomas A. Polizzi, today announced that System One Corporation, a subsidiary of Texas Air (AMEX: TEX), placed an order valued at over $2,000,000 for five of the company's new Data Express advanced communications processors. Previous airlines ordering the new Data Expresss systems include American Airlines and Braniff Airlines.

The Data Express systems will replace the existing CCMM CC-85 Communications Controllers which provide front-end communications capabilities for System One's large Airline Reservation Network. Protocols to be supported include: ALC, SLC Type A and B, and AX.25.

The selection of CCMM's Data Express system was made after an intensive review by System One's senior technical staff of all industry available systems. A key component in the System One corporate decision was the powerful Network Manager, which is included as a standard feature of the Data Express architecture.

The company, in its 24th year, is a leading dependent producer of equipment and systems which are an integral part of high-speed data communications networks serving a broad spectrum of users.

ATLANTA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will hold a public information meeting on Tuesday, March 27 in Cary, N.C. to discuss the Koppers-Morrisville Superfund site.

Representatives from the EPA will be at the Northwoods Elementary School Cafetorium at 7 p.m. to discuss the status of the site and answer questions from the public. All interested individuals are invited at attend.

EPA is currently overseeing an intensive study of the site to describe the extent of contamination at the site and an evaluation for options for cleanup. The study is being conducted by Beazer Inc., the potentially responsible party, under an Administrative Order on Consent issued on March 14, 1989. Field work for the study, known as the Remedial Investigation is scheduled to begin April 15.

The site, located approximately one mile north of the Morrisville Town Hall in Morrisville, N.C., was used for wood preservation activities. Site contamination consists of pentachlorophenol (PC) and isopropyl ether (IPE). The site was placed on EPA's final National Priorities List of hazardous waste sites in March 1989.

Documents pertaining to the site will be available for review at the Morrisville Town Hall.

The fourth quarter 1989 loss was $14,560,000 (41 cents per share) as compared to earnings of $1,723,000 (5 cents per share) in the fourth quarter of 1988. Revenues for the fourth quarter of 1989 were $156,197,000 vs. $237,016,000 for the last three months of 1988.

J. Michael Adcock, president of Hadson, said: "In the fourth quarter of 1989 our Defense Systems Group recorded a provision of $10 million for an anticipated loss on a fixed-price development contract. The total loss provision recorded in 1989 related to this contract amounted to $14,700,000. The significant losses related to this contract have resulted from slippage on the estimated time to complete the project and design changes. Although we believe we have now fully provided for the losses on this contract, we are currently exploring various alternatives to reduce the adverse cost effects of the contract to the company.

"Although project financing arrangements related to four 70-megawatt cogeneration facilities located in Virginia were completed in the fourth quarter of 1989, the company did not recognize any revenues or operating profits from development, engineering and construction activities from these projects pending receipt of final environmental permits for these plants. Permits for two of the plants were received in the first quarter of 1990. Accordingly we anticipate higher levels of revenues and operating profits from our Power Systems Group in 1990.

"As we have previously stated, Hadson intends to significantly reduce its long-term debt. The first step in this effort was the sale to the public of approximately 51 percent of our Natural Resources Group through a new entity, Hadson Energy Resources Corp., in February of 1990. This transaction had the effect of reducing Hadson's consolidated long-term debt by approximately $62 million. As a further step in our debt reduction efforts, the company has engaged Goldman, Sachs & Co. as its financial advisor to assist the company in analyzing various alternatives which the company may pursue in order to maximize shareholder value and reduce long-term debt. The alternatives that the company is evaluating may entail additional dispositions of assets or all or part of entire businesses. The company is confident that this analysis will result in a definitive plan of action which can be implemented in 1990."

Hadson Corp. is an independent producer and supplier of energy products and a defense technology firm as well as an electric power services firm. Hadson has operations in natural gas and gas liquids; the development, construction, operation and ownership of electric power generation facilities; international oil and gas exploration; and defense and space technologies.

AKRON, OH (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Roadway Services, Inc. (NASDAQ: ROAD) confirmed today that its principal operating subsidiary, Roadway Express, has filed tariffs with the Interstate Commerce Commission increasing most freight rates 2.6 percent to 4.0 percent, effective June 4.

It was reported last week that similar increases have been filed by some of the industry's major rate bureaus.

A spokesman cited greater than anticipated cost escalation for rendering an earlier rate increase in January "wholly inadequate" to cover the cost increases which have occurred since then. In addition, wage increases are due effective April 1 under the industry's labor contract.

Roadway Services is a transportation holding company. Roadway Express is one of the nation's largest motor carriers, with over 600 facilities in the U.S., Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Fletcher Challenge Canada (Toronto: FCC) today announced plans to establish a local ''resource advisory group'' as a channel for public input into the company's forest management plans for the controversial Walbran Creek watershed on the west side of Vancouver Island.

Frank Lucci, the company's vice-president for woodlands, said the proposed body will comprise representatives of Cowichan Valley communities as well as forest workers, environmental organizations and the company.

''The group's main purpose will be to examine the potential environmental effects of our proposed harvesting activity in the Walbran area and give us their views,'' Lucci said. ''They will report their findings to the company and to the provincial forest service to be considered in the process of developing final management and working plans for the area.''

He said the plan is to have the advisory group established and working before the end of April, aiming for a report in September. If the process is seen to be a success, the group's terms of reference could be broadened to provide ongoing community input into Fletcher Challenge Canada's forest management planning for the Lake Cowichan area.

Lucci said establishing the local advisory group is intended to ensure that all elements of the communities affected by forest management decisions in the area have an opportunity to be heard in the planning process.

Invitations to participate in the group are going to representatives of the communities of Lake Cowichan, Duncan, North Cowichan and Cowichan Regional District, as well as the Sierra Club, the Western Canada Wilderness Committee, the Valley Fish and Game Association and the International Woodworkers of America (IWA).

The Walbran Creek watershed is located on the west side of southern Vancouver Island, southeast of Nitinat Lake. About 6,500 hectares of the lower watershed is managed by Fletcher Challenge Canada under Tree Farm Licence 46.

Preservationists have demanded that old growth timber in the area be preserved from logging.

SHELTON, CT (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Raytech Corp. (NYSE: RAY) today reported fourth quarter net income of $2.3 million, or 36 cents per share, on net sales of $28.7 million, compared with a net loss of $46 thousand, or 1 cent per share, for the fourth quarter of 1988.

For the full year 1989, Raytech reported net income of $5.9 million, or 87 cents per share, on net sales of $113.7 million. This compares to a net loss of $61.6 million, or $10.90 per share in 1988.

The 1988 loss primarily resulted from the sale of the company's formerly wholly owned subsidiary, Raymark Industries. Excluding the loss on the sale of Raymark and certain other unusual items, the company's net income was $4.0 million, or 60 cents per share, in 1989, compared with net income of $7.4 million, or $1.38 per share, in 1988.

According to Craig R. Smith, president of Raytech, three major factors contributed to the unfavorable variance in year-to-year net income. "The inordinate amount of time company management was required to spend on legal matters regarding the company's Chapter 11 filing diverted much of our attention from day-to-day operations," Smith said. "Start-up costs related to our new friction paper machine and cost increases on certain raw materials within Raybestos Products Company as well as plant inefficiencies and higher raw material costs at Miami River Company were additional factors adversely impacting our 1989 performance.

"However," Smith noted, "Raytech management has implemented certain turn-around programs for 1990, which, along with the fully operational paper machine, gives us every reason to believe 1990's performance will be in line with our historical performance levels."

Raytech Corp. is headquartered in Shelton. It is a multi-national supplier of specialty engineered products and related services to manufacturers in the aerospace, appliance, electronics, heavy equipment, agricultural equipment, furniture, and vechicular industries. Raytech's operating subsidiaries produce products used in heat resistant, inertia control, fastening, and lightweight structural component applications.

HOUSTON (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - NL Industries (NYSE: NL) chairman and chief executive officer, J. Landis Martin, sent the attached letter today to Lockheed Corp. (NYSE: LK) chairman, Daniel M. Tellep, regarding Lockheed's denial of NL's request for equal access to Lockheed employees in connection with NL's proxy contest for the Lockheed board of directors.

On Tuesday of this week, I wrote you recounting the numerous requests we had made for equal access to Lockheed employees who, as ESOP participants, form an important shareholder constituency in the proxy contest. At I emphasized, we believe that a decent regard for the rights both of NL and of the employees should lead you to grant us access to the employees on a basis equal to that enjoyed by the mangement personnel who are campaigning for the current board.

Yesterday afternoon I received a letter from you stating that you had distributed at Lockheed locations a video prepared by you, that you wished "to make a reasonable accommodation" of our request for equal access, and that you would be willing to permit us to distribute an NL video at Lockheed facilities. You said that, unless we accepted this invitation, you could only conclude that our complaints about denial of access were insincere.

As I am sure you know, preparing a video is a time consuming process, and even when it is finished the SEC regulations require' that the video be on file for two days before it can be used in a proxy contest. Thus, your "offer" would have provided us access to employees only after they had already voted, since ESOP participants' votes must be received by the trustee by March 27.

It so happens, however, that we had already propared a video that had been on file for the required period. When an NL lawyer called your lawyer to make the necessary arrangements for the distribution of our video at Lockheed facilities, your lawyer said you would not permit our video to be shown because it was approximately 24 minutes long while yours was 12 minutes long. I was surprised at this concern over an extra 12 minutes, particularly in light of the numerous longer meetings management representatives have already held with employees to campaign on your behalf.

In an effort to get our message to the employees, we are booking time at local television stations to show our video. While this is a woefully inadequate substitute for equal access to employees at the workplace, it is the best we can do given the position you have taken.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - International Income Property Inc. (AMEX: IIP) announced today that its board of directors had approved a contract for the sale of its five wholly owned regional shopping center properties for cash to U.S. Prime Property Inc. (PPI).

The contract with PPI provides that the cash price to be received by IIP for the properties will be based on the appraised net value of such properties at Dec. 31, 1989, adjusted as of May 31, 1990, to reflect any net increase or decrease in the value of the properties subsequent to Dec. 31, 1989, as determined by independent real estate valuation firms. The cash purchase price to be received by IIP will be net of any mortgage liabilities of IIP assumed by the purchaser in the transactions. IIP also announced that it will sell simultaneously its remaining 50 percent interest in Park City Center to an entity to be established by Lend Lease Corporation of Sydney, Australia, and its affiliate MLC Life Limited, a shareholder of both IIP and PPI, on the same terms as the sale of the other assets to PPI. IIP previously announced that the appraised value of its assets, net of liabilities, as determined by its independent appraisers as of Dec. 31, 1989, was $322.8 million.

IIP further stated that its board of directors had also approved a plan of liquidation pursuant to which, following the property sales transactions, IIP would be liquidated and the cash proceeds from the property sales distributed to stockholders.

The consummation of the sales and liquidation transactions is subject to the approval of the transactions by the stockholders of IIP, as well as the termination of any applicable waiting periods under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976. Consummation of the transactions is also subject to the completion by PPI of its definitive financing arrangements. IIP said it expects to file preliminary proxy solicitation materials shortly with the Securities and Exchange Commission for a stockholders' meeting to be held to approve the transaction on or about June 21, 1990. Mailing of definitive proxy solicitation materials to stockholders is anticipated during May 1990, by which time the final purchase price for the properties will have been determined. Pending finalization of the transaction, IIP would not intend to make its regular June quarterly distribution to stockholders, since the liquidation of IIP would occur shortly following the sales of its properties.

IIP's investment manager, Dusco, Inc., a real estate management firm owned by G.J. Dusseldorp, chairman of the board of IIP and PPI, also serves as PPI's investment manager.

PPI is currently an equal partner with IIP in a joint venture with respect to Park City Center in Lancaster, Pa. PPI is also the owner of an option previously granted by IIP to acquire up to a 50 percent interest in Landmark Center in Alexandria, Va., which is currently wholly owned by IIP.

IIP invests in equity ownership of income producing real estate. Its shares are traded on the American Stock Exchange, the International Stock Exchange of the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland Ltd. and the

LANGHORNE, PA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Ecogen Inc. (NASDAQ: EECN) today announced financial results for the fourth quarter and year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

For the fourth quarter of 1989, total revenues were $599,000 compared with $1,344,000 for the comparable 1988 quarter. A net loss of $2,223,000 ($0.33 per share) was reported for the 1989 fourth quarter compared with a net loss of $1,073,000 ($0.16 per share) for the fourth quarter of 1988.

Total revenues for 1989 were $2,939,000 compared with $6,518,000 for 1988.

Ecogen reported a net loss of $8,179,000 ($1.22 per share) for 1989 compared with a net loss of $3,487,000 ($0.52 per share) for 1988.

On Dec. 31, 1989, Ecogen had total assets of $6,502,000 compared with $14,342,000 at the end of 1988.

Commenting on the 1989 financial results, Ecogen Chairman John E. Davies said the increased net loss is primarily attributable to delays in finalizing a number of major corporate relationships with European and Far Eastern partners. In addition, Ecogen decided to self-fund work on a cotton bioinsecticide project following the scheduled completion of a research contract for the project at the end of 1988.

Davies said, "Ecogen's financial performance in 1989 was disappointing and has led to a decision to explore different alternatives in order to provide new capital to fund the continued development of our products."

Ecogen announced in February that it has retained Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood Incorporated, Minneapolis, to advise management on strategic business options, including the sale of all or part of the company.

In March, Ecogen announced the private sale of unregistered common shares to two investors: $1.5 million to David Blech, a New York City investor, and $500,000 to Jia Non Enterprises Co., Ltd., the Taiwanese distributor of Ecogen's Bacillus thuringiensis biopesticides.

"From the viewpoint of product development and commercialization," Davies said, "1989 was a successful year. Two novel biopesticides, Condor(A) forestry bioinsecticide and Cutlass(A) vegetable bioinsecticide, received Environmental Protection Agency registration last year and registration of a third product, Foil(A) potato bioinsecticide, is expected in the near future.

Ecogen Inc. is an agricultural biotechnology company specializing in biological pest control. In addition to Cutlass and Condor, Ecogen's products include Dagger(A) G cotton biofungicide and Collego(A) rice bioherbicide. The company is also developing biopesticides for cotton, corn, potatoes and other vegetables, and home and garden use.

SYRACUSE, NY (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - The American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) joined today with the Saint Regis Mohawk Tribe in calling for permanent cleanup measures of more than 800,000 cubic yards of PCB-saturated soil and waste material in a General Motors Superfund site adjacent to a residential area of the Saint Regis Mohawk territory near Massena, in northern New York state.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Wednesday announced its proposed plans detailing the toxic waste cleanup of the General Motors site. The plans provide for permanent solutions including both biological and incineration treatment of contaminants. Selection of a permanent treatment technology by the EPA is commended by the Saint Regis Mohawk Tribal leaders and the Saint Regis Mohawk Tribal Environmental Division.

"However, the EPA did not identify cleanup plans for the largest waste unit on the site, the industrial landfill waste pile," said Jim Ransom, director of the Saint Regis Mohawk Tribal Council Division of Environment. He added that the EPA proposes to wait to receive public comments in the next 60 days.

The Saint Regis Mohawk Tribe and the American Friends Service Committee urged the EPA to press for a permanent cleanup for this waste pile as well. It contains an estimated 320,000 tons of PCB-contaminated waste at concentrations of up to 4,300 parts per million.

"Permanent cleanup monitored by the Tribe is necessary to insure that human health and environment are adequately protected," Ransom said. "Capping this waste pile is insufficient to prevent continued danger from contaminants to the Tribe's natural resources, especially fish and wildlife," Ransom concluded.

The AFSC, a Quaker organization, has had an environmental education project at the Saint Regis Mohawk Territory for three years, in cooperation with the Saint Regis Mohawk Tribal Council, the Mohawk Council of Akwesasne, and the Traditional Mohawk Council of Chiefs.

NEWINGTON, CT. (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - TeleConcepts Corporation (AMEX: TCC) announced today that net sales for 1989 increased by 1 percent from $10,703,000 in 1988 to $10,787,000 in spite of the difficulties experienced by the company's supplier in Korea. Net sales for the fourth quarter were $3,139,000 in 1989 versus $2,809,567 for fourth quarter of 1988.

Cost of sales for 1989 was $10,968,000 versus $10,067,000 for 1988. The cost of sales for 1989 included.

-- $477,000 write down of certain items in inventory.
-- $ 52,000 adjustment to the amortization of certain fixed assets.
-- $405,000 write off of all deferred advertising.
-- $117,000 warehouse expense which has been eliminated for the coming year.
-- $218,000 loss on product sales below cost.
-- $ 52,000 extra freight costs required to compensate for slow deliveries.

The above costs are expected to be non-recurring. Cost of sales in 1989 were also higher due to increased costs from the company's supplier in Korea. The company expects to procure certain of its products from Malaysia in the coming year. Since Malaysia has been granted duty free status under the generalized system of preferences, products imported from there are not subject to the 8-1/2 percent duty which applies to the company's other supplier countries. This should reduce overall product cost.

Although sales were slightly higher in 1989 than in 1988, selling general and administrative costs decreased by 17.2 percent reflecting management's continued efforts to cut cost.

Interest expense declined by $159,000 in 1989 versus 1988 due primarily to the conversion to common stock of subordinated debt which was held by shareholders of the company. Further reductions in interest costs are expected to occur in 1990 as a result of reduced borrowing for working capital.

Net loss for the 1989 year was $3,054,000 versus $2,814,000 for 1988. Net loss for the fourth quarter of 1989 was $1,344,000 versus $1,613,000 for the same quarter in 1988.

Accounts receivable increased from $1,755,000 in 1988 to $2,514,000 at the end of 1989 due to increased sales during the latter part of the fourth quarter.

Inventories at the end of 1989 were $3,004,000 versus $7,748,000 at the end of 1988. This 61 percent decrease occurred primarily as the result of sales of product and to a lesser extent as the result of a write down of certain items.

Deferred advertising of $405,000 which was attributable to the company's earlier barter transaction in 1987, was completely written off in 1989 due to the slow pace at which these advertising credits were being used.

Short-term bank borrowing was reduced from $3,717,000 at the end of 1988 to $1,101,000 at the end of 1989. This was achieved primarily through the sale of inventory and application of the proceeds to the reduction of the loan.

CALABASAS, CA. (MARCH 23) PRNEWSWIRE - Lockheed Corp. (NYSE: LK) released the following statement today:

"Harold Simmons' comments yesterday about possible sales of certain Lockheed assets confirm our view that Simmons is fundamentally uninformed about our businesses and the markets they address," Lockheed Corporation Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Daniel M. Tellep said today.

"We take the view that none of our businesses is sacred. We undertook a comprehensive review of every one of them last year and targeted seven operations, in addition to certain real estate assets, for divestiture. Three have been sold, three are being sold, and in one case we determined that the business was better retained than sold at the bottom of its business cycle.

"We continually review the profitability and strategic fit of each of our businesses, and if we determine that shareholder interests are best served by divesting certain assets, we do not hesitate to do so.

"With respect to our Technology Services Group (TSG) and Electronic Systems Group (ESG) businesses, Mr. Simmons apparently doesn't realize that TSG represents our fastest growing segment, with sales growth of 26 percent in 1989. Simmons' inaccurate statements on return on investment for TSG and ESG reflect his lack of understanding of these businesses, which are generating higher returns on operating assets than Simmons indicates, as well as attractive cash flows.

"Our Electronic Systems Group provides critical technologies that are an integral component of our missiles, space, and aeronautical businesses. Additionally, in the current environment, shareholder interests would be very poorly served by a sale of ESG since there are more than 25 companies engaged in defense electronics that are on the market and have not been sold.

"Our analysis of divesting TSG and ESG, based on solid financial and market information, shows that such a sale would forfeit upside potential, and that greater value can be unlocked by continuing to improve their earnings and cash flows.

"These simplistic Simmons proposals are, we believe, typical of his attempt to sound constructive when he and his team in fact understand very little about our businesses," Tellep concluded.

CINCINNATI (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - The Charter Company (NYSE: CHR) today reported 1989 earnings from continuing operations of $3.0 million ($.05 per share) and net earnings of $5.3 million ($.10 per share). These amounts reflect a $25 million pretax loss recorded in the fourth quarter for the possible impairment of the company's investment in The Circle K Corporation.

As the result of the sale of its convenience stores to Circle K in 1988, Charter received $80 million in cash and 500,000 shares of Circle K Series B Preferred Stock originally valued at $50 million. Circle K has recently announced that it was prohibited by debt covenants from making its February 1990 dividend payment in cash, and that it expects to complete a plan for financial restructuring in April 1990. After an evaluation of these developments, Charter recorded a provision for the possible impairment of $25 million at Dec. 31, 1989. Charter had received $3.8 million in dividends on these shares in 1989.

For 1988, earnings from continuing operations were $14.2 million ($.28 per share); net earnings were $58.6 million ($1.22 per share). Net earnings included the pretax gain of $36 million recognized on the sale of Charter's convenience stores to Circle K.

Charter is engaged primarily in petroleum marketing and the production and sale of crude oil from a 24.5 percent production interest in an oil concession located in the Arabian Gulf offshore of Abu Dhabi.

American Financial Corporation owns 51 percent of Charter's 46.8 million outstanding shares. Charter's common stock trades on the New York and Pacific Stock Exchanges under the symbol CHR and CHRP, respectively.

PITTSBURGH (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Landmark Savings Association of Pittsburgh, (AMEX: LSA) Pennsylvania today announced that the sale of their two State College offices to Central Bank of Hollidaysburg is now complete.

The transaction produced for Landmark a profit of approximately $790,000.

The sale of the offices, located at 116 College Ave. and 1276 North Atherton Ave., was announced last summer pending regulatory approvals. The sale involves 5,200 deposit accounts totaling $17.4 million and all share loans. It does not include consumer and commercial loans nor Landmark's mortgage division, which will continue operation at its present location under the name Landmark Mortgage Services Inc.

"We are leaving our franchise, customers and associates with a very capable financial institution," says senior vice president James G. Caliendo. "In light of recent legislation, we owe it to our shareholders to move steadily toward our profit goals and to concentrate on increasing our capital reserves. We will continue to pursue acquisitions and consolidation opportunities when it makes good business sense to do so."

Landmark is a Pennsylvania state- chartered, publicly owned savings association with assets of approximately $1.6 billion. It is the 148th largest thrift institution in the United States. Landmark's common stock is listed on the America Stock Exchange (AMEX), trades under the symbol "LSA," and is reported in the financial press as "LdmkSv."

CROMWELL, CT (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Ripley Company, Inc. (NASDAQ: RIPY) announced today that its board of directors has terminated negotiations at this time with Capewell Components Company of Hartford, Conn., with respect to the acquisition by Capewell of 100 percent of the outstanding shares of Ripley.

Ripley had previously announced that it was exploring alternatives available to the company in response to uncertainties arising out of the death of its largest shareholder, Mary Rudolph, and the potential disposition of the block owned by the Rudolph Estate and a related trust, consisting of approximately 44 percent of the issued and outstanding common stock of the company.

On Nov. 13, 1989, Ripley announced the execution of a letter of intent by Ripley's board, the trustees of the Rudolph Estate and related trust, and Capewell which required the execution of a definitive stock purchase agreement between the parties, followed by a tender offer by Capewell, for the company's remaining shares.

Dale E. Wolfe, president of Ripley, stated that the company's board of directors decided to terminate negotiations with Capewell when it determined that the parties would not be able to reach agreement on a definitive stock purchase agreement within an acceptable time frame.

The Ripley board also announced that it is not actively pursuing a sale of the company at this time.

Ripley Company, Inc., founded in 1936, manufactures electronic light-activated street lighting controls, cable preparation tools, blowers and specialized small part and assembly tooling systems. Its products are marketed directly by company sales staff, by distributors and by manufacturers' representatives to electrical transmission and distribution companies, CATV industries and to original equipment manufacturers.

LONG BEACH, CA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - In clarifying an earlier release, Southland Communications Inc. (NASDAQ: SCII), reported a 32 percent increase in revenues for the quarter ending Jan 31, 1990, compared to the quarter ending Jan. 31, 1989. Revenues were $1,869,854 in first quarter 1990 compared to $1,416,908 in first quarter 1989. The company's operating income increased to $586,153 compared to $507,664 for the same period, a 15.6 percent increase. The company's net loss was $323,129, equal to $(0.27) per share for the first quarter 1990 compared to $259,275 equal to $(0.18) per share for the first quarter 1989. Operating expenses include depreciation expense of $402,946 compared to $352,465 for the same period.

Selling, general and administrative expenses during the first quarter of 1990 were 34.4 percent of net rental revenue compared to 41.1 percent of net rental revenue for the first quarter of 1989. The drop is due primarily to the continued progress in adding more subscribers to the company's customer base. The company's subscriber base increased to approximately 50,000 from approximately 35,000 for the same period, a 43 percent increase.

The company had 2,344,928 shares of common stock outstanding as of Jan. 31 1990.

Southland Communications Inc. does business as National Paging, providing electronic paging services for individual and business subscribers in 50 states.

RALEIGH, NC (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - McM Corporation (NASDAQ: MCMC) reports a consolidated net loss for the twelve months ended December 31, 1989 of $2,109,000 or $.45 per share compared to a loss of $5,309,000 or $1.14 per share for 1988. Consolidated gross revenues for the year 1989 were $158,872,000 compared to $157,714,000 for 1988. Included in revenues are realized investment losses of $694,000 in 1989 compared to gains of $150,000 in 1988.

The fourth quarter of 1989 shows a consolidated net gain of $703,000 or $.16 per share compared to a loss of $2,464,000 or $.53 per share for the fourth quarter of 1988. Included in revenues for the fourth quarter are realized investment losses of $955,000 compared to realized gains of $109,000 in the fourth quarter of 1988. The improvement in consolidated operating results for the fourth quarter reflects overall improvement in the property and casualty business.

Shareholders' equity at December 31, 1989 totalled $44,648,000 or $9.55 per share compared to $44,945,000 or $9.61 per share at December 31, 1988. Consolidated assets were $502,172,000 at December 31, 1989 compared to $501,732,000 at December 31, 1988.

The financial statement amounts above reflect the adoption in 1989 of Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement No. 97 -- "Accounting and Reporting by Insurance Enterprises for Certain Long -- Duration Contracts and for Realized Gains and Losses from the Sale of Investments." The adoption of this standard had no effect on previously reported net income or retained earnings; however, it did result in a change in presentaiton of various components of the financial statements. The Company has restated its prior period financial statements to conform to this new accounting standard.

As indicated above, consolidated gross revenues for the twelve months of 1989 showed a slight increase over that recorded for 1988. Life and health insurance premiums increased 17 percent over the prior year reflecting a growing block of renewal premium and increased creditor earned premium. Property and casualty premium declined 10 percent reflecting primarily the discontinuance of non-transportation business and increased ceded reinsurance premiums.

Included in the results above for 1989 are losses of approximately $2.5 million associated with credit life and credit accident and health run off business. Sales of credit insurance have been effectively discontinued and additional provisions on credit insurance have been established, which should eliminate future losses on the run off of this business. Also impacting consolidated results were losses emerging from ordinary accident and health coverages due to high claims experience on these coverages.

The property and casualty business continues to generate improved results reflecting more favorable experience on ongoing property and casualty programs and a reduced adverse impact from discontinued property and casualty programs. Total losses and charges attributable to discontinued programs were approximately $4 million in 1989 and $9 million in 1988.

FAIRFIELD, NJ (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Management of Kline & Company, Inc., a global business consulting and research firm, has acquired all outstanding shares of the firm from Sunwestern Investment Group, it was announced today.

"This is a momentous event in our 31-year history," said Andrew A. Boccone newly elected president. "It sets a clear direction for long- term growth and ownership."

More than 15 senior managers worldwide participated in the MBO. Plans are afoot to offer ownership to all employees through an ESOP. Boccone announced other key board and management changes under the new ownership. Michael J. Bennett, former president, was elected chairman. Carl H. Eckert and Chem J. Listner were elected senior vice presidents. Steven Daigle, Joseph Tarantola and James Weatherall were elected vice presidents. Thomas Rohrbach continues as vice president and chief financial officer.

Internationally, Warren E. Staudt remains managing director of Kline S.A. in Brussels and Robert Stevenson continues to manage Kline's Tokyo office.

"With self-ownership and this new management line-up, we can better serve and anticipate our clients' changing needs globally," Boccone added. "The fact that all these senior operating managers are also principal owners is a strong indication of the continuity, commitment and dedication we'll be bringing to every assignment hereafter."

Established in 1959, Kline focuses its consulting and research services in the chemical and allied process industries. Its 130 professionals and affiliates in Australia, Mexico and Canada complete more than 500 client assignments yearly. Projects and clients center mainly in the fine and specialty chemicals; life sciences and health care; adhesives, coatings and sealants; petroleum; advanced materials and minerals; packaging and plastics; and chemically based consumer products.

Principal services include strategic planning, merger/acquisition screening and due-diligence support; competitive intelligence, process economic analysis and business valuations; technology assessment, image analysis and market research.

A wholly owned subsidiary, FINDTECH, Inc., finds buyers for small to mid-sized businesses, facilities or technologies in the chemical and allied industries. Since its formation in 1986, FINDTECH has assisted in 10 completed transactions.

DALLAS (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - J.C. Penney Company Inc. (NYSE: JCP) is restructuring its data processing network, it was announced today by David V. Evans, vice president and director of information systems.

The Atlanta and Milwaukee data centers will be converted to remote operations with the changes completed by October 1991. At that time, all data processing for the Company will take place in the centers in Dallas; Columbus, Ohio; Lenexa, Kansas; and Reno, Nevada. Currently these four corporate data centers provide more than 80 percent of the total company data processing.

A seventh center in Westerville, Ohio, was closed as a result of the sale of JCPenney Casualty Insurance Co. last year.

Currently there are 88 associates (employees) in the Atlanta center and 105 in the Milwaukee center. The company said it would help identify potentially suitable career opportunities for associates not required for the operations remaining in Atlanta and Milwaukee.

Evans said, "With advances in telecommunications, it is now possible to provide processing services from almost any location. Today, in addition to serving more than 1,300 JCPenney stores remotely, the corporate data centers support accounting centers, retail and catalog distribution centers, catalog telephone centers, and credit service and support centers in 37 facilities through remote operations. Another factor influencing the decision to have fewer locations is that mainframe computers and storage devices have gotten smaller as they have become more powerful."

KENNEDY SPACE CENTER, FL (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - McDonnell Douglas has been named by the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) as the 1990 Distinguished Prime Contractor of the Year for Region IV, which consists of eight southern states.

McDonnell Douglas Space Systems Co.'s Kennedy Space Center Division (MDSSC-KSC) was congratulated by the SBA in a letter to the Vice President-General Manager George Faenza.

"The award provides recognition of the exemplary efforts of large Federal prime contractors on behalf of small business contractors," the letter stated.

This marks the third year for the SBA regional and national awards program which recognizes the most outstanding subcontracting programs for small businesses.

According to Joe Richardson, MDSSC-KSC staff manager, Small Business

Support, "We're the first aerospace contractor in the area to win."

He pointed out that McDonnell Douglas-Kennedy Space Center is proud of its increases in commitments to small and small disadvantaged (minority) businesses.

Richardson added that only small and small disadvantaged businesses are solicited on goods and services where several qualified small and small disadvantaged sources are known.

The division's aggressive outreach to small and small disadvantaged businesses, coupled with counseling to potential start-up businesses through cooperation with the Small Business Development Center at the University of Central Florida in Orlando, has significantly increased the role of smaller businesses in subcontracting efforts.

Faenza and other MDSSC-KSC representatives will be present to receive the award at a banquet on May 10 in Washington, D.C.

The McDonnell Douglas Kennedy Space Center Division employs over 1,600 people who process NASA and Department of Defense shuttle payloads.

ATLANTA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Realty South Investors Inc. (AMEX: RSI), an Atlanta-based real estate investment trust, today reported audited results for the year 1989.

Cash available for the year ended Dec. 31 was $.58 per share vs. $1.06 per share in 1988. Revenues were $3,501,000 compared with $4,417,000 in 1988 with the decrease resulting primarily from a reduced portfolio and reduced occupancy and rental rates in certain investment projects.

The company set up a reserve of $1,940,000 against possible losses on investments, thereby bolstering underlying asset value and offsetting profit from operations of $736,000 for the year. After accounting for the reserve, the company had a net loss of $1,204,322 or $.57 per share compared with net income of $1,236,075 or $.59 per share for 1988.

For the fourth quarter, cash available was $.07 per share with revenues of $752,000. The establishment of the reserve of $1,940,000 and certain other year-end adjustments caused a loss for the quarter of $2,041,000 or $.97 per share compared with revenues of $981,000 and a net loss of $457,000 or $.22 per share for the fourth quarter of 1988.

At Dec. 31, 1989, the company's shareholders equity totaled $21,276,492 or $10.14 per share.

RSI invests primarily in income-producing real estate projects in the Southeast with a $34.5 million investment portfolio.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Rockwell International Corp.'s (NYSE: ROK) Space Transportation Systems Division (STSD) today dedicated a new building designed to house a major expansion of the company's Space Shuttle orbiter logistics operations. The new building, part of the NASA Shuttle Logistics Depot (NSLD) complex, is a Rockwell-operated facility that performs Space Shuttle orbiter component overhaul and repair activities for NASA's Kennedy Space Center (KSC).

The new 160,000-square-foot building, located at 8550 Astronaut Blvd. in Cape Canaveral, accomodates growth resulting from Rockwell's nearly completed consolidation of its orbiter logistics operations and transfer of work to the KSC area. Since 1985, Rockwell STSD has been transferring logistics work to the KSC area from the company's Downey, Calif., facility and from equipment manufacturers throughout the nation.

The consolidation and expansion are designed to increase the cost-effectiveness and responsiveness of the company's Shuttle flight operations support activities, said Albert C. Martin, vice president and general manager of STSD's Florida Operations.

"In the early years of the Shuttle program, orbiter component repairs were averaging 150 to 200 days per component," Martin said. "Since 1985, when Rockwell began consolidating logistics activities to the KSC area, we've been able to reduce component repair turnaround time to approximately 60 days. This new expansion will enable us to eventually cut that figure to about 30 days. "We look forward to working with KSC to further improve our service to NASA and the nation."

The NSLD is currently certified to perform orbiter component overhaul and repair on approximately 75 percent of the Space Shuttle's 4,000 components whose design and use permits overhaul and replacement. The expansion will eventually increase that figure to more than 90 percent. The Rockwell STSD logistics program provides orbiter spare components and performs the overhaul and repair activities.

The expansion increases the size of the NSLD complex to approximately 270,000 square feet. An adjacent building that previously housed overhaul and repair activities will be occupied by other Rockwell personnel.

Cash flow from operations and net income declined from the comparable period in 1988, due primarily to lower average precious metals prices. Higher total operating costs were incurred in mining certain areas of the Cannon Mine and at the Gooseberry Mine and tailings projects which were not in full operation in 1988.

For the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1988 cash flow from operations was U.S. $15,886,000 (U.S. $0.63 per common share) and net income of U.S. $6,195,000 (U.S. $0.25 per common share) on total mineral sales of U.S. $40,220,000.

Asamera Minerals Inc. operates, and is a 51 percent owner of, the Cannon Mine in Wenatchee, Washington and owns 100 percent of the Gooseberry Mine near Reno, Nev. Gross metal shipments from the two mines and the Gooseberry Tailings recovery project during 1989 were 157,407 ounces of gold (83,701 net) and 609,522 ounces of silver (461,184 net). MOUNT KISCO, NY (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Trans World Airlines, Inc. (NYSE: TWA) today reported an operating profit of $24.3 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared to $259.3 million for all reporting periods during the year ended Dec. 31, 1988. Operating revenues in 1989 were 3.4 percent greater than 1988 but operating expenses increased at a rate of 9.3 percent. Operating expenses increased principally due to the "snapback" of wage concessions from the machinists' union; changes in wage and salary rates of other employees; a 12 percent increase in the average price of jet fuel per gallon; and increased costs attributable to improvements in service.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, after taking into account other charges and credits, a credit for income taxes and a charge for extraordinary items, but without taking into account unrealized gains, TWA reported a net loss of $298.5 million compared to a net profit of $249.7 million for all reporting periods in 1988. The difference is the result of the decrease of $235 million in operating profit; nonrecurring gains of $190.5 million in 1988 representing the sale of Texaco common stock owned by TWA and a cash judgment from long-standing litigation; interest expense, net of interest income and income from investments other than Texaco, which was $193.9 million greater in 1989; and a remaining net positive change of $71.2 million in all other item classifications principally comprised of the difference in income tax provision and credit between the two annual periods. 1989 results do not include unrealized gains in TWA's investment portfolio.

OKLAHOMA CITY (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Kerr-McGee and its partners were high bidders on nine blocks offshore Louisiana in the central Gulf of Mexico at the March 21 federal oil and gas lease sale.

Kerr-McGee's share of gross bids of $23.9 million for the nine blocks was $21.2 million, and the company will be the operator on seven of the blocks. Kerr-McGee's interests range from 33 percent to 100 percent.

Six of the blocks are in water depths of less than 100 feet, two are located in depths of 425 feet and 525 feet, and one block is in 1,900 feet of water. The bids are subject to approval by the Interior Department's Minerals Management Service.

Award of these blocks will increase the company's undeveloped leaseholdings in the Gulf of Mexico to more than 255,000 net acres.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Savin Corporation (NYSE: SVB) today reported results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989. Operations were impacted by several non-recurring charges taken in the third and fourth quarters including $9.8 million for operational restructurings, $9.7 million for the estimated impact of changes in marketing and operational strategies and $6.0 million for adjustments related to accounting for a 1988 dealership acquisition.

During the fourth quarter, Savin completed the evaluation of its operations, which began in the third quarter, and added to reserves established at that time. Savin management has initiated a strategic plan to position the company for market expansion, a move to enhance the long-term interests of Savin's shareholders. The provisions designed for operational restructuring and changes in marketing strategies together total $19.5 million.

Provisions aggregating $9.2 million were also recorded in 1989 for asset valuation adjustments, which were partially offset by non- recurring gains of $2.7 million on the sale of assets.

Revenues for the year were $357.5 million compared to $363.6 million last year. The net loss of $(45.9) million or $(.46) per common share is down from net income of $8.6 million or $.04 per common share in 1988. Earnings for 1989 include non-recurring items totaling $32.0 million, and earnings for 1988 include non-recurring items which favorably impacted net income by $2.0 million.

Revenues for the fourth quarter 1989 were $87.4 million, down from $93.2 million in 1988. Fourth quarter 1989 earnings were a net loss of $(9.9) million or $(.09) per common share which represents a $3.5 million improvement from a net loss of $(13.4) million or $(.05) per common share in 1988. Both periods were impacted by non-recurring items.

The reduction in current year revenues occurred primarily in wholesale operations with reduced sales in several product categories, particularly monochromatic copiers, partially offset by sales of Savin's recently launched full-color copier, the PrismTM I.

Savin Corporation, founded in 1959 distributes a full line of office copiers and facsimile products through a North American network of over 380 dealers and ten company-owned branches at more than 600 selling and servicing locations. Savin also markets certain products in Europe through the HCS/Savin joint venture. Savin is the only distributor of copier products in North America offering the customer a choice of toner technologies.

RICHMOND, VA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - CSX Corporation (NYSE: CSX) and RF&P Corporation (NASDAQ: RFPC) today announced that the Special Financial Committee of the Board of Directors of RF&P -- composed only of RF&P directors not associated with CSX -- and the full RF&P Board has accepted CSX's offer to mutually terminate the RF&P/CSX merger agreement of February 19. This action was a reversal of the position the Special Committee announced earlier in the day in which the Committee stated it had determined that termination of the agreement, at least at this time, would not be in the best interests of the RF&P shareholders.

However, the Committee's final action followed the enlargement of the Special Committee of the RF&P Board to include the two new directors of RF&P, Jacqueline G. Epps and Mark T. Finn, recently appointed by the trustees of the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System.

Following discussion with the new members of the Committee, the other members of the Committee concluded that shareholder approval of the CSX proposal was highly unlikely and for that reason further pursuit of that proposal would not be in the best interest of the RF&P and its shareholders. Accordingly, the reconstituted Special Committee voted unanimously to accept the CSX proposal that the agreement be terminated. All six CSX-affiliated directors abstained from voting on the motion to insure its independent evaluation. That action was then ratified by the full Board, including CSX's six representatives.

The companies also announced that CSX and the Special Committee of the RF&P board will soon make available opinions and valuations from their outside advisors which were relied upon in their consideration of the RF&P/CSX merger.

DENVER (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - MinVen Gold Corp. (AMEX: MVG) today announced that it has written down the carrying value of its Blackdome Mine near Clinton, B.C., and is planning the sale of its joint venture interest in the Golden Reward Mine near Lead, S.D.

Under its joint venture agreement, MinVen must give a 30 day notice and opportunity to buy to United Coin Mines Ltd., its joint venture partner in Golden Reward. MinVen is not bound to accept a United Coin offer.

Located near Lead, the Golden Reward Mine is a seasonal heap leaching operation which was completed in late 1989. The mine was commissioned in November 1989. Full operation is expected in mid-1990.

MinVen reduced the book value of the Blackdome Mine by Cdn$17,379,000 on a pretax basis, taken in the fourth quarter of 1989. As a result, previously released financial results have been revised.

MinVen's consolidated revenues for the fourth quarter of 1989 were Cdn$13,706,000 on sales of 26,340 ounces of gold, compared to revenues of Cdn$9,030,000 on sales of 20,819 ounces of gold in the corresponding quarter of 1988. Production for the quarter was 28,606 ounces of gold and 92,092 ounces of silver, compared to 20,243 ounces of gold and 32,332 ounces of silver in the last three months of 1988.

For the 12-month period ended Dec. 31, 1989, MinVen's consolidated revenues were Cdn$48,405,000 on sales of 98,085 ounces of gold. Consolidated revenues in 1988 were Cdn$34,205,000 on sales of 68,131 ounces of gold. Production for 1989 was 98,859 ounces of gold and 201,603 ounces of silver compared to production of 66,671 ounces of gold and 192,600 ounces of silver in 1988.

Primarily as a result of the write-down, MinVen recorded a consoldiated loss of Cdn$16,635,000 or Cdn$0.63 per share, for the fourth quarter of 1989, compared to a consolidated loss of Cdn$16,000, or $0.0 per share, for the fourth quarter of 1988.

For 1989, MinVen recorded a consolidated loss of Cdn$16,441,000 or Cdn$0.62 per share, compared to earnings of Cdn$91,000, or Cdn$.01 per share, for 1988.

MinVen Gold is a publicly held, Denver-based mining company with interests in five operating mines in the U.S. and Canada. Its shares are traded on the American, Toronto and Vancouver stock exchanges under the symbol MVG.

HAMPTON, NH (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - In the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, Henley Properties Inc. (NASDAQ: HENP) had net income of $1.6 million or 8 cents per share, on net revenues of $41.3 million, compared with net income of $637,000 and net revenues of $26.6 million in the corresponding period of 1988.

For all of 1989, the real estate development company achieved net income of $6.4 million or 30 cents per share, on net revenues of $127.2 million, compared with a net loss of $13 million on net revenues of $63.4 million for 1988.

The improved results for 1989 reflect an unusual level of real estate sales, which is not expected to be equalled this year.

CALABASAS, CA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Lockheed Corp. (NYSE: LK) released the following statement today:

"Harold Simmons' comments yesterday about possible sales of certain Lockheed assets confirm our view that Simmons is fundamentally uninformed about our businesses and the markets they address," Lockheed Corporation Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Daniel M. Tellep said today.

"We take the view that none of our businesses is sacred. We undertook a comprehensive review of every one of them last year and targeted seven operations, in addition to certain real estate assets, for divestiture.

Three have been sold, three are being sold, and in one case we determined that the business was better retained than sold at the bottom of its business cycle.

"We continually review the profitability and strategic fit of each of our businesses, and if we determine that shareholder interests are best served by divesting certain assets, we do not hesitate to do so.

"With respect to our Technology Services Group (TSG) and Electronic Systems Group (ESG) businesses, Mr. Simmons apparently doesn't realize that TSG represents our fastest growing segment, with sales growth of 26 percent in 1989. Simmons' inaccurate statements on return on investment for TSG and ESG reflect his lack of understanding of these businesses, which are generating higher returns on operating assets than Simmons indicates, as well as attractive cash flows.

"Our Electronic Systems Group provides critical technologies that are an integral component of our missiles, space, and aeronautical businesses. Additionally, in the current environment, shareholder interests would be very poorly served by a sale of ESG since there are more than 25 companies engaged in defense electronics that are on the market and have not been sold.

"Our analysis of divesting TSG and ESG, based on solid financial and market information, shows that such a sale would forfeit upside potential, and that greater value can be unlocked by continuing to improve their earnings and cash flows.

"These simplistic Simmons proposals are, we believe, typical of his attempt to sound constructive when he and his team in fact understand very little about our businesses," Tellep concluded.

HAMPTON, NH (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - The Henley Group, Inc. (NASDAQ: HENG) in the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989 posted a loss from continuing operations of $102 million, or $5.18 per share, compared with a loss from continuing operations of $78 million, or $4.33 per share, in the corresponding period of 1988.

In the latest period, improved operating results were offset by acquisition-related increases in interest expense, amortization of goodwill and other noncash charges, and a loss of approximately $55 million in connection with the disposition of the IMED division. Net revenues in the fourth quarter of 1989 were $479 million, compared with $261 million in the October-December period of 1988. The higher revenues reflected principally the June 1, 1989 acquisition of the 50 percent of Pneumo Abex Corporation that Henley did not own, as well as increased sales of laboratory and medical products and Henley's first full year of methanol production.

Income from discontinued operations of $6 million, or 31 cents per share, reduced the fourth-quarter net loss to $96 million, or $4.87 per share, compared with a loss from discontinued operations of $4 million, or 23 cents per share, and a net loss of $82 million, or $4.56 per share, in the last three months of 1988.

For all of 1989, Henley had a loss from continuing operations of $207 million, or $10.45 per share, compared with a loss from continuing operations of $260 million, or $14.13 per share, the year before. Income from discontinued operations of $20 million, or $1.01 per share, in 1989 resulted in a net loss of $187 million, or $9.44 per share, compared with income from discontinued operations of $164 million, or $8.91 per share, and a net loss of $96 million, or $5.22 per share, in 1988.

Henley manufactures and distributes laboratory and medical products, and it designs and manufactures aerospace systems and components. The company actively manages its $3.4 billion of businesses and other assets to enhance their value to shareholders.

FARMINGTON HILLS, MI (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - On March 23, Moody's Investor Service reaffirmed the short-term credit ratings of Michigan National Bank and Michigan National Corp. (NASDAQ: MNCO) of P-1 and P-2. At the same time, they lowered the long-term rating for Michigan National Bank from A-1 to A-2. The subordinated long-term debt rating of Michigan National Corp. was lowered from Baa-1 to Baa-2. According to Moody's, the rating changes are in response to both weakening asset quality and profitability trends.

In commenting on Moody's action, Robert Mylod, chairman and chief executive officer of Michigan National Corp. said, "Michigan National Corp. sees no significant deterioration in the quality of loan portfolios. We anticipate the non-performing loans may increase in 1990, due to further softening of the economy. Although real estate loans increased in 1989, at this time loan losses are not anticipated to be above Michigan National's historical loss experience."

Total non-performing loans to loans at year-end 1989 were 1.11 percent as compared to 1.19 percent in 1988. In addition, Michigan National Corp.'s allowance to total loans increased from 1.31 percent to 1.84 percent. Impact on earnings from this announcement is expected to be minimal.

Michigan National Corp. is a diversified financial services corporation with total assets of approximately $11.5 billion. It is a bank holding company and a savings and loan holding company.

Michigan National Corp.'s principal subsidiary, Michigan National Bank, has 200 branches throughout Michigan and operates the state's largest automated teller machine network. Among its other affiliates are: Beverly Hills Federal Savings Bank which operates six branch offices in Southern Calif.; First State Bank and Trust in Port Lavaca, Texas; Independence One Mortgage Corp., which originates residential mortgages through 20 offices in 11 states; Independence One Investment Services Corp., which provides investment services through its two subsidiaries; Morison Asset Management Inc., Pattern Recognition Investment Management (PRIMA) Corp.; Independence One Brokerage Services Inc., which offers brokerage services for stocks, bonds, mutual funds, unit investment trusts government securities and other investments; and Independence One Financial Services Inc., a commercial lender serving small businesses in the Northeast. SAN DIEGO (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Lillick & McHose was confirmed as bankruptcy counsel for Imperial Corporation of America (NYSE: ICA), following the withdrawal with prejudice by the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) of its conflict of interest claim against the Lillick firm.

At a hearing earlier this afternoon before Bankruptcy Judge Louise Malugen representatives from RTC withdrew their objection to the appointment of Lillick & McHose as general bankruptcy counsel to ICA in its Chapter 11 case.

The RTC had filed a motion to disqualify Lillick & McHose alleging conflicts of interest relating to work previously done by Lillick for Imperial Savings Association (ISA), prior to the seizure of ISA by the RTC the federal agency appointed by the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) to serve as conservator for the savings and loan institution.

The RTC specifically waived any conflict relating to prior work performed by the law firm for ISA as well as any conflict relating to disputes in pending litigation. This includes a case pending in United States District Court that challenges the constitutionality of the actions taken by the OTS that put ISA into conservatorship.

"The removal of the RTC's claim allows us to concentrate our efforts on resolving pending disputes over assets and developing ICA's reorganization plan," said Patrick Shea, the partner at Lillick & McHose handling the ICA case.

ST. LOUIS, (MARCH 24) PR NEWSWIRE - Monsanto Co. (NYSE: MTC) said today that allegations claiming the company falsified data in company-sponsored health studies are false.

Dan R. Bishop, director of corporate communications for Monsanto, said the story containing these allegations originally appeared in the March 23 edition of the Atlanta Constitution and it is now moving on the AP wire.

Bishop said the allegations stem from an internal EPA memorandum, authored by a low-level bureaucrat who is parroting unsupported arguments contained in a plaintiffs' brief to the Illinois Court of Appeals.

Bishop emphasized that the allegations contained in the EPA memorandum are solely those of the author and do not represent the official position of the U.S. EPA. He further pointed out that the original media report also erred in referring to the allegations as "evidence" introduced during the trial. "These charges are nothing more than the unsubstantiated arguments of plaintiffs' lawyers. No evidence exists to support these charges," Bishop said.

"At the trial," he continued, "evidence was presented to the jury showing that the findings of one of the Monsanto-sponsored studies were, in fact, confirmed by similar findings from a second, similar study done on the same group of employees and funded by their union. As to the other study " Bishop said, "the plaintiffs' lawyers didn't even bother to call the scientists to testify during the trial."

Oral arguments on the company's appeal of punitive damages in the so-called Sturgeon lawsuit are scheduled to take place in early April in the Illinois court of appeals.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - A resolution urging President Bush to consider recognition of an independent Lithuania was approved by the Senate Thursday in an effort to dispel any ''misunderstanding'' raised by senators' earlier rejection of a more forceful statement.

The Senate voted 93-0 to adopt a non-binding resolution calling on the president to ''consider'' recognizing the democratically elected government of Lithuania and warning the Soviet Union against the use of force against the breakaway Baltic state.

Senate leaders said the resolution was intended to clear up any misunderstanding engendered by the Senate's 59-36 vote Wednesday rejecting a stronger resolution that asked Bush to give immediate diplomatic recognition to Lithuania.

That resolution also called for the exchange of ambassadors.

Senators rejected the more forceful resolution at the request of the Bush administration, which feared it could upset the already delicate diplomatic situation involving Lithuania.

However, senators said the decision to reject the resolution triggered a flood of criticism, prompting the leadership to draw up a second resolution that met administration concerns.

In the resolution, the Senate ''urges the president to consider the call of the elected Lithuanian government for recognition.''

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas said the second resolution was needed because senators were concerned the rejection of the first resolution would be misintepreted.

''We were particularly concerned that the Senate's views and intentions about Lithuania might be misunderstood in Moscow,'' Dole said. ''If that happened the results could be tragic, indeed.

''So we offer this resolution to send these clear messages to Mr. Gorbachev: The United States Congress unequivocally supports the right of the Lithuanian people to determine their own future.

''We want (Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev) and his Kremlin colleagues to be on clear notice,'' Dole added. ''We regard their recent actions in attempting to intimidate the Lithuanian people as reckless and irresponsible.''

Earlier Thursday, President Bush reiterated his call for a peaceful resolution, with ''no fine tuning'' from the United States, of the crisis between secession-minded Lithuania and the Soviet Union.

Earlier Thursday, Bush said at a White House newsconference ''the goal is to have a peaceful resolution'' of the strife with ''calm and peaceful discussions'' between the two parties.

Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis has accused Gorbachev of ''meddling'' by ordering all citizens in the secession-minded Baltic republic to turn in their firearms and directing the KGB to increase control of Lithuania's border.

Gorbachev personally commanded Soviet authorities to confiscate weapons that are not turned in within seven days and to guarantee the upholding of the Soviet Constitution and the rights of all citizens in the Baltic republic.

Lithuania's Parliament declared its independence March 11 and demanded negotiations with Moscow on formal secession. The central government in Moscow later declared the independence resolution ''null and void,'' but Lithuanian leaders said they would go ahead with secession plans.

FAIRFAX, VA (MARCH 23) UPI - A class of gifted fourth graders is getting a start on turning around the federal deficit so the country will be on a better economic footing in their adult years.

The 28 students in George Weiner's gifted and talented class at White Oaks Elementary School sent a $25 check Tuesday to Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. The check was made out to the United States Treasury.

The students said if every school class in the United States chipped in $100, children could raise some $375 million over five years to help put the country on a more sound economic footing for their adult years.

''We're trying to inspire others to help pay off the deficit so it won't be our problem when we grow up,'' said Michael Sullivan, 9.

They decided to send the money to Rostenkowski because of the publicity he has received lately over his call to eliminate the deficit over five years by raising taxes, slashing spending and freezing Social Security cost-of-living adjustments for one year.

The classroom treasury - actually a cigar box - was the brainchild of Laura Cruz, 9, whose mother told her the deficit was growing ''very large.''

The first contributions were lost change, but the class decided to establish a 25-cent voluntary tax. Any student who wanted to donate more than $1 a week had to get permission from his or her parents.

After 5 1/2 weeks, the students had $28.25 in the kitty and decided to send off their $25 donation.

BOSTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Children vaccinated against whooping cough are highly unlikely to develop seizures or other neurological disorders despite fears to the contrary, researchers said.

A study of 38,171 children in Tennessee who received a vaccine that protects against whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus failed to find evidence the immunization caused chronic neurological problems.

Dr. Marie Griffin of Vanderbilt University in Nashville said the study should reassure parents who fear the vaccine might cause fever-related seizures leading to epilepsy or other serious neurological disorders.

Some parent groups and lawsuits have alleged the whooping cough component of the vaccine can cause seizures and related disorders in children with no history of them.

The new study, published Thursday in the Journal of the American Medical Association, indicates the risks of such problems are very low, Griffin said.

Griffin and her colleagues found that although the vaccine frequently causes fevers in young children, only 277 children in the study had fever-induced seizures. In the first week after immunization, no child developed epilepsy or other serious neurological disease, Griffin said.

Virtually all American children receive the four doses of the vaccine between the ages of 2 and 18 months. Typically they receive a fifth and final vaccination before entering kindergarten, Griffin said. She said most schools require proof of immunization.

Previous studies suggested that up to 70 percent of the infants and toddlers who are immunized develop fevers. But Griffin said only about 5 percent to 10 percent will get high fevers, and only a small fraction will develop seizures.

The children in the study were largely from poor, non-white families enrolled in the Tennessee Medicaid program. They received a total of 107,154 doses of vaccine during the first three years of their lives.

The researchers said they could find no significant increase in rates of fever- or non-fever-related seizures among children in the first week after immunization when they were compared to other children whose vaccinations had taken place at least one month before.

Griffin speculated the vaccine may have been wrongly blamed for inducing various disorders ranging from epilepsy to retardation because it is given in multiple doses during a key developmental stage when such problems first become evident in a child.

Since it often causes short-term problems such as crying spells besides fevers, Griffin said parents and even some doctors may have connected it to much more serious and chronic disorders that it did not cause.

Among the children in the Tennessee study, 42 developed seizures not related to fever and 37 had seizures connected to other neurological illnesses. Two developed encephalitis more than two weeks after immunization, but neither had any permanent neurological impairment.

Griffin said the benefits of vaccination far outweigh the risks because unvaccinated children who get whooping cough may develop disorders stemming from a lack of oxygen to the brain caused by uncontrollable coughing.

In an editorial accompanying the study, Dr. James Cherry of the University of California-Los Angeles criticized ''special interest groups'' of parents and personal injury lawyers for spreading misinformation about the vaccine.

''We need to end this national nonsense,'' said Cherry, adding that more needs to be done to revise medical recommendations relating to vaccines ''so they reflect the knowledge of the 1990s.''

PARIS (MARCH 23) UPI - The kidnapping and slaying of an 11-year-old girl, whose suspected Arab assailant was arrested in Morocco, has heightened racial tension in France following a string of recent attacks on Arabs.

Right-wing extremist Jean-Marie Le Pen's National Front Party called for demonstrations Saturday in Montpellier to protest the slaying of Cecile Rousset.

The 11-year-old girl was kidnapped March 7 after a piano lesson and found dead in a field March 16 on the outskirts of the southern city, where Le Pen has strong support.

A statement by the local chapter of the National Front urged inhabitants ''to demonstrate against the racist crime committed in atrocious conditions against little Cecile Rousset by a Moroccan citizen.''

Authorities in Paris said Moroccan police Thursday seized the ''No. 1 suspect'' in the case Thursday in Rabat, where he had fled. He was identified as Mahmoud Belfikh, 31, a Moroccan.

An autopsy on the girl determined she had been ''sodomized and strangled'' by the assailant, who at one point had demanded a $12,200 ransom for her safe return.

The kidnap-slaying fueled France's racial tensions, which had been running high because of a string of attacks against Arabs earlier in the month, political experts said. Morocco had protested the attacks and urged Paris to put a stop to the ''odious acts.''

The attacks had led to three deaths. A 17-year-old youth of Moroccan origin was killed in Roanne when a man drove his car into a crowd of Moroccan youths. A French chef shot and killed a Moroccan man in Saint-Florentin southeast of Paris, and a police sergeant killed a youth of North African origin in a suburb of Marseille.

Minister for Solidarity and Health Claude Evin called Thursday for greater efforts to integrate France's estimated 3 million Moslems into society.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Soviet President Gorbachev continues to clamp down on Lithuania. The Soviet leader has given the Baltic republic two days to halt the formation of civil-defense brigades. Lithuania is asking nations around the world to help stifle what it says are Soviet government preparations to use military force against the republic.

Colombian authorities say a gunman working for the Medellin drug cartel shot and killed a presidential candidate Thursday. The shooting occurred in Bogota's airport and left 35-year-old Bernardo Jaramillo dead. The gunman and two others were wounded in the attack.

Federal authorities say a Northwest Airlines pilot drank 19 rum and cola drinks the night before a scheduled flight March 8th. Authorities say Captain Norman Prouse was so drunk he fell off his bar stool. Prouse and two other cockpit crewmembers were charged in Minneapolis Thursday with operating an aircraft while intoxicated.

A Seattle-based fishing boat rolled over in the Bering Sea Thursday, leaving 10 crewmembers missing. The U-S Coast Guard says 22 people were rescued but it's NOT clear what has happened to others. A spokesman says- ''They went into very cold water and I understand they weren't wearing survival suits.''

MINNEAPOLIS (MARCH 23) UPI - A Northwest Airlines pilot charged with flying while intoxicated spent six hours at a bar the night before a flight and was so inebriated that he fell from a chair and had trouble getting up, officials said.

Federal felony charges of operating an aircraft while intoxicated were filed Thursday against Capt. Norman Prouse, 51, and his two crew members, First Officer Robert Kirchner, 35, and Second Officer Joseph Balzer, 34.

The crew was arrested the morning of March 8 after flying a jetliner with 91 passengers from Fargo, N.D., to Minneapolis-St. Paul. Federal officials said the pilot had consumed 19 rum and coke drinks the night before the flight.

Officials in Fargo, N.D., announced Thursday they had filed misdemeanor charges against Prouse and his crew, but the Minneapolis city attorney dropped plans to prosecute them when federal charges were filed.

The three, who have been fired by Northwest and had their licenses revoked by the Federal Aviation Administration, each face a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and a $250,000 fine if convicted on the federal charges. The misdemeanor is punishable by up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Authorities said the men had been drinking in a Moorhead, Minn., bar the night before the flight. Two blood tests were taken in Minneapolis.

Sources said Prouse, 51, had a blood alcohol concentration of between 0.12 and 0.13 percent, while Kirchner and Balzer had concentrations of 0.06 or above. The FAA considers a blood-alcohol level of 0.04 percent as a presumption of impairment for a pilot.

The federal complaint, filed by U.S. Attorney Jerry Arnold, said the men ''began drinking heavily'' in the bar at 5:30 p.m. on March 7, the night before the early morning flight.

Prouse, a resident of Conyers, Ga., was accused of drinking ''approximately 19 rum and diet cokes during the evening,'' the complaint said. Kirchner, of Highland Ranch, Colo., and Balzer, of Antioch, Tenn., drank between five and six pitchers of beer between 5:30 and 10:30 that night, Minneapolis City Attorney Robert Alfton said.

The federal complaint said Balzer and Kirchner left the bar about 10:30 p.m. and ''both were visibly intoxicated.'' It said Prouse stayed until about 11:30 p.m. and ''shortly before leaving, he fell out of his chair and had trouble getting up.''

Arnold said arrangements are being made for the defendants to turn themselves in voluntarily next week in Minneapolis.

Northwest fired the men last week, but their lawysers said the officers plan to appeal the license revocations before the National Transportation Safety Board next month and their dismissals through the Air Line Pilots Association.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Family members of Joseph Hazelwood broke out in applause Thursday as the former Exxon Valdez captain was acquitted of three felony charges. Hazelwood emerged from the courtroom to say he was ''relieved.'' The skipper was convicted of a misdemeanor charge- negligent discharge of oil- stemming from his part in last March's huge oil spill in Alaska's Prince William Sound.

Pro-choice advocates say an abortion bill passed Thursday by Idaho state legislators is unconstitutional and could NOT be upheld in the Supreme Court. Idaho state senators approved and sent to the governor a bill that would be the nation's most restrictive abortion law. It's NOT clear whether Governor Cecil Andrus will sign it. The law would ban 95 percent of abortions in Idaho.

The Conservative Party of British Prime Minister Thatcher suffered a stunning blow Thursday. (MARCH 23) UPI - Brazilian President Collor de Mello met with the 19 political parties represented in Brazil's Congress Thursday in an effort to gain support for his drastic economic recovery plan. Collor urged legislators NOT to change the economic austerity program which places limits on when and how much money depositors can withdraw from their accounts. Collor is trying to stop Brazil's hyperinflation.

Researchers at the University of Wisconsin report they have stumbled on a much simpler, possibly reversible way to use genes to treat disease. Scientists say they have succeeded in injecting genes directly into muscles. The study, published in the journal Science, says this is a much simpler way to conduct gene therapy.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 23) UPI - Two national environmental groups warned that another oil tanker spill the size of the Exxon Valdez disaster is likely to happen unless the federal government adopts greater controls over shipping and takes charge of spill cleanups.

The warnings were included in separate studies undertaken by the groups shortly after the March 24, 1989 Exxon Valdez spill, which dumped a record 11 million gallons of crude in Alaska's Prince William Sound when the vessel collided with a reef.

The studies, issued Thursday, are expected to increase pressure on Congress and the oil industry to carry out promised oil spill safeguards and come on the heels of state and federal action banning new offshore oil and gas drilling off California.

President Bush, however, is about to decide whether to reinstate oil and gas drilling off California in federal waters beyond the 3-mile limit.

Jill Kauffman, Pacific regional director of the Center for Marine Conservation, said the studies found the government has failed to protect either the California coastline or Eastern seaboard and that tanker traffic in the country's ports is so heavy that another Valdez-size spill is ''a distinct possibility.''

''If commercial air traffic was controlled as loosely as barge traffic is, none of us would board an airplane,'' Kauffman said. ''We are playing Russian roulette with our coasts and we don't have to. ... What's lacking is the will.''

Kauffman said 325 million tons of petroleum moves through the nation's 10 busiest ports each year. Many of the tankers entering and leaving those harbors carry far more oil than the 11 million gallons spilled from the Exxon Valdez.

The second study, conducted by the Natural Resources Defense Council, ''documents the public's worst fears that a spill the size of the Exxon Valdez could occur at any time off California's coast,'' NRDC lawyer Lynne Edgerton said.

Edgerton said oil companies have tried to prevent the passage of federal legislation that would require oil tankers to be double-hulled and would hold the companies - not the government - responsible for paying for spill cleanup efforts.

She said oil companies, individually or as a consortium, should pay into a fund to cover cleanup costs so the public's tax dollars are not used.

Kauffman said the CMC study proposed that in the most ecologically sensitive areas, such as the central California coast and the Florida Keys the government establish a ''vessel-free zone,'' prohibiting cargo ships from passing within 25 miles of the coast and limiting them to a 5-mile-wide ''fairway'' to control vessel routing.

Both groups also called for the expansion of the U.S. Coast Guard's monitoring of shipping traffic in several major ports, and for the addition of more sophisticated radar equipment.

The NRDC also called for re-evaluating clearance standards for tankers using offshore oil terminals and requiring regular monitoring of bottom topography, water depth, tidal flow and wind conditions, which may have been factors in a recent 394,000-gallon spill off Huntington Beach in Southern California.

MOSCOW (MARCH 23) UPI - Lithuania made an urgent appeal Friday for international help in stopping what it said were preparations by the Soviet Union to use force against the rebellious Baltic republic.

Lithuania's ''appeal to (the) world's nations'' followed Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev's order Thursday to Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis, demanding he stop forming civil defense brigades.

Gorbachev's order came on the 10th day of mounting Soviet pressure on Lithuania after its new nationalist-controlled Parliament approved a declaration of independence March 11 at its first session.

In its appeal, Lithuania said: ''The independent republic of Lithuania has existed legally and peacefully since March 11. Unfortunately, during the past few days it has become more and more evident that another state is preparing to use force against the republic of Lithuania and its citizens.''

Lithuanian deputy Zigmas Vaishvila, a member of the ruling Sajudis independence movement's 35-member Executive Council, cited low-level flights by Soviet planes over Vilnius and reported unusual troop movements last weekend as signs that Moscow is preparing to use force against Lithuania.

The Soviet Defense Ministry said earlier in the week that the flights and troop movements were normal training maneuvers.

Lithuanian radio reported about 15 armored personnel carriers were on the streets of Vilnius, but residents of the capital interviewed by United Press International said they had not seen any such vehicles.

Gorbachev issued a presidential decree Wednesday ordering Lithuanians to turn in their firearms, and he followed the action Thursday by sending a terse telegram to Landsbergis.

''Reports coming from Lithuania show that on the republic's territory volunteers are being recruited into so-called organizations of territorial protection, which are called upon to replace the activity of border troops and partially of internal security bodies,'' Gorbachev told Landsbergis.

''I suggest that undelayed measures be taken to stop all actions at creating these and similar units,'' Gorbachev said in the message transmitted by the official Soviet news agency Tass. ''Please report fulfillment within two days.''

Vaishvila scoffed at Gorbachev's claim that civil defense brigades were being formed. He said Sajudis was registering people to form a small force of prison and border guards and fulfill other limited functions.

He said several thousand people had signed up in the past three to four days. ''Nobody is thinking about fighting the Soviet army,'' he said. ''That would be silly.''

Tass said in a separate dispatch that Gorbachev's Wednesday presidential order was already being enforced in Lithuania.

''In fulfilling the decree of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev ... KGB border troops have reinforced frontier posts and other facilities,'' Tass said.

''Border troops are assisting customs officials in reinforcing the regime of the passage of cargo and people across the state border,'' it said. ''Control over the departure abroad of Soviet citizens from the republic's territory has been enhanced. Measures are being taken to restrict the entry of foreign citizens into Lithuania.''

In Washington, President Bush reiterated his call for a peaceful resolution of the conflict by negotiations between Lithuanian and Soviet officials, with no interference from the United States.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennadi Gerasimov warned earlier in Moscow of an escalation of tension if Lithuanians fail to turn in their firearms and said those who refuse Gorbachev's decree will be subject to arrest.

''If you are breaking the law, then you can be brought to trial,'' Gerasimov said at a news conference.

In his first presidential decree, Gorbachev gave Lithuanians one week to hand over any weapons in their possession and directed authorities to confiscate firearms not turned in on time.

Gerasimov, saying Gorbachev's order is unequivocal, told reporters that KGB intelligence agents will help collect the fireams in Lithuania and turn them over to the Defense Ministry.

''We are creating a government based on law,'' he said, adding that Lithuanians are Soviet citizens and must obey its laws.

''If not, there will be an escalation'' of tension, Gerasimov said.

Lithuanian leaders have said since their declaration of independence they do not feel bound by decrees from Moscow.

Armed resistance against Soviet rule continued in Lithuania for more than a decade following the annexation of the Baltic region in 1940.

Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov Monday ordered direct ministerial control of all federal enterprises in Lithuania and instructed KGB and MVD internal police to ensure customs control at its borders.

(MARCH 23) UPI - The Houston Rockets knocked off the team with the best record in the NBA Thursday night, ending the Detroit Pistons' 12-game winning streak, but they can't stop to enjoy the 115-110 triumph.

The Rockets need a winning streak of their own to get into the playoffs.

''It was nice to win against a team like Detroit,'' said Rocket forward Otis Thorpe after the home victory. ''It's a good move in the right direction if we don't want to take an early vacation.''

The Rockets are 2 1/2 games behind Seattle in the race for the final playoff spot in the Western Conference.

The victory, which stopped the Pistons' NBA record third-longest winning streak, came on Rocket coach Don Chaney's 44th birthday.

''The script couldn't have been written any better,'' Chaney said. ''I think the game had a playoff-like intensity and the players really enjoy a game like that.''

Akeem Olajuwon scored 26 points and gathered 10 rebounds, Buck Johnson added 20 points, while Thorpe and Mitchell Wiggins scored 16 each. Thorpe grabbed 11 rebounds.

Mark Aguirre led Detroit with 21 points while Laimbeer, James Edwards and Isiah thomas each had 18, and John Salley and Joe Dumars 10 each. Dennis Rodman had 12 rebounds and 7 points.

The Pistons entered the game on a 12-game winning streak, having won 25 of their last 26 games and building the third hottest streak in NBA history, 25-1. The only loss during the streak was recorded one month ago on Feb. 23 in Atlanta.

Before Thursday night's loss, the Pistons had lost only one other game in the past two months, marking the two longest winning streaks in Detroit's history.

Detroit reserve guard Vinnie Johnson feels his team will handle the loss well.

''One loss a month, and we start it all over again,'' said Johnson. ''We'll see how far it goes this time.''

Houston outscored Detroit 17-4 in the opening four minutes of the final period to build a 101-85 lead following a fast-break dunk by Thorpe.

Detroit coach Chuck Daly wasn't happy with the way his team handled the ball, as the Pistons committed 18 turnovers.

''I think the basis for the loss was turnovers. We had 10 in the first half alone,'' Daly said. ''That's too many against a team like Houston. When you give the ball away too many times, you're going to get hurt.''

-- AROUND THE NBA --

Elsewhere in the NBA: San Antonio edged Portland 107-106, Seattle stopped Denver 12-118 and Dallas overcame Orlando 116-106.

SPURS 107, TRAIL BLAZERS 106

At San Antonio, Willie Anderson hit three clutch free throws in the final 45.6 seconds to bring the Spurs a come-from behind victory. David Robinson paced the Spurs with 29 points, 19 rebounds, and six blocked shots. San Antonio won its fourth in a row and broke a 12-game losing streak against Portland. The loss ended Portland's 10-game winning streak.

SUPERSONICS 125, NUGGETS 118

At Seattle, Xavier McDaniel scored 8 of his game-high 24 points in the final 3 1/2 minutes to lead the SuperSonics. McDaniel, making his third appearance since missing 12 games with a knee injury, was 11 of 18 from the field. The Nuggets got within one with 1:48 remaining, but missed three straight scoring opportunities and the Sonics hit four in a row.

DALLAS 116 ORLANDO 106

At Orlando, Roy Tarpley scored 11 of his 22 points in the fourth period to propel Dallas. Tarpley took the Mavs from a 84-82 deficit at the outset of the fourth period to a 95-90 advantage with eight minutes remaining. The defeat was Orlando's sixth consecutive loss at home.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Connecticut's Scott Burrell, who has a 90 mph fastball, threw one of his finest pitches Thursday night.

Burrell hurled a floor-length pass to Tate George with one second left, and George hit a turnaround jumper at the buzzer to lift the Huskies to a 71-70 victory over Clemson in an NCAA East Regional semifinal at East Rutherford, N.J.

The final play started with Clemson leading 70-69 and one second left. After a timeout by each team, Burrell, who was drafted by the Seattle Mariners as a pitcher, inbounded under Clemson's basket, hurling a long arching pass to George in the right corner. The 6-foot-5 senior spun, putting his back to the basket before hoisting a shot that caught only net.

Clemson rallied from a 59-40 deficit with 12:36 to go, after spending all of the first half and much of the second caught in the vise-like pressure of Connecticut's fullcourt press.

The Tigers, down 65-49, seized the momentum and went on a 16-2 run. Dale Davis of Clemson followed up a shot to draw the Tigers to 69-67 with 2:32 to go. Clemson had a chance to go ahead but failed on three consecutive possessions before David Young buried a 3-pointer to put Clemson up 70-69, its first lead since 7-6.

George missed from the top of the key with three seconds remaining. Sean Tyson of Clemson was fouled on the rebound, but the junior forward blew the front end of a one-and-one.

That left matters to Burrell and George.

The No. 3 Huskies, 31-5, will face Duke, a 90-81 winner over UCLA, in Saturday's regional final.

Phil Henderson provided a 3-point barrage in the second half, sinking four of his six long-range shots to provide Duke just enough offense. The senior finished with 28 points for the third-seeded Blue Devils.

MIDWEST REGION

Arkansas 96, North Carolina 73

A barrage of 3-point shots by Lee Mayberry and Todd Day midway through the second half plus a 25-point show by Lenzie Howell carried No. 8 Arkansas to a romp over North Carolina.

Arkansas' victory, coupled with Texas's 102-89 win over Xavier, set up an all-Southwest Conference regional final.

Arkansas erupted on a 12-1 run that began with 10:37 remaining in the contest on a 3-point shot by Mayberry that broke a 54-54 tie.

Mayberry hit another 3-pointer a minute later, Day followed with another and Mayberry then made yet another. In the space of two and a half minutes Arkansas had built an 11-point lead and the Tar Heels, 21-13, got no closer than eight the rest of the game.

The Razorbacks made the tournament's final eight teams for the first time since 1979 and will carry a 29-4 record into Sunday's regional championship game against either Xavier or Texas.

Howell kept Arkansas ahead in the opening half and was a major force when Day picked up his third foul less than four minutes into the game.

In addition to Howell's 25, Mayberry scored 19, as did center Oliver Miller. Day, who like Mayberry and Miller is a sophomore, added 18.

Arkansas will meet Texas, which knocked off Xavier 102-89.

The Longhorns' ''BMW'' attack acounted for 86 points, nearly enough to knock off Xavier on their own. Travis Mays scored 32 points, Lance Blanks had 28 and Joey Wright 26.

Blanks had all his points in the second half to help Texas erase a 16-point deficit and stun the Musketeers, who shot 60 percent in the first half and whose front line outscored their Longhorn counterparts 45-8 and dominated the boards 22-15.

Xavier scored the first two baskets of the second half for a 57-41 lead before Blanks, who was 0-for-8 in the first half, found his touch and sparked the Texas comeback.

The tournament resumes Friday with the Southeast and West regional semfinals.

SOUTHEAST REGION

At New Orleans

Both Syracuse, 26-6, and Minnesota, 22-8, are teams that pack most of their punch up front. The Orangemen are led by center Derrick Coleman, 18 points, 12.1 rebounds, and forward Billy Owens, 18.3. Willie Burton has led the Golden Gophers for three years, and had a career-high 36 points against Northern Iowa in the second round.

In the second game, Michigan State's man-to-man defense, meets ''Lethal Weapon III'' of Georgia Tech, 26-6: Dennis Scott, 27.6 points; Brian Oliver, 21.6; and Kenny Anderson, 20.1. The Spartans, 28-5, held opponents to 42.5 percent during the regular season, and limited their two tournament victims to 36 and 33 percent.

WEST REGION

At Oakland, Calif.

The matchup of Alabama and Loyola Marymount pits a team whose offense is its defense against one whose defense is its offense. The Crimson Tide, 26-8, have limited opponents to 61.4 points per game, less than half the Lions' season average, 125.2. The Lions, 25-5, are paced by the nation's leading scorer, Bo Kimble, 35.6, and run a perpetual fastbreak offense.

In the second game, Nevada-Las Vegas, 30-5, takes on Ball State, 26-6. The Runnin' Rebels, 30-5, won 17 of their last 18 games, and all five starters score in double figures, led by Larry Johnson's 20.7. The Cardinals' Paris McCurdy, Chandler Thompson and Curtis Kidd all average just more than 11 points per game, but their defense held both Oregon State and Louisville to their fewest points this season.

BRISBANE, AUSTRALIA (MARCH 23) UPI - Actor-comedian Richard Pryor, admitted to a Brisbane Hospital suffering from a mild heart attack, will be discharged Monday, a hospital spokesman said Friday.

Pryor, 49, was taken to Wesley Hospital after collapsing Wednesday at the luxurious Sanctuary Cove Resort, 52 miles south of Brisbane.

The hospital spokesman said Pryor was treated in the cardiac intensive care ward for a mild heart attack.

Pryor arrived at Sanctuary Cove last weekend, but checked out Wednesday after sufering severe chest pains. He is expected to be discharged from the hospital Monday, the spokesman said.

Pryor, whose harsh brand of humor won him three Grammy awards for comic albums, counts among his movie credits, ''Lady Sings The Blues,'' ''Blue Collar,'' ''Greased Lighting,'' ''Car Wash,'' ''Silver Streak'' and ''Stir

Crazy.''

On June 9, 1980, Pryor suffered third-degree burns over 50 percent of his body. He later acknowledged he had accidentally burned himself while ''freebasing,'' smoking a volatile mixture of cocaine and ether.

Given only a one-in-three chance of surviving the severe burns, Pryor recovered and resumed work.

CANBERRA, Australia (MARCH 23) UPI - Australians vote for a new government Saturday following a hotly contested five-week campaign focusing on economic problems and characterized by dissatisfacation with both major parties.

The election is shaping up as the closest since the 1961 Robert Menzies Liberal government collected a handful of Communist Party preference votes.

Polling stations open at 8 a.m. Saturday for about 10 million Australians to cast ballots for 148 members of the House of Representatives. Voting is compulsory and non-voters face a $15 fine.

The Labor party currently holds 83 seats in the House and the main opposition Liberal-National Party coalition has 65.

Prime Minister Bob Hawke, 61, has campaigned tirelessly over a five-week period in his bid to lead Labor to its fourth straight victory in seven years. Former Foreign Minister Andrew Peacock, 51, leads the main opposition Liberal-National Party coalition. It is his second try at the premier's post.

The campaign has focused on the Australian economy - high interest rates, high inflation and record foreign debts.

Australia has the highest interest rates among industrialized nations at 19.5 percent, compared with France at 11 percent, West Germany 10.5 percent, the United States 10 percent and Japan 5.25 percent.

Australia's foreign debt stands at $104 billion, compared with $12 billion in 1981. Inflation is around 8 percent.

Hawke and Peacock have promised substantial tax cuts and each has offered his own cure for Australia's ailing economy.

The latest polls show Labor and its opposition running neck and neck, and indicating dissatisfaction with the two main parties, the Democrats and minor parties were expected to receive an unprecedented 20 percent of the vote.

A poll published Friday in the afternoon Sydney Daily Mirror showed a late swing to the Liberal-National coalition, giving it a one-point lead over Labor.

The last Morgan Gallup poll, released Thursday, shows the coalition with 40.5 percent of the vote, narrowly leading Labor's 39.5 percent. It showed the Democrats had jumped to an all-time high of 15 percent, with 5 percent for various ''greens'' environmentalist groups.

Both polls show the minor parties such as the Democrats and ''greens'' could hold the key to the election with their second preference votes.

Australian elections are conducted under a complex preferential voting system in which voters must give numerical preferences to all candidates on the ballot in each contest.

As candidates receiving the least number of primary votes are eliminated, their second preferences are distributed to other candidates and become primary votes, until one candidate receives a majority.

Polling booths close at 6 p.m. Saturday, but because preferences cannot be distributed before postal and absentee votes are counted, the final result may not be known until next week.

LUSAKA, ZAMBIA (MARCH 23) UPI - A bus belonging to the state-owned transport company overturned on a road east of Lusaka, killing 44 people and injuring 23 others, the Zambia Daily Mail reported Friday.

The accident occurred at Luangwa, 250 miles east of Lusaka, Wednesday night when a bus of the United Bus Company of Zambia overturned while traveling from Lundazi District in the country's Eastern Province, the newspaper said.

The accident killed 44 people, including five children and two pregnant women. The 23 who were injured were hospitalized, the report said.

''This is one of the most horrific accidents we have had in recent times '' Lusaka Division Police Chief Hobson Simasiku told the newspaper.

Last June, 25 people died and 21 others were injured when a UBZ bus collided with an oil truck in the northern Ndola Province.

An eight-day filibuster is over in the Maryland Senate. In order to end the filibuster by anti-abortion senators, the chamber passed two pieces of legislation. The measures now go to the House. And the stage is being set for Maryland voters to decide the issue in a November referendum.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Blustery spring storms dumped rain and snow across the Midwest and mid-Atlantic states Friday, while a cold front brought thunderstorms to parts of Texas and dense fog obscured the Gulf Coast of Louisiana.

The National Weather Service said storms rolling through the Midwest dumped a mixture of rain and light snow over Ohio and Michigan, where temperatures ranged from 17 in Gwinn, Mich., to a spring-like 50 in Cincinnati.

Snow and freezing rain was reported over Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, forecasters said. Light snow also coated the northeast corner of Missouri and west-central Illinois, where temperatures were in the 30s.

Most of Missouri had clear to partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the upper 30s to lower 40s. Wisconsin was variably cloudy and crisp with temperatures ranging from 17 degrees to 4 below zero.

Light rain sprinkled much of Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia early Friday as temperatures dipped into the 30s and 40s across the region. Skies were mostly cloudy over southern New Jersey.

An arctic cold front pushed into Oklahoma, Arkansas and the Texas Panhandle early Friday, bringing showers and thunderstorms. Scattered thundershowers were reported across western Texas and parts of Oklahoma.

Temperatures south of the front remained unseasonably warm, the NWS said.

Dense fog developed Friday along the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast, reducing visibility to as low as one-eighth of a mile.

In the West, skies were clearing in northern California as light rain and isolated thunderstorms dampened the extreme northern coast. Clear and sunny skies continued in Los Angeles with highs in the low 70s.

A weak Pacific cold front also brought light rain to western Oregon, with nearly a half-inch falling at Eugene.

The weather service said clouds were rolling into New England early Friday with a low-pressure system bringing the threat of scattered showers to the region's southern half and more snow in the northern mountains.

Vermont was recovering from a storm Wednesday that dumped up to 32 inches of snow in some areas, and forcasters said the state could see more this weekend.

Forcasters said a cooling trend across New England was expected to push temperatures into the 20s and 30s by Saturday.

Sunny skies were forecast for most of the Southeast, with temperatures ranging from the mid-60s at Memphis, Tenn., to the high 70s in southern Florida. Weekend rain was expected in northern Mississippi, but clear to partly cloudy skies were predicted for the rest of the region.

(MARCH 23) UPI - A man suspected of committing a robbery at the Superdome shot and killed a New Orleans police officer and was wounded in a shootout yesterday afternoon. The robbery occurred in the Superdome's parking lot just after Georgia Tech finished practice for today's N-D-Double-A Southeast Regional basketball game.

A broken marriage led to terror at the Killen electric power plant in West Union, Ohio, yesterday. Police say a man distraught over the breakup of his marriage followed his wife to work at the plant, shot her in the parking lot, wounded a plant guard and then killed himself.

U-A-L Corporation directors have agreed to begin negotiations with U-A-L's largest stockholder and three United Airlines unions on a new employee-led buy-out proposal. However, the board says it believes the employee bid of about five-BILLION 200-Million dollars is inadequate.

Eastern Airlines and Air Line Pilots Association officials have reached an interim agreement. If ratified by the union, wages and benefits for Eastern's pilots will be reduced for five months in order to help the carrier recover from bankruptcy.

BEIJING (MARCH 23) UPI - The central bank, easing a government austerity program that has stalled the economy, will nearly double its loans over the original target in the first half of this year, the bank's chief executive said Friday.

Li Guixian, governor of the People's Bank of China, the central bank, made the announcement at a meeting of the ongoing session of the National People's Congress, the rubber-stamp Parliament, the official Xinhua news agency reported.

Li also noted that interest rates were being trimmed ''with a view to tackling the problems of sluggish markets, overstock of commodities and shortage of funds in enterprises.''

He said the central bank would nearly double its lending target in the first half to $11.7 billion from the original target of $6.4 billion.

Li did not say how this would affect the year's overall lending targets. In a keynote address to the Parliament session Tuesday, Premier Li Peng said loans would be increased in the first half but that the year's overall lending cap would not be exceeded.

Li Guixian said the additional loans will concentrate on agriculture, energy, transportation and support of large- and medium-size factories and other enterprises.

The government instituted an austerity and tight-money policy in late 1988 to cool the overheated economy and rein in record inflation, the result of more than a decade of liberalizations under free-market economic reforms.

Officials say inflation has plunged from a peak of about 30 percent to only 3.3 percent in the first two months of 1990, although Western economists believe the actual figure is higher.

But the austerity measures, especially a credit squeeze, have stalled industrial production, resulting in climbing unemployment as factories suspended operations. Domestic debt has also risen as enterprises could not pay their bills.

''Efforts will be made to adjust the credit structure, speed up the circulation of working capital and introduce timely readjustments,'' Li Guixian said.

Faced with mounting pressure and the threat of recession, the government began easing the austerity several weeks ago by loosening credit and injecting more funds into key sectors.

In his address Tuesday, Premier Li acknowledged the austerity measures had been too restrictive and said the retrenchment would continue but be moderated to keep the economy moving.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Officials in Colombia are blaming Medellin cartel drug czar Pablo Escobar for the assassination of leftist presidential candidate Bernardo Jaramillo.

The 35-year-old Jaramillo, a candidate of the leftist Patriotic Union Party in the May elections... was shot in the chest and throat yesterday morning at Bogota's El Dorado International Airport. He died two hours later at a clinic.

Thousands of Jaramillo's supporters staged protests in Bogota... forcing city officials to increase security in the city and ban alcohol sales.

Officials say rioters at the National University and in poor neighborhoods threw rocks and gasoline bombs at police. Police responded by firing tear gas.

Jaramillo is the second presidential candidate slain in less than a year. Liberal Party candidate Luis Carlos Galan Sarmiento was killed last August during a surge of violence by drug traffickers.

Jaramillo's alleged assassin is said to have been hired by the fugitive drug czar Escobar. Reports say the gunman was wounded by the bodyguards... captured and taken to a hospital where he's listed in ''favorable condition.''

A police agent says authorities are searching for an accomplice.

A meeting between Greyhound and federal mediators in Washington today could revive the contract talks with Greyhound's striking employees.

Greyhound's executive vice president and chief negotiator, P. Anthony Lannie, accepted an invitation from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service to resume discussions.

Greyhound officials decline to speculate on where the meeting could lead. The bus company broke off contract talks Sunday in Tucson... saying the union's financial demands were still too steep and accusing union leaders of encouraging violence on the picket lines.

Today's meeting will be the first discussions about resolving the labor dispute since then. The union says the mediation service has NOT extended an invitation to its bargainers.

More strike-related violence was reported yesterday, including the 18th shooting at a Greyhound bus.

A shot was fired at a bus as it traveled in an interstate highway just east of Lake Charles, Louisiana. A company spokeswoman says the Dallas-bound bus had NO passengers and the driver was NOT hurt.

Earlier yesterday, two buses were struck by gunfire from passing cars near St. Louis. No injuries were reported in either incident.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Official election results from England show the opposition Labor Party scoring a crushing victory in a parliamentary election considered a crucial mid-term test for Prime Minister Thatcher's Conservative government.

The mid-Staffordshire district in central England is traditionally a Conservative stronghold... but yesterday's election sends Labor Party candidate Sylvia Heal to Parliament. Results show Heal winning with 49 percent of the vote... to the conservative candidate's 33 percent.

Heal says the results show that voters are unhappy with Thatcher's 10-year rule.

Observers see the vote as a rebuke of the government's newly imposed community charge, or poll tax, and a protest against high inflation.

The new poll tax is wildly unpopular... and the government's new budget has been criticized by financial analysts as inadequate to bring down nearly eight-percent inflation and high mortgage rates.

State senators in Maryland ended a stalemate over abortion by passing the buck... to the voters.

Maryland senators say offering voters two distinctly different proposals for an abortion law was the only way to resolve an eight-day filibuster. Senators ended the stalemate early this morning by agreeing to pass legislation that would sharply restrict abortions- plus a companion measure that would allow abortions under most circumstances.

As part of the agreement, final approval of either bill by the Maryland House and Governor William Donald Schaefer is contingent on passage of its counterpart... and sets the stage for the issue to be determined by Maryland voters in November.

Outside groups are likely to petition for both bills to be decided by public referendum. If neither bill is called to a public vote, the largely UNrestricted legislation will take effect.

The Idaho legislature has approved the most restrictive abortion bill in the nation. As he has with other pending legislation, Governor Cecil Andrus will NOT say whether he will sign the bill into law... but Andrus is a foe of abortion.

The measure cleared the Idaho Senate yesterday. The House passed it earlier.

Cheers echoed in the Senate chamber when the legislators finally passed the measure. It would prohibit abortion as a method of birth control, banning all abortions except in cases of rape, incest, profound fetal deformity or threat to the life or the health of the mother.

The bill would eliminate about 95 percent of the abortions now performed in Idaho.

Robert Caro's book, ''The Path to Power,'' and the recently published ''Means of Ascent'' are major biographies on Johnson. The 73-year-old Connally complains that Caro concentrated on L-B-J's flaws, while ignoring his achievements.

The two books by Caro, which together record Johnson's life up through the 1948 Senate race... are part of a projected four-volume biography.

Connally, a Democrat turned Republican and longtime associate of Johnson... was a key figure in Johnson's successful Senate campaign 42 years ago. He denies that either he or the late president urged anyone to ''stuff a ballot box'' to help Johnson win the 1948 race.

According to Texas political lore, Johnson defeated Governor Coke Stevenson in the 1948 Senate race with the help of several hundred mysterious votes in box 13 from a precinct in the Rio Grande Valley. In his second volume of the biography, Caro charges that the election was stolen with several thousand bogus votes when it appeared that Stevenson had won.

LONDON (MARCH 23) UPI - The ruling Conservative Party dismissed Friday the significance of its worst election defeat in 55 years and announced new rules to make it more difficult to challenge Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's leadership.

Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock said the main opposition group's Thursday victory in a critical mid-term by-election in mid-Staffordshire showed that Thatcher's government would lose the next parliamentary elections to be held before mid-1992.

''The Labor Party has scored an immense victory and the Tory (Conservative) government has been told to get out,'' he said.

Labor's candidate Sylvia Heal bagged 49 percent of the vote against 33 percent for the Conservatives, who had a majority of more than 14,600 people in what was formerly a stronghold. The 22 percent swing against the ruling party made the election its most crushing defeat since 1935.

''The historic message that will go from this by-election across the Western world will be that the dark age of Thatcherism is drawing to a close and the people of Britain are returning once again to the reborn Labor Party,'' Heal said in a victory speech.

The result was predicted in opinion polls that detected pervasive anger at Thatcher for her newly imposed community charge, or poll tax, and dissatisfaction over high inflation and mortgage rates.

National surveys have shown the grievances are widespread and that the Conservative Party is lagging about 20 points behind Labor, its lowest standing in 20 years.

Conservative Party Chairman Kenneth Baker said the result was dissappointing, but said the negative feelings were only a temporary reaction against the government's refusal to yield on its anti-inflationary policy and lower interest rates.

He predicted the mood would abate before the parliamentary elections because he said Labor has vague policies.

''What we saw yesterday ... was a protest vote, a large protest vote,'' Baker said. ''Labor have become the passive beneficiaries of that protest vote.''

Conservative Party spokesman Micheal Gunton said people often protest at mid-term ''but it is not the end of the world.'' He said the party will rebound once people became used to the poll tax, which replaces property taxes.

The poll tax is set by local councils to meet community costs and critics argue it is unfair because it is imposed regardless of a person's wealth. Several Conservative backbench members have voiced dissent against the levy, which they think could lose them the next election, but Thatcher is adamant that it must remain.

In a move that would complicate any efforts to oust Thatcher, the Conservative Party announced it has tightened its rules over how a leader may be challenged.

The party's executive, saying it wished to stop frivolous challenges, approved new rules that require the names of those who propose and second any contender to be made public.

''It is to make it more obvious who is behind the leadership challenge,'' Gunton said. ''It is putting it on a more serious basis.''

A leadership bid last October by Anthony Myer was backed by 33 of the 373 members then eligible to vote. Newspaper surveys have indicated that opposition against Thatcher is mounting, with the clearest alternative candidate being Michael Heseltine, the former defense secretary.

Dissident Conservatives say Thatcher has an autocratic grip on the party and shows little mercy to opponents. The new rules will apparently ensure any other contenders must ensure they have mustered enough backing before moving.

TOKYO (MARCH 23) UPI - A Chinese hijacker pleaded with Japan Friday not to return him to China where he said he was tortured because of his participation in the pro-democracy demonstrations in Beijing in June.

Zhang Zhenhai, who hijacked a Boeing 747 passenger jet to Japan in December, told a Tokyo High Court he set fire to a tank in Tiananmen Square last year and led a brigade of laborers in the pro-democracy demonstrations.

Zhang, 36, said he was arrested, severely tortured and questioned about the democracy movement after Chinese troops cracked down on demonstrators in early June.

He made several attempts to escape from China overland but failed and decided to hijack a plane, Zhang said.

With his wife and son, Zhang commandeered an Air China jet with 223 people aboard Dec. 16 and ordered it to Fukuoka Airport in southern Japan.

The hijacking ended when a member of the Air China crew pushed Zhang from an open door to the Tarmac. Zhang broke his pelvis and both legs and was hospitalized while his wife and son were returned to China within hours.

Zhang, speaking from a wheelchair, asked a three-judge panel not to send him back to China.

The Japanese government has said Zhang must be returned to China to stand trial because hijacking cannot be excused under any circumstances.

The Justice Ministry turned down Zhang's request for political asylum in February, and the Tokyo court has until April 12 to decided whether to honor China's request to extradite him.

Prosecutors argued Zhang left China for financial reasons and cited a statement his wife gave while in custody of Chinese officials.

Prosecutors also said China has assured Japan it will not execute Zhang.

Zhang said he saw hijacking the plane as his only means of avoiding persecution and appealing to the world to help bring democracy to China.

A team of volunteer lawyers representing Zhang argued that China wants him back to punish him for his participation in democracy demonstrations last year and in the spring of 1979.

''It is most likely Zhang will be executed as well as subjected to torture and inhumane treatment if he is extradited to China,'' said Makoto Kondo, one of Zhang's lawyers.

The lawyers said it appears the Japanese government has already decided to extradite Zhang in an effort to appease the Chinese.

Japan refrained from harshly criticizing China after the military crackdown in June, although Tokyo went along with American policy and froze some aid to China.

Japan sent 491 Chinese nationals, who arrived by boat last May, back to China Thursday in the largest deportation of Chinese boat people.

Japan, saying the refugees are economic and not political, deported 301 Chinese nationals on Dec. 21 and intends to deport a total of 1,236 of the more than 1,700 boat people.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - George Steinbrenner's key aide knew of an alleged pay-for-sex incident between admitted gambler Howard Spira and a Florida teenager before the Yankees owner paid Spira $40,000 last January, the Daily News reported Friday.

The Yankees organization also knew Spira was facing an unrelated criminal charge of harassing a Long Island woman - and even gave him legal help in the matter, the News said.

The incidents raise new questions about the close relationship Steinbrenner and his top associates had with Spira, who charged that the Yankee boss and key aide Philip McNiff arranged the Aug. 23 incident with the teen so they could deny him a promised job with Steinbrenner's American Shipbuilding Co. in Tampa, Fla., the News said.

Spira, 30, from New York, said Steinbrenner also promised him $150,000 for damaging information about Yankee slugger Dave Winfield. According to the News, Steinbrenner paid Spira $40,000 Jan. 8 to keep the signed deal secret.

The incident with the Florida girl occurred at Tampa International Airport shortly after Spira had met with McNiff, former chief of the Tampa FBI office,to discuss Steinbrenner's promises.

Florida state prosecutors eventually dropped the case concerning the teen because there were no witnesses to the alleged incident, in which the youngster claims she was solicited for sex by Spira. Spira countercharged that he was solicited by the young woman.

In the Long Island incident, a woman accused Spira of aggravated harassment last June. At a December hearing, Spira was represented by a firm that had responded to a request for a favor from Yankees lawyer Bill Dowling, the News said. A month later, Dowling's law firm issued checks paying Spira $40,000 on behalf of Steinbrenner.

Steinbrenner has said he paid the $40,000 to Spira to help him ''straighten out his life.'' He also has accused Spira of extortion.

Spira said the money was part of a payment for providing information about the Winfield Foundation, which Steinbrenner admitted was used in a lawsuit he filed against the ball player.

Spira is currently facing a charge of contempt for allegedly violating the court order of protection granted the Long Island woman. Spira claims the accusations are part of a Steinbrenner plot.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - New orders for durable goods increased by 3.3 percent in February on strong demand for motor vehicles, ships and military tanks, the Commerce Department said Friday.

Excluding defense items, orders for durables - products manufactured to last three or more years - were up by 2.2 percent last month, according to a monthly report compiled by the department's Census Bureau.

February orders for durable goods totaled $121.5 billion after falling by 10.7 percent in January to a revised $117.6 billion, the department said. December's new durable orders totaled $131.7 billion, it said.

All the figures are adjusted for seasonal factors.

Transportation equipment was responsible for most of the February increase with orders in that category increasing by 11.2 percent to $30.2 billion from $27.2 billion in January, the Commerce Department said.

''Motor vehicles and parts and shipbuilding and tanks showed rebounds from (January's) sharp declines, while aircraft and parts declined for the second month in a row,'' the report said.

Excluding transportation items, durable orders were up by 1 percent in February, the department said. Transportation shipments were also up last month, surging by 21.5 percent to $30.9 billion, it said.

In other categories, orders for electrical machinery increased by 4.2 percent in February to $20.2 billion, while non-electrical machinery was off 1.1 percent to $22.2 billion, the department said.

Primary metals orders were down by 3.6 percent to $10.7 billion.

''Steel accounted for most of the decline,'' the Commerce Department said.

Total shipments of durable goods increased by 5.9 percent in February to $123.5 billion, while total unfilled orders were off by 0.4 percent last month to $493.3 billion, the department said.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - The Justice Department has sued a Long Island village, charging officials provided friends and relatives - including Sen. Alfonse D'Amato's cousin - with subsidized housing before minority candidates had a chance to apply.

The civil rights suit, filed Thursday in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, seeks to take back six of the Island Park, N.Y., homes, including the one owned by a cousin of the Republican senator, and another owned by the son of Geraldine McGann, a former village trustee and a top aide to the regional director of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The suit said federal housing officials had intended at least 17 of 44 low-cost homes in Island Park be for black families.

Village officials promised the homes to friends and relatives before ads for them appeared, ''insuring that blacks, Hispanics and other minorities would not receive notice until all the houses had been awarded.''

None of the houses in the beachfront Nassau County community where D'Amato lives went to blacks.

The suit also seeks $4.5 million in civil penalties from 18 village officials, their families and friends.

The New York Times reported Friday that HUD also said it had begun action proposing to terminate McGann, a close ally of D'Amato's who was appointed regional administrator of HUD in 1988. Her attorney declined to comment.

The federal investigation covered a nine-month period, after a New York Times story detailed how 44 HUD homes built from 1980 to 1984 went to politically connected Island Park residents.

The homes were sold then for between $40,000 and $63,000; their resale has been estimated at as much as $270,000.

D'Amato was not named in the suit, and his office commented: ''He does not believe the allegations and it will be up to the courts to decide.''

The suit charges that Anthony Ciccimarro, D'Amato's cousin, was able to get one of the first homes built under the Section 235 home ownership program in Island Park by using inside information supplied by village officials.

The suit also charges that McGann's son, Daniel, was selected for a house at the insistence of his mother, who at the time was a high-ranking official in the housing agency's New York office as well as a member of the Island Park village board.

The blue-chip Nikkei Average of 225 selected issues, which suffered its seventh sharpest loss of 963.85 points Thursday, recovered 528.82 points to 30,372.16.

The average fell below the 30,000 level Thursday for the first time since December 1988.

The broader-based Tokyo Stock Exchange Index of all listed major shares climbed 33.82 points to 2,206.99.

Advances outpaced declines 522 to 418, with 107 issues unchanged.

An estimated 600 million shares changed hands, compared with 610 million shares Thursday.

Elsewhere in Asia, investors continued their buying on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange sending prices broadly higher in active trading for the fourth consecutive day.

The key Hang Seng Index, which has gained slightly more than 77 points since Tuesday including 21.75 points Thursday, added another 25.49 points to 2,974.16.

Financials gained 11.71 points, utilities slipped 0.38, industrials climbed 22.36 and properties closed up 94.75 points.

Turnover amounted to 1.66 billion shares, up from the 1.47 billion shares changing hands Thursday.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - One reason some artists won't let anyone look at their works-in-progress is that the underpainting on unfinished pictures can give a mistaken idea of what the completed job will look like.

But sometimes, as in the case of a mammoth biography of the sort that Robert Caro is writing about Lyndon Johnson, the picture being painted has to be unveiled in stages.

Caro has written two volumes of a projected four-part biography and both books have provoked plenty of controversy.

The first book got LBJ from birth through his career in the House of Representatives and depicted an ambitious, hard-working young man striving for success in politics, occasionally lapsing into questionable ethical conduct to make his way.

The second volume, just out, covers the World War II period and the immediate aftermath, when Johnson made an all-out effort to move from the House to the Senate. This book shows an odious, dishonest, rapacious, unscrupulous scoundrel willing to do anything or anyone to win.

So far, the story line seems to lead to a conclusion that Caro is writing the life of the most hideous villian ever to occupy the national stage. But judging from the foreword to the new book, Caro is going to compare Johnson to Abraham Lincoln when he gets to his subject's vital role in the civil rights revolution of the 1960s.

That apparently means Caro is going to attempt in the last two volumes of this vast biographical journey to at least partially rehabilitate the sleazy bum he has created in the first two. As one reviewer of the new book has observed, Caro may have made Johnson so bad that no one will believe he had redeeming qualities.

But if he can do it, Caro may come out with a recognizable portrait of the LBJ that those who watched his rise and fall in Washington knew. That picture, in order to be true, does have to show a man of immense complexity and seemingly irreconcilable conflicts of character and conduct.

There are dozens of stories that illustrate the dark and bright sides of Lyndon Johnson. One was told by the novelist-playwright Larry King, who once was an aide to a Texas congressman named J.T. Rutherford. Rutherford assigned King to help Johnson during a quick campaign swing through in his district. The trip went badly and at the end of the day, a furious Johnson chewed out everyone in sight, especially including King.

Outraged by the tongue-lashing, King told Johnson, ''I work for Mr. Rutherford, not you and I don't have to take (bleep) from you.'' He stomped out of the room, thinking he surely would be fired the next day.

At 4 a.m. King's hotel room phone rang. It was Johnson, who, saying he copuldn't sleep, politely invited King to have a drink.

Hating Johnson even more, the sleepy young aide went to the senator's room where LBJ mumbled something akin to an apology for his earlier outburst and then regaled King with stories about New Deal days and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

King said when the time came for Johnson to leave for the airport to return to Washington, one of LBJ's own aides came to the room to carry the senator's suitcase to the plane.

''He had to fight me for it,'' King said.

Sometimes it seems so.

The church - at the parish level, the diocesan level and at the level of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops - is involved in a host of activities, from the mundane but not insignificant pastoral duties of visiting the sick or running shelters for the homeless. It lobbies on Capitol Hill for childcare legislation and files comments with the Federal Communication Commission on cable television.

Yet it sometimes seems so consumed by the abortion issue that its other activities pale in significance.

And as the issue has divided or polarized other segments of the nation, so too, has it the church, leaving in its wake a number of walking wounded members who would generally be thought of as ''good Catholics.''

Most recently there was the case of Rosemary McAvoy, a member of St. Catherine Laboure parish in suburban Harrisburg, Pa. She served as a lector - reader - at Sunday worship services and president of the parish's parochial school board of education.

She is also one of seven Republicans running in the state's May primary for a seat in the state's House of Representatives.

But because she supports abortion rights, she has been suspended from her parish duties.

Just one state over, in Ohio, Archbishop Daniel Pilarczyk of Cincinnati, has suggested - without mentioning her name - Barbara Rinto, a Catholic chosen to head the city's Planned Parenthood Association, exclude herself from taking Holy Communion in the Catholic Church.

Pilarczyk said such involvement with a facility that offers abortion services or counseling is ''a source of scandal'' and Catholics ''who obstinately persist in these activities, while perhaps not formally excommunicated, should not consider themselves properly disposed to participate in the church's banquet by receiving Holy Communion.''

What seems increasingly apparent in the abortion debate within the Catholic Church is that there is very little room for true dialogue.

Catholic and Protestant theologians seem to find more room for honest give-and-take, for breakthrough convergences and mutually respected differences than do those sharing the same faith while differing on abortion.

Cardinal Joseph Bernardin of Chicago, who has shaped much of the abortion debate among Catholics, recently took at least partial note of the polarizing tendencies.

In what was billed as a major address on Bernadin's contention that abortion should be considered as only one part of a ''consistent ethic of life,'' the cardinal did mildly criticize abortion opponents who fail to push for measures that would aid mothers and their children once they are born.

But when it came to dialogue, Bernardin said there was room for differences only on ''strategies and tactics'' for ending abortion, not on theological or moral differences of opinion and belief on the propiety of the action itself.

Bernardin said the church must appeal to 60 percent of the American public who hold middle range views on abortion - uncomfortable with the practice but unwilling to totally ban it.

It seems unlikely, however, that the bishops' views, even when presented in the moderate tone of a Bernardin, are likely to make a difference in the real world of ''good Catholics'' like Rosemary McAvoy or Barbara Rinto.

HANOVER, WEST GERMANY (MARCH 23) UPI - The list of Western high technology goods that are banned for export to the Eastern bloc will be cut back drastically in the near future, Secretary of Commerce Robert Mosbacher said Friday.

''I see a shortening of this list down to things that are essential to our security,'' said Mosbacher who is to travel to East Berlin to open a U.S. trade office in East Germany.

Mosbacher said the items that will remain on the list, known as COCOM, will be ''items that have some real military applicability.'' He told journalists he expected the list is to be ''streamlined'' in the near future.

Mosbacher, who was in Hanover to attend CEBIT, the world's largest high-technology fair, said there were good investment opportunities for U.S. companies in Eastern Europe.

He singled out telecommunications technology, which he said was ''necessary for economic democratisation.''

''I think the whole whole telecommunications area is a great opportunity to communicate democratic ideas,'' Mosbacher said.

But he warned that U.S. companies should not expect immediate returns on their investments. He said Western companies could expect to wait about five years before turning a profit.

''I'm very negative about people who expect short term returns for everything. I would not recommend that anyone go into Eastern Europe hoping to double their money,'' he said.

Asked whether the prospect of German unification would discourage U.S. firms from investing in East Germany, Mosbacher said: ''the Germanies actually have special relationships obviously, but we have been told by West German government officials that U.S. companies will have the same opportunity to move into East Germany the way West Germany does.''

''We are definately interested in investing there'', he said. '' If East Germany accepts the same oversight and verification systems and other controls we are talking about with Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia, then they will be on the same level and get the same degree of technology '' Mosbacher said.

He said the issue would become moot when the two German states are reunified.

He announced that the U.S. Departement of Commerce and Foreign Commercial Services was opening an office in East Berlin, which ''will at first aim at helping U.S. companies find business in East Germany'', he said.

Mosbacher said he will meet with several business officials in Berlin but added that he was not certain yet whether he will have talks with political leaders.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Exxon skipper Joseph Hazelwood will be sentenced this afternoon for the one conviction arising from the nation's worst oil spill. A jury in Anchorage found Hazelwood guilty yesterday of a minor pollution offense... and innocent of three charges that were more serious. The maximum penalty Hazelwood can get is 90 days in prison and a one-thousand-dollar fine. His prosecutor says the tanker captain may just be put on probation.

Maryland voters probably will make the ultimate decision about how tough their state's abortion law will be. State senators early this morning approved two vastly different abortion bills- one that would sharply curb abortions and another that would allow them under most circumstances. Senators expect voters to pick one of the bills in a November referendum.

Idaho's legislature has given final approval to the most restrictive abortion law of any state in the union. Governor Cecil Andrus WON'T say whether he will sign the bill into law. However, Andrus opposes abortion. The bill would ban abortions except in cases of rape, incest, profound fetal deformity or threat to the life or health of the mother.

(MARCH 23) UPI - The Senate has passed a resolution urging President Bush to consider recognition of an independent Lithuania. Senate leaders say the resolution was passed yesterday to clear up any misunderstanding caused by the Senate's vote Wednesday against asking asked Bush to give immediate diplomatic recognition to Lithuania. Bush thought the stronger resolution might upset the delicate situation in Lithuania.

Moscow has released final election results for Estonia. The results released yesterday show that supporters of Estonian independence hold three-quarters of the seats in the Baltic republic's new parliament. The legislative elections Sunday gave Communists 60 posts in the 105-seat Estonian Parliament, but most of them back independence.

Actor-comedian Richard Pryor is recovering from a mild heart attack in Australia. A spokesman at a Brisbane hospital says Pryor was admitted to the hospital two days ago after becoming ill at a resort. The hospital spokesman says Pryor was treated in the cardiac intensive care ward... and will be discharged Monday.

Doctors say Latin singer Gloria Estefan should recover fully from a back injury suffered in a traffic accident. Estefan underwent surgery in New York City yesterday. A spokeswoman at the Hospital for Joint Diseases says surgery went exceptionally well. One doctor says the lead singer of the Miami Sound Machine should be on her feet in days, and back to normal in six months.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - Doctors moved Latin pop singer Gloria Estefan out of intensive care Friday and a spokeswoman said she was in excellent condition after surgery to fix her back.

''She's excellent ... feels well and is not in a lot of pain, said Mary Costello, a spokeswoman for the Hospital for Joint Diseases.

Costello said the 32-year-old lead singer for the Miami Sound Machine had been kept in intensive care as a precaution and was being moved back to a private room.

Surgeons operated on the singer for almost 3 1/2 hours Thursday, implanting steel rods in her back, which was broken in a highway accident in Pennsylvania. She was expected to remain in the hospital for 10 days.

Costello praised Estefan for her unflagging spirit and her concern for other patients in the hospital. Estefan kept two dozen white roses and asked that the dozens of other floral arrangements and other gifts from fans be shared with fellow patients.

''Even when she's not feeling well, she's thinking of other patients,'' Costello said.

Estefan was expected to need six months of recovery and therapy, which could take place in New York or in her Miami home.

Following Thursday's surgery, Dr. Michael Neuwirth, one of two surgeons who performed the operation, said, ''I have every expectation she will make a normal recovery'' with no complications.

He spoke to a huge crowd of reporters and cameramen in a hospital auditorium banked with flowers from fans of Estefan, whose Latin-influenced music catapulted to national prominence with the hit single ''Conga.''

Asked if she would make a full recovery, Neuwirth replied, ''I don't have a crystal ball but I'm quite optimistic she'll be able to return to all her pre-injury activities.''

''It's not as if she's been seriously neurologically injured,'' he said.

Estefan's husband, Emilio, 37, dressed in a white turtleneck and jeans, stood by as doctors described the operation.

''We're lucky she's able to walk. I don't care if she can't dance again,'' he said in a low monotone, gesturing with a hand bandaged from his own injuries, suffered Tuesday when a tractor-trailer rig hit the singer's tour bus on snowy Interstate 380 in the Pocono Mountains in Tobyhanna, Pa.

''It's just lucky she's alive and that nothing happened to the baby,'' he said, referring to the couple's son, Nayab, 9, who suffered a broken collar bone.

Hospital authorities said the facility had been flooded with flowers, balloons, t-shirts, and phone calls from around the world. Singer Elton John sent flowers, and Diana Ross had called saying she wanted to visit Estefan, said hospital spokeswoman Mary Costello.

One reporter twice tried to sneak into the singer's hospital room by dressing as a patient, said hospital security guard Miguel Almonte. The journalist, who worked for a New York television station, was spotted and stopped both times, he said.

Neuwirth said he and the other surgeon, John Sherman, had implanted two steel rods on the back on Estefan's spinal cord, attaching them with eight metal hooks.

He said a vertebra in Estefan's back had slipped out of position, compressing her spine into a position that could have severed crucial nerve fibers.

Estefan was flown Wednesday by helicopter to New York from a hospital in Scranton, Pa., where she was taken after the crash.

President Bush, who called the singer twice before she left the Scranton's Community Medical Center, also called Estefan following the surgery Thursday afternoon. Bush had met with the singer Monday at the White House.

Calls also came from Madonna, Bruce Springsteen, Jon Bon Jovi, John Denver and Frankie Avalon.

Estefan and the band won the American Music Awards' 1989 favorite pop-rock duo award, and Estefan was a host on the 1990 awards show.

ALBANY, NY (MARCH 23) UPI - A jury convicted imprisoned sex offender Richard Ruff of hanging a young cousin 33 years ago, concluding one of the nation's oldest unsolved murder cases.

Ruff was found guilty late Thursday of first-degree murder in the 1957 death of Billy Ruff, 11, who had been sodomized and hanged from a tree.

The case evolved from dogged detective work and the luck of another cousin of Ruff's who began to suspect him after seeing his face on a wanted poster for an unrelated child sex-abuse case.

Ruff showed no emotion when the verdict was handed up by a jury in the Albany County Courthouse. Jury deliberations began Wednesday at 6 p.m.

It was Billy Ruff's younger brother, Albany County Sheriff's Deputy Christopher Ruff, who had the case reopened two years ago. Christopher Ruff never knew his older brother, Billy.

Christopher Ruff had spotted the wanted poster for Richard Ruff that aroused his suspicions.

''We're just relieved that it's over. We're going home and try to rest in peace,'' said Mildred Ruff, Billy's mother and Richard Ruff's aunt. When the verdict was announced, Mrs. Ruff sobbed with relief.

The case is believed to be one of the oldest murder cases ever tried in the nation. Several retired State Police troopers, a former sheriff and one of the doctors who conducted the autopsy all testified.

Mrs. Ruff, who is undergoing chemotherapy for cancer, gave videotaped testimony but was well enough to attend the trial.

The boy's mother testified that she last saw her son, who was to begin the sixth grade, on a Saturday walking down the street with an old clothesline in his hand. He was found hanged the next day.

Doctors testified the boy was sodomized prior to his death and would have been in too much pain to have hanged himself, as the defense maintained throughout the trial.

Ruff, who is serving a 4-to-12 year prison term for molesting the two children of a girlfriend, faces a life sentence when he is sentenced April 19. Two other charges of first-degree murder and a charge of rape were dropped.

MADISON, WI (MARCH 23) UPI - Gov. Tommy Thompson says Wisconsin will be the first state to give some low-income parents the option of sending their children to private schools at the state's expense under a scaled-down version of the Choices program.

The Legislature this week passed and sent to the governor a parental choice initiative for students in Milwaukee. Under the proposal, the state will pay for up to 930 low-income, students from kindergarten through the 12th grade to attend any private non-sectarian school in the city.

''We have acknowledged that private schools play an important role and provide an effective option in the education of our children,'' Thompson said.

The Choices program has a $2.3 million price tag - or $2,500 per pupil - and would be limited to less than 1 percent of the 97,085 pupils of the Milwaukee Public Schools System. Only students whose family income is under 175 percent of the federal poverty level can particiapte.

The Republican governor originally had proposed that the Democrat-controlled Legislature support a Choices program that would have allowed parents statewide to send their children to the schools of their choice.

Democrats, along with some education officials, balked at that idea. They said it would mean little in rural areas where people would not have the financial means to transport their children to other districts where the program may not be significantly different.

''In reality, educational choice is practiced by parents who have the financial resources to send their children to a private school or move to an area with better schools,'' Thompson said. ''This legislation will give low-income children an equal starting line of opportunity.''

Thompson said Minnesota and Iowa have established similar choices programs but have limited them to public schools.

The program was included in the budget adjustment bill adopted Thursday by the Assembly and Senate.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (MARCH 23) UPI - West Germany's chancellor, seeking Friday to reassure his European Community partners, said German unification would not create a ''Fourth Reich.''

Helmut Kohl's three-hour visit to headquarters of the 12-nation EC was designed to quell fears of other European countries that a united Germany would go its own way.

''We do not want a Fourth Reich,'' Kohl said. ''We do not want to steamroll over anybody. We do not act like an elephant in a china shop. We want to be German Europeans and European Germans.''

Kohl, whose push for rapid German unity won a stunning endorsement in Sunday's East German elections, recalled that former West German leader Konrad Adenauer said 35 years ago that ''German unification is only possible under a European roof.''

Other political leaders are concerned the German drive for unification will derail the EC's own integration plans, beginning with economic and monetary union, and eventually leading to political union.

Kohl said the two unification drives could proceed together and vowed German unity would be carried out in close cooperation with the EC: ''I wish (for) many informative talks; then there is less disinformation or, to put it more mildly, less misunderstandings.''

He said a special EC heads-of-state summit on German unification, scheduled in Dublin on April 28, should produce ''an important message for the future of Europe.''

Kohl compared European integration with the River Rhine, which flows quietly in some spots and more swiftly in others, but nobody is able to stop it. ''It runs its course and finally reaches the sea,'' he said. ''That's the way it also is with Europe.''

Many of Kohl's remarks echoed statements he made two weeks ago at NATO headquarters in Brussels, in the midst of criticism of his headlong rush toward unification. He seemed far more relaxed at the EC, however, buoyed by the election results in East Germany, where conservative parties allied with Kohl won a resounding victory.

The chancellor said events in East Germany had outraced his 10-point plan for unification, drafted last November, which called for gradual federation of the two German states.

''The people of East Germany decided differently,'' he said. ''People outside Germany do not fully realize what the exodus from East Germany to West Germany means.''

Kohl said about 150,000 people left East Germany for West Germany between Jan. 1 and the elections, mostly ''young and qualified people, like doctors and engineers,'' which are needed to rebuild the East German economy.

ATHENS, GREECE (MARCH 23) UPI - A Greek political magazine said Friday a terrorist organization responsible for killing several U.S. military personnel in Athens in recent years is linked to the Libyan secret service.

Anti, which is published every two weeks, said the terrorist organization that calls itself November 17 may also be linked to the radical Palestinian Abu Nidal group - a breakaway faction of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In a seven-page article the magazine said a Moroccan undercover intelligence agent posing as a foreign correspondent penetrated a Libyan terrorist organization working in Athens and discovered the links between November 17 and the Libyans.

The agent, identified as Bachir Bays, reported to his superiors that on May 4, 1987, he was at a meeting that included memers of November 17 and a Libyan agent called Abdelhamid Oubaidi.

Anti did not explain how it came by details of Bays' report to the Moroccan intelligence agency but said Oubaidi offered Bays $2,500 a month, plus bonuses, to work for him.

Bays reportedly said in his report that Oubaidi ''told me clearly that he was a Libyan intelligence agent.''

November 17, which first made its appearance in Greece in 1975 with the murder of Richard Welch, the Athens station chief of the CIA, has since claimed responsibility for a string of killings in the Greek capital.

Among its victims were several U.S. military personnel, including Navy

Capt. William Nordeen, killed in a June 1988 car bomb explosion outside his home in a north Athens suburb.

In January, the United States offered a $2 million reward for information leading to the arrest, effective prosecution and punishment of the killers.

In its latest report on November 17, Anti said Oubaidi, who also posed as a foreign correspondent in Athens, was managing director of a magazine called Politismos al Hadara (Culture), published in both Greek and Arabic.

Anti said Bays also worked for Politismos al Hadara, which was in fact a contact center for terrorists arriving in Athens for operations in Greece or to be sent elsewhere in Europe.

Anti claimed it made its own investigations into the terrorist network. The magazine said Oubaidi was questioned by the Greek security police after the murder in Athens of Michel Noumari, a close aide to Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, on Sept. 18, 1985.

On another occasion, Greek police questioned Oubaidi during investigations into the June 1984 murders in Athens of two Libyan students, one of them a translator for Politismos al Hadara.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - The first stage adaptation of John Steinbeck's classic novel ''The Grapes of Wrath'' effectively dramatizes a sad chapter in American history that has never been fully resolved, just as the novel lacks a neat ending.

''The Grapes of Wrath'' opened at the Cort Theater Thursday and should have a healthy run if serious drama that touches the heart still has a faithful audience. This is a production by Chicago's acclaimed Steppenwolf Theater Company and comes to Broadway via Chicago and London.

Adapter-director Frank Galati is to be congratulated for hewing closely to Steinbeck's conscience-raising novel rather than the 1940 film version of the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel which, however fine, took some liberties to sanitize the plot.

Galati has taken the story to its symbolic and taboo-shattering conclusion rather than ending it, as did Nunnally Johnson's film version, with the flight of the migrant Joad family's eldest son, Tom, to avoid arrest and fight another day as a labor organizer.

The Joad clan of Oklahoma is a microcosmic portrait of hundreds of thousands of Midwestern and Southwestern farm families who were disinherited in the 1930s by the Great Depression and Dust Bowl droughts. Many, like the Joads, sought a new life in California where they became migrant fruit-pickers.

The Joads' progressive disillusion with the injustice of their situation is the theme of Steinbeck's powerful story, relieved only by Ma Joad's conviction that life will go on if only the determination to go on living is preserved ''no matter what happens.''

Her homespun philosophy is elaborated by a backsliding preacher friend of the family, Jim Casey, who senses the divine essence that binds all mankind in its quest for a kinder, better world.

This is the same better world that still eludes many bankrupt farm families in the Midwest and Southwest today and remains an illusion for migrant workers who live in comparative peonage despite reforms inspired by Steinbeck's novel 51 years ago.

It would be difficult to find a stronger cast than the 35 people here. The cast is headed by Lois Smith as the indomitable Ma Joad, Gary Sinise as her stalwart son, Tom, and Terry Kinney as Casey, whose rustic socialism leads him to fight for migrant rights. Sinise, Kinney and Jeff Perry, who plays Ma's retarded son, Noah, are the founders of the Steppenwolf Theater.

Smith is totally believable as the weary, but determined Ma, head of family by default on the part of her well-meaning but unfocused husband, played with total authenticity by Robert Breuler. It is Ma's boundless charity that is reflected in her daughter's suckling of a starving stranger in the final, benedictory scene.

Sally Murphy is winning as the daughter, Rose of Sharon, and Mark Deakins is believable as her sincere but weak husband who walks away from their marriage. Jim True gives an outstanding performance as another Joad son, Al, who is sowing his wild oats. Nathan Davis plays a finely etched Granpa and James Noah makes the most of the dark presence of Uncle John.

Kevin Rigdon's sets are simplicity itself but he achieves much with lighting. Erin Quigley's costumes convey poverty at its drabbest. Michael Smith has written incidental music appropriate to period mixed with snatches of popular songs such as ''Yes, Sir, That's My Baby,'' ''Dust Bowl Blues,'' and ''California, Here I Come.''

TOKYO (MARCH 23) UPI - Japan's exorbitant land prices, already the world's highest, continued to rise in 1989 for the second sharpest hike in 15 years, spurred by steady economic expansion and speculative investment, the government said Friday.

Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu instructed Cabinet ministers concerned with economic affairs Friday to ''seriously tackle the land problem, which is one of the highest priority issues facing the government,'' government officials said.

The government's National Land Agency said land prices for residential use surged 17.0 percent in 1989 while those for commercial districts climbed 16.7 percent.

The figures were the second highest, next only to 25.0 percent and 21.9 percent, respectively, recorded in 1987, the agency said.

Land prices nationwide climbed an average 16.6 percent, also the second highest, following a 21.7 percent surge in 1987, the agency said.

''It was notable that the price rise spread to rural areas from urban districts, where construction of housing and office buildings was brisk,'' said a spokesman for the agency.

''Speculators also sought to purchase land in rural districts for investment in anticipation of further price increases,'' the official said.

Enterprises armed with a glut of funds amid brisk economic expansion actively hunted for land for investment or construction and expansion of office buildings and housing both in big cities and nearby areas, causing land prices to rise, the official said.

The Bank of Japan has urged banking and non-banking institutions to restrict loans for land transactions as a means to check speculative investment in real estate.

Central bank officials expressed concern that spiraling land prices could trigger inflation and undermine the government policy aimed at sustained economic growth without fear of inflation.

The price rise was particularly high in Osaka, Japan's second largest city about 250 miles west of Tokyo, where land prices for residential areas jumped 56.1 percent while those for commercial districts surged 46.3 percent, compared with 32.7 percent and 35.6 percent for 1987, the agency said.

In the Tokyo metropolitan area, price hikes, which showed signs of subsiding, began to make an upturn again, increasing an average 6.6 percent over the preceding year.

The average land price in Tokyo's residential area amounted to 521,300 yen per square meter ($3,360 per 10.76 square feet), the agency said.

The most expensive areas in Tokyo were the Marunouchi office quarters and the Ginza shopping district, where the land price was as high as 37.7 million yen per square meter ($243,000 per 10.76 square feet), the agency said.

The land prices were posted in the official gazette Friday as a guideline for land transactions.

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA (MARCH 23) UPI - Argentina's Supreme Court has upheld the extradition to West Germany of Nazi war crimes suspect Josef Franz Leo Schwammberger.

Schwammberger, 78, has been charged by a Stuttgart, West Germany court with mass war crimes, including murdering prisoners, while he was commander of the Przemysl and Mielec concentration camps in Poland during World War II.

Schwammberger was first arrested by French police in Innsbruck, Austria, in 1945, but escaped to Argentina, where he worked for a petrochemical company. He was captured in 1987 on a farm in the interior province of Cordoba.

Argentine Supreme Court Justice Oscar Roger wrote Thursday in the opinion upholding extradition that ''genocide is a crime against humanity. Neither time nor frontiers nor the laws of a given country can impede the advance of punitive justice before such repugnant crimes.''

Two Argentine lower courts upheld the extradition of Schwammberger but his lawyers appealed.

Argentina does not have an extradition agreement with West Germany, but prosecution lawyers argued he entered the country illegally because he did not declare himself a fugitive from the French police.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - Ingersoll Newspapers Inc., the expansion-minded publisher of the St. Louis Sun and scores of community newspapers, has offered to buy back some of its junk bonds at 25 cents to 55 cents on the dollar in hopes of avoiding default on the notes.

The offer, launched Thursday, stems from Ingersoll's use of a so-called

''reset'' note - an invention of the fallen investment firm Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. - that requires the company to pay a much higher interest on the high-yield, high-risk notes, now trading at a deep discount, beginning June 30, analysts said.

Reset notes, like adjustable rate mortgages, are periodically adjusted to reflect prevailing market and economic conditions.

''Once a company gets into trouble, it's extremely difficult to successfully meet the terms of the reset provisions,'' said Stephen Unterhalter, an analyst at R.D. Smith & Co., a securities research firm that specializes in troubled companies.

Ingersoll, based in Princeton, N.J., issued the bonds in connection with its 1987 acquisition of four Ohio newspapers and a shopper's newspaper on Long Island, N.Y. Those acquisitions have proven a financial disappointment, analysts said.

Overall, Ingersoll lost $43.6 million in 1988 and the company's results for the first nine months of 1989 were lower than 1988's comparable figures.

The bond buyback offer will likely have to be sweetened in order to be acceptable to Ingersoll bondholders, Unterhalter said.

''Twenty-five cents and 55 cents are not reasonable amounts, but it's an opening bid in a negotiation,'' he said. ''The bonds are more likely worth in the high-70s to low-80s on the dollar.''

Representatives of Ingersoll were not immediately available for comment.

Analysts said other companies that have experienced difficulty with reset notes include Hillsborough Holdings, SCI Television and Western Union.

TOKYO (MARCH 23) UPI - Japan's crude oil imports in February increased 8.5 percent over a year ago to 120.1 million barrels, reflecting brisk domestic demand, the Ministry of International Trade and Industry reported Friday.

Compared with January, the February figure was down 3.6 percent because of seasonal factors but still remained at a high level, ministry officials said in a preliminary report.

The officials said strong gasoline consumption as a result of brisk automobile sales and robust industrial demand were chiefly responsible for the increase in imports.

The United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia and Indonesia were the three major suppliers of oil to Japan in February, the officials said.

Domestic production of fuel oil rose 7.6 percent to 96.69 million barrels, the ministry said.

RANGOON, BURMA (MARCH 23) UPI - Burmese troops repelled attacks by ethnic

Mon insurgents on a key town in southern Burma after six hours of fighting that killed at least 50 people, a military spokesman said Friday.

Spokesman Col. Than Tun told reporters about 300 men from the 333rd Battalion of the New Mon State Party launched simultaneous pre-dawn attacks in the rail junction town of Ye, about 150 miles east of Rangoon.

He said the insurgents armed with heavy weapons attacked the police station and military base of the 61st Infantry Regiment Headquarters in Ye located on a railroad and highway that are the main north-south routes in southern Burma.

The insurgents pounded the town with rockets and then tried to blow up a key railroad bridge, Than Tun said.

The Burmese troops immediately counter-attacked, he said.

''The company at the 61st Infantry Regiment in Ye as well as the mobile columns nearby surrounded the intruding Mon insurgents and made a fierce attack on them,'' state-owned Rangoon radio said in a report on the attack.

Than Tun said 43 Mons were killed and 37 were captured, while four Burmese security troops were killed and 14 wounded in six hours of fighting.

He said 70 Mon insurgents fought their way into the civilian area of the town and killed three civilians, including a 3-year-old child. Sixteen other civilians were wounded.

Parts of the city were set ablaze during the battle, destroying three houses and parts of government buildings, he said.

''The attack on Ye was partly intended to shore up the flagging morale of the rank and file insurgents following the fall of their headquarters,'' Than Tun said. The main Mon headquarters near Three Pagoda Pass into Thailand was captured Feb. 8.

The spokesman said the insurgents were also trying ''to cut the lines of communication serving troops in south Burma.''

The Mons are one of nearly a dozen ethnic minority groups fighting the central government of Burma. They have demanded increased regional autonomy and protection for their languages and cultures.

The fighting has been going on for more than 40 years in some areas, but it has accelerated since the Burmese military seized direct power in a coup in September 1988.

In another development, Burmese leader Gen. Saw Maung has promoted himself to five-star general and promoted many of the officers serving on the ruling junta, the official media and spokesmen said Friday.

The new ranks were not specifically announced but became known when government-run radio and television began describing Saw Maung as senior general. A military spokesman said promotions have been given to other officers on or working for the all-military State Law and Order Restoration Council headed by Saw Maung.

The promotions came despite the military's plans to hold elections on May 27 which are supposed to return the country - now called Myanmar by officials here - to democratic rule. Diplomatic and opposition sources suggest the military, which has imprisoned many opponents, plans to continue ruling the country behind a powerless elected government.

TOKYO (MARCH 23) UPI - KDD, Japan's giant international telecommunications company, said Friday it will launch new projects, including a fiber-optic cable between Japan and Taiwan, to enhance and diversify its business in fiscal 1990, starting April 1.

The company said a 1,056-mile cable providing 7,560 telephone circuits will be laid between Tou Cheng in Taiwan and Miyazaki Prefecture (state) on Japan's southernmost main island of Kyushu to handle the growing diversified traffic.

KDD will pay $14 million or 16 percent of the construction cost estimated at $80 million, becoming the second largest investor in the project after International Telecommunications Development Corp. of Taiwan, the company said.

A total of 23 carriers from 14 countries will participate in the project to be agreed on at a meeting to be held in San Francisco March 30, the company said.

Currently Japan and Taiwan are linked mainly through a 480-circuit cable via Okinawa, Japan's southernmost prefecture in the Pacific, the company said.

The company will also construct domestic circuits exclusively for international telecommunications services, it said.

The two cables will be completed in 1993, enabling the company to form a more diverse digital cable network in East Asia, the company said.

KDD said it will offer to regular customers discounts for international video conference service from April 1 and make digital circuits available.

It said 10 percent discount will be offered for the first 15 minutes and a 5 percent discount for additional 15 minutes.

The company also will offer one-way - receive or transmit only - high-speed digital service at rates about 30 percent lower than those for usual two-way circuits between Japan and Asia, Australia-New Zealand, North America and Europe.

Monthly rates for one-way circuits between Japan and Asia, Oceania and North America will be $4,000 and those for Europe $5,200. Rates for two-way circuits will be $5,700 and $7,500 respectively, the company said.

WENDOVER, UT (MARCH 23) UPI - Two Air Force F-16 jet fighters crashed Thursday night in Utah's western desert during a refueling training mission but both pilots ejected safely, Hill Air Force Base officials said Friday.

''The aircraft were on a night air-refueling and air-intercept training mission when the crash occurred,'' base spokesman Marilu Trainor said. ''One pilot was on board each single seat aircraft and both ejected safely.''

The pilots, identified as Maj. Tim Ward, 37, and Capt. Ron Zimmerman, 36, suffered minor scraps and bruises, Trainor said.

The F-16 Fighting Falcons, assigned to the 419th Tactical Fighter Wing Reserve, crashed at 6:50 p.m. Thursday, 30 miles southeast of Wendover.

Witnesses said the firey crash of the $16 million airplanes followed a collision. The Air Force said a board of officers was appointed to investigate the accident.

It was the third incident in a week involving F-16 jets from the base, about 35 miles north of Salt Lake City, Trainor said.

The first crashed about 9:30 a.m. March 16 in the western Utah desert near the Utah-Nevada state line during a routine test flight following maintenance. The pilot was able to safely eject.

Minutes later, an F-16 that had caught fire made an emergency landing in the same general area. Col. Charles Heflebower, commander of Hill's 388th Tactical Fighter Wing, has said the Air Force hopes to repair that F-16 at the landing site.

MINNEAPOLIS (MARCH 23) UPI - Security was tight at the University of Minnesota Hospital where a Saudi Arabian sheik was recovering from a kidney transplant.

Hospital officials did not revealed the patient's name but the St. Paul Pioneer Press Dispatch reported Friday that it is Shamsuldin al-Fassi, 62, the chairman of Alsouffi, a Moslem religious organization.

He arrived from the Middle East last Friday. Details of the operation were not revealed but the patient apparently received a kidney from a living relative.

''The transplant went well and both patients are in excellent condition,'' Dr. John Najarian, head of the university's surgery department, said in a news release Thursday night. ''It has always been, and always will be, the policy of the University of Minnesota that cadaver organs are not given to foreign citizens.''

The sheik's entourage numbers more than 200 and has taken over three floors of one Minneapolis hotel and several rooms at the hospital and other hotels.

Security measures have been strict because Shamsuldin al-Fassi and his son Mohammed al-Fassi, 31, have been the targets of an attempted car bombing in London seven years ago, and another more recent assassination attempt, said Bander Bin Sultan, an adviser and spokesman for the family.

The son gained notoriety in the early 1980s when he bought a Beverly Hills mansion and aroused his neighbor's ire with his garish decorating, which included nude statues, a copper roof and backyard zoo. The mansion reportedly was burned by an employee to cover the theft of several valuable items.

He also reportedly was involved in free-spending and ill-fated incidents in Florida, including a recent failed plan to save all the cats in America. He also reported started building a $39 million Moorish castle on Star Island but abandoned the project. There were other reported allegations that he had been ejected from hotels for nonpayment of bills.

Sultan said there would be no problem paying any bills because Shamsuldin al-Fassi's wealth ''is in excess of $15 billion.''

Several off-duty police officers from the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis and St. Paul police departments are providing security for the entourage. Some police officers said they were told Shamsuldin al-Fassi could be in the Twin Cities as long as three months.

Some officers said the Saudis have other security personnel who claim they are from Austria and membes of the United Nations security force. But Emily Kawas, a UN security coordinator, said that was false. ''We don't have jurisdiction outside the premises of the United Nations,'' she said.

The officers also said the private security staff were carrying what appeared to be automatic weapons.

MIAMI (MARCH 23) UPI - Lawyers for deposed Panamanian dictator Manuel Antonio Noriega sought to have the federal drug indictment against him dismissed, saying the U.S. invasion of Panama violated ''the laws and norms of humanity.''

The 30-page motion filed Thursday asked the court to relinquish jurisdiction in the case because of what it termed as the violent means that surrounded Noriega's arrest. The motion is accompanied by more than 40 pages of exhibits.

U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler had given the Noriega defense until the end of the week to file the motion. The government's response is expected within a few days. A hearing is scheduled April 2.

Miami lawyer John May, who wrote the motion, said Noriega's lawyers intend to call hospital workers and other witnesses to talk about atrocities associated with the Dec. 20 U.S. military invasion of Panama, which the motion said violated ''the laws and norms of humanity.''

In the motion, he said witnesses are expected to say that U.S. troops fired on ambulances and prevented medical personnel from treating battle victims. Others will testify that U.S. troops exploded shanty homes with residents still inside and burned piles of dead bodies to prevent their identification, the document says.

Noriega and 15 others were named in a 12-count indictment returned February 1988 by a federal grand jury in Miami. It accuses Noriega of using his position as the leader of Panama to make money off smugglers who used his country as a way station between Colombia and the United State from 1981 to 1986.

Noriega was brought to the United States Jan. 3 after surrendering to U.S. troops during the military invasion. If convicted, he faces a maximum penalty of 145 years in prison and a $1.1 million fine.

He also is named in a marijuana smuggling indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Tampa the same day as the Miami indictment.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Captain Joseph Hazelwood's lawyer says he will ask that his client receive a suspended sentence- and NO jail term. Hazelwood will be sentenced in Anchorage today for his conviction of a minor pollution violation arising from the nation's worst oil spill. The jury freed Hazelwood of three other, more serious charges.

(MARCH 23) UPI - President Bush is opposing a House measure that would make the Environmental Protection Agency a Cabinet-level department. Bush wants the E-P-A chief in the Cabinet. But he objects to a provision that would keep the Bureau of Environmental Statistics independent of the E-P-A and the White House.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved the nomination of Robert Sweet

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - The Food and Drug Administration approved a new drug treatment Friday for children stricken by ''Bubble Boy'' disease, a rare immune disorder that has forced some of them to live sheltered in plastic bubbles.

The FDA said the enzyme replacement therapy, manufactured by Enzon Inc., of South Plainfield, N.J., is authorized for use in immune-impaired children who have not been helped by bone marrow transplants or who lack marrow donors.

About 40 children a year worldwide are born with the genetic disorder called severe combined immunodeficiency disease, or SCID. Lacking adequate immune defenses, affected children cannot fight infectious diseases like chicken pox or pneumonia. They usually die from infections before age 2.

The disorder has been called the ''Bubble Boy'' disease because some youngsters have survived only by being enclosed in sterile, plastic bubbles. In about 40 percent of children, the cause of the disease appears to be a lack of an enzyme called adenosine deaminase (ADA).

Bone marrow transplantation, which provides the children with healthy, infection-fighting cells, is considered the standard treatment for the immune deficiency.

The new therapy, which replaces the missing enzyme, is approved for use in children who lack suitable marrow donors, generally a brother or a sister, or who have not been helped by marrow transplants, the FDA said.

Another approach to treating SCID - replacing the defective gene that causes the enzyme deficiency - is now under consideration at the National Institutes of Health. Researchers say they are working on that approach because neither marrow transplants nor enzyme replacement therapy are perfect, and children's lives are still often cut short by infections.

A Texas boy named David who was a victim of the disease and received widespread attention died Feb. 22, 1984, four months after receiving a bone marrow transplant from his older sister.

During his 12 years in a protective plastic bubble, David had not been exposed to a virus. Due to the transplant, Baylor University doctors said he received traces of the Epstein-Barr virus.

The new drug, called Adagen, is coated with a polymer to prolong the life of the enzyme in the bloodstream. The treatment does not spur the body to produce the missing enzyme so patients must receive weekly injections of the drug all their lives.

Cost of the new treatment is about $50,000 to $60,000 a year, said Abe Abuchowski, president of Enzon.

Thirteen children, ranging in age from 3 to 16, have been treated with the enzyme, Abuchowski said. The six treated more than six to 12 months generally had fewer infections and complications due to infection than before treatment, FDA officials said.

So far, no serious side effects have been observed and all children who received the drug are still alive, Abuchowski said.

Adagen is considered an ''orphan'' drug because its extremely small patient population offered little financial incentive for pharmaceutical firms to develop it. Under a grant program begun in 1983, FDA gave Enzon $169,000 to support human tests of the drug.

''This is what the federal orphan drug program is all about - helping people with rare conditions,'' said Health and Human Service Secretary Louis Sullivan.

WARSAW, POLAND (MARCH 23) UPI - The Kremlin will not use force to keep Lithuania in the Soviet Union and military maneuvers in the area are simply pre-negotiation posturing by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, a senior member of Lithuania's Sajudis nationalist movement said Friday.

Virgilius Cepaitis, the secretary of Sajudis, which controls the government that declared Lithuania's independence from Moscow March 11 said his country faces a ''David versus Goliath'' situation in its hopes to be free of Soviet rule.

Cepaitis was accompanied by Kazimieras Motieka, the deputy president of the Lithuanian Parliament, to Poland at the invitation of the Solidarity Parliamentary Caucus. He said he understood Washington's reluctance to be more supportive of Lithuania.

President Bush has called for a peaceful resolution of the conflict by negotiations between Lithuanian and Soviet officials with no interference from the United States.

''We cannot expect everything all at once from the United States,'' Cepaitis said in reference to a hoped-for U.S. statement of recognition and support.

He said Washington cannot be more outspoken about Lithuania because ''it is involved in a game with the Soviet Union.''

He said more important has been the stand of the American people who have shown their support for Lithuania.

Cepaitis told a news conference the Kremlin's attempts to intimidate Lithuania were in vain and he said Moscow must start negotiations with independent Lithuanian authorities.

''All these threats are an overture to the negotiations. The threats can be considered as an attempt to raise the stakes before the talks,'' he said.

''We believe that negotiations with Moscow will begin,'' Cepaitis said.

Asked if Soviet assurances on no use of force against Lithuania could be trusted Cepaitis replied: ''I believe in them.''

Moscow has conducted military maneuvers on the territory of the republic, helicopters have dropped leaflets on Vilnius, the capital, urging people to declare the announcement of independence invalid and ordered Lithuanians to turn in all weapons including hunting rifles.

''They (Russians) would have to send a tank for every owner of a rifle to take it away,'' Cepaitis said adding the reports from the republic said that no single person obeyed Moscow's instructions.

He praised Poland for its support of Lithuanian independence and expressed his understanding for the stand taken by the United States.

Cepaitis also rejected Moscow's theory that Lithuania will not be able to run its economy independently of the Soviet Union.

''There are many smaller countries than Lithuania and they have not gone bankrupt yet.'' he said.

ANCHORAGE, AK (MARCH 23) UPI - Redoubt Volcano erupted early Friday, sending a plume of ash and steam 35,000 feet high, but the ash blew toward sparsely populated areas, the Alaska Volcano Observatory reported.

The 10,197-foot mountain 110 miles southwest of Anchorage exploded at 4:04 a.m. Alaska time (8:04 a.m. EST) in an eruption lasting about 10 minutes, geologist Michael Doukas said.

The mountain continued to steam after that and the plume was visible from Anchorage in the clear weather.

Increased earthquake activity at the mountain alerted geologists that an eruption was imminent and they issued a warning.

Redoubt Volcano has been erupting at least once a week for almost two months since bursting to life last Dec. 14.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Vice President Dan Quayle will head the U.S. delegation to the inauguration of Violeta Chamorro as president of Nicaragua, the White House announced Friday.

Quayle has become President Bush's chief emissary to Latin America, having made two trips to several nations south of the border since last January.

Quayle met with outgoing Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega when they attended inaugural ceremonies in Chile.

Bush is sending his wife Barbara as his representative to the inauguration of Rafael Angel Calderon as President of Costa Rica on May 8.

Other members of the delegation to the April 25 Managua ceremonies have not yet been announced.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - The administration has reached agreement in sensitive trade talks with Japan on opening Japanese markets to U.S. super computers, White House officials confirmed Friday.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, asked to comment on reports of a breakthrough in the talks concerning the computers, said only that the administration was pleased by the development.

''It's a good agreement,'' the spokesman said without further elaboration.

A spokesperson for the U.S. Office of the Trade Representative said the accord marked ''significant progress'' but declined further detail. An announcement with fuller detail was expected later in the day.

The apparent breakthrough comes within weeks of a meeting between President Bush and Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu in Palm Springs, Calif. The two leaders pledged to work more energetically toward ironing out trade differences causing friction and a nearly $50 billion trade imbalance between the two countries.

Earlier this week, the Japanese government, under strong pressure from the United States, made another concession, by lifting curbs on the purchase of foreign weather satellite equipment.

The United States had cited the ban on imports of weather satellites as one of the unfair practices in the so-called super 301 clause of the 1988 omnibus trade act, which would require automatic retaliation.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (MARCH 23) UPI - Recent U.S. statements that the European Community has been ducking discussion of agricultural trade policies were blasted Friday as ''absurd'' by Ray MacSharry, the EC's top agriculture official.

MacSharry's criticism, using terms usually shunned in diplomatic circles, reflected acrimony between the United States and the 12-nation EC at the current round of trade talks in Geneva.

U.S. officials are particularly critical of the EC's price-support program for farmers, which has emerged as a key issue in the Uruguay Round of trade talks in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Claims that EC policies prevent U.S. farmers from importing into the Community are ''refuted by the facts,'' said MacSharry, the EC commissioner for agriculture.

''The U.S. is the biggest exporter of agriculture products worldwide and one of the smallest importers,'' he said. ''The Community, while being the world's second-largest exporter, remains the world's largest importer of agriculture products.''

MacSharry particularly criticized a recent statement by Julius Katz, the deputy U.S. trade representative, that ''the U.S. had not been able to engage the EC or Mr. MacSharry in any serious negotiation.''

The assertion is ''absurd and totally without foundation,'' MacSharry said.

He also said U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills was ''wrong'' when she claimed that the EC market for soybeans is ''closed to the U.S.'' and that the EC has become a net exporter of soybeans.

MacSharry said the EC ''is by far the world's largest net importer of oilseeds.'' He put the EC's net imports of soybeans at more than 12 million tons and of soymeal at nearly 8 million tons in the most recent marketing year.

He said a drop in EC imports between 1987 and 1988 was mainly due to high soy prices resulting from a drought in the United States, ''for which the EC can hardly be held responsible.''

U.S. farm exports to the Community are facing increased competition from other countries, MacSharry said.

He noted sarcastically that he ''understood that the United States favored increased competition in international trade in agriculture.''

The EC official said reforms since 1984 to the Community's agricultural policy had reduced overall price supports by 10 percent for crops and by 15 percent for animals.

By contrast, a proposed farm bill in the United States, he said, would ''move in the opposite direction'' by providing new incentives to use more land for agriculture production with direct subsidies for new crops.

The Uruguay Round of trade talks, named after the country where they were launched, are now being held in Geneva and are slated to be concluded in Brussels in December.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - A report for House Democrats said Friday that virtually all the civilian jobs that would be lost to the Pentagon's most recent list of proposed base closings are in Democratic districts.

An examination of the latest base closure proposal by the Democratic Study Group, a support organization for moderate and liberal House Democrats, characterized Defense Secretary Dick Cheney's proposal as ''an attempt to divert attention from the president's bloated request for new defense spending authority.''

And, said the organization's report, the proposal ''is actually nothing more than a request for new legislation ending congressional oversight of Pentagon decisions for base closings.''

The DSG study said 99 percent of the civilian jobs lost would be in Democratic congressional districts, and 88 percent of the job increases at bases that would benefit from the plan are in Republican districts. And, the report said, three quarters of the civilian job losses are concentrated in the districts of members of the House Armed Services, Budget, and Ways and Means committees. Democrats hold the majority of seats in the House.

Cheney has said the list of 32 bases he proposed be studied for closure, consolidation or realignment was developed by the military services, representing facilities that in their judgment should be closed. While Republican administrations have historically suggested closing bases in Democratic districts and vice versa, Cheney said his list was not drawn up with politics in mind.

Congress last year allowed a list of bases proposed by a non-partisan commission to be closed, and because of the political difficulty in closing bases some have argued another commission should be forced. Cheney however, has asked for legislation that would help him streamline the process for closing a facility once the decision to do so has been made.

INDUSTRY, IL (MARCH 23) UPI - The owners of Dallas, the infamous big pig of the Illinois State Fair, are looking for another contender after Dallas left this world for hog heaven.

Dallas, weighing 1,250 pounds, died in his sleep of a heart attack in his pen. Owner Marvin Caldwell of Industry found the boar Monday morning and buriedhim on the farm where he spent the last years of his life.

Caldwell, 66, found Dallas when he was a 1 1/2 and 805 pounds. Dallas spent his days rooting in a half-acre lot. The pampered pig even had a shaded swimming pool.

The pig, 5, won the Illinois State Fair's biggest boar contest in each of the last three years. In 1988, he stole the show at 1,166 pounds and he won in 1989 at 1,149 pounds. No contenders would face him last year.

Keeping Dallas in pig feed cost about $700 annually, and capturing the big boar purse netted Caldwell only about $150, he said.

Caldwell said it's too late to find a successor for Dallas for the 1990 fair, but he is looking for a replacement for 1991.

CANTON, GA (MARCH 23) UPI - Bill Berman was thrilled when he learned a group of rare bald eagles had taken up residence near his home in rural Georgia. But that was before his cats started disappearing.

Berman noticed the young eagles swooping near an area where his family's cats sun themselves. Two of the pets have vanished so far, and Berman blames the eagles recently set free at nearby Lake Allatoona by state wildlife officials.

''I think one of their birds has discovered an easy meal,'' Berman said.

State officials doubt the cats were devoured by the national symbol. They say that eagles prefer fish to felines and that they are solitary birds. Berman says the ones soaring over his woods usually show up in a group of four.

Berman has threatened to risk arrest by shooting the federally protected birds if he catches them pouncing on any more of his pets.

SAND LAKE, MI (MARCH 23) UPI - About two dozen students in a class on self-esteem at the Sand Lake Alternative Education School got an unintended lesson on sex.

School officials said it happened March 12 when a visiting mental health services worker distributed resource materials to a class of seventh- through 11th-graders.

But only the first page was about self-esteem. The other four pages, with explicit sexual language, were subtitled ''Self-Pleasuring Techniques,'' ''Masturbation: A Contemporary Account'' and ''Sexual Fantasies.''

Irwin Brinker, director of the Community Mental Health Services of Montcalm County, said his agency accepted blame for mixing up the material.

''I think it simply was caused by someone who was in a hurry and who had different piles of material put together and did not double-check,'' he said Thursday.

Brinker said the health worker wrote a letter of apology to the school. He said his agency also is willing ''to work with both the students and their parents to deal with the trauma that has been caused.''

BEIRUT, LEBANON (MARCH 23) UPI - Lebanese militia groups claimed they attacked two joint patrols of Israeli troops and Israeli-backed militiamen in separate incidents in southern Lebanon Friday, damaging three vehicles and inflicting casualties.

There was no word on the attacks by Israeli officials or on a reported storming by Israeli troops of a southern village.

The pro-Syrian Shiite Moslem Amal militia said in a statement it set off a 165-pound bomb near a patrol boarding Israeli troops and members of the Israeli-supported South Lebanon Army, SLA, near the town of Jbail.

The blast knocked out a military vehicle and inflicted casualties among the troops, the Amal statement said.

''Enemy forces carried out an intensive combing operation in nearby terrain, using automatic arms and mortar batteries after the explosion,'' the militia statement said.

Amal did not specify whether the attack occurred inside or on the edge of the Israeli-proclaimed ''security zone,'' but reported that a 75-strong Israeli force stormed the village of Srobbine just outside the frontier enclave.

The Israelis searched houses and warned villagers against supporting anti-Israeli guerrillas, the statement said.

Israel established the ''security belt'' in southern Lebanon to foil guerrilla attacks. The zone has been patrolled by 2,600 members of the Israeli-backed militia and some 1,000 Israeli military personnel.

Also Friday, the National Resistance Front, a coalition of pro-Syrian Moslem and leftist militia groups, claimed it launched a a bomb attack against a joint Israeli and Israeli-backed militia patrol near Kfar Falous 7 miles east of the port city of Sidon.

A military vehicle and a jeep were damaged and a number of troops were killed or wounded, the Front said.

The Front said the attack triggered two hours of artillery duels between the Israeli-backed militia gunners and pro-Palestinian Lebanese militiamen dug in heights east of Sidon.

Troops of Christian leader Gen. Michel Aoun and militiamen of Samir Geagea meanwhile, engaged in day-long sporadic artillery duels in the mountainuous region of Kesrouwane north of Beirut. There were no reports of casualties.

A church-sponsored local mediation committee has so far failed to find a common ground for a political settlement between the two strongmen, vying for control of the Christian enclave.

Aoun launched his warfare against Geagea's militia in a bid to establish himself as the sole strongman in the Christian region. He has rebuffed a peace agreement that was worked out in Taif, Saudi Arabia, that resulted in electing Elias Hrawi as president.

ALBANY, NY (MARCH 23) UPI - New York's former drug-treatment czar, who left his job in December amid accusations he steered contracts to friends who failed to help addicts, has a new job as a hot-dog vendor. His permit gives him a spot just under Gov. Mario Cuomo's office window.

Julio Martinez, the former $87,000-a-year director of the Division of Substance Abuse Services, will begin peddling hot dogs and sodas from an aluminum cart with a giant umbrella Monday.

Martinez, 46, denied he is trying to chide the governor and contended that Cuomo, who is proud of his humble background, would understand.

''He's always talking about how his mother and pop ran a grocery store,'' Martinez said. ''What's the shame in me selling hot dogs?''

Martinez was forced from his state job amid charges he awarded drug treatment contracts to friends who squandered hundreds of thousands of dollars and, in some cases, did not help a single drug addict.

''I wanted to do something where I have total control,'' Martinez said of his new circumstances. ''Sure, I used to run with the bigwigs. But now the only cabinet meetings I'll have to have is with my hot dogs.''

LONDON (MARCH 23) UPI - Stock prices closed sharply higher in light trading Friday on the London International stock exchange despite an electoral defeat for the ruling Conservative Party.

Analysts said the results of the by-election had been expected and were already reflected in prices.

The blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which gained 8.6 points Thursday, climbed 25.0 points to 2,283.9. For the week, the key index which measures the value of Britain's largest 100 companies in terms of market capitalization, gained 20.0 points.

The narrower top 30 industrial average gained 16.0 points to 1,795.1 and added 5.7 points for the week.

Volume amounted to around 450 million shares, compared with 501 million shares traded Thursday.

Bonds also gained a point and the British pound held firm despite Thursday's massive victory by the opposition Labor Party in the mid-Staffordshire by-election, Labor's best result since the 1930's.

Strong company results earlier this week and the stronger close in Tokyo helped boost a number of shares, analysts said.

The Central Statistical Office reported Britain's retail price index rose 0.6 percent in February from January and was up 7.5 percent on the year.

Analysts noted the figures were in line with market forecasts.

Among the most widely traded stocks, Guinness, which reported a 33 percent gain in its latest pretax profits Thursday, gained 14 cents to $10.99.

Other brewers gained in sympathy: Grand Metropolitain added 8 cents to $9.52 and Bass gained 12 cents to $15.08.

Carlton Communications fell 26 cents to $10.86. Carlton is awaiting the results of patent litigation with two companies over its Paintbox computer graphics product.

RTZ Corp., the world's largest mining company, gained 12 cents to $8.72.

Banks and savings and loan institutions posted solid gains after savings incentives announced in Tuesday's budget.

TSB gained 5 cents to $2,25 and Lloyds added 5 cents to $4.62.

Elsewhere in Europe, prices on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange closed higher in moderate trading.

The German Stock Index, which fell 19.01 points Thursday, climbed 13.14 points to 1,932.12. The key index gained 52.80 points for the week.

CHICAGO (MARCH 23) UPI - Chicago cab drivers have nothing on their New York counterparts.

The city stripped 11 cabbies of their licenses Thursday for such violations as making obscene gestures. One was accused of threatening to kill an airport dispatcher, another who has been suspended five times lost his license for striking a motorist who had blown his horn.

Many of the drivers threatened passengers or tried to collect more than the metered fare.

''We must rid the streets of cab drivers who cannot comply with our rules and regulations,'' said Caroline O' Shoenberger, the city's Consumer Services commissioner.

The city has more than 16,000 taxi drivers and 4,900 licensed vehicles. Since last October, the licenses of 22 drivers have been revoked.

BRIDGEPORT, CT (MARCH 23) UPI - An ex-convict sought in a nationwide hunt for the execution-style slayings of three adults and a 4-year-old boy was apprehended as he sat in a hospital wheelchair awaiting treatment in Baltimore early Friday, the FBI said.

Jason Day, 26, formerly of Waterbury, was apprehended by FBI agents about 1:15 a.m. EST as he sought treatment for a foot injury in Church Hospital in east Baltimore, an FBI spokesman said.

Day was sitting in a wheelchair with a hospital boot on his foot and waiting to be treated for a broken toe, the FBI said.

An arrest warrant issued Wednesday for Day charged him with capital felony murder. If convicted, Day could receive the death penalty, officials said.

Day became the subject of an intense nationwide search after the grisly discovery of four bodies in a Bridgeport tenement early Sunday.

The FBI scheduled a news conference at FBI state headquarters in New Haven later Friday to disclose the details of the case and Day's arrest.

Day was believed to have fled to New York City in the car of one of the victims after the killings in an East Side apartment. The blood-stained car, which contained a .22 caliber revolver believed to be the murder weapon, was recovered early Sunday on the East Side of Manhattan, near a hospital, police said.

The FBI spokesman said that when agents learned Day may seek treatment for his foot injury in the Baltimore area, they began a check of hospitals.

The suspect was presented before a U.S. magistrate on fugitive charges and was expected to be returned to Connecticut shortly.

Day, a former boyfriend of one of the two women victims, was charged with capital felony, four counts of murder, risk of injury to a minor and first-degree assault. Superior Court Judge John Ronan, who signed the warrant, set bail at $2 million.

A federal arrest warrant charging Day with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution was also obtained to allow the FBI to join in the search.

The crime was described as brutal by veteran detectives who said it appeared the boy was made to kneel and place his head against a pillow before he was shot in the head.

No motive has been established for the slayings but police believed they may have been drug-related.

The victims were identified as Raymond Gibson, 27, Lisa Gibson, 24, Theresa Hamilton, 23, and Hamilton's son George Green, 4. All died from gunshot wounds to the head.

Day also was accused of pistol-whipping Marcus Green, 2, who was found on a couch next to his dead brother, police said.

Day was released from the Correctional Center in Cheshire on Jan. 12 after completing a four-year prison sentence for risk of injury to a minor, said Department of Corrections spokesman William Flower.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Federal health officials proposed long-awaited rules for nursing homes Friday requiring that nurses aides meet competency standards and that residents be screened for mental illness and retardation.

The rules proposed by Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan carry out some of the major nursing home reforms passed by Congress in 1987.

''We've waited a very long time to get these regulations. They are both incredibly important,'' said Barbara Frank, associate director of the National Citizens Coalition for Nursing Home Reform, a consumer group.

Under the proposals, states would develop training and competency standards for nurses aides and publish lists of those how met the requirements - as well as of aides found to have abused or neglected patients or stolen property.

As of Oct. 1, nursing homes participating in the Medicare and Medicaid could only employ aides who met the standards. Training would have to be given free to workers, and there are some exceptions for aides already hired.

Frank said the law was needed because ''a lot of nursing homes hire people directly off the street without giving them proper supervision or training.''

People entering nursing homes would be tested for mental retardation and illness and residents would be screened annually to make sure they are not being ''warehoused'' in such facilities, Sullivan said.

When a person who has been a resident of a nursing home for less than 30 months is found to be mentally ill or retarded, the state must arrange or provide treatment at a more appropriate facility. Longer term residents could receive treatment without moving from the facility.

Advocates for the mentally ill and retarded have favored such measures, saying thousands of nursing home residents should be in other facilities.

''There are far too many people living with mental retardation living in nursing homes who are not receiving the care they need,'' said Martha Ford of the Association for Retarded Citizens.

However, concerns have been raised that people turned away because they are mentally ill or retarded will not receive any care and could wind up homeless, Frank said.

IN HIS OWN WORDS: Steve Martin fans can get a look inside the actor's mind at the University of Texas. Martin has donated his original scripts, as well as revisions and final versions, from movies such as ''Roxanne'' and ''Three Amigos'' to the school's Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center. Martin's gift also includes scripts for several projects that Martin eventually abandoned. ''The good thing about Martin is that he does it all - acting, writing and producing for film and TV,'' said Ransom center spokesman Ray Daum. ''His papers will give students and scholars insight into the creative process of a writer and performer.'' Daum said he tracked down Martin's scripts through Martin's uncle, Jack Martin, who lives in Waco, where Steve was born. Martin's papers go into a collection that includes more than 5,000 movie scripts, 5,000 television scripts and 1 million photographs and posters related to show business. It also features papers and items from producer David O. Selznick, screenwriter Ernest Lehman, actress Gloria Swanson and filmmaker Robert Flaherty.

'HEE HAW' LAUGHS AT MARLA: Marla Maples has been faxing her resume around to casting agents but it includes a phony credit for ''Hee Haw,'' the show's producer says. The resume says Maples, who reportedly has now been dumped by billionaire Donald Trump, once performed on the country music and humor show but Sam Lovullo says it isn't so. ''She's never been on the show,'' says Lovullo, who has been the ''Hee Haw'' producer for more than two decades. ''I don't know where that came from and to my knowledge she has never been a guest on the show.'' Maples's spokesman, Chuck Jones, casually dismissed the resume embellishment as ''no big deal'' and said, ''It's not relevant whether she has or has not been on the show.'' Regardless, Lovullo said he'd be glad to book Maples if she would bring along Trump for the show's cornfield segment of corny jokes.

CUSACK CHARGED: John Cusack, star of the 1989 movie ''Say Anything,'' faces two charges of misdemeanor drunken driving for an incident last month. Cusack, 23, was arrested by West Hollywood sheriff's deputies after his rented jeep collided with another vehicle on Santa Monica Boulevard early on Feb. 23. Neither Cusack nor the driver of the other vehicle was injured.

STONES ROLLING TO EUROPE: The Rolling Stones will change the name of their tour when they play Europe but they're keeping the same sponsor. When the Stones open in Rotterdam, the Netherlands, on May 18, it will mark the first time they have toured Europe since 1982. The tour, which was called Steel Wheels in North America, will be rechristened the Urban Jungle tour in Europe and Budweiser will continue to sponsor the band's travels. The European itinerary includes Spain, Britain, Ireland, France, Italy, West Germany, Austria, Sweden, Norway and Portugal. Mick Jagger says the Stones might try to schedule an Eastern European city, too.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - Exxon Corp. customers have apparently forgiven the oil giant for the worst spill in U.S. history and virtually ended a boycott in which more than 40,000 credit cards were returned since the Alaska shoreline was fouled one year ago.

Exxon spokesman Les Rogers Friday said Exxon now receives ''very few, one occasionally'' of the credit cards, torn up in protest of the March 24 oil spill that dumped 11 million gallons of crude into the pristine Prince William Sound.

He said the returns dropped off to such a small level late last summer that the company stopped counting.

''About 40,000 credit cards have been returned by Exxon cardholders in protest over the Exxon Valdez (tanker) incident,'' the spokesman said.

He said Exxon replied to each customer, acknowledging the return and expressing regret for the incident. Each was asked to return as a customer but ''no appreciable amount have elected to take out another card,'' Rogers said.

Exxon figures have previously showed that cards were being returned at a rate of 3,000 a month as late as August when the total reached 39,000.

Exxon chairman Lawrence Rawl, in an interview in this week's Time magazine said, ''On average, (the returned) cards weren't being used much, while many other customers had ordered more than 160,000 cards in that same time period.''

As to the effect of the boycott on Exxon business, Rawl said, ''We haven't noticed it.''

Exxon said it has about 7 million credit card holders.

''I think there still's enough anger and frustration out there because of the Exxon Valdez incident and the more recent Exxon spills in New Jersey's Arthur Kill waterway that we can reinvigorate the protest effort,'' said Edwin Rothschild, assistant director of the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition in Washington.

Rothschild he will again call for Rawl's resignation at the April 25 annual meeting in Houston as he did at last year's shareholder meeting in Parsippany, N.J.

''From the shareholder's point of view, he has mismanaged the company,'' Rothschild said.

Six environmental measures will be proposed at Exxon's April 25 annual meeting, including a pledge to clean up the remnants of the Alaska spill, however, company management is opposing all six. It argues the pledge is unnecessary, because the company has already spent more than $2 billion on the cleanup.

LUXEMBOURG (MARCH 23) UPI - West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher called Friday for security cooperation between NATO and the Warsaw Pact, eventually leading to a collective security alliance.

''Our security policy should recognize that in the Warsaw Pact we are dealing with countries that have taken the road toward democratization,'' Genscher said.

''The democratic revolution in Central and Eastern Europe thus has prepared the ground for a new security policy. The requirement of our time is security, not against each other, but together with each other. It is called cooperative stability,'' he said.

He said the two alliances should assume a new role.

''The military security which the alliances guarantee the peoples of Europe should in a first stage be strengthened by cooperative security structures,'' he said.

''In a second stage the cooperatively structured alliances should be transformed into a common collective security alliance,'' he told the Parliamentary Assembly of the Western European Union.

The WEU includes nine West European countries, all NATO members, seeking to improve their defense cooperation.

''With the reduction of oppositions and tensions, the need for reducing weapons and troops to the lowest level needed for defense becomes even more urgent,'' Genscher said.

''If not, the military potentials will hamper the political development,'' he said.

''Disarmament becomes the core of the unification of Europe and of Germany '' he said.

''With the democratization of Central and Eastern Europe, the East-West opposition loses its ideological basis and with the disarmament its power politics basis. Now the stage starts in which Europe finds its unity and shapes it'', Genscher said.

Genscher also assured Poland that the Oder-Neisse line, as established after World War II, would remain Poland's western border with a unified Germany.

He said the Germans realize this is ''a basic condition for peace in Europe.''

BEIRUT, LEBANON (MARCH 23) UPI - A fire gutted a wing of the Syrian-guarded Soviet Embassy in Moslem west Beirut Friday, killing at least one person and injuring another, security officials said.

The officials said firefighters struggled for four hours to put out the blaze, which engulfed the eastern wing of the embassy's second floor.

Firemen retrieved a body believed to be a Soviet diplomat from the building, the officials said. A female embassy staff member was taken to a hospital for treatment, they said.

A police spokesman said a Lebanese police patrol was barred from entering the Syrian-guarded embassy building.

''We sent investigators but they were not allowed to enter the building because it is a foreign diplomatic property,'' said the spokesman who asked not to be named.

The security officials said the fire started in an electric circuit.

Soviet Ambassador Vassili Kolotosha supervised the extinguishing of the fire, the security officials said.

There was no indication whether sabotage played a part in the fire.

The blaze occurred following reported upgrading of security precautions around the embassy and the nearby Soviet cultural center because of fears of reprisals by fundamentalist Arab and Islamic groups for migration of Soviet Jews to Israel.

The Soviet mission has been on good terms with secular leftist groups, notably the Lebanese Communist Party, but has no links with pro-Iranian fundamentalist movements.

In 1985, the Beirut-based Soviets were dealt a harsh blow by the Moslem extremists when four Soviet diplomats were kidnapped. One of the hostages was killed in captivity, and the three others were freed later.

The Soviets were taken hostage to dramatize a fierce war against Moslem fundamentalist hideouts in northern Lebanon by Syrian-backed militia groups.

LA PAZ, BOLIVIA (MARCH 23) UPI - The son of the man once known as the Bolivian ''King of Cocaine'' was killed in a gunfight with police who suspected he was involved in an attack on the home of a U.S. drug agent, newspapers reported Friday.

Roberto Suarez Levy, 31, was killed late Thursday at a home in Santa Cruz, about 360 miles southeast of La Paz, the newspapers said. Suarez Levy was fatally shot in the stomach by police Lt. Mario Vargas, who was gravely wounded in the gunfight, the news reports said.

Suarez Levy is the son of Roberto Suarez Gomez, once known as the ''King of Cocaine'' for his control of much of the cocaine trade in Bolivia.

The commander of the anti-drug police unit, retired army Gen. Lucio Anez, said Suarez Levy was responsible for three attacks, including one at the home of Drug Enforcement Administration agent Robert Johnson.

No one was wounded in the attack on the Johnson home, police said.

Suarez Levy was detained in Switzerland in the early 1980s and extradited to the United States. In November 1982 a Miami jury acquitted him of two drug charges.

His father is serving a 12-year sentence in a La Paz prison for trafficking in cocaine.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 23) UPI - Major league umpires will boycott spring training to show their displeasure with baseball scheduling changes this year, an attorney for the umpires' union said Friday.

Minor league umpires will work the exhibition games, which begin Monday in Florida and Arizona.

Richard Phillips, who represents the umpires' union, said the action will not affect the regular season.

''The umpires have advised both leagues that under the circumstances, they will refuse to participate in the now-revised spring training schedule,'' Phillips said at a news conference.

''This action comes as a result of the owners' refusal to bargain in good faith with the major league umpires regarding the impact of the rescheduling of spring training games.''

Phillips also said he has filed an unfair labor practice charge on behalf of umpires with the National Labor Relations Board.

''We're charging the owners with a failure to bargain in good faith, and ... with effecting unilateral changes in the umpires' working conditions without any meaningful bargaining,'' Phillips said.

The owners and baseball Commissioner Fay Vincent did consult the Players' Association and CBS, which will broadcast this year's World Series, before announcing the schedule changes.

Phillips said his union endorses the use of minor league umpires during spring training. The league offices had little to say about the situation.

''There will be professional umpires working the spring training games,'' said Katy Feeney, director of media and public affairs for the National League.

She said she would have no other comment.

Vincent said Thursday the major league season, starting a week late because of the players' lockout, will be extended three days.

The 33-day lockout delayed the beginning of spring training until Monday, wiping out most of the exhibition schedule.

The extension of the season will allow each team to play a 162-game schedule. One of the two series missed because of the delayed start of the season will be made up during each team's regular schedule, while the other series will be played from Oct. 1-3.

Phillips said the minor league umpires will gain financially and by acquiring experience from working exhibiton games.

''We will encourage the minor league umpires to work these games so that they can earn a few dollars they otherwise wouldn't get and can gain some very invaluable experience,'' Phillips said.

He said the umpires do not consider their move a strike or a boycott.

''We do consider it a refusal to be recalled after they say that they laid us off,'' Phillips said.

He said umpires make significantly less money for working spring training - $150 per game compared to $850 for regular-season games - and accommodations in Florida and Arizona will be at a premium because of the short notice of the revised spring training schedule.

HOUSTON (MARCH 23) UPI - The Duke of Kent Thursday warned against possible trade barriers by the United States against a unified European market, saying the concept of ''Fortress Europe'' was wrong and made no sense.

The duke visited Houston to attend and participate in the 10-day Houston International Festival which began Thursday with the theme of ''A Salute to the United Kingdom.''

Addressing Houston business and civic leaders, the duke said Britain for years has depended on foreign trade and is committed to the continuation and improvement of the open world trading system.

''That is why we are so determined that the European Single Market, which is to be completed by 1992, will be an open one,'' he said.

The 12 member states of the European Community are three times more dependent on external trade than the United States, said the duke, who is also vice chairman of the British Overseas Trade Board.

''The 1992 program is about removing internal barriers,'' he explained. ''It would profit no one to raise external ones. And that is why Fortress Europe will remain a myth.''

He spoke at length of the historical trading ties between Texas and Britain dating back to 1858 and noted that 1990 marked the 150th anniversary of the signing of three treaties between Britain and the Lone Star State.

''The growth of Britain as an oil producing nation, which followed the discovery of oil in the British part of the North Sea, was largely the result of cooperation of Houston-based companies and British ones,'' he said.

Britain is exporting goods into the United States at a rate of $50 million daily, up from a 1979 total of $20 million a day, the duke said.

SPACESPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Astronaut John Young rocketed into history 25 years ago Friday on the first of six space voyages in a legendary career that took him to the moon twice and into the commander's seat for the first shuttle flight.

Logging 835 hours in the harsh environment of space - more than 20 hours on the surface of the moon - Young is the most experienced spaceman in the world, an occasional thorn in the side of NASA and a passionate advocate of space travel who believes humanity's salvation lies in education.

''It's clear that unless we get smarter faster snd apply what we've learned, with the human population increasing the way it is, it's going to be tough for our grandchildren,'' he said in an interview this week with United Press International. ''Quite frankly, I think the world is sort of in a war. We're in a war on ignorance.

''There are so many things that we just don't have the foggiest notion about. Our environment, for example. We don't know how that balance works. And what's going to happen to our kids with their educational problems?

''Young people today are really not inspired to go into things that are really fundamental to their survival, which is going to be the advanced technologies of tomorrow. We need to inspire them to get into that kind of work.''

Despite his many accomplishments, Young's illustrious career is at a crossroads.

He last flew in space in 1983 and as chief of the astronaut office at the Johnson Space Center, Young was in training to command a shuttle flight next month to launch the Hubble Space Telescope.

But in the wake of the 1986 Challenger disaster - and after he was sharply critical of NASA management for sacrificing safety to meet an overly ambitious launch schedule - he was removed from the crew and ''promoted'' to special assistant to JSC Director Aaron Cohen for engineering, operations and safety.

Still technically an active-duty astronaut, Young has not had a flight assignment since he lost the telescope mission and most agency observers question whether the 59-year-old pilot will ever fly in space again.

But nothing can dim the luster of his accomplishments and he continues to apply a sharp engineering mind and a wealth of experience to his job while remaining a vibrant link to NASA's youth when astronauts and engineers dreamed great dreams.

Young's long road began on March 23, 1965, when he and Virgil ''Gus'' Grissom crowded into the cockpit of a tiny Gemini capsule for the first manned flight of the new spacecraft in a program that would pave the way to the Apollo moon landings.

Young went on to command a second Gemini mission, he orbited the moon and then walked on the lunar surface during the Apollo 16 flight. He later served as commander of two shuttle missions, including the maiden voyage of Columbia in April 1981.

While proud of NASA's past accomplishments, Young regrets the nation has not gone further.

''We could be further (along) if we'd had more support in the mid '70s, if we hadn't wound down the Apollo program and sat back and figured out a way to keep NASA going all during the '70s,'' he said.

''People didn't want to go back to the moon in those days, they didn't want to explore space in the '70s, they were busy with the war in Vietnam and all those other domestic problems. I think things are starting to turn around now. People are interested in exploring space.''

As for lessons learned in the past 25 years, Young points to an increased awareness of the fragility of the environment.

''It's becoming pretty obvious we have to be much more aware of what's happening around us all over the world,'' he said. ''That's probably a good thing the space program has done, made everybody more concerned about our fellow man on the other side of the globe.''

And the future?

''Boy, it's going to be a long time before we can get to the stars (but) that's the way human beings ought to be, they ought to be out there settling on other planets, putting some redundancy in the species and getting on with exploration.

''It's very important to make sure we do all these things so our great grandchildren will have the opportunity to have challenging and rewarding lives. That's what it's all about. And it would be a lot of fun besides.''

LONDON (MARCH 23) UPI - The body of Farzad Bazoft arrived in Britain Friday, eight days after the Iranian-born reporter was hanged in Iraq on disputed espionage charges that ignited a diplomatic confrontation between London and Baghdad.

The London Observer newspaper, Bazoft's employer, said it had arranged a memorial service for Wednesday at a chapel in Fleet Street, the former center of the British press industry. It said funeral arrangements had not been finalized.

The Foreign Office said the government had taken possession of the body, which arrived on a scheduled Iraqi Airways flight.

''It will go to a coroner to decide whether to mount a postmortem or an inquest,'' an official said. ''The relatives do not live here, so whether they would want it buried or not, we don't know.''

Bazoft's parents still live in Iran, but he has a sister living in West Germany and brothers in Denmark and Pakistan. His body was handed over to the British embassy in Baghdad, Iraq, hours after he was hanged on March 15 on spying charges passed by a military tribunal.

Bazoft, 31, told a British diplomat as he was taken to the gallows that he was not spying last September, when he was alleged to have masqueraded as a doctor to gain entry to a restricted military zone and investigate reports of a massive explosion reported to have left hundreds dead.

Britain refuted the evidence and the trial methods, and tried numerous diplomatic channels to have Iraqi President Saddam Hussein grant mercy. But Iraq refused, saying Bazoft had been fairly tried under Iraqi law and the country would not yield to outside pressure.

Britain retaliated by recalling its ambassador and expelling six Iraqis training with the British military. Iraq then responded by staging mass anti-British demonstrations across the Middle Eastern nation.

Many commentators in Britain were stunned by the tough attitude of Iraqi authorities.

British diplomats said the Iraqi information minister handed over the corpse of Bazoft with the statement that ''Mrs. Thatcher wanted him alive. We have given her his body.''

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - The creditors committee of Drexel Burnham Lambert Group Inc. is near an intermim agreement with the Securities and Exchange Commission on the SEC's request to be named to the committee, an attorney representing the committee said Friday.

The SEC maintains it is Drexel's largest creditor, claiming Drexel still owes $150 million of a $650 million settlement of securities law violations reachedfollowing a government investigation into insider trading at the firm.

The SEC was not named to the creditors committee, formed after Drexel filed for bankruptcy protection Feb. 13, and the committee has opposed such a move.

At a hearing in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Manhattan, Marc Kirshner, attorney for the creditors committee, said he had been holding talks with SEC attorney Richard Kirby regarding the SEC's request.

''I believe we have a basic understanding in principle for an interim agreement,'' Kirschner said.

The interim agreement could last for about 60 days, he said.

Both Kirschner and Kirby said they would not elaborate on details of the agreement until it is finalized.

U.S. Bankrupty Court Judge Howard Buschman III called the possible settlement ''terrific.''

''I have encouraged settlement of this issue since day one,'' the judge said.

Drexel bankruptcy attorney Richard Krasnow said at the same hearing that Drexel and its creditors have made ''substantial progress'' towards an agreement on operating procedures for disposing of the investment house's $400 million portfolio.

The two sides said they hoped to submit a final agreement for Buschman's approval when the hearing resumed at 4 p.m.

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA (MARCH 23) UPI - A mysterious ailment sent hundreds more Albanian teenagers to hospitals in ethnically divided Kosovo province Friday as angry Albanians spurred by charges the youths were poisoned went on a rampage for a second day.

Kosovo, an autonomous province within the Serbian republic about 200 miles south of Belgrade, has been the site of bloody demonstrations with ethnic Albanians demanding more autonomy from the state.

The latest troubles began Thursday in secondary school classrooms in Podujevo, 20 miles north of the provincial capital of Pristina, when ethnic Albanian students began complaining of headache and stomach problems and taken to hospitals.

By Friday about 1,000 ethnic Albanians had been admitted to Kosovo hospitals, but none was dangerously ill, said Alus Gashi, dean of the Pristina Medical faculty.

A statement issued by the Yugoslav Labor and Health Ministry late Friday said experts established that ''there was not a single sign of an epidemic of infectious diseases nor poisoning.''

''Preliminary results of blood and urine analyses do not show the presence of poisonous substances,'' it said.

The ministry statement, however, did not determine the cause of the mysterious disease that has spread among ethnic Albanian teenagers but not to other ethnic groups in the province.

The statement said only that ethnic Albaniana aged between 16 and 18 have complained of burning face, dry mouth and dizziness, but that the patients recovered soon after taken to hospitals.

Ibrahim Rugova, leader of an ethnic Albanian opposition group in Pristina, accused authorities of using nerve gas to poison the children.

In the wake of the oubreak of the mysterious ailment, Belgrade Radio said Serbs were attacked and beaten on the streets of Vucitrn and Klina by angry ethnic Albanians.

''Serbs have barricaded themselves in their houses and Albanians blocked roads leading to Vucitrn,'' the radio report said.

More than 30 Serbs were beaten up by ethnic Albanians in the streets of Podujevo Thursday and at least 10 Serbs were attacked by Albanian extremists on Friday.

A crew from Belgrade Television crew in Vucitrn, 10 miles north of Pristina, was also attacked.

Emergency measures have been in effect in Kosovo in the past year with troops and tanks and paramilitary police patrolling the restive province to maintain peace and order and prevent clashes between ethnic Albanians and Serbians.

Since Jan. 24, more than 30 ethnic Albanians have been killed in clashes with police and more than 300 people, including 130 policemen, have been injured.

About 8.5 million Serbs make up the majority of Yugoslavia's population of 23 million, but in Kosovo, which borders Albania, about 200,000 Serbs are the minority to 1.7 million ethnic Albanians.

Ethnic Albanians complain the pro-Serbian authorities in Kosovo mistreat them while Serbs accuse Albanian extremists of persecuting them and forcing Serbs out of their homes.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - McGraw-Hill Inc. said Friday it has acquired a 50 percent stake in the French debt rating agency Agence d'Evaluation Financiere.

Terms were not disclosed. The remaining 50 percent is held by a number of French institutions.

Agence d'Evaluation Financiere's operations are similar to those of Standard & Poor's Corp., a New-York based McGraw-Hill subsidiary, which rates debt and bonds. The Paris-based agency is now incorporated under the name of S&P-ADEF.

McGraw-Hill said the acquisition is part of its business strategy to expand S&P's operations overseas. S&P already has offices in London, Tokyo Stockholm and Melbourne.

McGraw-Hill, a leading publishing and information services company, reported sales of $1.8 billion in 1989.

ALLEGAN, MI (MARCH 23) UPI - Two women convicted last week of lining up their children at all hours of the night so that various men could chose among them for sex were sentenced Friday to up to 40 years in prison.

Carolyn Wilson, 42, of Bangor, and Annette Sanford, 34, of South Haven, were each convicted on one count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and one third-degree count of the charge.

''Based on my recollection of the evidence, there certainly is substantial reason to believe you were in fact the leader of these criminal activities '' Allegan County Circuit Judge George Corsiglia told Wilson.

''You violated society's trust and respect ... treating your children in the most heinous way I can conceive of.''

Neither woman spoke before sentencing.

''There is very little more than can be said,'' said Allegan County Prosecutor Andrew Marks. ''(Our goal is) the protection of the children and of society.''

A jury that heard 2 1/2 days of testimony deliberated about 35 minutes March 16 before convicting the women, who maintained the six children fabricated reports of physical and sexual abuse.

A week ago, the women were sentenced to up to 40 years in prison on a January conviction on first-degree criminal sexual conduct charges for forcing the Wilson boy and a Sanford girl to have sexual intercourse while the women watched.

The boy and four girls, who now range in age from 9 to 16, and an 18-year-old mentally impaired girl began revealing accounts of the abuse after they were placed in foster care homes in May 1988.

School officials contacted social services staff when some of the youngsters were found eating from garbage cans and displayed other indications of neglect, testimony showed.

Authorities allege the women, whom the children said lived together as lovers, often awoke them at night, lined them up in order from oldest to youngest and allowed men to choose among them for sex.

The incidents occurred while the two women - each the mother of three of the children - shared a rented home in the Plainwell area from 1985 until the children were placed in foster care.

The children said they were ordered to comply or be beaten and also said their mothers threatened to contact authorities and have them taken from the home if they refused.

A Kalamazoo pediatrician testified two of Wilson's children showed physical signs of repeated rape when he examined them at the request of social services officials in October 1988.

Dr. David Hickok said Wilson's then 12-year-old son had been sodomized at least a dozen times and conceded the abuse could have occured up to 100 times.

Wilson's then 14-year-old daughter also revealed signs of repeated penetration, he testified.

Both children testified one or both of the women often watched as they had sex with the man who chose them, either in the bedroom shared by Wilson and Sanford or in their own bedroom.

''I think they do miss their mothers because they are their mothers,'' said foster mother Dixie Lumbard, ''but they have terrible feelings about the things that happened.''

JUNEAU, AK (MARCH 23) UPI - Nine crewmen missing after a 162-foot fishing ship suddenly rolled over and sank in the frigid Bering Sea were presumed drowned Friday while 22 survivors were being taken to a safe harbor, the Coast Guard said.

''At this time, we don't think there is any hope of finding them. We are not conducting an active search of the area today,'' said Lt. Brian Flory of the Coast Guard's Juneau station.

''We had seven hours of good weather to search yesterday. Basically, at this point, there's no chance they could be alive in the Bering Sea. From what we have been told, they were below decks when the ship rolled and didn't have time to get out.''

The 22 survivors, 15 from the Seattle area, were rescued from life rafts following the sinking of the Aleutian Enterprise 60 miles south of St. Paul Island in the remote Pribilof group Thursday afternoon. They were en route to Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Friday aboard a sister ship, the Pacific Enterprise, Flory said.

None of the survivors were seriously injured, he said.

The nine missing crewmen were identified as mate Nello Marciel, 55, of San Diego; chief engineer John A. Dieterich, 31, of Seattle; foreman Matthew J. Schneider, 22, of Issaquah, Wash.; Joseph J. Alaimo, 45, of Yakima, Wash.; Robert W. Davis, 26, of Renton, Wash.; Jeffrey A. Houston, 21, of Warren, Ore.; Javier Martin V. Castro, 27, of Seattle; David J. Jefferies, 19, of Fontana, Calif.; and fisheries observer Robert McCord, 35, of Englewood, Colo.

Dan Roberts, spokesman for Arctic Alaska Fisheries Corp., of Seattle, said his company managed the vessel under contract to the owners, Aleutian Enterprise Ltd., a California limited partnership.

There were no immediate explanations of what caused the large ''catcher-processer'' to roll over. Coast guard officials said they were told the ship, which can trawl for bottom fish, process and fast-freeze them on board, capsized and sank in about five minutes.

''We have absolutely no idea what happened,'' Roberts said. ''We have had no chance to talk to the crew.''

Coast Guard officials said the vessel sank in relatively calm, 6-foot seas within sight of two sister vessels, the Pacific Enterprise and the Northwest Enterprise, which steamed quickly to the site from about a half-mile away and picked up survivors from two life rafts.

Early reports indicated the ship sank too fast to allow crew members to climb into survival suits necessary to survive immersion in the waters of the Bering Sea.

A Coast Guard C-130 aircraft aided in an extensive search of the area Thursday but found no trace of the missing crew.

Roberts said the Aleutian Enterprise usually remains in the Bering Sea for 12 to 15 months at a time before returning to Seattle for maintenance. He was not certain how long the ship had been at sea this trip.

Company officials said once the survivors reached land, they would be flown to Anchorage, Alaska, and then on to Seattle.

FORT WORTH, Texas (MARCH 23) UPI - Owners of Snyder Oil Partners L.P. and SOCO Holdings Inc. Friday approved the consolidation of the two into a new corporation, called Snyder Oil Corp., through a stock swap.

The privately-held SOCO had already held a 10 percent interest in the limited Snyder partnership and one of its subsidiaires had been the partnership's general partner.

In the consolidation, the common units of the partnership will be converted into 0.5 share and preference A units into 1.35 shares of the new corporation.

Each common share of SOCO Holdings will be converted into 1.324 common share of the new corporation.

The new corporation plans to issue about 23.6 million shares of common stock in the consolidation, the announcement said.

The new common stock will commence trading on the New York Stock exchange Monday. Trading on the common and preference units of the partnership will be suspended at close of business Friday.

If the consolidation had occurred on Jan. 1, 1989, the announcment said the new corporation's earnings would have been $8 million on revenues of $83.6 million.

Proved reserves of the two merging entities at the end of last year totaled 40.1 million equivalent barrels with an after-tax present value of $160.6 million.

The new company also has interests in natural gas gathering, transportation and processing.

''In the corporate form, more funds can be retained by the corporation to be used to replenish its reserves which should give the holders a greater appreciation in their stock prices,'' said Rodney Waller, senior vice president of the corporation.

The new company has an outstanding debt of about $30 million, owed mostly to banks, Waller said.

Prior to the merger, the partnership's distribution to its common unitholders had been reduced to 15 cents a unit each quarter from 50 cents a unit in 1983, he said. Preferred unitholders have been receiving 53 cents a unit.

Testimony in Poindexter's trial resumes this morning in Washington, D-C.

New orders for goods made to last at least three years rose three-point-three percent last month, totaling 121 and one-half-BILLION dollars. The Commerce Department says much of the reason for the February increase stems from the strong demand for cars, ships and military tanks. The government says January durable goods orders fell 10-point-seven percent to a revised 117-point-six-BILLION dollars.

CHICAGO (MARCH 23) UPI - Widespread selling and the lack of buyers pressured the grain prices Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Grain futures were lower and soybeans were sharply lower at the close.

Traders attributed most of the selling to profit-taking and positioning ahead of the weekend. The lack of any substantial near-term export business also kept the market on the defensive.

Improving soil moisture conditions contributed to the weakness. Widespread rain this week and more precipitation in the forecast prompted additional selling.

Soybean meal had traded higher all week, but sold off Friday. Hopes of increased exports of meal faded on news the economic situation in Brazil had stabilized.

Aggressive professional selling pressured soybeans, although prices were above session lows at the final bell.

The grains were slightly lower in quiet trading. Mexico bought corn, otherwise there was little news on the export front.

At the close, corn was off 1/4 to 1 1/2, soybeans down 4 1/4 to 7, wheat off 1 to 2 and oats down 1 1/4 to 2.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - The Transportation Department granted a new passenger airline, Discovery Airways, temporary permission Friday to begin service in Hawaii while the government continues to review questions about Japanese control of the carrier.

Under the ''fitness certificate'' granted Discovery, the airline could be required to terminate the service in the future if the department finds the airline is substantially controlled by foreign interests, department spokesman Bill Mosley said.

''We gave them temporary permission to begin service pending the resolution of the issue,'' he said.

The agency is to make a final determination on the question of foreign control following a hearing on the matter, but no date for the hearing has been set, Mosley said.

The new airline has already received the Federal Aviation Administration's required safety certification and can begin flying immediately, Mosley said.

Discovery had planned to offer 48 flights between the islands of Oahu, Kauai and Maui on its originally scheduled opening date of March 1.

The two competing carriers currently offering island-hopping service in Hawaii - Aloha Airlines and Hawaiian Airlines - have filed objections to Discovery's application.

They assert that Discovery is essentially controlled by Japanese interests because its primary American shareholder, Philip Ho, also is president of Nansay Hawaii, a U.S. subsidiary of Japan's Nansay Co.

Under federal regulations, an air carrier must show it is at least 75 percent U.S.-owned and ''substantially controlled'' by American citizens to be certified for commercial operations by the Transportation Department.

The company must also pass muster under guidelines to determine financial standing, managers' qualifications and its record of compliance with U.S. laws and regulations.

Discovery's airline fleet is comprised of four British-built BAe 146 jet aircraft - a fleet much smaller than those operated by either Aloha or Hawaiian.

The fixed rate last week was 10.34 percent, and the adjustable rate last week averaged 8.55 percent, according to the agency that buys mortgages from lenders and packages them as securities for sale to investors.

The fixed-rate average is for a 30-year loan covering 80 percent of a home's cost. The average adjustable-rate mortgage also is for 30 years, but for 75 percent of the home price.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - President Bush warned the Soviet Union Friday that any attempt to forcibly intervene against Lithuania's determination to secede ''is bound to backfire.''

Bush told a news conference the United States stands with the Lithuanian people and supports their right to self-determination.

''Any attempt to coerce or intimidate or forcibly intervene against the Lithuanian people, is bound to backfire,'' Bush said. ''That is inevitable.''

The president made the remarks in a formal statement and then in response to questions at the luncheon he held for regional journalists.

Questioned about reports of a possible confrontation during the weekend between Soviet and Lithuanian forces in the Baltic republic that declared itself independent earlier this month, Bush said:

''I see a lot of the intelligence on this. At this moment I can't say I'm predicting some kind of conflagration over the weekend and at this point, I hope not and that's why I will continue to urge, through any forum possible, peaceful resolution to this question.

Bush said he was ''somewhat heartened'' by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze's statement to Secretary of State James Baker at the Namibian independence day ceremonies that the Kremlin would not use force against the Lithuania.

''Now, the Soviet leadership has said again and again it will not use force,'' Bush said. ''And we welcome that. And let me repreat: We have made clear to the Soviet Union that the situation in Lithuania can only be solved peacefully.''

''The brave men and women of Lithuania have made known their desire to re-establish the sovereignty of the Republic of Lithuania,'' he said. ''The United States stands with them and supports their right to self-determination. It's a complex and sensitive time when realistic, level-headed leadeship is required on all sides.''

''Lithuanian leaders have consistently demonstrated their capacity in this regard and the United States will do nothing that will make their task more difficult,'' Bush said. ''We've repeatedly urged the Soviet Union, the Soviet government, to enter into immediate negotiations with the Lithuanian government, which has itself called for those talks, and we know that the Soviet Union has a longstanding interest in Lithuania, but those interests can only be addressed through dialogue and negotiations.''

The United States has never recognized the incorporation of Lithuania into the Soviet Union following a pact with Nazi German in 1939 just days before the outbreak of World War II.

Lithuania has been urging the United States and other nations in the international community to extend it diplomatic recognition to enhance the Baltic state's breakaway status.

A resolution calling on the president to ''consider'' recognition of an independent Lithuania was approved by the Senate Thursday.

The Senate voted 93-0 to adopt the non-binding resolution coupled with a warning agadent to ''consider'' recognizing the democratically elected government of Lithuania and warning the Soviet Union against the use of force to block secession.

TIRGU MURES, ROMANIA (MARCH 23) UPI - Hungary escalated its war of words with Romania Friday over its handling of ethnic violence in Transylvania, as residents began to survey the damage from the worst ethnic unrest in modern Romania.

The renewed verbal offensive came as leaders of the ethnic Hungarian and Romanian communities continued to meet to search for a peaceful solution to the unrest in Tirgu Mures, where two days of clashes killed at least three people and wounded 300. Unofficial sources put the death toll at eight.

The Transylvanian city of 150,000 remained quiet and under heavy military guard Friday as its residents began to survey the damage from Romania's worst ethnic unrest since World War II.

The main square of Tirgu Mures was still carpeted with broken glass and strips of wood from park benches that were ripped apart for use as weapons by vigilante groups of ethnic Hungarians and Romanians who attacked cars and terrorized the streets. Several burned-out buses also bore witness to the violence earlier in the week.

At least 90 people remained hospitalized following the violence Tuesday and Wednesday.

The violence followed a week of escalating tension over Hungarian demands for cultural autonomy in Transylvania where most of Romania's ethnic Hungarians live. The Romanian government, in a concession aimed at ending the unrest, agreed to Hungarian demands for schools and newspapers in their own language.

Strikes that had idled factories and businesses in Tirgu Mures and other Transylvanian cities ended Friday, although some workers staged one-hour walkouts or wore arm bands in a symbolic protest.

Six Hungarian youths began a hunger strike in the Transylvanian town of Odorheiu-Secuiesc to press demands for guaranteed protection of the rights of minorities and punishment for those who carried out the attacks.

The Hungarian government stepped up its criticism of Romania's handling of the unrest, which Hungary has described as a ''pogrom'' against the Hungarian minority.

''I think the word 'pogrom' is not an exaggeration here,'' Deputy Prime Minister Imre Szokai said. ''It can be proven that fascist organizations initiated the actions against Hungarians.''

Hungary has threatened to suspend bilateral talks on other issues until Bucharest takes steps to guarantee the safety of Romania's 2 million ethnic Hungarians.

Rumors of meddling by both governments played a role in raising tensions in Transylvania this week. Stories had been circulating about an alleged military buildup along the Hungarian border and a reported plot by Hungary to annex Transylvania, once part of its empire. Hungarian officials dismissed the rumors as nonsense.

There were demonstrations Thursday in Tirgu Mures, where about 6,000 students and factory workers chanted ''Transylvania is Romanian'' in a protest against what they termed Hungarian extremism.

''The Hungarians understood our appeal to stay at home but Romanians are still out on the streets, walking and chanting,'' Mures County Police Chief Col. Gheorghe Gambrea said Thursday. ''I thought we were all sick of slogans but it is obviously not so.''

Gambrea blamed much of the violence in on gangs of extremists who were bused in from other towns and villages.

''Even the mayors came in the buses, defying our appeal, and we believe alcohol was distributed to the vandals,'' he said.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - A 16-foot cinderblock wall under construction at a Brooklyn department store warehouse collapsed Friday, crashing through a roof and killing two people, authorities said.

At least seven other people were injured in the collapse, four of them seriously, officials said.

The wall collapsed about 9:15 a.m. EST at the Century 21 Department Store warehouse in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn shortly after a construction crew began the day's work on the project.

The crew was adding a second floor to the building when the wall collapsed with the workers still on the scaffolding, officials said.

''They were putting up a cinder block wall which collapsed onto the roof of the adjoining section of the warehouse, causing the roof to collapse,'' said Robert Ungar, first assistant fire commissioner.

Fire Lt. William Heinz, one of the first to arrive on the scene, described it as ''a terrible sight.''

The dead were identified as Luz Serrano, 47, of Brooklyn, who was employed in the warehouse, and Sean Campbell, 33, a construction worker who lived in the Bronx.

An Emergency Medical Services spokesman said at least seven other people were injured and that four of them - three men and a woman - were hospitalized. Two were reported to be in cardiac arrest. None of them was immediately identified.

One rescuer described the heroic efforts of a worker who shielded a victim during the collapse.

''People were yelling. I went back there to find everybody,'' said the unidentified rescuer. ''One person was in the store still - he was on top of another lady to save her.''

Vahe Tiryakian, a Buildings Department spokesman, said the construction company, Vertex Construction of Rockaway Park, Queens, had a permit to do the work.

''We don't have a specific cause of the collapse,'' he said. ''But it was very windy out there. That may have played a part.''

JERUSALEM (MARCH 23) UPI - Israel has asked the United States and Hungary to help maintain flights between Budapest and Tel Aviv for Soviet Jewish immigrants, Israeli officials said Friday.

Hungary's national airlines, Malev, canceled charter flights for the Soviet immigrants as of Thursday because of bomb threats from the Islamic Jihad revolutionary group, Hungarian officials said.

Ganos Vvari, the Hungarian Embassy's third secretary in Tel Aviv, said a bomb threat was received March 16, prompting Malev officials to suspend charter flights as of Thursday.

Israel has asked the Bush administration to intervene with the Hungarian government to ensure that regularly scheduled flights between Hungary and Israel continue, The Jerusalem Post newspaper reported.

A spokesman for Israel's Foreign Ministry confirmed Friday that Israeli officials spoke with Hungarian authorities in Budapest and Tel Aviv as well as ''with the Americans to see what the implications are.''

Israeli officials estimate as many as 100,000 Soviet Jews may come to Israel this year.

Protests by Palestinians and Arab nations against Soviet immigration swelled after Yitzhak Shamir, then Israel's prime minister, said in January that a ''big Israel'' was needed in which to settle the large number of Soviet Jews that were expected. Since then, however, Israeli officials have stressed there is no government policy to settle Soviet Jews in the Israeli-occupied territories.

The Israeli military imposed censorship on information pertaining to Soviet immigration earlier this month, prompting the Jewish Agency, which is responsible for the settlement of immigrants, to halt their announcements on how many Soviet Jews travel through different cities on their way to Israel.

Israel said censorship was imposed because of growing threats against immigrants by Arab organizations.

Shamir met Friday with professionals involved in the immigration of Soviet Jews and expressed concern over Malev's cancellation of charter flights, Israel Radio reported. Foreign Minister Moshe Arens said he believed the most effective approach to resolve the issue was through quiet diplomacy, the radio reported.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Despite the opening of Eastern European markets, the region may not be fertile grounds for some small U.S. business ventures, a Commerce Department official said Friday.

''We've got to be realistic about the obstacles we face in these countries '' said Thomas Duesterberg, the Commerce Department's assistant secretary for international economic policy.

''Eastern European markets are not for everybody,'' he said. ''Eastern Europe is no place for an inexperienced exporter ... even a sophisticated exporter faces a difficult market situation.''

Speaking to the Senate Small Business Committee, Duesterberg said Eastern Europe lacks the basic economic infrastructure needed to support many small business ventures.

He said telecommunication, transportation and distribution systems are all underdeveloped and that basic legal and accounting systems common in Western countries do not exist.

''Economic reform is ususally more slow than political reform,'' Duesterberg said. ''It means early opportunites will be in helping these nations create the basic infrastructure that they require.''

U.S. business exported slightly more than $1 billion in products to Eastern European markets in 1989, roughly equivalent to exports to Norway, Duesterberg said.

He said that U.S. products accounted for 5 percent of Eastern European imports in 1989, compared with 90 percent from European countries.

In visits to Congress, Polish Solidarity leader Lech Walesa and Czechoslovakian President Vachlav Havel have urged U.S. legislators to encourage investment and business ventures in their countries.

But with trade developing slowly as the burgeoning European Community expands into these new markets, senators said they worry that the United States may be missing opportunities.

''Other country's businesses are all over the place,'' said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich. ''I've been to Czechoslovakia and East Germany - they're there.''

SEATTLE (MARCH 23) UPI - The Boeing Co. said it laid off Friday 360 hourly workers - a much smaller number of pink slips than had been anticipated in the first round of a worker reduction program at the company.

Boeing announced in January reductions in the work force this year would total about 5,000, with most jobs lost in the Puget Sound area. About half the total was to have come from layoffs and the other half from attrition.

Boeing, which employed a total of about 164,600 people at the end of 1989, blamed the reductions on the completion of the startup phase of 747-400 jumbo jet production and on less defense work. The bulk of the layoffs were expected in Everett, Wash., where 747s are built.

Boeing sent out about 1,900 notices - with some added as a cushion - as mandated by the federal Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, which requires that workers be given 60 days notice of potential layoffs.

During the 60-day period, however, the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers negotiated the transfer of hundreds of jobs to other places within the company.

The federal law ''gave us time to pursue options for our people, rather than having 1,700 people hit the streets all at once,'' said Gary Jackson, an official with IAM Local 751.

''Now that they have to give advance notice, things can be done to avoid many of these layoffs,'' Jackson said. ''Our primary goal has been to get people placed back in the company. That's why the (layoff) numbers are way down.''

Other jobs were eliminated as a result of employees leaving Boeing on their own to take work elsewhere, said Boeing spokesman Paul Binder.

Binder said that earlier this month, when two-week layoff notices were due to be sent out, the original 1,700 had been reduced to 600. In the past two weeks,that number was reduced to 360.

''In our business it's difficult to forecast 60 days down the road what you will need in the way of workers,'' Binder said.

''Obviously, anytime you are looking at a 1,700-person layoff and end up with 360, that's good news. But the downside is that even if we have to lay off just one person, we don't like to see it.''

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 23) UPI - The governing body of the faculty at Cal State Northridge has voted to expel the ROTC program from campus, saying the military's exclusion of homosexuals violates the university's anti-discrimination policies, officials said Friday.

On a 44-15 vote, with two abstentions, CSUN's faculty senate became the second to try to bar the Reserve Officer Training Corps since the end of the Vietnam War.

In December, the faculty of the University of Wisconsin voted to eliminate ROTC, but their vote was overturned in February by the university's Board of Regents.

''The armed services are practicing the last legal form of discrimination in this country,'' said Howard Happ, a CSUN religious studies professor. ''It does not become this university ... to continue this program.''

The final decision rests with CSUN President James W. Cleary, who has 30 days to endorse or oppose the ROTC ban, approved by the faculty senate Thursday.

Although he has acknowledged he usually rubber-stamps the decisions of the faculty senate, Cleary passed the recommendation to university attorneys for review.

The decision could come into conflict with federal policies because the U.S. Supreme Court earlier this year reaffirmed the military's right to exclude avowed homosexuals from service, CSUN spokeswoman Ann Salisbury said.

Should the U.S. Department of Defense choose to challenge the end of CSUN's commitment to the ROTC program, the university could lose federal defense money or possibly all of its federal dollars, Salisbury said.

Currently, CSUN, located in the Los Angeles suburb of Northridge, receives about $10 million each year from the federal government, about $6 million of that for student financial aid.

Under the faculty senate's ban, Air Force ROTC classes would continue on campus until all 15 students currently enrolled have completed the courses or elected to drop the program, said Air Force Col. George Pehlvanian, who oversees the ROTC program. Thereafter, CSUN students who want to take Air Force classes would have to commute to UCLA, as Army and Navy students already do.

Pehlvanian said the faculty's proposal would immediately delete all mention of the program from course catalogues and would prohibit ROTC recruitment advertising in the school newspaper.

CLEVELAND (MARCH 23) UPI - The nation's steel service industry reported Friday average daily shipments increased 5 percent from January to February but combined shipments for the first two months were down 0.4 percent from the same period last year.

Steel service centers purchase and distribute one-third of the carbon industrial steel products and nearly half of all stainless steel produced in the United States.

Thirty-seven percent of the steel service centers polled said they expect incoming orders to increase during the next three months. That compares with 30 percent last year.

Total average daily shipments of 94,567 tons surpassed the previous high of 93,667 tons per day reported by the Steel Service Center Institute for March 1988. But shipments for the month were below January's level because of the three fewer days.

February shipments were up 1.8 percent from February 1989.

The Steel Service Center Institute said carbon products paced the strong month as structurals were up 13.8 percent over January levels, tubing jumped 10.4 percent and bars climbed 8.7 percent.

The average daily shipping rate for stainless steel products was up 9.3 percent over January.

''Most steel consuming markets remain healthy, although there remain a number of conflicting economic signals,'' said Andrew G. Sharkey, president of the trade group. ''Declines in demand for transportation equipment resulted in an overall 10.5 percent decline in January new orders for manufactured durable goods. Unfilled orders for durable goods, however, remain largely unchanged from December.''

In February, inventories were at 6.7 million tons, compared with 6.4 million tons in January.

''Service centers have obviously rebuilt inventory over the past months,'' Sharkey said. ''As we projected, some inventory replacement was inevitable as companies attempted to fill holes within product lines and to meet stronger demands from metalworking customers.''

CHICAGO (MARCH 23) UPI - UAL Corp., parent of United Airlines, cleared the way for Marvin Davis to buy UAL stock Friday, but a spokesman for the billionaire Los Angeles investor refused to say if he would try to top a $5.2 billion buyout bid by United employees.

UAL announced it has modified the confidentiality and standstill agreement with Davis ''so as to permit Mr. Davis to purchase securities of UAL.''

UAL spokesman Joe Hopkins said he did not know whether the action was taken at Davis' request, and a Davis spokesman in New York refused to comment.

Davis started the bidding for UAL Aug. 7 with a $5.4 billion, $240 a share takeover offer, and sweetened the bid to $6.2 billion, or $275 a share, the following week.

He signed the standstill agreement last September to gain access to confidential UAL financial data needed to determine if he could top a $6.75 billion, $300 share bid endorsed by the UAL board.

Davis was unable to top the $6.75 billion price, but offered to match it if the pending deal fell through.

The board-endorsed bid - by a group that included United pilots, a UAL management group headed by Chairman Stephen Wolf, and British Airways - collapsed for lack of financing Oct. 13 and sent UAL stock prices skidding.

Davis withdrew his offer to match the $300 a share price the following week, sending UAL stock down even further amid reports he was selling off his holdings.

The three United employee unions - the Air Line Pilots Association, the Association of Flight Attendants and the International Association of Machinists - and a non-union employee group agreed for the first time earlier this year to work together on a new employee buyout bid.

The unions this week formed an alliance with UAL's biggest stockholder - Condor Partners, which holds 11.8 percent of UAL's common stock - to press the latest employee buyout bid.

Condor was preparing a proxy battle to unseat UAL directors at the company's April 26 annual meeting and pave the way for employee acquisition of the company.

But the unions and Condor asked the UAL board to begin negotiations on the buyout before the proxy contest began.

UAL directors held a special meeting in New York Thursday and reluctantly agreed to the negotiations.

''Despite serious deficiencies which the board believes exist in the buyout proposal, including its value and financeability, the board has instructed its advisers to enter into the requested negotiations,'' the board said in a statement.

The statement, however, noted directors believed ''there is a disparity between the value of the proposal and the otherwise realizable value of the company.''

Consequently, the board instructed its advisers ''actively to develop a plan for asset dispositions, to consider any proposal for purchase of the entire company by other parties, and to address all other alternatives for realizing greater and fair value for shareholders.''

The employee-led buyout proposal would give shareholders $150 per share in cash, $25 per share in 10-year senior subordinated notes bearing 15 percent interest, and non-voting common stock constituting 25 percent of the new company's total common equity. The remaining 75 percent would be held by an Employee Stock Ownership Plan.

The unions and Condor have declined to put a price tag on the buyout. But Robert Decker, airline industry analyst for the Chicago-based investment-rating firm Duff & Phelps, estimated the total value of the deal at about $230 a share, or $5.2 billion.

ATLANTIC CITY, NJ (MARCH 23) UPI - A veteran casino analyst who sparked Donald Trump's anger by publicly questioning the Taj Mahal's ability to survive was fired from his job Friday after refusing to back down from his unflattering comments.

''I've now been fired because I wanted to tell the truth, unfortunately,'' said Marvin Roffman, a gaming analyst with Janney Montgomery Scott Inc., the Philadelphia brokerage firm, as he packed up the office where he has spent the last 16 years.

''As an analyst, it's your job to say negative things if they have to be said,'' Roffman said.

Securities analysts, who frequently specialize in a particular industry, study companies and issue buy or sell recommendations.

Roffman said Janney Chairman Edgar Scott terminated him after a tangled series of events beginning with his assessment in a newspaper article Tuesday that the massive Taj may not be able to earn the $1.3 million a day it needs to pay its annual debt service of $94.5 million during the resort's slow winter months.

Janney officials and Trump could not be reached for comment Friday.

Roffman said he arrived Tuesday at the Taj, which opens next month, for a previously scheduled tour and was met by Donald Trump's brother, Robert.

''He said, 'I've come down here personally to tell you to get the hell off the property,''' Roffman said. ''He kicked me off the property and wouldn't show me around. He said 'You've injured the property.'''

When he arrived back in Philadelphia, Roffman learned that Trump had sent his superiors a letter calling for his immediate dismissal or a public apology.

Roffman said his bosses, upset by Trump's wrath, outlined several options for him.

They said he could stay at Janney but forgo his normal annual bonus and never again speak with the media, participate in conferences or testify before New Jersey gaming regulators. He was also told he was on probation and would be reevaluated at a later date. Or, Roffman said, he was told he could leave.

GENEVA (MARCH 23) UPI - The World Health Organization recommended a triple-strain ''cocktail'' vaccine Friday for immunization in the 1990-1991 influenza season.

Issued each year, WHO advisories to doctors on the best kind of flu vaccine to use are based on data from 100 laboratories wolrdwide on prevalent viruses.

Influenza seasons usually run from November to May in the Northern Hemisphere and in the Southern Hemisphere from May or June until September.

''The 1989-1990 influenza season in the Northern Hemisphere began unusually early, in October-November, with outbreaks of influenza A in North America, Europe and Asia,'' a WHO statement said.

''Both the United Kingdom and the USA reported excess mortality related to the influenza epidemic,'' it said. ''In the United Kingdom the epidemic was the most severe since 1976.''

WHO said influenza A strains predominated although B viruses were also isolated in a number of countries.

''After reviewing the prevalence and antigenic character of various virus strains isolated during the current season, WHO recommend that the vaccine for use in the 1990-1991 season be trivalent,'' it said.

Immunization is recommended for individuals over the age of 65, those who suffer from chronic disease of the heart, lung, immune system problems anddiabetes and those who live or work under crowded conditions, it said.

''The vaccine should be received in autumn before the influenza season begins,'' it said.

(MARCH 23) UPI - The Coast Guard is searching the Bering Sea for 10 people missing from a fishing trawler that capsized and sank off St. Paul Island. 22 people were rescued yesterday by other fishing boats after the 162-foot Aleutian Enterprise rolled over and sank. The survivors are in good condition.

Two Air Force FMillion dollars each crashed last night in Utah's western desert. But Hill Air Force officials say the pilot of each plane ejected safely. The planes were on a night refueling training mission. The Air Force is NOT commenting on how the crash occurred.

Reputed drug lord Pablo Escobar is denying claims by the Colombian government that he ordered yesterday's assassination of a leftist presidential candidate. Escobar sent a signed statement to leaders of the victim's party asking why he should want to kill a candidate who opposed the extradition of drug barons to the United States.

The government filed a civil rights lawsuit against a Long Island, New York, housing village, accusing officials of nepotism. The suit alleges officials gave friends and relatives, including a cousin of Senator Alfonso D'Amato, subsidized housing before minorities applied. It asks for the return of six homes.

Texas Senator Lloyd Bentsen opened a meeting of moderate Democrats in New Orleans with a charge that President Bush was too timid in dealing with rapid changes in the world's political landscape. The Democrats are trying to change their image from ''liberal'' to ''moderate.'' But the conference is avoiding controversial issues such as abortion and taxes.

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, FL (MARCH 23) UPI - An air-to-air missile designed as a mainstay for Air Force and Navy fighters successfully demonstrated its ability to engage multiple targets in a test Friday, Air Force officials said.

The test of the Advanced Medium Range Air-to-Air Missile over the Eglin Gulf Test Range was set up to demonstrate the system's capability for near-simultaneous, multiple kills against multiple targets when launched from a single aircraft.

The AMRAAM, developed by Hughes Aircraft Co., is designed for the Air Force's F-15 and F-16 jets, the Navy's F-14 and F/A-18, the German F-4F and the United Kingdon's Sea Harrier.

Last summer problems with the AMRAAMs and F-15s programs showed up during testing when four missiles were fired against four targets. The problem has been resolved and a new series of tests were launched.

Friday's was the third test in the latest series. In the first test, a single AMRAAM was fired from an F-16. In the second test a few weeks ago, an F-15 fired one AMRAAM at two targets and made a lethal pass.

In Friday's test, two missiles were launched from an F-15 flying at 650 mph 15,000 feet above the water when its pilot saw four oncoming target drones traveling near the speed of sound and at lower altitudes.

The targets attempted to confuse the 12-foot long, 345-pound missile and aircraft guidance systems through electronic countermeasures. Additional craft in the area tried to confuse them as well.

The F-15 pilot was able to perform evasive maneuvers because the AMRAAMs own radar guides it to the target. One missile scored a direct hit and the other passed within lethal distance of the second target.

''This tough environment is just what our fighter pilots may have to deal with in a future war,'' said Brig. Gen. Charles E. Franklin, director of the AMRAMM program et Eglin's Munitions Systems Division.

Next month's test pits an F-15 armed with four AMRAAMs against four targets.

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY (MARCH 23) UPI - More than 1,600 candidates for Parliament wound up their campaigns Friday amid signs of voter apathy two days before the initial round of Hungary's first free elections in more than four decades.

In rural areas especially, the apathy was accompanied by fear and uncertainty by a population that still remembers the so-called ''salami tactics'' of communist dictator Matyas Rakosi after World War II. The tactics, slice by slice, steadily eroded the power base of the other political parties until the communist takeover was complete by the spring of 1948.

''It's difficult to say what people will buy after 45 years of no political rights,'' said Zoltan Bogardi, a board member of the Hungarian Democratic Forum, the largest opposition party with 30,000 members.

''They want to see and will adopt the program that is most fiercely against the communists,'' Bogardi said.

Friday was the final day for rallies because the parties mutually agreed to a moratorium on campaigning on Saturday. By Western standards, the rallies were about as exciting as a lecture on Marxist economics.

At the final Budapest rally for the Democratic Forum Friday evening, the audience politely applauded and waved paper flags for a chain of speakers but grew increasingly restless as musical groups tried to break the monotony with Hungarian and Transylvanian folksongs.

Only FIDESZ, the Young Democratic Party, seems to have generated a little spark - most notably with a ''Goodbye Regime'' party Thursday night at a packed sports stadium where for 3 cents, you could go back to the good old days and be ''beaten'' by a police baton.

But despite - or perhaps because of - a relatively long election campaign, there were indications that not enough voters would go to the polls on Sunday to validate results in the majority of districts.

The candidates were vying for 386 parliamentary seats under a complicated voting system worked out last November in talks between opposition movements and the ruling Communist Party.

The former Communist Party, now called the Hungarian Socialist Party, has 62,000 members - less than a 10th of its membership before it changed its name and Marxist policies last October. It is expected to pull less than 8 percent of the votes among the 7.85 million eligible to cast ballots.

The biggest issue seems to be how to return all the land and property appropriated by the communists since the war.

The Smallholders Party, the only one of the parties with any significant following before the communist takeover, is proposing a direct return of land to its previous owners.

It's a highly popular notion - Hungary was about 50 percent agrarian before the war - but opposition parties charge the property rights issues is much more complicated and the Smallholders' campaign promise is an empty one.

But the real problem boiled down to voter apathy.

Under the complicated electoral system, a majority of eligible Hungarians must vote in each district Sunday in the first round of elections for the results to be valid.

Some political analysts predict less than half of the constituencies will make the threshold. One Democratic Forum member even said the figure could be less than 30 percent.

In runoff elections scheduled April 8, the threshhold drops to 25 percent of eligible voters, and the candidate with the most votes automatically wins.

With several candidates running in some districts, that could mean the winning candidate gains office by the votes of only a handful of the eligible voters in that district.

A poll of more than 1,000 people conducted on behalf of the U.S. Democratic Party found 51 percent of voters said they would go to the polls. Of those, 42 percent did not know who they would vote for.

Of those who did, 20 percent said they would vote for the pro-Western, liberal Free Democrats, which has 20,000 members. Eighteen percent said they would cast their ballots for the Democratic Forum, and 9.5 percent for the Smallholders.

SPRINGFIELD, MA (MARCH 23) UPI - A former state police detective pleaded guilty Friday to four felony charges stemming from a near-fatal knife attack on an assistant district attorney at the county courthouse last October.

Former State Police Detective Lt. John Mace, 47, admitted to slashing Assistant District Attorney Joseph Quinlan during a bloody brawl on Oct. 23, 1989, after business hours at the Hampden County Hall of Justice.

Quinlan, who has since returned to his job as a prosecutor, suffered face and neck wounds in the attack and required about 200 stitches to close the wounds.

Mace pleaded guilty to charges of assault with intent to kill, assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, larceny and attempted arson. A charge of armed assault with intent to murder was reduced to the assault charge.

Mace faces up to 30 years in prison. A sentencing date was scheduled for April 17.

On the night of the attack, Quinlan was working in his office at the courthouse when he discovered Mace in the district attorney's private office rifling through files.

A fight broke out and Quinlan, who was stabbed repeatedly, managed to trigger a silent alarm that summoned police to the courthouse. Mace was arrested at the site.

Special Prosecutor Judd Carhart said Mace was apparently staging a break-in to cover up for more than $118,000 in money he had stolen from funds confiscated during state police raids.

Mace, who headed the Hampden County District Attorney's state police detective bureau for seven years until his arrest, was responsible for managing all money seized during state police raids in Hampden County.

Carhart said Mace, a 22-year state police veteran, stole the money to ''support a very active gambling habit.''

ANNAPOLIS, MD (MARCH 23) UPI - The House of Delegates Friday took up a two-bill package proposed to let voters decide for themselves on Maryland's abortion laws while the state attorney general scrambled to determine if the concept was constitutional.

The two vastly different abortion bills, adopted early Friday by the Senate to break an eight-day filibuster, still need approval from the House and governor. If enacted, both bills are expected to be petitioned to referendum, effectively letting Maryland voters decide which becomes law.

The ink was barely dry on the two bills when they were introduced in the waiting House of Delegates, where a committee arranged to take up the legislation late Friday afternoon and report to the full chamber.

Though delegates could easily spend days discussing the bills, House Speaker R. Clayton Mitchell promised to keep the process moving as quickly as possible.

''It's like with your children, when you feel they've done enough, you tell them they've done enough,'' Mitchell said. ''But both sides will be heard.''

Attorney General J. Joseph Curran reviewed the dual-bill package Friday to ensure that the Legislature's chosen approach was constitutional.

Gov. William Donald Schaefer, who has stayed out of the abortion debate, said lawmakers might have taken the only course possible by passing the responsibility to voters.

''I think that's not a bad way to do it,'' the governor said.

While Maryland lawmakers wrangled into the night Thursday, Idaho legislators were adopting what would be the nation's most restrictive abortion law. The Idaho bill, which previously had been passed by Idaho's House of Representatives, cleared the Senate Thursday on a 25-17 vote and headed to the desk of Gov. Cecil Andres, an avowed abortion opponent.

The Idaho bill, estimated to eliminate about 95 percent of the abortions now performed in the state, would prohibit abortion as a method of birth control, banning all abortions except in cases of rape, incest, profound fetal deformity or threat to the life or the health of the mother.

States like Maryland and Idaho began considering writing their own abortion laws after the Supreme Court's decision in the Missouri Webster case, which gave states some discretion in setting their abortion policies.

Maryland senators under increasing pressure to resolve their filibuster agreed to the complicated compromise that requires passage of two bills together: one to sharply restrict abortions and a second to allow abortions under most circumstances.

In a referendum, the bill favored by the voters would become state law, enforceable if the Supreme Court disturbs its 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision asserting a woman's constitutional right to abortion.

Legislators said the two-bill package was the only immediate resolution to the eight-day filibuster that paralyzed the state Senate.

Abortion rights supporters in the Senate had been stymied in attempts to raise the two-thirds majority needed to end the filibuster, falling one vote short of the 32 votes required for cloture in the 47-member Senate.

''Nobody that's seen the hell that we've gone through in the last eight days can consider this a cop-out,'' said Senate President Thomas V. ''Mike'' Miller.

But not all legislators agreed. Many abortion rights senators refused the compromise and voted against the restrictive legislation, which was approved by a slim 24-23 margin.

''I personally found the bill the most reprehensible I have ever seen on the Senate floor,'' said Sen. Catherine Riley.

The filibuster, which began March 15 and recessed nightly, ended when abortion opponents agreed to halt the debate at 12:40 a.m. EST Friday.

The bill favored by abortion rights proponents would allow unrestricted abortions until a fetus is deemed viable; after that, the procedure would be allowed only if the mother's health were in danger or if the fetus faced profound deformity.

It also would require physicians to test fetuses 20 weeks or older to determine viability, and require abortion statistics to be reported to the state.

The second bill, backed by abortion opponents, would ban abortions unless a mother's life were in danger, or if the pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - President Bush vows not to eat it, but first lady Barbara Bush, who loves it, will accept three cases of California broccoli next week, the White House said Friday.

George Dunlop, president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, and representatives of APIO Produce of Guadalupe, Calif., will present the first lady with the broccoli at the White House on Monday a spokesman said.

The shipment was sent by truck to Washington from Guadalup Tuesday as part of a tongue-in-cheek protest of news that Bush had banned the vegetable from Air Force One and his own plate.

Bush, putting his foot down, said Thursday, ''I am president of the United States and I am not going to eat any more broccoli. ... I do not like broccoli and I haven't liked it since I was a little kid.''

The broccoli truck to Washington is carrying 10 tons of the high fiber vegetable. Three cases are to be delivered to the White House, the rest to area soup kitchens and other groups for the needy.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - A grand jury Friday dismissed manslaughter charges against a father accused of beating to death a homeless man who he said attacked him and his son on a Manhattan subway platform.

After hearing evidence from prosecution and defense witnesses, the grand jury concluded there was insufficient evidence to indict Rodney Sumter, 39 for the killing on Jan. 21, Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau said in a statement.

The victim, a homeless man believed to be in his 60s but who has never been identified, spat on Sumter and punched him in the face, according to Sumter and witnesses. Sumter said that to protect himself and his 4-year-old son, Ptah, he smashed the man's head into the concrete platform and killed him.

Sumter had been working as a $20,000-a-year construction supervisor training homeless men but was fired Jan. 17, four days before the killing, because of ''personal problems'' at home, officials said.

The incident occurred on the Columbus Circle station platform as Sumter and his son were returning to the Bronx after seeing a movie in Manhattan.

Sumter pleaded innocent Jan. 23 in Manhattan Criminal Court to charges of first-degree manslaughter.

Morgenthau said in a statement he ''welcomed (the grand jury's) open-minded investigation and deliberation on the evidence in this case.''

A spokeswoman for the Manhattan district attorney's office, Colleen Roche, declined to say when the grand jury made its decision, citing the panel's secrecy requirements.

But Simeon Greenaway, Sumter's lawyer, said the grand jury voted Friday to dismiss the manslaughter charges.

''It's a victory not only for Mr. Sumter, but also for the straphangers (subway riders) and also for fathers who are willing to stand up for their children,'' Greenaway said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Investment banker James Wolfensohn, chairman of New York's Carnegie Hall, has been named the new chairman of the Kennedy Center of the Performing Arts, it was announced Friday.

At a news conference following a meeting of the board of directors, Wolfensohn, James Evans, chairman of the search committee and former Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, head of the transition committee, discussed the terms of Wolfensohn's appointment.

Wolfensohn, who said he would be going to work ''immediately after this session,'' succeeds Ralph Davidson, who served simultaneously as chairman and president of center. Wolfensohn's post is as chairman only.

A president, or artistic director, may be named later, he said. ''I have no idea what the profile of that person would be. There is a double problem of administration and artistic involvement. How you solve it, I don't know.

''I care a great deal about the arts and about this country, which I've adopted,'' said Wolfensohn, who was born in Australia. ''(Kennedy Center) is the cultural heartbeat of this country.

''It is an institution whose future has to be based in excellence at the highest level, not only in this country but internationally as well. It is not just a national institution but a local institution and needs to be part of this city, visited by the people of Washington.''

Davidson asked five months ago that his contract not be renewed when it expires in February 1991. Wolfensohn's name had been mentioned several times as a possible successor to Davidson.

Evans said the committee had received ''an enormous number of suggestions'' during its search and he had been impressed with Wolfensohn's ''splendid job rebuilding and refurbishing Carnegie Hall. We centered on him as an ideal person to fill this position.''

The search for a new head of the Kennedy Center has been difficult since founder Roger Stevens retired from the position in 1988. Skepticism greeted the appointment of Davidson, a former Time Inc. executive with no performing arts experience.

Members of the board of trustees reportedly have criticized Davidson for not being an effective fund-raiser and for being difficult to work with.

''There is an ongoing need for the board of trustees to raise very substantial funds,'' said Evans, adding that would be a condition of Wolfensohn's employment.

Wolfensohn said he would continue as chairman of Carnegie Hall through its 1990-91 centennial season and plans to spend at least two days a week directing the Kennedy Center. Initially, though, he said, ''that time will be much, much more.''

''I'm going to do whatever it takes to make sure Kennedy Center is not shortchanged,'' said Wolfensohn. ''This is a labor of love, I'm not doing this out of pretension or ego or recognition. You'll be seeing a lot of me.''

Evans said Wolfensohn will be working without compensation.

One stipulation Wolfensohn made before accepting the job was a commitment from Congress and the White House that the center would receive financial help for an estimated $30 million in renovation and maintenance costs and the center's $15 million debt.

Wolfensohn met with White House chief of staff John Sununu, Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine, Sens. James McLure, R-Idaho, and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and several other members of Congress who serve on the Kennedy Center board, and received assurances that help would be available, said Laird.

''This Congress is very sympathetic to the support of the center,'' said Laird. ''A lot of things have been postponed around here for the last 18 years. Congress will put in legislation this year and it will be accepted and supported by the president. A $45 million commitment is very important.''

LANSING, MI (MARCH 23) UPI - A state lawmaker has introduced a bill criminalizing the killing of household pets for food, calling the practice ''cruel and inhumane.''

''I'm sure this is a common practice in some societies, but in America we don't kill our cats and dogs for food,'' Rep. Sal Rocca, D-Sterling Heights, who introduced the legislation, said Friday. ''It's cruel and inhumane and it should be against the law.''

Rocca said he sponsored the bill last week after learning from the Michigan Humane Society that some Southeast Asian emigres kill household pets for food.

''This is not Vietnam, Thailand or Korea,'' said Eileen Liska, a spokeswoman for the humane society. ''If they want to bring their culture with them that's fine. But they cannot do things here that are not acceptable here.''

Liska said that domestic cats and dogs are often times served on special occasions in Southeast Asian cultures. She said the legislation is needed as a tool to end the practice, adding that the bill would be useful in prosecuting those individuals who continue to consume household pets despite knowing that it could violate the law.

''Our decision to prosecute is carefully thought out,'' she said. ''If someone does something out of ignorance, then we educate. If it's just gross cruelty, we'd like to have the choice to prosecute and this bill will give us that.''

Under state law, it is illegal to torture or kill a domestic cat or dog for pleasure. Rocca's bill would make it a crime for individuals to kill household pets for food or clothing.

Those convicted of such a crime could face up to 90 days in jail, a fine of not less than $500 and community service work for not less than 250 hours.

BOISE, ID (MARCH 23) UPI - A bill giving Idaho the most restrictive abortion law in the nation was a signature away from becoming law Friday, but opponents hoped to give voters a chance to scuttle the measure if Gov. Cecil Andrus signs it.

The Idaho Senate Thursday voted 25-17 to prohibit abortion as a means of birth control and sent the bill to the governor's desk.

The measure would ban abortions except in cases of rape, incest, profound fetal deformity or threat to the life or the health of the mother.

Andrus, an abortion foe, has not said whether he will sign the bill, allow it to go into law without his signature, or veto it. The Legislature probably would not have enough votes to override a veto.

The bill is not expected to arrive on the governor's desk until Monday or Tuesday.

''The governor is not planning any comments at all today,'' said Marc Johnson, a spokesman for the governor. ''We still have not received the bill and he's not going to say anything until we do.''

On the steps of the Capitol, demonstrators against the measure sang songs including the ''Star Spangled Banner'' and ''We Are the World.''

''We are the children, and if we don't want to have them, it's our choice '' said Alycia Bobbitt, one of the demonstrators.

Bill opponents worked furiously to gather the 38,743 signatures of registered voters required by July 1 to place an initiative on the November ballot that would prohibit the state from interfering with a woman's decision to have an abortion.

''I would say there hasn't been 30 seconds since 7 o'clock this morning when the phone hasn't been ringing from people wanting to sign and circulate this (petition),'' said Fran Warner with the Idaho Chapter of the National Organization of Women, which drafted the initiative.

More than 15,000 signatures have been gathered so far, Warner said. Pro-choice advocates held a candlelight vigil outside the Capitol Thursday night in an effort to persuade Andrus to veto the bill and said they would do so every night until the governor takes action.

Proponents of the bill, including the National Right to Life Committee, which helped draft it, view the measure as their best chance to win reversal of the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision, which legalized abortion nationwide.

But abortion rights advocates believe it is broadly unconstitutional and could not be upheld by the Supreme Court. It would ban about 95 percent of abortions in Idaho.

Sen. Marti Calabretta, a Democrat, called the measure a ''terrible bill,'' that was ''being rammed down our throats by a vocal minority.'' She begged her colleagues Thursday to consider if ''Idaho should join in this holy war.''

But Sen. Roger Madsen, a Republican who authored the legislation, countered, ''This is not a religious issue. It is a civil rights issue of the first order. Abortion in my opinion is cruel and unusual punishment.''

All of the 17 senators who are members of the Mormon Church voted for the bill, along with four of seven Catholics. Protestants opposed the bill, 13-4. The sole non-denominational senator voted against it.

If the measure becomes law, abortion rights advocates have vowed to seek injunctions all the way to the Supreme Court to prevent it from being implemented, a process expected to take as long as two years.

Madsen said he targeted the bill specifically at Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, who is considered by the the anti-abortion movement as ''the swing vote'' to overturn Roe vs. Wade.

He said the bill's exceptions present ''a strong frontal attack on Roe vs. Wade.''

Opponents believe the exceptions - especially concerning rape and health of the mother - are drawn far too narrowly. The rape exception, for example, would be allowed only if the rape is reported within seven days after it occurs.

Although the territorial governor of Guam on Monday signed into law a bill creating the most restrictive U.S. abortion statute, some scholars believe the court will not consider a territory's law as a test case to Roe vs. Wade.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (MARCH 23) UPI - The European Community's top agriculture official declared recent U.S. statements on agricultural trade and policy to be wrong and even ''absurd'' Friday during world trade talks.

EC Agriculture Commissioner Ray MacSharry's pointed language added fuel to a simmering trans-Atlantic dispute over farm policy.

U.S. negotiators are pressing for elimination of trade barriers and European farm subsidies the United States considers unfair and European officials call unrealistic. Europeans proposed instead a five-year period in which subsidies and barriers would be lowered.

MacSharry angrily criticized a statement by deputy U.S. trade representative Julius Katz that ''the United States had not been able to engage the EC or Mr. MacSharry in any serious negotiation.''

The assertion is ''absurd and totally without foundation,'' MacSharry said.

MacSharry also argued that U.S. complaints about European trade barriers were ''refuted by the facts.''

He said U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills was ''wrong'' when she claimed the EC market for soybeans was closed to U.S. farmers.

However, a world trade panel ruled last December that the community's oilseed subsidy program violated a 1962 agreement by Europe to provide duty-free access for U.S. soybeans and other oilseed products. U.S. farmers blamed the European policy for the loss of millions of dollars in sales.

At the start of the week, President Bush said he was troubled by Europe's ''tremendous resistance'' to opening its markets.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - A federal appeals court, acting in a case that challenges the massive savings and loan bailout plan, Friday temporarily blocked a judge's ruling that former thrift regulator M. Danny Wall was appointed illegally.

A three-judge panel for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia granted an emergency motion from the Justice Department to stay a ruling by U.S. District Judge Royce Lamberth that the appointments of Wall and his temporary successor, Salvatore Martoche, were unconstitutional.

The stay will remain in effect until the appeals court can hear arguments on the case and decide the matter on its merits.

Lamberth had granted a preliminary injunction prohibiting the Office of Thrift Supervision from taking action against Olympic Savings and Loan Association, of Berwyn, Ill., until a new OTS director is nominated by President Bush and confirmed by the Senate.

Lawyers for the government warned that Lamberth's ruling threatened to throw the $166 billion thrift bailout into chaos.

''The court concluded the harm to the public outweighs the harm to Olympic in this instance,'' said Eugene Katz, OTS acting chief counsel.

''We are gratified the court recognized the need for us to continue or regulatory and supervisory operations to ensure the safety and soundness of the thrift industry,'' Katz said.

The ruling allows the OTS to appointment of a conservator or receiver, ''so long as those actions do not result in the liquidiation of the assets of Olympic Savings and Loan or the sale of the association,'' Katz said.

The court said it will hear arguments on Lamberth's decision April 11. A ruling by the panel coudl come soon thereafter.

Government attorneys said by ruling in favor of Olympic, Lamberth could open a floodgate for the 200 thrifts already seized by the agency to argue that the OTS, Wall and agency employees wre not qualified constitutionally to handle their cases.

Attorneys for Olympic had argued that Wall was not properly appointed to head the OTS because he was never confirmed by the Senate.

In a related matter, Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said Friday that Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady has requested the committee expedite the confirmation hearing of Timothy Ryan to head the OTS.

Bush said Thursday he intends to nominate Ryan, a 44-year-old former Labor Department attorney, as the new director of the OTS.

Thrift analysts expect Ryan's nomination to become a political football, giving Democrats an opportunity to embarrass the administration over its cumbersome efforts to rescue the savings industry.

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA (MARCH 23) UPI - Medellin drug baron Pablo Escobar denied ordering the assassination of leftist presidential candidate Bernardo Jaramillo, officials of Jaramillo's party said Friday.

The slaying Thursday triggered riots and Bogota Mayor Andres Pastrana said one soldier was shot and killed and four were wounded overnight. Twenty civilians also were hurt as supporters of Jaramillo's leftist Patriotic Union Party tossed rocks and Molotov cocktails at riot police and armed protesters set fire to several cars and buses.

Thousands of troops Friday cordoned off the center of the city to prevent violent disturbances similar to riots following the assassination of Patriotic Union leader Jaime Pardo Leal in 1987.

The president of the Patriotic Union, Diego Montana Cuellar, Friday blamed an infamous paramilitary leader, Fidel Castano, for the killing and accused the government of ''manipulation and political calculation'' by accusing Escobar.

''Fidel Castano is responsible for this killing,'' Montana Cuellar said in a letter to the government released Friday.

''We think there is the manifest intention in high levels of the government, first, to divert the attention of public opinion and reinforce its international image, and second, to avoid political responsibility for this crime and the reigning impunity,'' Montana Cuellar said.

The fiercely anti-communist Castano, whose father was kidnapped by leftist rebels in the 1970s, is now slain drug chieftain Jose Rodriguez Gacha's right-hand man. Authorities say Castano recently contracted British mercenaries to reorganize the former drug lord's fallen armies to mount a new campaign against the government and leftist politicians.

The Patriotic Union believes right-wing death squads linked to drug traffickers and members of the army have killed more than 1,000 members of the party since its founding five years ago by former guerrillas of the group and communist politicians.

On Thursday, the government accused the fugitive Escobar of ordering the assassination of Jaramillo, the candidate for May 27 elections who was shot and killed at Bogota's El Dorado International airport by a gunman who was wounded and captured by police.

Jaramillo's body was to lie in state in the National Capitol until it is flown Saturday to his hometown of Manizales, 120 miles west of Bogota, for funeral services.

Escobar, sending a letter to the Patriotic Union that included his signature and fingerprint, said he would not kill Jaramillo because the candidate opposed extradition of suspected drug traffickers to the United States.

''Why would I attack someone who was an ardent enemy of the handing over of Colombian nationals to the United States?'' asked Escobar in the letter according to a party spokesman.

Escobar is believed to head the Medellin cartel and leads the U.S. Justice Department's list of the 12 most wanted Colombian drug traffickers. He denied the authenticity of calls claiming cartel involvement in Jaramillo's death.

Jaramillo was the second presidential candidate slain in less than a year.

The killing of Liberal Party candidate Luis Carlos Galan Sarmiento last Aug. 18, apparently by drug traffickers, triggered a decision by President Virgilio Barco to resume extraditions of wanted people to the United States and to crack down on the traffickers.

Fourteen Colombians have been extradited since and 15 more suspects are in a Bogota jail awaiting extradition.

The drug lords declared their own ''total war'' on the government but after police killed cocaine czar Jose Rodriguez Gacha in December they called for a cease-fire and peace talks. The government has refused to negotiate and Jaramillo's assassination appeared to mark a return to violence.

Jaramillo's assassination triggered unrest around the country, with the most serious in the capital.

In the Policarpa sector of Bogota, a working-class communist stronghold, protesters set up barricades to block traffic and prevent police and army vehicles from entering the neighborhood.

Hundreds of rioters smashed storefront windows and tried to loot the shops, but they were stopped by soldiers who fired in the air to disperse the protesters.

RIO DE JANEIRO, BRAZIL (MARCH 23) UPI - A nine-story building under construction collapsed early Friday in a torrential rainstorm in the port of Santos, killing at least one worker and burying four others in the debris.

Witnesses said the five had been sleeping in the building along with several other laborers, who managed to escape when the structure collapsed.

Rescue workers said they recovered the body of one worker. Civil Defense personnel and firemen were searching for the four others believed to be buried under the wreckage.

The building, located in the chic Gonzalez beach neighborhood, has been under construction for four years and was due to be occupied in three months, according to Civil Defense officials.

''I heard a loud noise and thought it was thunder,'' said Karl Fricke, who lives near the collapsed building. ''When I opened the window, I saw the building falling down right before my eyes.''

The building collapsed during a four-hour rainstorm in the area of Santos, 60 miles southeast of Sao Paulo. The storm left 1,300 people homeless in the region.

The refugees were moved into schools while seeking other shelter, and classes in the area were temporarily suspended.

VATICAN CITY (MARCH 23) UPI - The Vatican unveiled an exhibition of the work and technique of Renaissance artist Michelangelo Friday to mark the completion of restoration of the frescoes he painted on the Sistine Chapel ceiling.

This restoration, begun in 1984, focuses on dramatic scenes from the Old Testament that Michelangelo painted on the vast ceiling between 1508 and 1512.

An earlier phase of restoration focused on 14 ''lunette'' paintings of the ancestors of Christ around the high chapel windows, lasted four years and was completed in 1984.

The final phase, which is to restore the 60-by-30-foot depiction of the Last Judgment, painted between 1534 and 1541, will start later this year. It covers the whole wall behind the Sistine Chapel altar.

The exhibition, in a series of rooms built into the arcade fringing St. Peter's Square, will be inaugurated formally by Pope John Paul II Saturday. It was shown to the press Friday and will open to the public Sunday, remaining open until July 10. The restorations are made possible by a $3 million contribution from Japan's Nippon TV Network Corp.

Fabrizio Mancinelli, director of the medieval and modern art section of the Vatican museums, told reporters the restorations should be complete ''within four years.''

The restoration has revealed that Michelangelo painted in brilliant colors that have been dimmed to a dull plum color by dirt, candle soot and other pollution.

The restorers worked on a movable platform near the high ceiling. They used a special solvent and soap and water to clean off the dirt but did no repainting.

The exhibition will show technical aspects of the restoration and a panorama of Renaissance art as well as Michelangelo's masterpieces.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - The dollar moved up in New York trading against all of main currencies with the exception of the yen, which climbed on a report saying Japan might issue its own dollar-denominated bonds to defend the unit.

The report hit a market that was already nervous about a meeting between Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady and Japanese Finance Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto to take place later Friday in Los Angeles. The two men were to talk about ongoing bilateral trade and monetary policy issues.

The dollar moved up on the West German mark as the Soviet Union cracked down on independence-seeking Lithuania. Tensions rose as the Soviets expelled two U.S. diplomats from Vilnius, the capital. The deutsche mark is vulnerable to any sign of stalling in East Bloc liberalization.

In New York late-afternoon trading the dollar stood at 1.7125 German marks up from 1.7025 marks the previous day. In dealings against the Japanese unit the dollar changed hands at 154.25 yen, off from 155 yen.

A Japanese news agency said Hashimoto would propose the dollar-denominated Bank of Japan bonds in talks with Brady. The main purpose would be to build up dollar reserves for pro-yen intervention, and the report said the bonds might be sold mainly to foreign dollar-holders in Japan.

But some feared that if the bonds were sold for yen, they would attract funds that have been fleeing Japan to other markets. This could build the yen - but at the possible expense of the dollar.

In either case the yen could be better protected against the dollar.

''The story of Japanese-issued dollar bonds definitely caused some shivers through the market,'' said Mark Chandler, a Chicago-based currency analyst for the financial consulting firm MMI International. What resulted was the yen's ''most impressive rally for three or four months,'' he said.

But he said the market became more skeptical of the report as the day wore on and the dollar recovered from its low of 152.80 yen.

Michael McGuinness, a currency vice president for Harris Trust & Savings Bank in New York, said traders reconsidered because the bonds were not yet offeredand because intervention has already proven ineffective.

In the end, he said, the move was ''just a nice pullback to give the dollar more momentum on the upside.''

Other dollar rates: 1.5180 Swiss francs, up from 1.5095 Swiss francs; 5.77 French francs, up from 5.7425; and 1,260 Italian lire, up from 1,255.75.

The British pound eased to $1.60 from $1.6035.

In Europe the dollar finished mixed. It closed higher in Frankfurt at 1.7145 marks against 1.7060 Thursday but declined in Zurich to 1.5075 Swiss francs from 1.5175 francs the day before.

The dollar moved down in Paris, Brussels and Milan at 5.7540 French francs against 5.7740, 35.375 Belgian francs against 35.41 and 1,256.75 Italian lire compared with 1,261.50 the previous session.

The pound moved up to $1.6030 from $1.60 on the strength of a slight decrease in the British consumer price index for February.

In Tokyo earlier, the dollar rose against the yen for the sixth consecutive trading day to close at 155.07 yen against 154.83 yen despite dealers'apprehension about the Brady-Hashimoto meeting.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $389.25 an ounce, off from $394.25 Thursday. The New York Commodity Exchange settled gold at $388.90 an ounce, also off from $394. In Zurich, gold rose to $393.50 an ounce from $392.50. London gold eased to $389.25 an ounce from $393.

Republic closed cash silver at $5.07 an ounce, off from $5.11. Comex spot silver declined to $5.043 an ounce from $5.084. Zurich silver rose to $5.08 an ounce from $5.07 but London silver declined to $5.07 from $5.09.

LONDON (MARCH 23) UPI - The duchess of York gave birth Friday to her second daughter, a child who becomes sixth in line to the British throne, Buckingham Palace said.

The 7 pound, 1 1/2 ounce girl was delivered by Caesarean section at 7:58 p.m., in the presence of her father, Prince Andrew, the royal spokesman said.

''Both are doing very well,'' the spokesman said of the child and her mother, the former Sarah Ferguson, popularly known as ''Fergie.''

''All the other members of the royal family have been told,'' the spokesman said.

No name was announced for the newborn princess. In the line of succession to the throne now occupied by her grandmother, Queen Elizabeth II, the child will rank behind her sister, Beatrice, who will be 2 years old Aug. 8. She will be officially known as her royal highness, the princess of York.

Dozens of photographers staked out Portland Hospital in central London for the past week, jostling for the prime spot to get the best pictures of the royal newborn and proud parents. Royal snaps can be sold for at least $8,000.

Reports that the duchess, formerly Sarah Ferguson and popularly known as ''Fergie,'' was about to arrive Friday sparked a stampede of more than 100 reporters, photographers, cameramen and well-wishers to Britain's most exclusive maternity ward.

Television stations paid hefty fees to rent balconies on nearby buildings, and numerous cameramen perched atop 8-foot ladders labeled with logos of their news group.

But the duchess gave the crowd the slip and entered the hospital in London's West End by a side entrance as a decoy limousine arrived in front bearing a woman who had similar red hair.

In the crowd was Edith Bouditch, 80, who said before the birth she knew what sex the baby would be.

''A girl,'' Bouditch predicted. ''She will be in again in two years time with another one because Randy Andy is such a little devil, ain't he?''

Prince Andrew earned the nickname before he was married for cavorting with a variety of women.

The crush of people and security requirements prompted police to seal off the street outside the hospital, causing a complaint from a nearby diet center which said its supplies of low-calorie foods were being blocked. Police then searched the shipments, which were escorted to the clinic.

Fergie has been lambasted in the British press for being overweight, and John Sanders, proprietor of the Nutri-System diet center, recommended that she take a crash-diet after giving birth.

''That would be a bit lovely because she is a bit porky, bless her,'' he said.

Bookmakers have taken bets on names, with odds changing as money poured in.

Graham Sharpe of William Hill bookmakers said the favorite name for a prince was David at 5-1, followed by George at 6-1, Edmund, Andrew and Philip at 7-1, James at 8-1, Richard at 9-1, and Albert and John at 10-1.

Sharpe said the favorites for a princess were Charlotte at 9-2, Susan, Annabel and Elizabeth at 7-1, Louise and Sarah at 8-1, Alice at 9-1, and Victoria at 10-1.

''The field has shortened up,'' he said. ''It is an official opinion backed up by money.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - A congressional aide received a lead from the National Security Agency in late 1985 that the United States was ''directing'' Contra operations in Nicaragua almost a year after Congress banned aid, it was revealed Friday at John Poindexter's Iran-Contra trial.

The disclosure came during questioning of Ralph Adams, an NSA official testifying for the defense.

Poindexter's lawyer, Richard Beckler, asked Adams if he had provided ''highly reliable intelligence information'' about the Contras to a congressional staff member in 1985.

Before he could answer, there was an immediate objection from prosecutors and a series of hushed bench conferences with U.S. District Judge Harold Greene, who recessed the trial. After about 40 minutes of private discussions, Beckler was allowed to read into the record a ''stipulation'' agreed to by both sides.

The phrase ''highly reliable intelligence information'' is believed to refer to electronic eavesdropping by the NSA, one of the government's most secret organizations, which monitors sensitive communications worldwide.

Until Friday's development, the phrase had always been used in reference to NSA monitoring of every detail of the secret shipment of U.S. missiles to Iran in November 1985 - not about Central America.

The stipulation stated: ''In November of 1985, Dick Giza, who was a staff member of the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, was made aware of highly reliable intelligence indicating that a Contra leader believed the United States was directing the insurgency in northern Nicaragua and wanted to be able to manipulate and stop the fighting in southern Nicaragua as well.

''The same Contra military leader was reported to believe that the FDN (Contras) was under U.S. control in the north and would now come under U.S. control in the south.''

The trial was then recessed until Monday.

The Boland amendment, which cut off U.S. aid to the Contras, went into effect in October 1984. The previously undisclosed information indicates that the U.S. government was improperly ''directing'' Contra operations a year later.

Giza was not available for comment.

Beckler has been trying to show the jury that Congress had a great deal of information about covert U.S. arms sales to Iran and what the Reagan administration was secretly doing in Central America.

Poindexter, who was President Ronald Reagan's national security adviser, is accused of five felony counts of conspiracy to obstruct and conceal from congressional investigatators crucial details of the Iran-Contra scandal.

If Beckler can show Congress had already obtained key information, it would take some of the sting out of the prosecution's charge that Poindexter masterminded a ''false cover story'' to conceal information from Congress.

The Contras, funded by the CIA, began operations in the north in 1981 and the Sandinista government responded with a strong military offensive. The United States then fostered a second operation - ''the southern front'' - to take pressure off the Contras in the north.

The United States eventually built a secret airstrip in Costa Rica to refuel planes resupplying troops on the southern front as part of an effort to eventually align the northern and southern forces.

Earlier Friday, Greene expressed skepticism about testimony that the CIA believed one of its airlines was flying ''oil drilling equipment'' to Iran when the real cargo was missiles.

Norman Gardner Jr., a CIA official involved in congressional relations, said the CIA did not learn that the ''oil drilling'' equipment was really Hawk missiles until after the shipment in November 1985 aboard a wholly owned CIA charter company.

Poindexter's aide, Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North, had told the CIA that the cargo was oil drilling parts, Gardner said.

Gardner's testimony contained a number of inconsistencies and the judge became increasingly angry at the CIA official.

Greene eventually began questioning Gardner himself.

''The CIA shipped something to Iran, to a hostile country that was almost at war with the United States, and the CIA didn't know what was in there?'' Greene asked incredulously.

''That's right,'' Gardner replied.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - The stock market retreated this week as investors finally responded to sharp declines in the Tokyo market by sending the market to its first weekly loss after three weeks of gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.56 Friday to close at 2704.28 for a loss of 36.94 points on the week, or about 1.3 percent.

Among the broader market averages, the New York Stock Exchange composite index lost 2.47 points to close the week at 185.45. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 4.69 to 337.22.

Declines led advances 1,226-657 among the 2,167 issues traded this week. Big Board volume totaled 758,092,320 shares, compared with 773,233,070 a week earlier and 592,606,280 a year ago.

The Tokyo market had a dismal week, and investors, who had succeeded from distancing Wall Street from the recent slump in Tokyo prices, finally sat up and took notice.

On Monday the Japanese market posted its third-biggest loss ever as the yen continued to sag and the dollar gained, with the blue-chip Nikkei index plunging 1,353.20 points. The drop was more than 4 percent, and took the index to its lowest close in more than a year.

But stocks here followed up the ''triple-witching hour'' surge of the previous Friday with a mixed close Monday as the blue chips rebounded from sharp early losses to close 14 points higher.

Tokyo closed sharply lower again Tuesday despite a boost in the discount rate by the Bank of Japan, a move intended to bolster the yen and stem inflation. The market's key index fell another 456 points.

Stocks closed modestly lower Tuesday, pressured by news that inflation at the consumer level rose 0.5 percent in February after gaining 1.1 percent the month before, but not before gaining briefly on the dollar's continued rise in the face of Japan's discount rate hike.

The markets in Tokyo were closed Wednesday for the Vernal Equinox holiday, and Wall Street virtually took a day off, easing modestly in one of the lightest trading days of the year.

But on Thursday, investors could no longer ignore Tokyo's turmoil. Japanese stocks fell another 3 percent, 963 points, as the dollar stubbornly refused to weaken against the yen. The market here tumbled too, with the Dow industrials tumbling 32 points and accounting for just about all of the week's loss.

On Friday, Tokyo rebounded, gaining 528 points, and the market here posted a slight gain in line with Treasury bonds on news that new orders for durable goods edged up by 3.3 percent in February. Economists had expected a 5.9 percent rise in orders and investors felt the weak economic news might translate into a more favorable interest rate outlook.

''The durable goods news was important but this normally meaningful news took a back seat this week to the developments in Japan,'' said Hugh Johnson, chief economist at First Albany Corp. in Albany, N.Y.

In explaining why the market finally focused on the troubles in Tokyo, Johnson said, ''For the greater part of the last two weeks, the moderate decline in stocks in Japan was manageable. International money managers pulled money back from Japanese stocks and invested in stocks and bonds here. This was reflected in the strong dollar,'' he said.

But when the decline became more severe, Johnson went on, it raised fears that Japan might have to raise its discount rate even more to bolster the yen, which some feared could cause a recession in Japan.

Still other analysts saw the week's loss as a technical correction after the three weekly gains.

''Everything was in place for a technical correction, and these things (Tokyo's declines) just came in on top of that,'' said Monte Gordon, research director of Dreyfus Corp.

But Gordon acknowledged that the Japanese market did have some effect on trading here.

''It is getting frustrating since it seems we don't know where the bottom is in the Japanese market. It maintains a note of uncertainty in the market, it's part of the overall scenario,'' he said.

On the trading floor this week, AT&T was the most active issue, off 3/8 to 41 1/2.

Bank of Boston followed, down 1 to 14 1/2. Philip Morris was third, up 3/4 to 39 3/8.

Among the other blue chips, IBM tumbled 3 5/8 to 105 amid reports it may not upgrade its mainframe computer line late this year. Boeing was up 3 1/2 to 73 1/4. The company said Friday it would lay off fewer hourly workers than had been anticipated. General Motors was off 1 1/8 to 46 3/8.

On the American Stock Exchange, the Amex Market Value index eased 2.57 to close Friday at 361.61. Declines led advances 474-327 among the 997 issues traded.

Amex volume totaled 80,770,585 shares, compared with 70,083,965 traded a week earlier and 39,075,325 traded in the same week a year ago.

Salomon's put warrants on the Tokyo market's Nikkei index led the Amex actives, up 2 to 7 7/8.

The National Association of Securities Dealers index lost 4.92 to end the week at 437.24.

(MARCH 23) UPI Nervousness over the situation in Lithuania, weekend profit taking and a Monday meeting of refiners in San Antonio combined Friday to drive up oil prices.

May delivery contracts for the U.S. benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude jumped 39 cents to end the day on the New York Mercantile Exchange at $20.39 a barrel, a mere penny higher than a week ago.

WTI zoomed 65 cents to $20.40 a barrel on the U.S. Gulf Coast cash market.

Prices fell in the early part of the week after the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries failed to limit overproduction by quota cheaters that, in the view of some traders, has dumped excess crude on the world market.

Unleaded gasoline for April delivery rose 0.28 cent to 57.66 cents a gallon, a gain of 0.70 cent on the week, while the May delivery contract accelerated 1.56 cents to 63.54 cents a gallon, up 1.97 cents on the week.

On the New York Harbor cash market, unleaded gasoline for March delivery remained steady at 56.30 cents a gallon.

The New York Harbor spot market also traded April delivery gasoline at 62.80 cents a gallon, up 1.8 cents. The price is higher because the gasoline has a lower vapor pressure to meet the May 1 cleaner-air deadline set by Northeast states.

The Friday rally started with traders taking profits on short positions previously taken in anticipation of the recent drop in prices.

Many traders also were straightening out their books because they planned to attend next week's meeting in San Antonio of the National Petroleum Refiners' Association.

''There was short-covering before the weekend and nervousness over the Lithuanian situation,'' said Kirk Kinnear of the Phibro division of Salomon Brothers, Greenwich, Conn.

''Anytime there's political uncertainty, people don't want to be short oil '' the analyst said.

The Soviet KGB and Interior Ministry rushed military detachments to Lithuania Friday as the rebellious republic's parliament speeded up formation of a new government with a showdown appearing imminent with Moscow over its demand for independence.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the U.S. Embassy in Moscow had been informed that two American diplomats in Vilnius, the Lithuanian capital, were ''ordered to depart in 12 hours.'' There was no immediate Soviet comment on the expulsions.

Jerry Samuels, vice president of Shearson Lehman Hutton's International Energy Desk in New York, said Friday's oil rally was led by a rise in gasoline prices on the cash markets.

The advance on the Merc gained momentum as crude moved up through the $20.20 a-barrel resistance level, triggering buy orders.

April delivery No. 2 fuel oil, which is used as home-heating oil and diesel fuel, gained 0.45 cent on the Merc to 55.46 cents a gallon, a penny gain on the week, while rising 0.20 cent on the New York Harbor spot market to 57.95 cents a gallon.

On the European spot market, Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent rose 20 cents to $18.05 a barrel, down 15 cents on the week.

The UAE's Dubai light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - climbed 25 cents to $15.60 a barrel, 10 cents less than a week ago.

Four oil companies - Sun Co., Radnor, Pa.; Marathon Oil Co., the Findlay, Ohio, unit of USX Corp.; Houston's Conoco Inc. subsidiary of Du Pont and Citgo Petroleum Corp., Tulsa, Okla. - raised the posted price they will pay for crude at the wellhead by 50 cents a barrel to $19.25 a barrel for WTI.

NEW ORLEANS (MARCH 23) UPI - An escaped felon who stole a gun from a Superdome security guard and killed a veteran police officer died in a hospital Friday of a skull fracture, the city coroner said.

Adolph Archie, 42, a career criminal with a rap sheet of 19 felony arrests and six felony convictions, suffered the fatal skull fracture in struggles with officers either at the scene of his arrest or in the police station, New Orleans Parish Coroner Frank Minyard said.

''The actual cause of death was a skull fracture which caused internal bleeding. He died from blood in the trachea,'' Minyard said.

He said Archie tried to hide under a car after gunning down Officer Earl Hauck II during a rush-hour chase Thursday and struggled violently with officers who dragged him out. Minyard said Archie tried to shoot himself in the head while under the car but the gun was empty.

Police took Archie to Charity Hospital but did not bring him in. They decided after seeing a number of officers ''with a lot of vengeance in their heart'' to take him to the First District station for his safety, Minyard said.

''They thought they were protecting him,'' he told a news conference.

But the handcuffed prisoner struggled with officers at the station and had to be forcibly subdued again, Minyard said. He was knocked unconcious in the struggle and was then taken to Charity Hospital, where he died at 6:56 a.m. Friday.

''I don't think the police acted with undue restraint. This was a very dangerous person. He wanted to die,'' Minyard said. ''He clicked the gun on his head three times. Whatever the police did to subdue him was necessary.''

Archie was wounded in the elbow in a shootout with pursuing officers. He was arrested within minutes of the killing of Hauck, a 22-year veteran of the police force.

Hauck was on traffic detail in the Central Business District when he spotted Archie trying to evade pursuing officers and attempted to arrest him.

The incident began about 4:50 p.m. when Archie punched a Superdome security guard in the face and stole her gun. He then led pursuing security officers and police on a rush-hour chase through City Hall and into the city center.

A witness, Tulane University senior Shawn Cummins, said Hauck drew his gun and ordered Archie to get on the ground. Then he holstered his gun and apparently was reaching for his handcuffs when he was shot.

''I couldn't believe he put his gun back in his holster,'' Cummins said.

Hauck was taken to Charity Hospital, where he was pronounced dead about 30 minutes after the shooting. The officer was shot four times, Minyard said.

Archie walked away from a work detail at the First District station on March 8. At the time he was serving a 60-day sentence for theft of $5.28.

ANALYSIS BY JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - Sex, violence, ambitious yuppies and dedicated buppies - an urban district attorney's office provides all of the above in a new series titled ''Equal Justice.''

The show airs in a two-hour movie premiere on ABC Tuesday, Mar. 27, 9-11 p.m. Eastern time, and then goes into its regular time period, Wednesday, Mar. 28, 10-11 p.m..

This is the story of the young and the restlessly ambitious, men and women in three-piece suits whose whole life is wrapped up in their briefs, their cases and their briefcases.

It is an ensemble show that brings an attractive bunch of young people to the screen in roles that make you think when they grow up they'll go to work for McKenzie Brackman on ''L.A. Law'' and makes pots of money.

The show takes place in the district attorney's office in a large but unnamed city. There are no palm trees so you know where it is not.

The opening show introduces a whole gang of characters and plot threads, but the main one involves the trial of four white cops for the murder of a black teenager.

The Rev. Marcus Calvin, a black activist, has organized an ongoing demonstration in front of the courthouse and the gospel hymns the crowd sings form a backdrop to some of the action.

Young black attorney Michael James (Joe Morton) faces an ethical dilemma involving one of his witnesses and winds up in a confrontation with his boss, assistant district attorney Gene Rogan (Cotter Smith), who in turn has his problems with the district attorney, Arnold Bach (George DiCenzo), who must worry about a political agenda as well as putting the bad guys in jail.

James is seconded in the case by Julie Janovich (Debrah Farentino), who the men in the office have been watching change her clothes through a peephole. The man who acts as proprietor of the peephole and collects $5 from each voyeur is Peter ''Briggs'' Brigman (Barry Miller).

Another case involves Linda Bauer (Jane Kaczmarek), head of the Sex Crimes Unit, who must prepare a young woman who has been raped for her ordeal in court.

A case the the viewer only hears about is a drug-related murder, being prosecuted by Christopher Searls (James Wilder), a handsome but scuzzily ambitious lawyer who checks out the murder weapon in order to appeal to the peculiar libido of a sexy blond.

His car, with the gun and ballistics report in the trunk, is stolen. His only hope is to call a witness who testifies while in drug-induced orbit.

If Briggs has the idealism of a card shark, his opposite is JoAnn Harris (Jessica Parker), who stands up to a hanging judge to give a deserving probation violator a second chance.

All this, combined with asides on young prosecutors at play, makes for a very busy two hours and the viewer may have trouble identifying the lawyers without a scorecard. That's the downside of ensemble drama. The upside lies in the variety and complexity of plot lines.

If you sample this likable bunch of prosecutors and enjoy watching them have their day in court, then eventually you'll get who's who down pat.

The show has possibilities but what it lacks is a deft touch on the light side. Instead of randy young lawyers as peeping toms, it needs something more imaginative, the immoral equivalent of the Venus Butterfly on ''L.A. Law.''

Americans appear to agree that drugs are the most important problem facing the United States today, but there are wildly divergent views on what to do about it.

One group wants to wage war on drugs; the other wants to legalize them.

They will argue it out, live, on PBS in a two-hour ''Firing Line Debate with William F. Buckley Jr.,'' to air Monday, Mar. 26, 9-11 p.m. Eastern time (check local listings).

The topic reads, ''Resolved: drugs should be legalized.''

There are some wild pairings here. In support of legalization are the conservative Buckley and Ira Glasser, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, as well as U.S. District Judge Robert W. Sweet and Richard Dennis, president of New Perspectives Quarterly, a publication of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

The drug warriors also have their odd couple - liberal Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., and conservative Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga. Also opposed to legalization are Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., and William van Raab, former U.S. commissioner of customs. With that lineup of strange bedfellow, it should be a lively debate.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Federal mediators met with Greyhound negotiators for two hours Friday in what was characterized as a potential first step in a ''1,000-mile journey'' towards a settlement of a nationwide strike by the bus company's drivers.

P. Anthony Lannie, Greyhound's executive vice president and chief negotiator, had been invited to meet with labor mediators in Washington an effort to restart contract talks between Greyhound and its 9,300 union employees.

James Power, a spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said no direct labor-management talks were scheduled, ''but both sides are maintaining an ongoing dialogue (through the mediators) with the prospect of resuming negotiations in the near future.''

Power said both company and union representatives have been ''very responsive'' to the mediators.

''As soon as they can do something, they will,'' he said. ''They say every journey of a 1,000 miles starts with a first step. I think that's where we are.''

Greyhound spokesman George Gravley was not optimistic, however, about an early settlement in the bitter strike, which began March 2.

''There's no prospect for getting the talks going real soon,'' he said. ''We're miles apart on the economic issues.''

The federal mediation service has yet to extended an invitation to meet with the bargaining unit of the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions, union spokesman Jeffrey Nelson said.

''We have not heard from the mediators, but obviously if they ask us to participate, we will,'' Nelson said. ''We are happy the company is agreeing at least to meet with the mediator if they can't find it in their hearts to meet with their own employees.''

The first post-strike direct bargaining session ended abruptly Sunday when Lannie and his negotiating team walked out of talks in Tucson, Ariz. Lannie said the union's financial demands were still too high and accused union leaders of encouraging violence on the picket lines.

Friday's meeting in Washington was the first meeting held between mediators and the company since Sunday.

The strike has been marked by at least 21 instances of shootings at buses and terminals as well as the death of a striking driver who was crushed by a bus in northern California in an incident still under investigation.

Greyhound officials have said the two sides are far apart on wage and benefit issues. During the last talks, the union reduced its demands by $30 million to a total of $185 million over three years, but the company insisted its $63 million offer was the most it could afford.

In an attempt to keep up service in the face of the massive walkout by most of the company's 6,300 drivers and 3,000 other union employees, Greyhound has hired more than 1,000 non-union replacement drivers.

VILNIUS, USSR (MARCH 23) UPI - The KGB and Interior Ministry rushed detachments to Lithuania Friday to maintain Soviet control in the rebellious republic as Lithuania's parliament speeded up formation of a new government in a looming showdown with Moscow on independence.

In Washington, President Bush warned Moscow Friday ''any attempt to coerce or intimidate, or forcibly intervene against the Lithuanian people is bound to backfire.'' The Senate passed a resolution Thursday, 93-0, calling on Bush to consider recognition of an independent Lithuania.

The White House said two U.S. diplomats, based in Leningrad, had been expelled from Lithuania. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the expulsions were without reason and Washington was protesting the ouster but the two diplomats would comply and return to Leningrad's consulate.

''This action certainly adds to our concerns,'' Fitzwater said. ''It does not contribute to a lessening of tension that would make productive dialogue easier.'' Washington has urged Moscow to negotiate with the Lithuanians.

Three generals flew to Vilnius from Moscow and demanded to talk with Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis. They later conversed in parliament's chambers with the former musicologist, who founded the Sajudis independence movement less than two years ago.

Interior Ministry and KGB officials told the official Tass news agency in Moscow that they were increasing control in Lithuania under the decrees of President Mikhail Gorbachev to collect weapons and guard the borders.

Gorbachev, newly empowered with broad presidential powers, has maintained that the Lithuanian parliament's declaration of independence on March 11 is illegal, that the central Congress of People's Deputies has ruled it invalid and that he will enforce that ruling.

While the world riveted its attention on the unfolding test of wills between the Kremlin and Lithuania, Gorbachev met Friday with Adm. William Crowe, former chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff. He also met two American schoolteachers, including Mary Bicouvaris, 1989 national teacher of the year.

Lithuania's parliament, elected Feb. 24 with Sajudis candidates overwhelmingly predominating, met through the day and selected eight ministers of a 21-member government they hope will be recognized by nations of the world.

Seven out of the eight ministers chosen were Lithuanian and the other is Polish. The new Cabinet will replace the one that ruled when the Communists were in power.

Newly chosen Interior Minister Marijonas Misiukonis, the former head of a KGB section in Lithuania, said in a direct challenge to Moscow that ''from now on'' his ministry will follow only Lithuanian law.

But in measure after measure, Moscow has annuled decisions taken by the new Lithuanian parliament. It said that the change of the status of the state radio and television was unauthorized and that that Soviet law still prevails over Lithuanian decrees despite the moves by the Lithuanian government.

At the Supreme Soviet parliament in Vilnius, Lithuanian Interior Ministry troops, still wearing their old Soviet uniforms, checked the credentials of reporters. On seeing press passes issued in Moscow, one guard said, ''What about credentials from our country?''

One garrulous guard explained that they have promised been new national uniforms, but it will cost $9.6 million ''and we don't have the money.''

Gorbachev had urged Lithuanians to await a proposed Soviet law he said would let any republic secede, but the Lithuanian parliament on its first day of convening approved a declaration of independence to regain the freedom the republic lost when Moscow annexed it in 1940.

That declaration came one day before a Congress of People's Deputies met in Moscow to elect Gorbachev president, in effect presenting Gorbachev with a challenge. And he was not slow to react, initially warning Lithuanians they will have to pay $33 billion for Soviet investments in the last 50 years and that they will have to buy Soviet oil and gas at world prices.

''The Lithuanians are moving too fast. They have backed Gorbachev into a corner,'' said Nikolai Medvedev, an ethnic Russian people's deputy from Lithuania but a supporter of Lithuanian indepndence. ''They forced him to take elementary but blunt steps even though in domestic and international policy, simple steps are rarely effective. The moment chosen was not the most propitious.''

A taxi driver, Gennadi, a Russian, spoke of fears of economic strangulation Friday while ferrying reporters to hotels.

''Moscow is just going to turn off the tap, and we wont be able to get anything,'' he said. ''And then they will demand we wil pay in hard currency.

ATLANTIC CITY, NJ (MARCH 23) UPI - A veteran casino analyst who sparked Donald Trump's anger by publicly questioning the Taj Mahal's ability to survive was fired from his job Friday after refusing to back down from his unflattering comments.

''I've now been fired because I wanted to tell the truth, unfortunately,'' said Marvin Roffman, a gaming analyst with Janney Montgomery Scott Inc. in Philadelphia for the last 16 years.

''As an analyst, it's your job to say negative things if they have to be said,'' Roffman said.

Securities analysts, who frequently specialize in a particular industry, study companies and issue buy or sell recommendations.

Roffman said Janney Chairman Edgar Scott fired him after a series of events beginning with his assessment in a newspaper article Tuesday that the massive Taj Mahal may not be able to earn the $1.3 million a day it needs to pay its annual debt service of $94.5 million during the resort's slow winter months.

Janney officials and Trump could not be reached for comment Friday.

Roffman said he arrived Tuesday at the Taj, which opens next month, for a previously scheduled tour and was met by Donald Trump's brother, Robert.

''He said, 'I've come down here personally to tell you to get the hell off the property,''' Roffman said. ''He kicked me off the property and wouldn't show me around. He said 'You've injured the property.'''

When he arrived back in Philadelphia, Roffman learned that Trump had sent his superiors a letter calling for his immediate dismissal or a public apology.Roffman said his bosses, upset by Trump's wrath, outlined several options for him.

They said he could stay at Janney but forgo his normal annual bonus and never again speak with the media, participate in conferences or testify before New Jersey gaming regulators. He was also told he was on probation and would be reevaluated at a later date. Or, Roffman said, he was told he could leave.

Because he wanted to keep his job, Roffman, who has followed the casino industry for Janney since gaming first hit Atlantic City 12 years ago, said he initially opted to apologize to the billionaire real estate developer.

Trump ordered Roffman to call the editor of the Wall Street Journal, where the offending comments had been published, and say the reporter misquoted him, Roffman said. Trump then ordered Roffman to write him a letter ''telling me that the Taj Mahal is the greatest success of all time.''

''I said 'I can't write that kind of a letter because I think that the Taj Mahal bonds are in trouble,''' Roffman recalled.

Roffman said he ended up writing an innocuous ''glossy'' letter saying the Taj was a beautiful property with plenty of convention space and that if it took in $1.3 million a day from gamblers, it would easily cover its debt service.

However, Janney did not think the letter went far enough to please Trump and wrote a new letter for him.

''The next day I thought to myself that this letter is very damaging to me because it implies that I think that the Taj is going to be a success,'' Roffman said. ''I don't know that but my projections indicate that there is going to be a problem.''

Roffman said he immediately sought counsel and was advised to issue aretraction of the letter.

''The long and short of it is I came in today ... and they told me I was terminated,'' Roffman said. ''It's absolutely unbelievable.''

Jay Sigler, director of the graduate program in public policy at Rutgers University in Camden and an ethics professor, said Janney's reaction to the Trump flap reflected badly on the firm and ''tainted'' its reputation.

''For the sake of the integrity of the analysts' profession, he should have been allowed to proceed,'' Sigler said. ''They can't be trusted in the marketplace.''

Anthony Parillo, director of the state Division of Gaming Enforcement, said he did not yet know enough about the situation to determine whether it would warrant investigation by gaming regulators.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Delegate Walter Fauntroy criticized President Bush on Friday for his opposition to statehood for the District of Columbia.

''It is ironic that in the cradle of democracy a president who stands in the midst of perhaps the most history-making time of this century would lack the vision to understand that charity begins at home,'' Fauntroy said in a statement.

The Washington Democrat was responding to Bush's statement that he would not support any moves to make the nation's capital the 51st state. Bush made the comment Friday during a news conference for regional reporters from across the nation.

''The winds of change are blowing in favor of democracy around the world. In Europe, Asia, Central and South America, South Africa and many other places ... change is being ushered in that favors self-government,'' said Fauntroy.

Bush told reporters that he would be willing to discuss other ways of getting voting representation in Congress for district residents, but he called the district a ''federal city'' whose funds come ''almost exclusively from the federal government.''

Fauntroy is the district's only representative in Congress and he is not allowed to cast a vote.

A bill granting statehood to the district is pending in the House, but there is little hope of its passage this session.

The legislation would create a state out of the non-federal parts of Washington, while the remaining land including The White House, the Washington Monument, the Mall, congressional buildings and the Capitol would become a federal enclave.

SAN SALVADOR, EL SALVADOR (MARCH 23) UPI - A delegation from Houston's Rothko Chapel Friday named a Salvadoran human rights worker and a Lutheran bishop as recipients of the chapel's Oscar Romero Award for defense of human rights.

''There are people in the United States who understand what you are suffering and want to do something,'' Dominique de Menil, the president and founder of the chapel, told several hundred people attending a mass to honor the award recipients.

''The times are such that it is not possible to remain silent anymore,'' he said, referring to El Salvador's decade-long civil war. More than 72,000 people have been killed since the start of the war, many of them civilian victims of political killings carried out by right-wing death squads.

The Oscar Romero Award, which includes $10,000, will be given to Medardo Gomez, the Lutheran bishop of San Salvador, and Maria Julia Hernandez, director of the Salvadoran Catholic Church's human rights office.

The awards will be officially presented April 24 in Washington, D.C., by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

Gomez said he felt blessed to receive the award, named for the assassinated Roman Catholic archbishop of El Salvador.

''It supports the truth, the search for justice and the search for peace '' said Gomez, who recently returned to El Salvador after a four-month absence.

Repeated death threats forced him to flee the country in the wake of a massive rebel offensive last November. The offensive brought a repressive backlash against churches and other organizations whose work with the poor aroused right-wing suspicions.

''I feel blessed because (this award) is a help for my people, for the protection of lives of leaders of my people, protection of our work and a great show of solidarity in the search for a solution to the conflict we are living,'' Gomez said.

Hernandez, usually seen behind her desk at the archdiocesean offices or on the streets taking pictures of bloodied bodies, has dedicated the better part of a decade to documenting human rights abuses in El Salvador.

''It is an homage to all the tortured, the prisoners, the persecuted, the murdered, the refugees and displaced, to all our martyrs,'' Hernandez said.

Romero was archbishop of El Salvador when he was killed by an assassin March 24, 1980, as he was saying mass in the chapel of the Divina Providencia cancer hospital.

A mass held Friday in the same chapel included a recording of Romero's last homily, punctuated by the shot that ended his life.

During his three years as archbishop, Romero championed the cause of human rights and campaigned for better living conditions for El Salvador's impoverished majority. He referred to himself as the ''voice of those who have no voice.''

Romero's advocacy for the poor put him on the wrong side of the powerful oligarchy and conservative military, eventually costing him his life.

A march through San Salvador is scheduled for Saturday to commemorate the 10th anniversary of his death.

Public demonstrations are outlawed under a state of siege in effect since rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front launched a massive offensive in November.

''We have asked the (military) High Command for a permit to take to the steets in pilgrimage, but if they don't grant it, we are going out anyway '' said Humberto Centeno, a member of the organizing committee.

A military spokesman who asked not to be identified told United Press International the marchers would be breaking the law and that security would be tight.

''The armed forces have to do their duty, which is to protect the citizenry and the marchers,'' the spokesman said.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 23) UPI - Jury selection in former McMartin Pre-School teacher Raymond Buckey's second molestation trial was postponed Friday by two weeks because his defense attorney is suffering from back problems.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Weisberg granted a request made the attorney, Danny Davis, and rescheduled the start of jury selection from Tuesday to April 9.

Davis made his request on Wednesday, telling Weisberg that his doctors recommended that he undergo surgery for a herniated disc in his back. Weisberg, however, ordered Davis to get another opinion from a physician recommended by the judge.

Davis said that physician said surgery was not necessary, but did recommend a delay in the trial to give the lawyer a chance to respond to medical treatment.

''The results (are) that the prognosis is more favorable to Mr. Davis's condition,'' the judge said. ''Indications are that Mr. Davis can participate in this trial'' if it is delayed the two weeks.

Deputy District Attorney Joseph Martinez had said that if the trial was delayed, the parents of one of three remaining child witnesses might pull their youngsters from the case. On Friday, Martinez said the parents were still willing to have their child testify despite the delay.

Buckey, 31, and his mother, Peggy McMartin Buckey, 63, were acquitted Jan. 18 of 52 molestation counts stemming from the alleged sexual abuse of children at the now-closed Virginia McMartin Pre-School in Manhattan Beach from 1978 until 1983.

Ray Buckey faces retrial on eight molestation counts on which jurors deadlocked. He has steadfastly maintained his innocence.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - Trading nudged U.S. Treasuries slightly higher Friday for a modest gain on the week, but some economists said shifts in the U.S. economic backdrop set the stage for a more significant bond rally.

Bond investors were encouraged by a Commerce Department report saying orders for durable goods edged up 3.3 percent in February, on the face of it a strong performance against January's 10.7 percent decline.

That should have thrown a scare into the bond market. Bond prices generally fall on evidence of economic strength, which lessens the chance of the Federal Reserve Board bringing down interest rates.

A decline in central rates can boost the price of fixed-rate bonds, just as fears of inflation, which erodes profits, drive prices down.

But economists said the durable goods figures, while an improvement over the January data, indicated manufacturing was anything but strong. Meanwhile, they said, other recent data allayed inflation fears.

At the conclusion of trading Friday the benchmark 30-year bond, the 8 1/2 of 2020, was at 100 7/32 for a yield of 8.48 percent, compared with 99 17/32 and 8.54 percent the week before. That represented a gain on the week of nearly 3/4 point or $7.50 for each $1,000 face value.

A morning rally was cut short by a Japanese press report saying the Bank of Japan was considering issuing dollar-denominated bonds as a means of boosting the yen in foreign exchange markets. There were few details, but investors saw the proposal as potentially damaging to Treasuries.

Said one trader, ''If the Japanese government did issue bonds and they were denominated in dollars, Japanese investors would probably buy those to the exclusion of U.S. bonds. That would be very negative for us.

''If anything comes of this, we're in trouble,'' he said.

The durable goods report ''suggests that in the not-too-distant future there may be enough slack ... to allow the Fed to ease monetary policy,'' said John Lonski, senior analyst for Moody's Investors Services.

He said lower-than-anticipated mid-March auto sales, reported Friday, showed big-ticket consumer spending ''remains, at best, flat.'' This encourages companies to reduce prices, stemming inflation and giving Fed policymakers leeway to bring down short-term interest rates, Lonski said.

But there's no guarantee they will do so. Economist William Brachfeld, an executive vice president with Daiwa Securities, said top Fed officials regard the economy as stable and look for growth near 2 percent in this quarter. So ''it's pretty clear the Fed is going to stay put,'' he said.

However, manufacturing softness and inflation news tended to minimize the possibility of a Fed credit tightening.

Figures released in the middle of the week showed the consumer price index up 0.5 percent. But if the volatile food, energy and apparel prices were discounted the upward price move was only 0.2 percent, said Philip Braverman, chief economist and senior vice president for DKB Securities Corp.

Such news was ''much more supportive of a more positive longer-term outlook for the bond market,'' Braverman said. Tightening credit markets could push the economy towards recession, which would raise bond prices, he said.

Ten-year Treasury notes closed at 99 27/32 to yield 8.52 percent, compared with 99 16/32 and 8.57 percent a week earlier. Five-year Treasury notes closed at 99 26/32 for a yield of 8.53 percent, against 99 17/32 and 8.60 percent seven days before.

Three-year Treasury notes closed at 99 16/32 for a yield of 8.57 percent, against 99 12/32 and 8.62 percent. Two-year notes closed at 99 26/32 for a yield of 8.60 percent, against 99 24/32 and 8.64 percent.

Six-month Treasury bills ended at a discount rate of 7.83 percent to yield 8.26 percent, compared with the previous week's yield of 8.28 percent. Three-month T-bills ended at a discount rate of 7.88 percent to yield 8.14 percent, against a yield of 8.18 percent a week before.

Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc.'s index of long-term Treasury bonds was up 6.81 points for the week, or 0.53 percent, to end at 1,290.98.

The Federal funds rate closed at 8 1/4 percent, the perceived Federal Reserve target rate. The rate applies to overnight bank-to-bank loans of U.S. reserve funds and is a basis for most other rates.

TEGUCIGALPA, HONDURAS (MARCH 23) UPI - U.S.-backed Contra rebels agreed Friday to demobilize before Nicaraguan President-elect Violeta Chamorro takes office next month, bringing an end to nine years of war in Nicaragua Managua Archbishop Miguel Obando y Bravo announced.

Obando y Bravo read a joint communique announcing the agreement after talks in the Honduran capital between leaders of the Nicaraguan rebels and a delegation sent by Chamorro, who is scheduled to take over from the Nicaragua's Sandinista Front April 25.

The communique said the Contras recognized that the Feb. 25 elections in which Chamorro defeated Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega were carried out ''in freedom, honesty and efficiency'' and ''allowed a triumph of the people's will to establish a process of democracy.''

''This ... allows us to declare emphatically that we have decided to begin the process of general demobilization of our forces, starting with the disarming of those who remain in Honduras by April 20 at the latest,'' the statement said.

An estimated 15,000 U.S.-funded Contras have been fighting a war against Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government since 1981. Some 10,000 to 12,000 of the rebels are living inside Honduras, near the Nicaraguan border.

The Contra leaders called on world bodies such as the United Nations and the CIAV, an international verification organization, to assist in the demobilization.

In the communique, they listed a number of conditions for the success of the disbanding, including a bilateral cease-fire between the Contras and the Sandinista armed forces, to be verified by CIAV and the United Nations and the concentration of Contras inside Nicaragua in clearly defined safety zones.

The Chamorro delegation, headed by Obando y Bravo, said members were ''extremely pleased with the decision taken by the Nicaraguan resistance to begin as of today the process of demobilization.''

The delegation called for recognition of the ''patriotic work'' of the Contras, and said care must be taken of the ''crippled, orphans and widows'' of the Contras.

The delegation said Chamorro is committed to seeking humanitarian aid and adequate medical facilities for the wounded and to help the Contras in their return to Nicaragua.

''Cardinal Obando y Bravo, for his part, expresses his satisfaction over the patriotic decisions taken and joins the co-signers of the accord in giving thanks to the Lord for his assistance in enlightening those involved,'' the communique concluded.

ST. LOUIS (MARCH 23) UPI - McDonnell Douglas Corp. has postponed the sale in England of more than half its stake in McDonnell Douglas Information Systems Ltd., a spokesperson said Friday.

The company announced last August it planned a public offering of more than 50 percent of the unit's shares. The offering was planned for the London Stock Exchange.

However, the spinoff has been postponed because of unfavorable economic and market conditions in England, spokesperson Barbara Anderson said from company headquarters in St. Louis.

The postponement means a delay in the cash infusion McDonnell Douglas would receive from the sale. Reports indicate the entire information systems unit would bring $500 million.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - NASA officials said Friday they can overcome concerns that the proposed $30 billion space station may require a large number of risky spacewalks to maintain the orbiting outpost.

''I would say, 'No, we don't have a problem.' This doesn't surprise us. We don't have an extraordinary problem here,'' said William Lenoir, associate NASA administrator for space flight.

Lenoir and other NASA officials briefed reporters after reviewing the preliminary findings of a study of the space station Freedom's maintenance needs and meeting with congressional representatives.

The meetings came amid rising concern about the future of the station triggered by reports that plans for the station were flawed because it would begin to wear out before it was complete, requiring a large number of spacewalks by astronauts to conduct repairs.

William Fisher, a veteran spacewalker who is one of two leaders of a study of the station's maintenance needs, said preliminary findings indicate 2,284 hours of spacewalks - the equivalent of more than three a week - would be needed to maintain the space station annually.

''We all know it's a big number. We're not afraid to tell you it's a real number,'' Fischer said.

But Fischer said the number may change by the time the study is complete in June, and that even if it remains high then engineers with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would be able to overcome the problem.

''This is an engineering problem. Right now we see a lot of (spacewalks) required to maintain it. But this is early in the phase of looking at this '' he said. ''I think there's no question we need a space station.''

Although Fisher said he believed the estimate was neither optimistic nor pessimitic, Lenoir said the figure was a ''worst-cast'' scenario that would likely improve when the analysis is complete.

''This is raw data. This is preliminary data,'' Lenoir said. ''This is raw data that has to be tested. It could be very much less. It's just very uncertain at this point.''

Lenoir said his goal is the need for only one spacewalk per month. NASA has only a total of about 400 hours of experience with spacewalks, which are considered very risky.

If the same level of spacewalks are needed, Lenoir said there are various possible solutions, such as increased use of robots or redesigning troublesome components. In any event, the need for spacewalks would not increase cost, he said.

The possible problem came to light as Congress is reviewing NASA's proposed $15.2 billion budget, which includes an increase of $2.9 billion, or 24 percent, representing the largest jump of any major government agency.

NASA officials have said the $2.6 billion requested in the fiscal year 1991 budget for the space station - a 36 percent increase of $699 million - was critical to the survival of the space station program.

NASA hopes to begin construction of the station in 1996 or 1997 but any major cuts in the requested budget would further delay - and perhaps seriously endanger - the project, which is already running years behind schedule.

The station is envisioned as an orbiting outpost where astronauts can conduct scientific experiments and stage exploration into the solar system.

At least three hearings have been scheduled for next week to review the maintenance issue, but NASA officials had alleviated some concerns during meetings with congressional representatives Friday.

''The primary concern is, 'Hey, is this a threat to the whole space station?' I hope ... everybody left realizing, 'No it's not,''' he said.

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (MARCH 23) UPI - The Motion Picture Association of America's rating board took one look at ''The Cook, The Thief, His Wife & Her Lover'' and gave it an X rating.

Producers of the Dutch-financed, Anglo-French co-production took strong exception and the MPAA was asked to reconsider. But, as of this writing, the film still bore the ignominious X.

This bizarre, fascinating movie in the Jacobean tradition is unlike any other in recent memory.

In addition to male and female frontal nudity, it includes fairly specific sex acts and some kinky human activities that defy description in family newspapers.

Suffice it to say, ''The Cook, The Thief, His Wife & Her Lover,'' written and directed by Peter Greenaway, is a highly unusual story of a love triangle almost all of which takes place in a high-concept English restaurant.

This story takes place over 10 nights, mostly at the dinner hour, where the wife and the lover engage in sex between courses while her scoundrely, slovenly criminal of a husband fumes and rages until he finally catches on.

The role of the wife is played by Helen Mirren, a sophisticated 44-year-old Shakespearean-trained British actress who plays several scenes totally in the buff. Americans may remember her in such films as ''The Mosquito Coast'' and ''White Nights.''

She objects to the X rating. She says there is nothing prurient or salacious in the picture. She may be right.

''The film is terribly vulgar and distressing in many ways,'' she said. ''But there are many R-rated and PG-rated films with nudity and violence that are far more objectionable than 'The Cook, The Thief, His Wife & Her Lover.'

''The picture is couched in a very theatrical style. It's much more like an opera, not a realistic, naturalistic documentary style.

''Its frame of reference is theatrical. It is accurate to call it a black comedy and hopefully, very funny - not in the sense that 'Cheers' is funny '' she said.

''The film is also poetic and very dramatic. It's not social comment. It's like a grand piece of poetry. It has some very violent moments and it involves murder and revenge.

''It is a love triangle, but the style in which it is told makes it different. Woody Allen would do it one way, Greenaway did it his way.''

Mirren said she played the first one or two nude scenes somewhat self-consciously. But she has worked in the buff in other pictures.

''It's what you have to do that day, so you do it,'' she said. ''I've done a lot of nude scenes and it helps to have another actor unclothed. That made me less uncomfortable. It is really disquieting to be the only naked person on a movie set. That's a drag. But you put your chin up and do it.

''But I don't believe the film received an X because of frontal nudity. I can't believe the board thinks of this picture as pornography,'' Mirren said.

''The X rating is devastating to a film. It limits the advertising and keeps many people away from the theater because it has the connotation of something sleazy. Our film is less exploitive than many, many R-rated pictures.

''They gave 'Betty Blue' an X rating because of the sex scenes, which is crazy.

''That picture, like ours, is a work of art. Giving a film an X is an insidious form of censorship, no matter what the ratings board says.

''Americans have more puritanical attitudes than Europeans. Male and female frontal nudity is allowed in European films and has been for years. I don't know what constitutes the standard for an X rating. It's not a hard and fast line,'' she said.

''But a distinction must be made beween an R and an X rating. Goya's (painting) 'The Naked Maja' is considered art, but the same picture in Playboy is not. What's the difference?''

Mirren went on to say that everyone knows pornography when they see it and by European standards ''The Cook, The Thief, His Wife & Her Lover'' is not pornography. She said the film was a major hit in England and France.

''So far as I'm concerned our picture is a work of great art,'' she said '' and obviously it was not made with the American market in mind.

''Greenaway is an immensely respected and admired auteur-director in England and in France,'' she said.

''I think our film is excellent although others may think it is a lot of rubbish. It is a personal expression of an artist, an artistic vision that is thoroughly uncompromising to his own criteria.

''It's out there on the ledge. It's not a nice film. I would describe it as excessive, grandiose and melodramatic - and great fun.

''This film combines vulgarity, sex, food, violence and art, elements abundant in a full life. It's what life is all about and nobody knows that better than the French,'' Mirren said.

''Now I am off to New York to try to persuade the board to change our rating to R. It's only fair that Americans give the picture its due.''

BRASILIA, BRAZIL (MARCH 23) UPI - President Fernando Collor de Mello made the first modification in his drastic economic plan Friday, naming a long list of conditions that allow some depositors to withdraw money from frozen accounts.

The move, announced during a meeting with various political party leaders and congressional delegates, was an apparent attempt to appease opposition to the program and speed its ratification by the legislature.

''This is a small opening of a channel to allow the irrigation of the economy,'' Collor de Mello said.

Under Brazil's constitution, Collor de Mello's severe anti-inflationary plan, ordered last week the day after he took office, must be approved by congress within 30 days or it is automatically annulled.

The program had limited Brazilian depositors to withdraw no more than the equivalent of $1,600 from savings accounts and $800 from checking accounts for a period of 18 months.

In an effort to ease the severe cash shortage caused by the measure, Collor de Mello said that as of Friday depositors could withdraw their money for health and housing payments.

In addition, businesses could withdraw deposits to pay salaries and other expenses, he said.

He expanded those exceptions to include philanthropic organizations, professional associations, unions, retired persons and transportation companies.

Other measures ordered last week included drastic cuts in government spending, privatization of state-owned companies, increases in taxes and tax collection and a rollback of prices to March 12 levels, to be inforced by roving government inspectors.

Collor de Mello appealed to the population ''to buy only what is absolutely neccesary'' because in ''that way the prices will continue to fall.''

Presidential spokesman Claudio Humberto Rosa e Silva said the changes represented an effort to swing the majority of legislators toward speedy ratification of the program.

The leaders of the two largest congressional opposition blocs announced their party delegates would support the plan with the changes.

Two public opinion polls indicated that a substantial majority of Brazilians support the plan.

NEW YORK (MARCH 23) UPI - An admitted gambler paid $40,000 earlier this year by New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner was arrested Friday on charges of extortion and threats against Steinbrenner and outfielder Dave Winfield.

Howard Spira, 30, was arrested by FBI agents at his home in the Bronx, according to FBI spokesman Joseph Valiquette.

A federal grand jury in Tampa, Fla., returned an eight count indictment against Spira, who faces up to 25 years in prison and $2 million in fines if convicted. He is expected to be arraigned Saturday by a magistrate in U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

The first two counts claim that Spira twice sent letters to Steinbrenner in 1989 threatening to physically harm him.

Other counts charge that Spira also threatened to disclose taped conversations he had with Steinbrenner to the media unless he gave Spira $110,000 and a job with American Shipbuilding Co. in Tampa, Steinbrenner's company.

Another count alleges that Spira recorded a telephone conversation he had with Steinbrenner and planned to use it to blackmail the Yankee owner.

Spira claimed that Steinbrenner had promised him $150,000 for damaging information about Winfield in a lawsuit. Spira has said he needed the money to pay off gambling debts.

Steinbrenner admits he paid Spira $40,000 last January, but said the payment was for altruistic reasons.

In a letter dated March 2, 1989, Spira allegedly wrote to Phillip NcNiff, a Steinbrenner aide, in which he described Steinbrenner as '''The Nazi' George,'' and discussed the failing health of his mother.

''I swear, if anything happens to my mother, George and Dave better both hire a lot of extra security because then I will really be out of control '' he allegedly wrote.

In another letter written to Steinbrenner on Feb. 6, 1989, Spira allegedly claimed he would ''tell my story again'' because the Yankee owner had not hired him and given him an apartment at the Bay Harbor Inn in Tampa.

Prosecutors claim in a third letter tagged onto the indictment, Spira wrote: ''You promising me a high paying job and residence (free) at the Bay Harbor Inn if I destroy Dave's public image, not to mention the fact that I saved you so much money.''

Spira said the money was part of a payment for providing information about the Winfield Foundation, which Steinbrenner admitted was used in a lawsuit he filed against Winfield.

Spira claimed he performed public relations for the Dave Winfield Foundation in the early 1980s but Winfield denied Spira was ever employed by his organization.

Other incidents that have recently come to light, raise more questions about the relationship between Steinbrenner and Spira.

A Steinbrenner aide apparently knew of an alleged pay-for-sex incident between Spira and a Florida teenager. Steinbrenner also knew that Spira was facing an unrelated criminal charge of harassing a Long Island woman - and even gave him legal help in the matter, sources told the New York Daily News.

Spira charged that the incident with the teen was arranged so that Steinbrenner could deny him a promised job with American Shipbuilding Co.

SAN FRANCICO (MARCH 23) UPI - A federal judge Friday threw out the bulk of a $150 million lawsuit charging that Apple Computer Inc. infringed on Xerox Corp.'s copyright to the Star software system.

Xerox said it will appeal the ruling.

Xerox sued Cupertino, Calif.-based Apple in December contending Apple improperly incorporated features of the Star system into the MacIntosh and now-defunct Lisa computer systems.

U.S. District Judge Vaughn Walker kept alive only one claim by Xerox. That claim seeks a declaratory judgment confirming Xerox ownership of the 1980 Star copyright.

Apple succeeded in convincing Walker to throw out claims that it engaged in unfair competition and unjust enrichment. Walker also rejected Xerox's effort to invalidate the Apple copyright.

The Star system is a graphic user interface software. It symplifies the way computer users select programs, issue commands and perform various functions through visual displays, according to Jeffrey Steinhardt, an Apple attorney.

Xerox contended that Apple copied the Star software idea of using icons to replace typed word commands for the computer.

Apple argued that ideas were not subject to copyright, only the way those ideas are expressed.

Tom Abbott, Xerox spokesman in Stamford, Conn. said in a prepared statement, ''This ruling does not mean Apple has not taken substantial portions of Star and claimed them as their own.''

''The court merely held, we believe errorneously, that Xerox did not have standing to present facts in support of that contention. We think the decision is incorrect in the law and we intend to appeal as soon as we are able to do so.''

Xerox will not be able to proceed with the appeal until the one remaining allegation against Apple is resolved.

The next court session will be in mid-summer.

Jack Brown, lead attorney for Apple said, ''I don't think there is any way in world they (Xerox) can demonstrate Apple has done anything... to the detriment of their legitimate claim to whatever they created in their Star program.''

Apple has denied it gained unauthorized access to Xerox secrets by hiring several key Xerox employees in 1980s.

Apple maintained that Xerox waited too long to file suit and gave up rights to its software.

In a separate lawsuit, Apple sued Hewlett-Packard and Microsoft over theft of many of same icon features from the Apple MacIntosh.

That suit is also before Walker and is scheduled for a status hearing April 2.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - The Bush administration proposed changes Friday in the Food for Peace program, the mainstay of U.S. food aid to developing nations, to make it easier to donate food.

In a legislative package sent to Congress, the administration also proposed removal of the ceiling on food donations through the Food for Progress program and it said there should be no minimum tonnage for aid through Section 416, another food donation program.

Since the Food for Peace program was created in 1954, the United States has donated more than 300 million tons of agricultural commodities with a value of more than $40 billion. The United States provides 60 percent of the food aid in the world.

U.S. food aid programs have four goals - humanitarian aid, economic development, development of markets for U.S. products, and promotion of U.S. foreign policy goals.

Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter said changes were needed in Title I of the Food for Peace program, under which food is sold to developing nations at concessional rates. The law includes a method in which the debt can be forgiven, but Yeutter said it is too complicated for many nations to use.

''Title I should be amended to include direct grant authority to be used at the discretion of the president for countries which meet the poverty criteria established by the World Bank,'' the administration proposal said.

''This would permit greater participation in a grant food aid program, particularly by the sub-Saharan African countries.''

The United States has alloted $806 million for aid to 32 nations under Title I this fiscal year.

The adminstration suggested other changes to make it easier for recipient nations to use the Food for Peace program to aid economic development. One section of the Food for Peace program allows donation of food to combat urgent needs, such as famine.

Congress created the Food for Progress program in 1985, making aid available to nations if it would be used to support private enterprise.

The administration said the ceiling on aid, set at 500,000 tons a year, should be eliminated.

The White House also proposed elimination of the requirement to donate at least 500,000 tons of grain and 150,000 tons of dairy products each year through Section 416, which provides food aid to needy people. It said donations consistently have exceeded the minimum, so it was not needed.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - The International Monetary Fund announced Friday a $107 million, 14-month loan to support Jamaica's economic program.

The Jamaican government's program for the fiscal year that starts April 1 aims to restore conditions for economic growth through a strong fiscal adjustment and through exchange rate stability, the multilateral organization said.

The program is designed to reduce the public-sector deficit from 4.4 percent of gross domestic product to 2.7 percent.

The external current account deficit is projected to drop from $298 million, or 8.3 percent of GDP, to $129 million, or 3.5 percent, and net international reserves are projected to increase by $220 million.

Jamaica also plans to continue implementation of a medium-term strategy to foster economic growth and reduce debt through measures to liberalize the economy, promote exports and increase domestic savings, particularly in the public sector.

The Jamaican economy expanded over the last four years as a result of sustained adjustment efforts since the early 1980s, the IMF noted. These efforts were hampered, however, by Hurricane Gilbert, which hit the Caribbean island in September 1988, damaging the infrastructure, housing and crops.

As part of the reconstruction effort, the government deficit increased and the balance of payments and the international reserve position deteriorated.

CAIRO, EGYPT (MARCH 23) UPI - French archaeologists digging near the great pyramids of Giza have unearthed a previously unknown pyramid that is about 4,500 years old and may contained the untouched burial chamber of an Egyptian queen, officials said Friday.

The 20-yard-high pyramid, found in the Saqqara region of west of the capital, was the 93rd pyramid found in Egypt, said Zahi Hawas, director of the Giza antiquities department. It was located near two pyramids unearthed two years ago.

''We think these three pyramids belong to three different ancient Egyptian queens,'' Hawas said.

The pyramids of Egypt are tombs of kings and queens who lived between the third dynasty - about 2,750 B.C. - and the 18th dynasty - about 1,600 B.C. Hawas said the new pyramid was found near a royal tomb known to belong to King Bebe I, who lived in the sixth dynasty about 4,300 years ago.

While grave robbers have generally succeeded in removing the contents of most pyramid burial chambers, the inability of the archaeologists to locate a tunnel leading to the chamber of the new pyramid has raised hopes that the tomb may be undisturbed.

''So far, archaeologists have been unable to find the exact entrance to the pyramid,'' Hawas said. ''Archaeologists are trying to find it now. We think it is 10 meters (yards) underground. It is possible the tomb has not been robbed.''

Royal burial chambers in pyramids are usually found deep in the subterranean rock along with a number of rooms and corridors.

French archaeologists, working under the supervision of the Egyptian antiquities department, said they were not sure when the entrance to the burial chamber might be found.

''We are moving carefully, step by step. Even when we find the entrance to the pyramid, it will take some time to reach the burial chamber,'' one member of the expedition said.

Entering the burial chamber may involve a certain risk. Recent tests in West Germany have revealed that a number of archaeologists who died shortly after entering the burial chambers of pyramids were not killed by the so-called Pharaoh's Curse, but by the spores from a deadly fungus that lay dormant for thousands of years.

In addition to their most expensive belongings, Egyptian royals were buried with huge amounts of food to sustain them in the afterlife. Scientists believe the deadly fungus fed on this food.

''We shall take all precautions,'' a member of the French expedition said. ''We shall not enter the chamber unless it is safe to do so. But it may already have been robbed. We shall see.''

GREENSBORO, NC (MARCH 23) UPI - When Karen Marie Gehrke says she and her sister have a ''real close'' relationship she's not kidding.

Gehrke, 26, and her sister, Mary Ann Plante, 28, gave birth on Thursday three hours apart, in the same hospital. But more amazingly, both newborns were boys, each weighing 7 pounds, 9 ounces.

''We thought it would be neat if we gave birth on the same day. We just talked about it,'' Gehrke said Friday. ''We just live right up the block from each other. We're real close.''

Both Michael William Gehrke, born at 1:21 a.m. EST, and Thomas Joseph Plante, born at 4:19 a.m., are doing fine and were scheduled to leave Wesley Long Community Hospital with their mothers on Saturday.

Dr. Charles Lomax said in his 22 years on the job he had never seen such such a phenomenon.

''You couldn't have planned it this way,'' Lomax said.

Gehrke said the experience was ''kind of strange'' and would have seemed more realistic if the due dates were closer. Gehrke's was due March 31; Plante was due April 3. ''It was just incredible,'' said Gehrke.

Gehrke went to bed Wednesday night knowing her sister had gone into labor that day. Gehrke awoke with labor pains and rushed to the hospital where she gave birth. Mary Ann Plante's labor continued for another three hours.

The sisters visited each other in the hospital.

''It's been wonderful. We can sit with each other with our babies in the room and talk. We have each other to keep each other company,'' said Gehrke. ''(The babies) almost look alike. The two babies both have light blond hair.''

Gehrke said the babies likely will celebrate their birthdays together in the future.

''As long as we're living close together I think they'll be real good friends,'' she said.

BY VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (MARCH 23) UPI - First, it was Helen Reddy, then Olivia Newton-John and now it's Kylie Minogue - all talented singers who invaded this country from the Land Down Under.

Minogue, however, is more than a warbler of popular songs. She is also an actress acclaimed in Australia and abroad, though not yet in the United States.

That's the reason the tiny, 21-year-old green-eyed singer visited Hollywood. She wants Americans to see her in the new Aussie movie, ''The Delinquents,'' in which she stars as a pregnant 15-year-old runaway.

A veteran of Australian TV and movies, Minogue established herself as a dramatic actress long before she became a hot pop singer. As an 18-year-old in 1987 she was voted the most popular actress in Australia, propelled by her role in that country's No. 1 soap opera, ''Neighbors.''

When she sang ''Locomotion'' with fellow cast members at a benefit four years ago, Kylie had no idea she would generate a singing career that would eclipse her acting.

She was approached by a local record producer who prevailed on her to fly to London to make a demo single of the song.

In July 1987 she released a single titled, ''The Locomotion,'' a remake of Little Eva's hit in the early 1960s. It became Australia's biggest hit of the decade and No. 1 on the charts in 33 countries.

Thereafter, she cut two more singles, ''I Should Be So Lucky'' and ''Got To Be Certain,'' both of which soared to the top of the charts in Europe and Australia.

In 1988, now 19, she had three top-10 records and her first album, ''Kylie '' which went gold and platinum in several countries, as did her second album, ''Enjoy Yourself.''

Later in 1988 her records finally attracted attention in America with ''Locomotion'' selling more than a half-million copies.

With ''The Delinquents,'' the biggest film hit in her homeland, Minogue is busy with her two careers.

''I can't choose between them,'' she said. ''I love doing both. But it is important to me to keep them separate. I don't want to sing in my pictures because people are liable to think I'm just a singer trying to capitalize on her popularity.

''Someday, I would like to work in a musical movie, but not until I establish my reputation as a dramatic actress. I would like to think people who buy my records would also like to come see my movies,'' she said.

''No one outside of Australia and England know that I was an actress to begin with.

''It would be a very good thing for my career to become as well-known in the United States as I am in Europe and Australia. One way to do that is with a concert tour, which I plan to do,'' she said.

''But I can't base my whole future on whether I make it big in America. Right now I have to work as hard as anyone else to get a role in a Hollywood movie because my popularity abroad doesn't mean that much.

''This is a very big and rich country. But it is possible for a performer to achieve stardom in the rest of the world without being a star in America,'' she said.

''Most of my income is from the sale of records, and concerts in Australia have done very well. I don't sing rock. My music is pop stuff with easy-to-listen-to lyrics.

''Mostly I sing ballads and music you can dance to. I like to think it's cool. People seem to like my singing voice.''

Minogue played to crowds of 10,000-15,000 in Sydney, Brisbane and Melbourne and 40,000 people jammed a single concert in Tokyo. All her concerts are sold out well in advance.

Kylie speaks with a pronounced Australian accent. She is more outgoing than Reddy or Newton-John, who is one of the youngster's idols.

''I was only 11 when I did my first television acting,'' she said. ''When I was 16, I joined the cast of 'Neighbors.'

''I was under a lot of pressure for a teenager. Sometimes what I do is not just a job, it's a lifestyle. But now I know how to detach myself from it.''

Despite her early fame and financial success, there is a wide-eyed piquancy to Minogue that brings to mind the young Leslie Caron. There is a winning vulnerability about her that suggests she could become a major movie star playing fey, gamine roles.

That, at least, is the opinion of several motion picture makers who have been talking to her agents about mainstream Hollywood films.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 23) UPI - Conrail and Canadian Pacific Railroad have broken off negotiations that could have lead to the Canadian Pacific Ltd. subsidiary's purchase of the bankrupt Delaware and Hudson Railroad, the parties said Friday.

''Our discussions with the Canadian Pacific have ended and we were unable to reach an agreement,'' Conrail spokesman David Neurohr said.

The D&H, which filed for bankruptcy in June 1988, has been operated since Feb. 28 by its bankruptcy trustee, Francis Dicello. His authority to operate the line technically runs out March 29.

The railroad services about 70 shippers in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Washington, Delaware and Canada.

Canadian Pacific had offered to buy D&H for $35 million, contingent on obtaining access to 80 miles of Conrail trackage between Harrisburg, Pa., and Hagerstown, Md., in order to provide a southern outlet for D&H traffic. Conrail initially refused.

After a March 13 meeting with Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y. and Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., Conrail and Canadian Pacific officials agreed to mull over a proposal in which Conrail would allow Canadian Pacific to use the track, while Canadian Pacific would allow Conrail to use trackage between Albany, N.Y., and Montreal and between Montreal and Quebec.

''Canadian Pacific analyzed Conrail's plan and found it would have cost them (Canadian Pacific) $150 million to $1 billion in lost revenues. So it was not really a bona fide offer,'' D'Amato said Friday.

''Canadian Pacific submitted a counterproposal allowing Conrail access to Canadian markets, as well as other options, combined with 'poison pills' that would have terminated the Hagerstown rights if Canadian Pacific sold the D&H or unfairly took away Conrail traffic.

''To me, the Canadian Pacific plan seemed reasonable,'' the senator said.

Given the breakdown in negotiations, D'Amato said he will proceed with his legislation, which would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to force Conrail to allow D&H access to the Hagerstown-Harrisburg track.

D'Amato said he will ask Senate Republican leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., at a Republican retreat this weekend, to place the bill ''on an emergency fast-track.''

The bill is co-sponsored by Sens. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., James Jeffords, R-Vt., Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., John Heinz, R-Pa., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

Specter is expected to sign on as well, the senator's press secretary Dan McKenna said.

ANCHORAGE, AK (MARCH 23) UPI - Exxon Valdez skipper Joseph Hazelwood was ordered Friday to spend 1,000 hours cleaning up polluted beaches in Prince William Sound for his part in the worst oil spill in U.S. history.

Alaska Superior Court Judge Karl Johnstone gave Hazelwood the maximum 90-day jail term and $1,000 fine for his minor pollution conviction in the spill, but suspended that sentence on the condition that the fired tanker captain scour the beaches fouled by the catastrophic accident.

The sentencing came on the eve of the first anniversary of the grounding of the tanker Exxon Valdez, which began spilling 11 million gallons of crude in Prince William Sound off southern Alaska March 24, 1989.

In addition to the 1,000 hours of clean-up work, Johnstone also placed Hazelwood on probation for one year and ordered he pay 25 percent of all of his gross income until he made $50,000 in ''token restitution.''

''Imprisonment's not going to restore the environment,'' said Johnstone, explaining his sentence against Hazelwood. ''He's certainly not a danger to society. But there's community outrage at what happened (and substantial spill damage).''

Hazelwood, 43, of Huntington, N.Y., was accused of being drunk, reckless and the person most responsible for the devastating spill, but he was convicted by a jury Thursday only of a relatively minor count of negligent discharge - the only allegation to do with spilling oil.

The gooey oil slick resulting from the spill tainted thousands of miles of shoreline and killed thousands of sea birds, seals, otters and other animals.

Given an opportunity to make a statement before sentencing Friday, Hazelwood said, ''I'd just like to thank the jury for the verdict they reached.''

After Hazelwood's statement, Johnstone said, ''I was hoping I would hear something that sounded like an apology. I was waiting to hear something that sounded like 'I'm sorry.'''

But Johnstone acknowledged, and defense lawyers confirmed, that Hazelwood was unable to admit any role in the grounding or spill because he is a defendant in many of the 150 civil suits filed against Exxon, which owned the tanker.

Johnstone condemned Hazelwood's actions March 23, 1989, in Valdez, Alaska, when he drank vodka before sailing his tanker on a course that put the tanker on the rocks of charted Bligh Reef in the early minutes of March 24.

''No reasonably prudent person operating an oil tanker like the Exxon Valdez would have had those drinks before getting on board or would have left the bridge when he did,'' Johnstone said, referring to the skipper leaving the controls to two unqualified crewmen during a detour around icebergs.

Johnstone cited Hazelwood's two prior drunken driving convictions in New York in 1984 and New Hampshire in 1988.

''He's no stranger to the criminal justice system in that regard,'' the judge said. ''He certainly knows that alcohol and equipment don't work very well together.''

Defense lawyer Dick Madson, noting that Hazelwood expected to get jail time, called Friday's sentencing creative.

''I think it's appropriate that he came up with something besides jail,'' Madson said.

The sentencing came about 10 hours short of the exact time a year earlier that the tanker hit the reef and broke open.

Johnstone suspended the jail term and fine ''on the condition that Captain Hazelwood perform 1,000 hours of community work service in the state of Alaska ... on projects that are designed to eliminate environmental damage that was caused by the oil spill in Prince William Sound.''

The judge recommended the ''work be performed on the beaches of Prince William Sound'' this summer.'' The cleanup of the massive spill enters its second season May 1.

Johnstone also said imprisonment would probably serve no purpose for a mariner shamed by the spill and unlikely ever to work on a tanker again.

Several of the jurors in the two-month trial returned Friday afternoon to be present for the sentencing in the jammed courtroom.

''I'm glad (jail) was suspended, but I wish that the judge had let Captain Hazelwood walk out of here. I think he has been punished enough,'' jury foreman Lori Wing said.

''I think it was probably a fair sentence,'' said juror James Rousey.

Hazelwood had faced up to seven years, three months in jail and a $61,000 fine if he had been convicted of all four charges.

The jury found him innocent of felony mischief, operating a vessel while drunk and reckless endangerment. They rejected the prosecution scenario of events that it was Hazelwood's alcohol-impaired judgments and reckless actions that grounded the tanker.

Witness testimony supported the defense contention that Hazelwood was not impaired and that he took care to see that his crew was comfortable driving the tanker around icebergs before returning it to tanker lanes.

Hazelwood was off the bridge during the final stages of the detour that was never completed as the ship hit the underwater rocks of the well-known reef in the first minutes of last March 24.

Jurors faulted Hazelwood for poor judgment in leaving the bridge, something the defense admitted, but said Hazelwood's conduct did not amount to criminal behavior.

Hazelwood's only conviction, for negligent discharge of oil, indicated that the skipper's behavior ''was a substantial factor in causing or permitting the discharge of oil.''

The negligent count was the only charge dealing directly with spilling oil. The other three counts focused on Hazelwood's conduct generally aboard the tanker.

(MARCH 24) UPI - Federal mediators met with Greyhound negotiators for two hours Friday in what was characterized as a potential first step in a ''1,000-mile journey'' toward a settlement of a nationwide strike by the bus company's drivers.

P. Anthony Lannie, Greyhound's executive vice president and chief negotiator, had been invited to meet with labor mediators in Washington an effort to restart contract talks between Greyhound and its 9,300 union employees.

James Power, a spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said no direct labor-management talks were scheduled, ''but both sides are maintaining an ongoing dialogue (through the mediators) with the prospect of resuming negotiations in the near future.''

Power said both company and union representatives have been ''very responsive'' to the mediators.

''As soon as they can do something, they will,'' he said. ''They say every journey of a 1,000 miles starts with a first step. I think that's where we are.''

Greyhound spokesman George Gravley was not optimistic, however, about an early settlement in the bitter strike, which began March 2.

''There's no prospect for getting the talks going real soon,'' he said. ''We're miles apart on the economic issues.''

The federal mediation service has yet to extended an invitation to meet with the bargaining unit of the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions, union spokesman Jeffrey Nelson said.

''We have not heard from the mediators, but obviously if they ask us to participate, we will,'' Nelson said. ''We are happy the company is agreeing at least to meet with the mediator if they can't find it in their hearts to meet with their own employees.''

The first post-strike direct bargaining session ended abruptly Sunday when Lannie and his negotiating team walked out of talks in Tucson, Ariz. Lannie said the union's financial demands were still too high and accused union leaders of encouraging violence on the picket lines.

Friday's meeting in Washington was the first meeting held between mediators and the company since Sunday.

The strike has been marked by at least 21 instances of shootings at buses and terminals as well as the March 3 death of a striking driver who was crushed by a bus in northern California in an incident still under investigation.

The family of that driver, Robert Waterhouse, 59, filed a $50-million lawsuit earlier this week against the company and a replacement bus driver alleging that Greyhound caused the death and endangered public safety by hiring untrained drivers to replace strikers.

A Greyhound spokeswoman said she had not seen the lawsuit and declined comment.

Deputy District Attorney Andy Anderson said Friday he is reviewing police reports on the accident and is nearing a decision on whether to file criminal charges.

On negotiations, Greyhound officials have said the two sides are far apart on wage and benefit issues. During the last talks, the union reduced its demands by $30 million to a total of $185 million over three years, but the company insisted its $63 million offer was the most it could afford.

In an attempt to keep up service in the face of the massive walkout by most of the company's 6,300 drivers and 3,000 other union employees, Greyhound has hired more than 1,000 non-union replacement drivers.

(MARCH 23) UPI - A showdown looms in Lithuania... Democrats rail against President Bush's performance in foreign affairs... Secretary of State Baker gets a look at the effects of apartheid... and Idaho mulls a sweeping new abortion law... U-P-I has these top stories and more, next.

The White House said today the Soviet Union has expelled two American diplomats from Lithuania. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says the United States has protested the move.

Another White House spokesman says the United States is monitoring the situation amid reports that diplomats and journalists have been barred by the Kremlin from the Baltic republic.

Earlier, President Bush warned the Soviet Union that any attempt to forcibly intervene against Lithuania ''is bound to backfire.''

Soviet media say the K-G-B and Interior Ministry are rushing additional troops to Lithuania to tighten border control and confiscate weapons.

In Moscow, a top Soviet military adviser said Lithuanian deserters from

The statement comes as Lithuania issued an urgent appeal for international help against what it says are Soviet preparations to use force.

A Lithuanian deputy cited unusual troop movements and low-level flights by the Soviets over the capital of Vilnius.

The Soviets describe the actions as routine.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Democrats trying to make the party's image more moderate are meeting in New Orleans today.

Instead of attacking the liberals, Texas Senator Lloyd Bentsen opened the convention of moderates by attacking President Bush. Bentsen said Bush is robbing the United States of its role as world leader by sitting back and letting democracy unfold in Eastern Europe... while he pursues a ''hands-off isolationist foreign policy.''

Bensten said he finds it strange- quoting now- ''that an administration that jumps at the chance to traffic with Chinese leaders who slaughtered demonstrators in Tiananmen Square... would show excessive Cold War caution when it comes to dealing with the Soviet Union.''

In Indianapolis, members of the Democratic National Committee are meeting to consider changes in the presidential primary process, among other things.

President Bush and Panamanian Vice President Guillermo Ford defended Panama's request for 500-Million dollars in U-S aid on Capitol Hill today.

Ford says Panama needs a ''jump-start'' so the government won't have to be ''coming back every year, knocking on doors and asking for more.''

Some congressmen have questioned giving so much money to Panama when expanding democracies in Eastern Europe are asking for money. Ford said compared to 14-BILLION dollars for Poland... 500-Million for Panama seemed reasonable.

Bush says the money is ''crucial'' to keep democracy alive in this hemisphere. He said it would be wrong to shift the aid to the European countries.

In Miami, lawyers for deposed Panamanian leader Manuel Noriega asked that the federal drug indictment against him be dropped... saying the U-S invasion of Panama violated ''the laws and norms of humanity.'' The government's response is expected within a few days.

CHICAGO (MARCH 23) UPI - Poland's Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki arrived Friday in the city with the largest Polish population outside of Warsaw and was greeted by Illinois' top political leaders.

Mazowiecki, fresh from two days of talks at the White House, landed on the military side of O'Hare International Airport amid tight security shortly before 5 p.m.

''We've come to this famous city known as America's second city, but to us Poles, it is the first city in America,'' Mazowiecki told the group of about 50 dignitaries, including Attorney General Neil Hartigan, Lt. Gov. George Ryan, state senators, aldermen and representatives of the mayor's office.

''This is a historic day for Illinois,'' Hartigan, the Democratic candidate for governor, said during a 15-minute welcoming ceremony. ''How we have longed for the prime minister of Poland to celebrate democracy with us in solidarity.''

Temperatures in the 20s and skies threatening snow failed to put a chill on the raucous celebration, which included a handful of Polish dancers in traditional garb, a Polka band and a multitude of short speeches.

Mazowiecki, who is staying at the Chicago Hilton and Towers in the heart of the city's Loop, has a busy weekend schedule, including meetings with Gov. James R. Thompson to discuss Poland's economic development.

Mazowiecki and Thompson will lead a rally at the State of Illinois Center Saturday afternoon being hailed as a ''Celebration of Democracy,'' to be followed by a summit of the two leaders.

Thompson, Mazowiecki and state commerce leaders will be exploring ''the possibilities for future economic cooperation'' between Illinois and Poland, said Edward Moskal, president of the Polish National Congress, which is hosting Mazowiecki's whirlwind visit.

In addition to attending the many political and social events scheduled through the weekend, Mazowiecki will be soliciting contributions to Poland's special emergency relief fund, Moskal said.

''We can best honor Mazowiecki and his Solidarity-led government's work by assisting them with the difficult transformation for their government and Poland's economy,'' Moskal said.

(MARCH 23) UPI - The governor of Idaho is staying mum about whether he'll sign or veto a bill to give his state the most restrictive abortion law in the country.

The measure would ban abortions except in cases of rape, incest, profound fetal deformity or threat to the life or health of the mother.

The Idaho Senate yesterday approved the bill. It's due on the desk of governor Cecil Andrus by Monday or Tuesday. Andrus opposes abortion, but woN'T say in advance how he'll handle the bill.

Opponents of the bill held a candle-light vigil outside the Capitol in Boise last night, and say they'll keep it up until Andrus vetos the bill.

They're also trying to gather enough signatures to put the question on the November ballot and let the voters decide.

In Annapolis, Maryland, legislators ended an eight-day filibuster over abortion.

Senators agreed to pass legislation to sharply restrict abortions in the state... AND to pass an opposing measure that would allow abortions under most circumstances. That sets the stage for Maryland voters to decide the issue in November.

Hundreds more Albanian teen-agers in Yugoslavia were taken to hospitals today with a mysterious ailment.

Angry Albanians believing the youths were poisoned went on a rampage for the second straight day in Kosovo province, 200 miles south of Belgrade.

The illness began yesterday in a secondary school classroom in Podujevo. Albanian students complained of headache and stomach problems and were brought to hospitals. NO other ethnic groups have come down with the sickness.

About one-thousand ethnic Albanians have been hospitalized, but none are dangerously ill.

The Yugoslav Labor and Health Ministry says blood and urine tests show NO sign of an epidemic of infectious diseases or poisoning.''

(MARCH 23) UPI - Lithuania's parliament today speeded up formation of a new government in a looming showdown with Moscow on independence. Lawmakers met through the day and selected eight ministers of a 21-member government they hope will be recognized by nations of the world.

In Washington, the White House reports the Soviet Union has expelled two American diplomats from independence-minded Lithuania. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says the United States is protesting the order but will comply.

The move comes as Soviet media reports the K-G-B and Interior Ministry are sending reinforcements to Lithuania, with the stated purpose of controlling the border. President Bush has warned the Soviets any use of force will ''backfire.''

Hungary is escalating its war of words with Romania after several days of ethnic violence between Hungarians and Romanians in Transylvania. At least three people have been killed and 90 remain hospitalized.

West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher is calling for cooperation between NATO and the Warsaw Pact- cooperation he says will evenutually lead to a merger into a joint security organization.

(MARCH 23) UPI - The White House says the Soviet Union today ordered two American diplomats out of rebellious Lithuania. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says Washington will remove the diplomats under protest. Fitzwater says that means the matter is ''progressively getting worse.'' He says the diplomats were in Vilnius to do routine ''reporting and analysis.'' President Bush today warned the Soviets that any attempt to forcibly intervene against Lithuania ''is bound to backfire.''

The K-G-B and Soviet Interior Ministry today sent more personnel for what's said to be border patrol in Lithuania. The republic's parliament met through the day in Vilnius and selected eight ministers of a 21-member government they hope will be recognized by nations of the world. Three generals flew in from Moscow to talk with Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis.

Secretary of State Baker met today with Angolan guerrilla leader Jonas Savimbi in Zaire to discuss a U-S-sponsored effort to arrange a cease-fire in the Angolan civil war. Baker met earlier this week with the head of Angola's Soviet-backed government... Jose Eduardo dos Santos... in Namibia. Both Savimbi and dos Santos say they want the cease-fire to work.

Maryland's attorney general is trying to find out if it's legal for the state senate to pass two conflicting abortion laws so the voters can choose the one they want in a referendum. The state's lower house has now taken up the bills, which were passed in the Maryland senate as a compromise after eight days of filibuster. Maryland's governor says letting the voters decide may be the best idea.

(MARCH 23) UPI - From Bogota comes word that the president of the Patriotic Union says paramiltary leader Fidel Castano is responsible for yesterday's slaying of Bernardo Jaramillo, the party's leftist presidential candidate. The Colombian government had accused reputed Medellin drug baron Pablo Escobar of ordering the killing of Jaramillo at a Bogota airport.

Two Michigan mothers were sentenced today to up to 40 years in prison for letting men choose among their children for sex. The children, a boy and four girls, said their mothers threatened to contact authorities and have them taken from home if they refused. The incidents occurred while the two women shared a home from 1985 until the children were placed in foster care in 1988.

(MARCH 23) UPI - A judge in Anchorage, Alaska, today ordered former Exxon Valdez captain Joseph Hazelwood to one-thousand hours of work to help clean up the oil spill from his ship. Superior Court Judge Karl Johnstone gave Hazelwood a 90-day jail sentence but immediately suspended it on condition Hazelwood do the cleanup work. Johnstone also ordered Hazelwood to pay a one-thousand-dollar fine and to pay 50-thousand dollars in restitution. A jury yesterday cleared Hazelwood of felony charges but convicted him of negligent discharge of oil.

The state of Alaska and the U-S Coast Guard today painted different pictures of the damage still being done by the one-year-old Exxon Valdez oil spill. A state study says the oil is killing salmon and causing massive abnormalities among herring. Alaska Governor Steve Cowper called for long-term clean-up by Exxon. But Coast Guard Commandant Paul Yost says while Exxon should do more, he's ''very, very satisfied'' with the cleanup so far.

John Poindexter's Iran-Contra trial in Washington today revealed that the United States was directing Contra operations in Nicaragua almost one year after Congress banned such activity. A National Security Agency official testified that his agency told a congressional aid about the U-S actions in 1985. Poindexter's lawyer has been trying to show the jury that Congress had a great deal of information about covert U-S actions in Iran and Central America.

A showdown may be looming in Lithuania. The White House says its concerns were heightened after the Soviet Union today ordered two U-S diplomats out of the republic. The Kremlin also dispatched reinforcements to bolster Lithuanian border control. In Washington, President Bush warned against any attempt to coerce or intimidate the republic, which declared independence less than two weeks ago.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Nicaraguan rebels agree to demobilize... tanker captain Hazelwood is sentenced... startling testimony in the Poindexter trial... Moscow increases pressure on Lithuania... those stories and more, next, from U-P-I.

A new page is Nicaraguan history begins next month when President-elect Violeta Chamorro takes office.

Today, Archbishop Miguel Obando y Bravo announced that the U-S-backed Contras had agreed to demobilize before Chamorro takes over from the ruling Sandinista Front April 25th.

The agreement puts an end to the nine years of civil war in the Central American nation. Obando y Bravo read a joint communique announcing the accord after talks in Honduras between leaders of the Nicaraguan rebels and a group sent by Chamorro.

The communique said the Contras recognized that the February 25th elections in which Chamorro beat Sandinista President Daniel Ortega were carried out ''in freedom, honesty and efficiency.''

Contra leaders are asking world bodies such as the United Nations and the C-I-A-V, an international verification organization, to help in the demobilization.

(MARCH 23) UPI - A government worker testifying in John Poindexter's Iran-Contra trial today revealed that a Contra leader believed the United States was directing the war in Nicaragua in 1985 despite a congressional ban on aid to the rebels.

National Security Agency official Ralph Adams disclosed that information by reading a ''stipulation'' agreed to by both sides.

Adams said his agency in 1985 provided a congressional aide with ''highly reliable intelligence'' that a contra leader thought the United States ran the contra war in northern Nicaragua. The leader allegedly anticipated U-S control in the southern part of the country as well.

The Boland amendment of 1984 cut off U-S aid to the Contras. The previously undisclosed information indicates the U-S government was improperly ''directing'' Contra operations a year later.

Poindexter was President Reagan's national security adviser. Poindexter is on trial in Washington on charges of conspiracy to obstruct and conceal the congressional investigation of the Iran-Contra scandal.

Poindexter's attorney has been trying to show that Congress had plenty of information about the matter.

The Soviet K-G-B and Interior Ministry moved today to control Lithuania's border as part of Moscow's attempt to crack down on the republic's independence movement.

Both agencies sent additional personnel to work customs and confiscate weapons from Lithuanians.

Three generals flew to Vilnius from Moscow and successfully demanded to talk with Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis.

The Lithuanian parliament, meanwhile, elected eight members to its 21-minister government. The parliament is hurrying to form the new government so other nations will recognize its legitimacy.

The Soviet Union has declared the parliament's March 11th declaration of independence devoid of legal authority.

In Washington, the United States is protesting the Soviet Union's expulsion today of two U-S diplomats from Lithuania.

The White House says the move raises the pressure a notch higher. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says the situation is getting ''progressively worse.''

(MARCH 23) UPI - Non-union replacement bus drivers continue to sit behind the wheel as the Greyhound strike rolls on.

Today, federal mediators met with Greyhound negotiators for two hours in the nation's capital for the first time since Sunday. The bitter strike of 93-hundred union employees began March 2nd.

NO direct talks between labor and management are scheduled, but a spokesman for the Federal Meditation and Conciliation Service viewed today's bargaining session as a potential first step towards a settlement of the walkout.

However, a Greyhound spokesman is NOT as optimistic about an early settlement. Says George Gravely- ''we're still miles apart on the economic issues.''

The nationwide Greyhound strike involves 63-hundred bus drivers and three-thousand other union workers.

Two Michigan women convicted of forcing their children to have sex with men were sentenced today to up to 40 years in prison.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Leftist campaign officials in Colombia say Medellin drug baron Pablo Escobar told them he did NOT order the killing of leftist presidential candidate Bernardo Jaramillo .

Escobar said he would NOT have killed Jarmillo because the candidate opposed extradition of suspected drug traffickers to the United States.

The slaying yesterday triggered riots. Supporters of Jaramillo's leftist Patriotic Union Party tossed rocks and Molotov cocktails at riot police, and armed protesters set fire to several cars and buses in Bogota.

The mayor of the capital said one soldier was shot and killed and four were wounded overnight, and 20 civilians were hurt.

The president of the Patriotic Union blames Jaramillo's killing on infamous paramilitary leader Fidel Castano. He accused the government of ''manipulation and political calculation'' by accusing Escobar.

Bookmakers in London are taking bets on names for a girl born today in the central part of the city.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 26) COMTEX - Kimmins Environmental Service Corp. of Tampa, FL, has filed a countersuit against Denver-based Manville Sales Corp. over Manville's termination of certain demolition and asbestos-abatement contracts, and is seeking $15 million in damages.

Manville, which terminated its contracts with Kimmins and its subsidiaries on Feb. 5, sued Kimmins in General District Court of Colorado alleging that safety violations and performance delays caused Kimmins to breach those contracts with Manville, according to a Securities and Exchange Commission filing.

Kimmins filed its countersuit March 8, claiming wrongful termination and breach of contract.

ABU DHABI, (MARCH 24) - The Abu Dhabi Company for Onshore Oil Operations (ADCO) on Saturday reported "significant" new oil and gas finds during its exploration in 1989.

ADCO, one of the Gulf's largest oil companies, said in its 1989 annual report that exploration activity had trebled with nine wells drilled last year, compared to three in 1988.

"ADCO was successful in proving significant new hydrocarbons in both developed and undeveloped fields," the general manager, Terry Adams, said in a foreword to the report.

The report said most of the finds were in the Upper Jurassic, Falahil and Qatar reservoirs as well as Habshan, Shuaiba and Thamama formations. It gave no details of their size.

NEW YORK, (MARCH 24) PR NEWSWIRE - SSMC, Inc. (NYSE: SSM) announced today that it is mailing a supplement to its Proxy Statement/Prospectus, dated Feb. 15, 1990, relating to a special meeting of stockholders of the company scheduled to be held on Wednesday, March 28, 1990, to consider and vote upon the merger of the company with a wholly-owned subsidiary of Semi-Tech Microelectronics (Far East) Limited. In the merger, SSMC would be the surviving corporation and each outstanding share of SSMC common stock (other than shares held by Semi-Tech) would be converted into one share of 15 percent Series B Cumulative Preferred Stock of SSMC and would have a stated value of $38. The terms of the Preferred Stock are described in the Proxy Statement/Prospectus.

In order to allow SSMC stockholders additional time to consider the information contained in the supplement, Semi-Tech will, prior to any other action being taken at the special meeting on March 28, 1990, propose and vote its shares of SSMC Common Stock to adjourn the meeting to April 6 1990 at 10:30 a.m., local time, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York, N.Y. Semi-Tech beneficially owns and has the right to vote a sufficient number of shares to adjourn the meeting. As previously announced, Semi-Tech has sufficient SSMC shares to approve and adopt the merger agreement without the affirmative vote of any other holder of SSMC Common Stock, and is required by the merger agreement to vote its shares in favor of the merger.

(MARCH 24) UPI - President Bush warned Moscow Friday that any show of force in Lithuania will likely ''backfire.'' The president's comments came as the Soviet K-G-B and Interior Ministry rushed detachments to the rebellious Baltic republic. Also, three generals traveled to the Lithuanian capital of Vilnius and met with the republic's leader, Vytautas Landsbergis.

A series of assassinations has prompted the Peruvian government of President Alan Garcia to impose a 30-day state of emergency in the capital city of Lima and a nearby port. Two revolutionary groups are being blamed for a wave of violence that has left five congressional candidates dead this year.

There was a startling revelation at Friday's trial of John Poindexter in Washington. A congressional aide reportedly received a tip from the National Security Agency in late 1985 that the United States was ''directing'' Contra operations in Nicaragua almost one year after Congress banned U-S aid to the rebels.

NASA officials met with congressional representatives in Washington Friday to discuss plans for a 30-BILLION-dollar space station. There have been concerns that the plans are flawed because initial reports indicate the space station would need the equivalent of three risky spacewalks a week just to keep properly maintained.

(MARCH 24) UPI - Not a single pitch has been thrown in a spring training game this year, and the fans already have a reason to yell at the umpires.

Major league umpires, the forgotten faction of this spring's labor disputes, have announced that they will boycott spring training games to show their displeasure with scheduling changes that resulted from the 32-day lockout.

''This action comes as a result of the owners' refusal to bargain in good faith with the major league umpires regarding the impact of the rescheduling of spring training games,'' said Richard Phillips, an attorney for the umpires' union Friday.

The umpires boycott, which will last the length of the exhibition schedule will not carry over into the regular season. In their absence, minor league umpires will work all spring training games through April 8.

''The umpires have advised both leagues that under the circumstances, they will refuse to participate in the now-revised spring training schedule,'' Phillips said at a news conference.

''We're charging the owners with a failure to bargain in good faith, and ... with effecting unilateral changes in the umpires' working conditions without any meaningful bargaining,'' Phillips said.

Phillips said his union endorses the use of minor league umpires during spring training, mentioning that they will will gain financially and by acquiring experience from working exhibiton games.

''There will be professional umpires working the spring training games,'' said Katy Feeney, director of media and public affairs for the National League. She declined to add anything further.

The Montreal Expos are so pitching-thin that, despite losing three starters to free agency, their main area of need is the bullpen.

So, besides having to replace Mark Langston, Pascual Perez and Bryn Smith in the rotation, Expo manager Buck Rodgers has to find relief help.

Right-handed closer Tim Burke, who led the team with 28 saves last season, and long reliever Dave Schmidt, signed as a free agent from Baltimore, are the only two set out of the bullpen.

The bullpen, which was ''lousy all year,'' caused the Expos' slump the last two months of the season, Rodgers said.

Pitching coach Dave Duncan said all of the Oakland A's regular starters may sit out the spring opener Monday against the Chicago Cubs.

''I'm not sure any of our guys are going to be ready for that game,'' said Duncan. Joe Slusarski was penciled in as the Athletics' starter against the Cubs. ''I'm considering Stew (Dave Stewart) for the second game. But I'll only let him go three innings max, and I'll be counting pitches carefully.''

Duncan said he will likely follow Slusarski with roster prospects Joe Klink, who led the Class AA Southern League with 26 saves last season, and Reese Lambert, who has been in the A's farm system for five years.

Dale Murphy has decided to lose weight and gain strength to improve his relatively poor performance the last two seasons.

''It was fun, educational. I haven't done that well the last two years. I had to change something,'' he said.

Murphy hired Jay Thursby, an Atlanta trainer, to receive a ''more focused'' workout, the type he considers more disciplined and better directed.

Murphy averaged 22 home runs and 80 RBI the last two seasons. Before 1988, Murphy hit 36 or more home runs and drove in at least 100 runs in five of the previous six campaigns.

San Francisco manager Roger Craig has named Rick Reuschel as his opening day pitcher for the exhibition and regular seasons.

''He won 17 games for me last year, and he's won more than 200 overall,'' Craig said. ''By Rick having the best year, winning the most games, he deserves it.''

Craig named a four-man starting rotation that features all right-handers - Reuschel, Scott Garrelts, Mike LaCoss and Kelly Downs.

The Cincinnati Reds were hoping for fireworks from Randy Myers, acquired in December from the New York Mets for John Franco, but they may have gotten more than they bargained for.

Myers, a free-spirited military gear buff, placed two hand grenades and ammunition boxes on his locker shelf.

He explained that the ammunition boxes hold fan letters and personal items. He said the hand grenandes serve as paperweights.

Pitcher Jose Rijo in the adjoining locker became a little uneasy.

''If those things go off,'' he said, ''we're all in trouble.''

Righthander Doug Drabek will start for the Pittsburgh Pirates in the team's season opener against the Mets in New York on April 9, Manager Jim Leyland said.

Drabek was 14-12 with a 2.80 earned run average last season. Lefthander John Smiley, 12-8, 2.81, is scheduled to pitch the second game, and Neal Heaton may start the third game.

Leyland said he hopes to get his starters in shape to pitch seven innings per game by April 9. He said a lot will be determined by each pitcher's success.

''We're not going to take any chances,'' he said. ''Still, you have to remember that a lot of these guys have been throwing (during the lockout). It's not the same (as a game), but they have been throwing.''

Baseball

Major league umpires will boycott spring training to show their displeasure with baseball scheduling changes this year, said Richard Phillips, an attorney who reprsents the umpires' union. Phillips said the action will not affect the regular season. Minor league umpires will work the exhibition games, which begin Monday in Florida and Arizona. ... Former Twins pitcher Keith Atherton is receiving a five-day tryout with Minnesota. Atherton was with the Twins from 1986-1988 before being traded to the Cleveland Indians. He signed a minor-league contract with the Montreal Expos before asking for his release. Atherton was 0-3 with a 4.15 ERA for Cleveland last season. ... Outfielder Jerome Walton finally showed up at the Cups' camp in Mesa, Ariz., saying commitments in Chicago kept him from arriving sooner. ... San Francisco Manager Roger Craig named Rick Reuschel, who won 17 games for the Giants last season, as his opening day pitcher for the exhibition and regular seasons. Craig also named a four-man starting rotation that features all right-handers: Reuschel, Scott Garrelts, Mike LaCoss and Kelly Downs. Veteran pitcher Don Robinson, attempting to recover from offseason knee surgery, can not begin throwing off a mound yet because his right leg did not test strong enough Thursday. He will undergo another exam next week.

Boxing

The Reno Sparks Convention and Visitors Authority voted to offer a $150,000 fee to attract to Nevada May 20 a junior lightweight championship fight between Juan ''John John'' Molina of Puerto Rico and Tony ''The Tiger'' Lopez of Sacramento.

College

Purdue Coach Gene Keady admitted to the NCAA Division I basketball committee that remarks he made about officials after last week's tournament game with Texas were inappropriate. During a post-game interview, Keady chastized the officiating during the Boilermakers' 73-72 loss to Texas. He was critical of calls for charging and also said schools that tried to run a clean program didn't get breaks.

Football

Chicago signed Pro Bowl running back Neal Anderson to a new contract. Anderson, who led the Bears in rushing, receiving and scoring last season, became a restricted free agent Feb. 1 and was eligible to negotiate with any other team. He reportedly was seeking more than $1.5 million a year after making $290,000 last season. ... Houston Plan B free agent defensive back Jeff Donaldson has agreed to a two-year contract with the Chiefs, newspapers in Kansas City and Houston reported. Donaldson, a ninth-round draft pick in 1984, was the starting free safety for the Oilers for the past three seasons.

Briton Colin Montgomerie shot a 8-under-par-64 to take the second-round lead at the Volvo Open at Florence Italy. Montomerie stood at 15-under for the tournament, two strokes head of Australian Peter O'Malley and Britons Russell Claydon and Roger Chapman.

Ski Jumping

Elan Sport Management of Yugoslavia announced plans to sponsor a four-event summer ''Ski Jumping Challenge'', with prize money totaling $29,400 for each of the events in Velenje, Yugoslavia, Val di Fiemme, Italy, Berchtesgaten, West Germany and Stams, Austria. The move would mark a possible first step towards professionalism for the amateur sport. Events would start July 1, 1990.

Tennis

India's Davis Cup team captain Ramesh Krishnan withdrew from his squad's match against Japan next week because of a foot injury, the Press Trust of India news agency reported. Ramanathan Krishnan, Ramesh's father and former Indian tennis champion, told the news agency that Ramesh is undergoing treatment for the unspecified injury in New York. Ramesh dropped out of last year's Cup match with South Korea due to health reasons.

EL PASO, TX (MARCH 24) UPI - A U.S. Army helicopter on training maneuvers crashed Friday, killing one crewmember and injuring another, a military spokesman said.

The Cobra AH-1 crashed at 4:08 p.m. on a gunnery practice range at Fort Bliss, but did not burn, said spokesman Brad Rose.

One crewmember airlifted to William Beaumont Army Medical Center at Ft. Bliss died shortly after arrival, Rose said. Another crewmember taken to the same facility by ambulance was in stable condition.

''The helicopter was flying a gunnery training mission pattern,'' Rose said.

The names of the crewmembers were withheld pending notification of next of kin. No other crewmembers were aboard.

Rose said the aircraft was armed but did not fire during the mission.

He said an investigation would be conducted to determine the cause of the crash.

NEW YORK (MARCH 24) UPI - A man awaiting trial on murder charges escaped from Rikers Island and may has stolen a prison guard's car and driven across a bridge into Queens, authorities said Saturday.

Paul Tarantola, 26, of Brooklyn, was confirmed missing from the Anna M. Kross Center, the largest of nine jails on the island, at 10:45 p.m. Friday, said city Department of Correction spokeswoman Ruby Ryles.

A blue station wagon belonging to a captain assigned to the North Facility on the island was reported stolen at 11:20 p.m. and was driven off the island, Ryles said.

Tarantola, who had been in Rikers awaiting trial on murder charges since March 31, 1989, is a white male and considered dangerous, Ryles said.

Tarantola was last seen at 9 p.m. and the escape was discovered during a count that took place before the 11 p.m. lock-down, Ryles said.

It was not known if Tarantola had driven the car across the bridge connecting the island prison to Queens. Guards on the bridge generally only search car trunks and because the stolen car is a station wagon they probably only looked inside, Ryles said.

On March 2, two inmates cut through a jail window and fled the building but were caught while still on the island. In that incident, the inmates also were discovered missing shortly before night lock down.

Rikers is home to more than 13,000 inmates, 65 percent of them awaiting trial, Ryles said. The last successful escape occurred when a man snuck out in a garbage truck but he also was caught, Ryles said.

Kenny Anderson's last second shot that sent Georgia Tech into overtime against Michigan State Friday night in the NCAA Southeast Regional semifinal in New Orleans was open to many interpretations.

The referees discussed whether it was a 2- or 3-point shot, but the question in Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote's mind was more elemental: whether it should have counted at all.

The refs decided it was a 2-pointer that tied the game at 75-75, sending it into overtime. The Yellow Jackets went on to win 81-80 on Dennis Scott's off-balance hook shot with eight seconds left.

''It looked to me that Anderson released the ball after the time ran out, but I couldn't tell,'' Heathcote said. ''I still think we won the game in regulation and lost it in overtime.''

Naturally, the Yellow Jacket guard saw it differently.

''I beat the buzzer, I know that for sure,'' he said. ''When the buzzer went, the ball was out of my hand.''

Anderson, the runaway Freshman of the Year, scored 31 points and committed just two turnovers playing the entire 45 minutes, but his single biggest play may have occured after time expired.

Anderson forged a 75-75 tie by sinking a 19-foot jumper that appeared to be launched just after the final horn. One official signalled a 3-point shot for Anderson, triggering a wild midcourt celebration by the Yellow Jackets. After a conference at the scorer's table, it was ruled Anderson's right sneaker was on the 3-point line.

Steve Smith, who scored 32 points for the Spartans, 28-6, gave Anderson the opportunity to tie when he missed the front end of a one-and-one with five seconds left in regulation.

Dwayne Stephens hit two foul shots to put Michigan State ahead 80-79 with 23 seconds left in overtime before Scott drove the lane and dropped in an awkward hook over Stephens' tight coverage. Stephens inbounded the ball with four seconds left following a timeout, but Ken Redfield's 35-footer at the final buzzer bounced off the side of the rim.

''It was a wild basketball game,'' said Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins. ''I'm sitting here wondering how we won. It's an amazing team. We did not play well. I thought Michigan State outplayed us. I feel very fortunate sitting here in this position.''

The Yellow Jackets, 27-6, knocked off the Southeast's top seed and ended Michigan State's 12-game winning streak with the victory. Georgia Tech, which has never earned a Final Four berth, faces Minnesota in Sunday's regional final.

The Golden Gophers beat Syracuse 82-75 in the opener as Kevin Lynch scored 16 second-half points and Melvin Newbern added 14 in the period, helping Minnesota battle back from a halftime deficit.

The Gophers, 23-8, advanced to their first NCAA regional final.

Syracuse, which was seeded second in the region, finished the year 26-7. Billy Owens had given the Orangemen a 60-58 lead with 9:37 to go, but Lynch answered with a 3-pointer and after teammate Willie Burton hit a free throw, connected again from the baseline to put Minnesota up 64-60 with 9:01 remaining.

The Orangemen, with a 3-pointer from Tony Scott providing the impetus, got back within a point three times, including 72-71 with 3:31 left. But Burton made an 18-footer from the left side and, after Scott threw the ball away on the other end, Newbern drilled a jumper from the right baseline for a 76-71 edge.

The Gophers were able to close out the Orangemen at the free throw line, and a tip-in by Burton with 12 seconds left capped the scoring.

The Loyola-Marymount Lions, known for their non-stop fastbreak offense that averaged 125.2 points this year, slowed down to play the Alabama Crimson Tide's game but still came out ahead, 62-60.

Terrell Lowery's snuck to the basket on a busted play to score a layup with 33 seconds left that broke a tie and allowed the Lions, 26-5, to continue their improbable ruin at the NCAA championship.

Trailing 54-48 with a little more than five minutes remaining, the Lions, who dedicated their postseason following the sudden death of teammate Hank Gathers, went on a 7-2 run to take a 56-55 lead with 2:56 left.

The teams traded baskets before Jeff Fryer nailed a 3-pointer from the top of the key to make the score 60-58 with 1:41 left. But Melvin Cheatum calmly sank an 8-footer to tie it 60-60.

Lowery snuck in on a busted play to break the deadlock. After a timeout, Cheatum missed a five-footer with five seconds left. Lowery blew the front end of a one-and-one with 3.6 seconds left and Alabama rebounded with 2.6.

Cheatum threw a fullcourt pass, and after a scramble, Alabama's Robert Horry attempted a 15-foot fade-away jumper as time ran out but the ball bounced off the front of the rim.

No. 11 seed Loyola Marymount, led by Bo Kimble's 19 points and Lowery's 16 improved to 26-5. Alabama, which received 21 points each from Cheatum and Horry, finished 26-9.

The victory put the Lions in the Regional final Sunday against the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, which scrapped past the pesky Ball State Cardinals 69-67 in the nightcap.

Larry Johnson scored 20 points and grabbed 13 rebounds to lead the top-seeded Runnin' Rebels, 32-5. The Rebels defeated the Lions, 102-91, earlier this year in the pre-season National Invitation Tournament.

Cinderella Ball State, the lowest seed to advance to the regionals, finished the year at 27-6.

TEGUCIGALPA, HONDURAS (MARCH 24) UPI - The White House and Nicaraguan leaders praised a decision by the U.S.-backed Contra rebels to demobilize before Nicaraguan President-elect Violeta Chamorro takes office next month signaling an end to nine years of civil war.

Managua Archbishop Miguel Obando y Bravo read a joint communique announcing the agreement after a day of talks Friday with leaders of the Nicaraguan rebels at the Toncontin Honduran Air Force Base in Tegucigalpa.

The Bush administration called the decision a ''step toward peace'' and Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega said it would help end the war that has caused ''so much suffering for the Nicaraguan people.''

The communique, called the Toncontin Declaration, said the Contras recognized that the Feb. 25 elections, in which Chamorro defeated the Sandinista leader Ortega, were carried out ''in freedom, honesty and efficiency'' and ''allowed a triumph of the people's will to establish a process of democracy.''

''This ... allows us to declare emphatically that we have decided to begin the process of general demobilization of our forces, starting with the disarming of those who remain in Honduras by April 20 at the latest,'' the statement said.

An estimated 15,000 U.S.-funded Contras have been fighting a war against Nicaragua's leftist government since 1981. Some 10,000 to 12,000 of the rebels are living inside Honduras near the Nicaraguan border.

In Washington, the Bush administration issued a statement Friday night calling the Contra development ''a notable step towards peace.'' The statement said it was time for the Sandinistas to take ''a reciprocal step to demilitarize Nicaraguan society.''

Ortega met Obando y Bravo and the Chamorro delegation at the Managua airport as they returned from Honduras.

''As president of Nicaragua, I fully support this accord. It is in line with achieving peace for Nicaraguans and eliminating the war that has caused so much damage and so much suffering for the Nicaraguan people,'' Ortega said at a news conference.

Ortega said he would order the Sandinista Defense Ministry to take the steps necessary to comply with the accord ''so that ... if possible by April 25, there is not a single armed Contra in Nicaragua.''

Asked whether the accord would make possible the disarming of Sandinista supporters in the countryside, Ortega said ''we are assuming this accord will be fulfilled.''

''If we achieve that,'' he added, ''there will be no reason for many peasants who are now armed in war zones to retain their weapons.''

Obando y Bravo arrived in Honduras Friday, heading a delegation sent by Chamorro, who is scheduled to take office April 25. The disbanding of the Contras has been a major issue in the transition of power in Nicaragua.

Ortega had said that, while not a pre-condition for transition, the demobilization would avoid Nicaragua becoming a trouble spot in danger of exploding.

The Contras, who had earlier said they would not disband until after Chamorro takes office, called on world bodies such as the United Nations and the CIAV - a joint U.N.-Organization of American States support and verification group - to assist in the demobilization.

In the communique, they listed a number of conditions for the success of the disbanding, including a bilateral cease-fire between the Contras and the Sandinista armed forces, to be verified by CIAV and the United Nations and the concentration of Contras inside Nicaragua in clearly defined safety zones.

It was not immediately clear why the demobilization agreement was not signed by the rebels' military commander, Israel Galeano, known as Commandante Franklin.

Antonio Lacayo, the head of Chamorro's transition team, and one of the signatories of the accord, said that if Commander Franklin did not support the accord, ''the armed resistance will have to see what they do with him.''

No date was given for the disarming of what Ortega estimated at 4,000 to 6,000 Contras inside Nicaragua. Lacayo said the Contra leaders who signed the accords ''assured us they have control'' over rebel forces inside Nicaragua.

Ortega called a unilateral cease-fire March 1 following the elections, although sporadic battles have occurred since in the northern Nicaraguan province of Jinotega, with a number of Contras and Sandinista troops reported killed.

The Contras are included in a sweeping amnesty passed into law March 10 in Nicaragua.

JUNEAU, AK (MARCH 24) UPI - Nine crewmen missing after a 162-foot fishing ship suddenly rolled over and sank in the frigid Bering Sea were presumed drowned Friday while 22 survivors were being taken to a safe harbor, the Coast Guard said.

''At this time, we don't think there is any hope of finding them. We are not conducting an active search of the area today,'' said Lt. Brian Flory of the Coast Guard's Juneau station.

''We had seven hours of good weather to search yesterday. Basically, at this point, there's no chance they could be alive in the Bering Sea. From what we have been told, they were below decks when the ship rolled and didn't have time to get out.''

The 22 survivors, 15 from the Seattle area, were rescued from life rafts following the sinking of the Aleutian Enterprise 60 miles south of St. Paul Island in the remote Pribilof group Thursday afternoon. They were en route to Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Friday aboard a sister ship, the Pacific Enterprise, Flory said.

None of the survivors were seriously injured, he said.

The nine missing crewmen were identified as mate Nello Marciel, 55, of San Diego; chief engineer John A. Dieterich, 31, of Seattle; foreman Matthew J. Schneider, 22, of Issaquah, Wash.; Joseph J. Alaimo, 45, of Yakima, Wash.; Robert W. Davis, 26, of Renton, Wash.; Jeffrey A. Houston, 21, of Warren, Ore.; Javier Martin V. Castro, 27, of Seattle; David J. Jefferies, 19, of Fontana, Calif.; and fisheries observer Robert McCord, 35, of Englewood, Colo.

Dan Roberts, spokesman for Arctic Alaska Fisheries Corp., of Seattle, said his company managed the vessel under contract to the owners, Aleutian Enterprise Ltd., a California limited partnership.

There were no immediate explanations of what caused the large ''catcher-processer'' to roll over. Coast guard officials said they were told the ship, which can trawl for bottom fish, process and fast-freeze them on board, capsized and sank in about five minutes.

''We have absolutely no idea what happened,'' Roberts said. ''We have had no chance to talk to the crew.''

Coast Guard officials said the vessel sank in relatively calm, 6-foot seas within sight of two sister vessels, the Pacific Enterprise and the Northwest Enterprise, which steamed quickly to the site from about a half-mile away and picked up survivors from two life rafts.

Early reports indicated the ship sank too fast to allow crew members to climb into survival suits necessary to survive immersion in the waters of the Bering Sea.

A Coast Guard C-130 aircraft aided in an extensive search of the area Thursday but found no trace of the missing crew.

Roberts said the Aleutian Enterprise usually remains in the Bering Sea for 12 to 15 months at a time before returning to Seattle for maintenance. He was not certain how long the ship had been at sea this trip.

Company officials said once the survivors reached land, they would be flown to Anchorage, Alaska, and then on to Seattle.

ANNAPOLIS, MD. (MARCH 24) UPI - A compromise plan to let voters decide the politically explosive issue of abortion in Maryland has been rejected by a legislative committee and appears defeated.

Unwilling to accept two drastically different abortion bills approved by the state Senate in resolving its eight-day filibuster, a House of Delegates committee voted down both proposals Friday night.

The Environmental Matters Committee rejected the contrasting legislation by a 13-12 count. One bill proposed to guarantee the unrestricted availability of abortions, while the second proposed to virtually outlaw the procedure.

''It is our opinion that we were sent a convoluted proposal that does work in a lot of ways,'' said House Majority leader John Arnick, who cast the deciding committee vote as chairman of the panel.

Arnick voted after a day of meetings with House Speaker R. Clayton Mitchell that focused on opinions from the state attorney general's office showing the bills may be unconstitutional.

Despite the unfavorable recommendations on both bills, one or either could be revived by a majority vote in the full House of Delegates, but abortion rights supporters believed it unlikely.

''I doubt if they will be revived,'' said Prince George's County Delegate Paul Pinsky. ''The leadership could get enough votes to oppose it.''

Under the now dormant Senate proposal, both bills would have to be approved by the House and Gov. William Donald Schaefer. If that occurred, it would set the stage for a likely voter referendum on the dual legislation.

In a referendum, the bill favored by the voters would become state law, enforceable if the Supreme Court disturbs its 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision asserting a woman's constitutional right to abortion.

Gov. William Donald Schaefer, who has stayed out of the abortion debate, said Friday that senators might have taken the only course possible by passing the responsibility to voters.

''I think that's not a bad way to do it,'' the governor said of the Senate compromise.

The Maryland decision follows adoption by Idaho legislators passed what is being called the nation's most restrictive abortion law. It is now on the desk of Gov. Cecil Andres, an avowed abortion opponent.

The Idaho bill, estimated to eliminate about 95 percent of the abortions now performed in that state, would prohibit abortion as a method of birth control, banning all abortions except in cases of rape, incest, profound fetal deformity or threat to the life or the health of the mother.

States like Maryland and Idaho began considering their own abortion laws after the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in the Missouri Webster case, which gave states some discretion in setting their abortion policies.

Assistant Attorney General Robert Zarnoch told lawmakers Friday he believed both Maryland Senate bills could be considered unconstitutional under the Roe decision.

Zarnoch said an ''informed consent'' provision in the abortion rights bill requiring that certain information be presented to those considering the procedure may conflict with the Constitution, while the entire anti-abortion legislation may be unconsitutional.

The abortion rights legislation would allow unrestricted abortions until a fetus is deemed viable. After that, the procedure would be allowed only if the mother's health were in danger or if the fetus faced profound deformity.

It also would require physicians to test fetuses 20 weeks or older to determine viability, and would require that abortion statistics be reported to the state.

The anti-abortion bill would ban the procedure unless the pregnancy endangered a mother's life or if insemination resulted from rape or incest.

The filibuster, which began March 15 and recessed nightly, ended when abortion opponents agreed to halt the debate at 12:40 a.m. Friday.

Abortion became an issue during the General Assembly session after Maryland's attorney general determined that a 1968 state law restricting abortions would become enforceable if the Supreme Court ever overturned Roe vs. Wade.

The 1968 law restricted abortions to cases of rape, incest or when the mother's life was in danger, and required the procedure be performed in an accredited hospital only after a medical board gave its approval in each case.

ANCHORAGE, AK (MARCH 24) UPI - Suggesting punishment should fit the crime, a judge sentenced former Exxon Valdez skipper Joseph Hazelwood to spend 1,000 hours cleaning up polluted beaches for his part in the nation's worst oil spill.

''Imprisonment's not going to restore the environment,'' Alaska Superior Court Judge Karl Johnstone said Friday. ''He's certainly not a danger to society. But there's community outrage at what happened.''

Johnstone gave Hazelwood the maximum 90-day jail term and $1,000 fine for his minor pollution conviction in the spill, but suspended that sentence on the condition the fired tanker captain scour beaches fouled by the catastrophic accident.

The sentencing came on the eve of the first anniversary of the grounding of the tanker Exxon Valdez, which spilled 11 million gallons of crude in Prince William Sound off southern Alaska March 24, 1989.

In addition to the 1,000 hours of clean-up work, Johnstone placed Hazelwood on probation for one year and ordered him to pay 25 percent of his gross income until he made $50,000 in ''token restitution.''

One of Hazelwood's lawyers, Michael Chalos, suggested the 1,000 hours of clean-up work was steep. ''It sounds like he needs to be up here for six months,'' the lawyer said. ''That's longer than the jail sentence.''

Hazelwood, 43, of Huntington, N.Y., was accused of being drunk, reckless and the person most responsible for the devastating spill, but he was convicted by a jury Thursday only of a relatively minor count of negligent discharge - the only allegation to do with spilling oil.

The oil spill tainted 1,200 miles of shoreline, killed tens of thousands of sea birds as well as otters, eagles and other animals, and ruined fishing.

Given an opportunity to make a statement before sentencing, Hazelwood said ''I'd just like to thank the jury for the verdict they reached.''

Johnstone responded, ''I was hoping I would hear something that sounded like an apology. I was waiting to hear something that sounded like 'I'm sorry.'''

But Johnstone acknowledged, and defense lawyers confirmed, that Hazelwood was unable to admit any role in the grounding or spill because he is a defendant in many of the 150 civil suits filed against Exxon, which owned the tanker.

Johnstone condemned Hazelwood's actions March 23, 1989, in Valdez, Alaska, when he drank vodka before sailing his tanker on a course that put it on the rocks of charted Bligh Reef in the early minutes of March 24.

''No reasonably prudent person operating an oil tanker like the Exxon Valdez would have had those drinks before getting on board or would have left the bridge when he did,'' Johnstone said, referring to the skipper leaving the controls to two unqualified crewmen during a detour around icebergs.

Johnstone cited Hazelwood's two prior drunken driving convictions in New York in 1984 and New Hampshire in 1988.

''He's no stranger to the criminal justice system in that regard,'' the judge said. ''He certainly knows that alcohol and equipment don't work very well together.''

The sentencing came about 10 hours short of the exact time a year earlier that the tanker hit the reef and broke open.

Defense lawyer Dick Madson said Hazelwood expected to get jail time. Madson called Friday's sentencing creative and said, ''I think it's appropriate that he came up with something besides jail.''

Johnstone said imprisonment would serve no purpose for a mariner shamed by the spill and unlikely ever to work on a tanker again. He suspended the jail term and fine ''on the condition that Captain Hazelwood perform 1,000 hours of community work service in the state of Alaska ... on projects that are designed to eliminate environmental damage that was caused by the oil spill in Prince William Sound.''

The judge recommended the ''work be performed on the beaches of Prince William Sound'' when the cleanup of the massive spill enters its second season May 1.

Johnstone did agree, however, to the defense lawyers' request that the imposition of sentence be stayed during their planned appeal of Hazelwood's lone conviction.

Hazelwood had faced up to seven years, three months in jail and a $61,000 fine if convicted of all four charges.

The jury found him innocent of criminal mischief, a felony, and two other misdemeanors, operating a vessel while drunk and reckless endangerment. Jurors rejected the prosecution scenario that Hazelwood's alcohol-impaired judgments and reckless actions caused the grounding.

Hazelwood was off the bridge during the final stages of the detour that was never completed as the ship hit the underwater rocks of the well-known reef.

Jurors faulted Hazelwood for poor judgment in leaving the bridge, something the defense admitted, but said Hazelwood's conduct did not amount to criminal behavior.

VILNIUS, USSR (MARCH 24) UPI - More than 100 Soviet tanks and military vehicles carrying hundreds of soldiers rode past the rebellious Lithuanian parliament early Saturday in a massive show of force by Moscow.

The military procession took place at 3:30 a.m. as Lithuania's nationalist controlled parliament held a marathon session to form the Baltic republic's new government.

Deputies raced from the parliament building to watch the military procession rumble by the yellow, green and red Lithuanian flag.

''We felt that we were really in an occupied country,'' Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis later told the parliament.

''We won't forget it for a long time - an alien power sent forces and we didn't know why,'' he said.

Landsbergis said the procession included 59 light armored tanks and about 50 other military vehicles as well as 1,500 to 2,000 soldiers armed with automatic weapons.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, newly empowered with broad presidential prerogatives, has maintained that the Lithuanian parliament's declaration of independence on March 11 is illegal, that the central Congress of People's Deputies has ruled it invalid and that he will enforce the ruling.

In Washington, President Bush warned Moscow Friday ''any attempt to coerce or intimidate, or forcibly intervene against the Lithuanian people is bound to backfire.'' The Senate passed a resolution Thursday, 93-0, calling on Bush to consider recognition of an independent Lithuania.

Landsbergis sent Gorbachev an urgent telegram Saturday protesting the show of military force.

''There is no reason for the tanks moving on the capital of the Lithuanian republic to be here,'' said the telegram, a copy of which was made available to United Press International.

''The demonstration of military force and presence of Soviet troops is raising tensions and frightening people,'' it said.

Gorbachev, in an earlier telegram, had given Landsbergis until Saturday to stop the formation of civil defense brigades.

Landsbergis, however, said Lithuanians were not forming defense brigades.

''We do not have any such brigades, much less armed units,'' he told Gorbachev in the telegram.

''You also know that we are armed with only one thing - faith in the truth of our cause, in the value of freedom and democracy,'' the telegram said.

Landsbergis signed the telegram ''in hope of mutual understanding.''

In his remarks to the Parliament session Saturday, Landsbergis urged an estimated 1,500 Lithuanians who have deserted the Soviet Army in recent weeks to seek refuge in churches.

The Lithuanian government said one Lithuanian soldier who recently deserted his unit in Estonia was abducted in Vilnius Thursday evening by three plain-clothes military officers.

The government said Vidas Valavichius was being held at a military command center and his parents had not been allowed to see him.

Three generals flew to Vilnius from Moscow to talk with Landsbergis, the former musicologist who founded the Sajudis independence movement less than two years ago.

He described the talks Saturday as ''constructive and friendly,'' but did not provide further details. Gorbachev on Wednesday gave Lithuanians one week to turn in their firearms.

The White House said two U.S. diplomats, based in Leningrad, had been expelled from Lithuania Friday. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the expulsions were without reason and Washington was protesting the ouster but the two diplomats would comply and return to Leningrad's consulate.

While the world riveted its attention on the unfolding test of wills between the Kremlin and Lithuania, Gorbachev met Friday with Adm. William Crowe, former chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff.

Lithuania's parliament, elected Feb. 24 with Sajudis candidates overwhelmingly predominating, met through the day and selected eight ministers of a 21-member government they hope will be recognized by nations of the world.

More than 100 foreign correspondents were in Vilnius covering the dramatic events, but Moscow prevented other reporters from traveling to the Lithuanian capital on Friday.

(MARCH 23) UPI - Winter's stubborn icy grip resisted the change of much of the nation Saturday, dumping snow and dropping temperatures below freezing in upstate New York, across the Midwest and into the Rockies.

A light blanket of snow settled over the Adirondacks in northeastern New York and accumulations of up to an inch were reported in Syracuse and further west across the state. The mercury dropped to 15 degrees in the Olympic town of Lake Placid, N.Y.

The National Weather Service issued a winter storm warning for most of Missouri and much of Illinois, where temperatures dropped into the teens and scattered light snow was reported between Peoria and Bloomington. Snow also fell in parts of Iowa and Indiana.

One inch of snow was reported at the airport in Springfield, Ill., while St. Louis and some parts of central Illinois were reporting an accumulation of four inches.

The Chicago area received a mixture of freezing rain, sleet and snow, with temperatures hovering in the upper 20s and lower 30s.

A blast of cold arctic air pushed through Oklahoma and parts of New Mexico north Texas and Arkansas early Saturday, while unseasonably warm weather continued south of the cold front.

Temperatures in New Mexico Friday ranged from the mid 20s in the northeastern Plains to the mid 80s along the southern border.

Freezing drizzle fell Saturday in the Texas Panhandle and parts of Oklahoma. Thunderstorms, some containing heavy rain, formed in west Texas while dense fog covered much of the Gulf Coast around the Texas-Louisiana border.

Cloudiness increased across the mid-Atlantic region, with skies overcast across Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. Temperatures ranged in the mid-30s and 40s overnight.

In the West, a weak Pacific storm system was expected to bring fog and low clouds to the California coast Saturday night with the prospect of showers over the northwest mountains Sunday.

Temperatures rose to as high as the 80 degrees Friday in some areas although a 22 was posted at Truckee, Calif., in the high Sierra. Death Valley, however, rose to 99.

Clearing skies and mild temperatures graced Washington Saturday, but forecasters said the blue skies would pitch temperatures to below freezing in many parts of the state Saturday night.

Higher pressure settled into Oregon and brought clearing skies to much of western and southern Oregon. However the east end of the Columbia Gorge, the Columbia Basin and the northeastern mountains remained mostly cloudy and very cool as cold air from Canada pushed southward.

NEW YORK (MARCH 24) UPI - The commissioner of baseball is investigating a $40,000 payment made by Yankees owner George Steinbrenner to an admitted gambler who was arrested for extortion, published reports said Saturday.

Richard Levin, a spokesman for Commissioner Fay Vincent, told New York Newsday his office ''is looking into it.''

Levin would not comment further on the incident that landed Howard Spira, 30, in federal custody Friday following his arrest by FBI agents at his home in the Bronx.

A federal grand jury in Tampa, Fla., returned an eight-count indictment against Spira, who faces up to 25 years in prison and $2 million in fines if convicted. He is expected to be arraigned Saturday by a magistrate in U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

The first two counts allege that Spira twice sent letters to Steinbrenner in 1989 threatening him with physical harm.

Other counts charge Spira also threatened to disclose taped conversations he had with Steinbrenner to the media unless he gave Spira $110,000 and a job with American Shipbuilding Co. in Tampa, Steinbrenner's company.

Another count alleges Spira recorded a telephone conversation he had with Steinbrenner and planned to use it to blackmail the Yankee owner.

Spira claimed Steinbrenner had promised him $150,000 for damaging information about Yankee outfielder Dave Winfield in a lawsuit. Spira has said he needed the money to pay off gambling debts.

Steinbrenner admits he paid Spira $40,000 last January, but said the payment was for unselfish reasons.

In a letter dated March 2, 1989, Spira allegedly wrote to Phillip NcNiff, a Steinbrenner aide, in which he described Steinbrenner as '''The Nazi' George,'' and discussed the failing health of his mother.

''I swear, if anything happens to my mother, George and Dave better both hire a lot of extra security because then I will really be out of control '' he allegedly wrote.

Spira said the money was part of a payment for providing information about the Winfield Foundation, which Steinbrenner admitted was used in a lawsuit he filed against Winfield.

Spira claimed he performed public relations for the Dave Winfield Foundation in the early 1980s but Winfield denied Spira was ever employed by his organization.

BOSTON (MARCH 24) UPI - An Wang, the computer entrepreneur who founded Wang Laboratories Inc., died of esophageal cancer Saturday at Massachusetts General Hospital. He was 70.

Hospital spokesman Martin Bander said Wang, chairman and chief executive officer of the company he founded in 1951, died at 5:31 a.m. He was readmitted to the hospital March 6 for follow-up treatment on a malignant tumor removed July 14.

Symptoms of the tumor first appeared in March 1989 when Wang experienced trouble swallowing and surgery was performed by Dr. Hermes Grillo, a world expert on surgery of the esophagus.

''That is a particularly difficult form of cancer,'' said Bander.

Born in Shanghai, China, Wang came to the United States to study in the mid-1940s and earned a doctorate in physics at Harvard University.

''Dr. Wang was a great man and obviously made signifcant contributions both as a scientist, an entrepreneur and a philanthropist,'' said Paul Guzzi, an executive of the company that is being restructured after losing $72 million in the six months ended Dec. 31.

President Richard Miller has been managing the firm's day-to-day operations since taking over for the founder's son, Fred Wang.

Guzzi listed Wang's invention of computer core memory in the late 1940s as his major scientific accomplishment and hailed his philanthropic efforts in the greater Boston area.

Wang's decision to locate in Lowell, Mass., was credited as playing a major role in the rebirth of the city, which was the birthplace of the Industrial Revolution but had fallen on hard times as the textile mills that fueled its growth moved out of Massachusetts.

Wang in 1988 was inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame, joining 68 other inventors, among them Thomas Edison, Henry Ford, Louis Pasteur, Alexander Graham Bell and the Wright Brothers.

The Hall of Fame, in Arlington, Va., acknowledges the achievements of the most accomplished inventors in America and honored Wang for his 1948 invention of the pulse transfer controlling devices that led to the development of commercial computers.

''It's very satisfying to be listed right up there with the historical figures that were named in my textbooks in grammar school,'' Wang said.

Wang, who has more than 40 patents, warned that America was losing its historical lead in inventiveness.

''American companies worry too much about the next quarterly dividend instead of thinking in a long-term strategic way. The Japanese and West Germans are starting to win more patents than this country, and that's a disturbing trend.''

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA (MARCH 24) UPI - Army units with tanks patrolled Yugoslavia's Kosovo province Saturday and Serbian republic police took control of security operations from the local government to thwart further clashes between ethnic Albanians and Serbs, officials said.

Following two days of clashes between the majority ethnic Albanian population and the minority Serbian community in Kosovo province that have left more than 100 Serbs injured, the Yugoslav eight-man state presidency sent tanks onto roads and into towns to maintain peace.

The move, apparently intended to intimidate Albanians demanding greater autonomy, should relieve the fear of ethnic Serbs who barricaded themselves in their homes fearing Albanian violence, Yugoslav officials said.

Clashes broke out Thursday when hundreds of ethnic Albanian schoolchildren most them 16 to 18, complained of stomach pains and headaches. Rumors spread they had been poisoned by Serbs. Members of the Albanian community went on a rampage, assaulting and beating Serbs they saw in the streets, officials said.

Doctors in the town of Pristina said 96 Serbs were hurt, many of them stabbed.

About 1,000 young ethnic Albanians, but none of Serbian or any other nationality, were admitted to hospitals with stomach complaints Thursday and Friday in Kosovo, 190 miles south of Belgrade. Most of them were discharged after several hours.

A doctors' commission of the Yugoslav and Serbian Health Ministries announced preliminary results of blood and urine tests Friday that showed no traces of poisoning.

Serbian Interior Minister Radmilo Bogdanovic said Serbian officials have taken full control of both state and public security in Kosovo, which is an autonomous province in the south of Serbia, the biggest of Yugoslavia's six republics.

Police are to maintain peace and order and ''guarantee security to all Kosovo citizens,'' while the state secret police should ''uncover organizers of an ethnic Albanian separatist movement'', Bogdanovic said.

He also confirmed he had suspended about 10 ethnic Albanian policemen who sided with Albanians during Thursday's clashes. Bogdanovic said he will purge those supporting Albanian separatism from the Kosovo police.

Emergency measures have been in effect in Kosovo in the past year with troops and tanks and paramilitary police often patrolling the restive province to maintain order.

Since Jan. 24, more than 30 ethnic Albanians have been killed in clashes with police and more than 300 people, including 130 policemen, have been injured.

About 8.5 million Serbs make up the majority of Yugoslavia's population of 23 million, but in Kosovo, which borders Albania, about 200,000 Serbs are the minority to 1.7 million ethnic Albanians.

Ethnic Albanians complain the pro-Serbian authorities in Kosovo mistreat them while Serbs accuse Albanian extremists of persecuting them and forcing Serbs out of their homes.

BOWLING GREEN, OH (MARCH 24) UPI - Two reports about couples who live together before marriage reach the same conclusion - couples who cohabit before marrying stand a greater chance of getting a divorce.

In their book, ''What are the Chances: Risks, Odds and Likelihood in Everyday Life,'' authors Bernard Siskin and Jerome Staller of the Philadelphia area refute conventional wisdom that suggests that couples who live together before they marry will stay together longer.

At the same time, a pair of Bowling Green State University sociologists, Alfred DeMaris and K.V. Rao, report similar findings.

Their research indicates the odds for divorce among cohabiting couples are 66 percent higher than for those who do not live together before marrying.

But Siskin and Staller, whose book on marriage covers other topics as well as cohabitation, suggest the percentage of failure stands at 33.

Their findings appears in the April edition of Readers Digest.

The Ohio researchers base their findings on analyses of more than 3,l00 personal interviews conducted for the National Survey of Families and Households.

Roughly one-fourth of the respondents lived together before marrying, DeMaris and Rao said.

Control factors were used to determine whether social class, race, age at marriage (the mean was 23 years), premarital pregnancy and other influences related to divorce.

The professors say their conclusions closely parallel similar studies in Sweden in l988 and one a year earlier in Canada. Rao participated in the latter.

DeMaris said cohabitants have a tendency to be more modern, hip types who, when things aren't working, figure ''I'll just check out of the relationship.''

At the other end, he said, is the person with traditional values who sees marriage as a long-term commitment through thick and thin.

Coincidentally, a l984 study DeMaris conducted on marital satisfaction revealed that, as a group, premarital cohabitants were less satisfied than their non-cohabitant counterparts.

In the early years of marriage, dissolution rates for noncohabitors are nearly equal to those for their noncohabiting counterparts.

The reason is that traditional couples who are flagrantly mismatched separate. But once this initial weeding out occurs, dissolution rates begin to climb sharply for the cohabitors.

In time, the spread narrows when only those committed to staying married remain among both types of couples. In short, the longer the marriage, the better the odds of preserving it, regardless of whether a couple lived together before marrying.

Siskin and Staller also conclude that unmarried couples who cohabit seem not to feel bound by their vows later on. They also report that the chances of a marriage ending in divorce are around 50 percent.

BUCHAREST, ROMANIA (MARCH 24) UPI - Interim Prime Minister Petre Roman met Saturday with the Hungarian ambassador to Romania to try end a diplomatic feud sparked by bloody ethnic violence in Transylvania.

The meeting with Ambassador Pal Szuts in the Romanian capital came amid reports of new anti-Hungarian demonstrations in the Transylvanian city of Tirgu Mures, where as many as eight people died in two days of ethnic rioting earlier in the week.

About 1,000 Romanian nationalists marched through the riot-torn downtown area chanting, ''Hungarians leave Transylvania,'' Budapest radio said. There were no reports of violence.

Demonstrations also were planned for Sunday in several Transylvanian cities.

Meanwhile, a special prosecuting commission launched an investigation aimed at identifying and punishing those responsible for instigating Romania's worst ethnic violence since World War II.

''An appeal was launched to all those who can bring evidence of the acts of violence committed in various parts of the city and county, and know the persons who provoked them, to notify the Mures County inspectorate,'' the official news agency Rompres said in announcing the probe.

More than 30 people already have been arrested for storming the offices of a Hungarian political party on Monday, the incident that triggered two days of street battles in Tirgu Mures.

The meeting between Roman and Szuts followed renewed criticism by the Hungarian government over Bucharest's handling of the unrest, which Budapest has described as a ''pogrom'' against the Hungarian minority.

''I think the word 'pogrom' is not an exaggeration here,'' Hungarian Prime Minister Imre Szokai told a news conference Friday. ''It can be proven that fascist organizations initiated the actions against Hungarians.'' He apparently was referring to Vatra Romaneasca, a right-wing nationalist group established in January.

Budapest, accusing Romania of failing to prevent the violence, has threatened to suspend bilateral talks on other issues until Bucharest takes steps to guarantee the safety of Romania's 2 million ethnic Hungarians.

The Romanian government, in an attempt to ease the unrest, has agreed to several Hungarian demands, including separate schools in the Hungarian language.

''While preserving the official character of the Romanian language, the free use is guaranteed of the languages of the national minorities in the zones where such populations live,'' the government said in an official statement Friday.

It said Hungarians also would be allowed access to state-run television facilities to broadcast programs in their native tongue.

NEW DELHI, INDIA (MARCH 24) UPI - A fire raced through a Hindu temple in the southern Kerala state, sparking explosions in a huge stock of fireworks and killing 25 people, local news reports said Saturday.

The blaze injured 77 others after it erupted Friday night on the last day of a 10-day festival that was to end with a colorful fireworks display outside the Hindu temple near Quilon, 1,405 miles southwest of New Delhi, state-run All-India Radio and the Press Trust of India news agency reported.

They said the flames first flickered from a building in the forecourt of the temple and within minutes lit the huge stock of fireworks, igniting a series of explosions.

Roaring flames engulfed the building minutes after the explosions, the Press Trust said. Panic-stricken devotees rushed toward exits to escape the blaze.

The Press Trust said 25 people died and 77 others were injured, many of them seriously.

Witnesses said buildings around the temple shook with the intensity of the explosion.

The news agency said about 100,000 people had gathered in the outer portion of the temple and in surrounding paddy fields to witness the fireworks display that was scheduled to begin at the pre-dawn hours Saturday.

Fire officials suspect a short-circuit in the electrical system caused the fire.

ATLANTA (MARCH 24) UPI - Federal officials stepped up their probe Saturday of a power failure at nuclear Plant Vogtle after deciding the incident could have escalated into a disaster.

A 10-member Incident Investigation Team, including three industry representatives and Nuclear Regulatory Commission investigators from outside the region, will take a closer look at the accident, said NRC spokesman Kenneth Clark in Atlanta.

The accident occurred Tuesday at the plant near Waynesboro, Ga., when a truck hit a pole holding electrical equipment, knocking out power to reactor coolers. The incident was termed a ''site-area emergency,'' the second highest emergency level established by the NRC.

Emergency power was not started for 36 minutes because a diesel motor used to power the backup system would not crank. The lack of power prevented coolant from being pumped through the Unit 1 reactor, a situation that could have led to a nuclear disaster, officials said.

''It isn't dangerous now at the plant, but for a period of 35 minutes it was without electrical power because its emergency diesels did not come on and there was potential for the situation during that time to deteriorate into something more serious,'' Clark said.

He said NRC headquarters in Washington decided to send in a larger team ''because of the safety significance and the potential regulatory questions the event raises.''

Clark said a lack of coolant moving through a reactor system could lead to temperature increases in the nuclear fuel, which could eventually cause radioactive material to escape from the containment facility.

Robert Pollard, senior nuclear safety engineer for the Union of Concerned Scientists, said the Vogtle emergency was an example of poor preparation for what could be the most serious problem a plant could ever face - a blackout.

''If you lose electrical power, it's all worthless,'' said Pollard, a former NRC employee. ''The only thing you have left is evacuation of the public.''

The 10-member team will investigate the incident and reports its findings directly to NRC's executive director of operations in Washington, Clark said.

''They will do a more in-depth probe of the series of events,'' he said. ''We are concerned about what happened and the possibility that it could happen elsewhere.''

The smaller investigative unit known as an Augmented Inspection Team has been at the plant since Wednesday. The group has no members from outside the region and would have reported its findings to a regional supervisor instead of directly to NRC headquarters in Washington, Clark said.

He said Vogtle has agreed not to restart the fission process in its Unit 1 reactor until NRC's regional administrator in Atlanta is satisfied that appropriate corrective action has been taken.

Vogtle also has agreed to allow equipment involved in the incident to be quarantined by the investigative team for inspection.

One-thousand hours of oil spill cleanup for Skipper Joseph Hazelwood.

Maryland's voters may NOT get to decide on an abortion law after all.

Democratic leaders are debating a plan to trim Social Security taxes.

U-P-I has this and other top news today.

The Soviet Union and Lithuania took more steps in their dangerous game of brinksmanship over whether the Soviet republic has the right to secede.

Soviet President Gorbachev maintains that the Lithuania's declaration of independence on March 11th is illegal. Gorbachev says he supports a ruling by the Soviet Congress of People's Deputies that ruled it null and void.

The Soviet news agency Tass says K-G-B and Interior Ministry detachments moved into Lithuania to enforce Gorbachev's decrees to collect weapons and guard the borders.

In Vilnius, Lithuania's parliament selected eight ministers of a 21-member government they hope will be recognized by nations of the world. The new cabinet will replace the one that ruled when the Communists were in power.

The new Interior minister is Marijonas Misiukonis , who's the former head of a K-G-B section in Lithuania. He says his ministry will take NO orders from Moscow... and from now on will follow only Lithuanian law.

In Washington, President Bush warned Gorbachev that the use of force in Lithuania would backfire.

The White House also announced two U-S diplomats were expelled from Lithuania by Soviet authorities. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says Washington protested the ouster. The State Department says NO decision has been made about retaliation.

RICHLAND, WA. (MARCH 24) UPI - A dangerous buildup of hydrogen gas in nuclear waste storage tanks at the Hanford Nuclear Reservation could explode, sending millions of gallons of radioactive material into the air, Department of Energy officials said.

''We do not believe there is an imminent hazard,'' said Mike Lawrence, manager of the huge government facility in southcentral Washington. ''We have been looking at this, and we have history on our side but that's not very comforting.''

Lawrence, at a news conference late Friday, said Energy Department experts are studying the gas buildup and expect to issue a report recommending safety measures in June.

''By putting in these measures, I think we can do the best we can to insure that it doesn't happen. But we want to better understand the situation,'' he said.

The hydrogen buildup was found in 20 storage tanks, including five newer double-shell tanks, he said.

There are 149 single-shelled storage tanks at the facility with 40 million to 50 million gallons of radioactive waste stored in the buried tanks at the 570-square-mile reservation, according to the Energy Department.

The radioactive and chemical wastes are the result of nearly 40 years of production of nuclear-weapons grade material for the Defense Department. Last year, state and federal officials signed an agreement establishing a 30-year clean-up program estimated to cost at least $60 billion.

Lawrence said the accumulation of hydrogen gas was the result of the decomposition of organic wastes introduced into the tanks in the 1970s.

He said a new study by the Westinghouse Hanford Co., which manages the nuclear reservation for the government, shows that in one of the tanks the hydrogen gas amounted to 5 percent of the total gas produced, enough to be flammable.

The discovery has resulted in a halt to waste transfers in and out of the one tank and of work near the tank that could create heat or sparks, he said.

''I think the worst thing we could do is rush in and do something hastily without better understanding the problem,'' Lawrence said.

''The worst case is any type of explosion that would cause the dome to collapse and rupture and therefore send the contents of the waste up into the air.

''With 1 1/2 feet of concrete and 6-to-8 feet of soil, how likely is that, how much of a force would it take? Until we have an answer to that question, I can't sit here and say that it's not going to happen or that it's extremely unlikely that it's going to happen. I need better information.''

Last October the Energy Department acknowledged that tanks treated with ferryocyanide in the late 1950s are potentially explosive, another problem still under study, Lawrence said.

After that admission, a state study ordered by Gov. Booth Gardner showed there was no immediate danger from the ferryocyanide as long as careful monitoring continued.

But Al Conklin, a state radiation health physicist, said the hydrogen buildup could be more dangerous.

''We could have a problem both on (Hanford) site and off site ... we can say we don't have a problem yet,'' Conklin said.

(MARCH 24) UPI - One year ago today, the Exxon Valdez oil spill occurred. Alaska Governor Steve Cowper says 365 days have NOT made much of a dent in the environmental ruin stemming from the nearly 11-Million-gallon oil spill.

That's a contention both Exxon and the U-S Coast Guard dispute.

The petroleum giant says the area's beaches and waters are well on the way to recovery due to what Exxon has described as a monumental clean-up effort.

In the same vein, Coast Guard Commandant Paul Yost says there's much less oil in the environment this year than there was following the spill.

Exxon will re-start its clean-up efforts in May. An unlikely member of the clean-up squad will be the man whose vessel caused the gooey disaster.

Fired skipper Joseph Hazelwood was sentenced yesterday to serve one-thousand hours of community service scouring the oil spill.

The term prompted one of Hazelwood's lawyers to comment Hazelwood will spend more time on the clean-up than if he had been given the 90-day jail sentence which he might have received.

Police say vandals left their mark at an Exxon gas station in Woodstock, New York, yesterday. The culprits spray-painted ''Remember the Valdez'' and cut the gas lines.

Members of the state Senate ended a eight-day filibuster yesterday by adopting two contradictory bills- one that allowed abortions in most instances while the other restricted abortion in most cases.

But last night... a committee of the state's House of Delegates refused to O-K the Senate's compromise.

The House committee action followed an opinion by the state attorney general that the measures could be UNconstitutional.

The full House could revive either or both bills... and the issue could ultimately appear before the Maryland electorate.

Pro-choice advocates in Idaho say the same option could arise and help them wipe out one of the nation's strictest anti-abortion laws.

Both chambers of the Idaho Congress approved the legislation, which would outlaw abortion except in situations where the mother's life is threatened or if the mother is a rape or incest victim.

Pro-choice forces say they have more than one-third of the signatures they need to place the restrictive measure before the voting public.

Several Guam legislators are having second thoughts about the strict anti-abortion law they enacted.

The bill has earned the criticism of U-S lawmakers for its conservativism.

Now, a Guam senator who favored the law says she and her colleagues may have gone too far. She just heard about a 10-year-old girl was impregnated by her older, retarded brother. Under the new law, the girl would be considered a criminal if she aborted the fetus.

(MARCH 24) UPI - The Democratic National Committee has taken the first step toward adopting New York Senator Daniel Moynihan's plan to reduce Social Security taxes.

The D-N-C's Executive Committee yesterday gave a thumbs-up to the controversial plan that calls for rolling back the Social Security tax during the next several years. The entire D-N-C will take up the issue today in Indianapolis.

If approved, the measure could produce a rift within the Democratic Party.

Several Democratic lawmakers have expressed their objections to the novel plan. That sentiment was echoed yesterday by Texas Senator Lloyd Bentsen.

Speaking at a gathering of the Democratic Leadership Conference in New Orleans, Bentsen said the measure could lead to a political stalemate.

Bentsen also used the forum of the D-L-C, a conglomerate of conservative and moderate Democrats, to swipe at President Bush's reliance on public polls before adopting policies.

Commenting on the administration's relatively slow pace in helping the developing economies in Eastern Europe, Bentsen asked fellow Dems... ''Can you imagine Harry Truman hesitating to unveil the Marshall Plan or the Truman Doctrine because of public opinion polls?''

(MARCH 24) UPI - NASA says projections that three spacewalks a week will be needed to maintain its proposed 30-BILLION-dollar space station are NOT a problem.

NASA officials briefed reporters on rising concerns about the station. There are reports that station plans are flawed because it would begin to wear out before it was complete, requiring spacewalks by astronauts to conduct repairs.

But associate NASA administrator William Lenoir says the high number of spacewalks comes as neither a surprise NOR is it an extraordinary problem.

He says the three-a-week figure is a ''worst-case'' scenario that will probably improve when the analysis is complete. Said Lenoir... ''This is raw data that has to be tested. It could be very much less.''

Astronaut William Fisher is a veteran spacewalker who is one of two leaders of a study of the station's maintenance needs. He says the number may change by the time the study is complete in June. He adds that even if it remains high... NASA engineers will be able to overcome the problem.

(MARCH 24) UPI - University of Utah physicists monitoring cold fusion research say they have detected unusual levels of apparent X-rays- a sign of a nuclear reaction.

The announcement comes on the first anniversary of the cold fusion claim by electrochemists Stanley Pons of the University of Utah and Martin Fleischmann of England's Southampton University.

The Utah team says its simple table-top device produced more heat energy than the electrical energy it consumed... but apparently emitted lower levels of neutrons, gamma rays and tritium than a traditional nuclear process would.

In the last year, scientists world-wide have attacked the work, saying the two discovered a chemical reaction, NOT room-temperature nuclear fusion.

Now, Utah physicist Haven Bergeson says his team, which is checking the results... may have detected another possible byproduct of nuclear fusion coming from the cold fusion devices- X-rays.

Bergeson told a state board directing the university's National Cold Fusion Institute that the low-energy X-rays may indicate a reaction... but in a form which he does NOT understand.

The discovery of colf fusion... if confirmed... will mean cheap and relatively clean energy for the world.

NEW ORLEANS (MARCH 24) UPI - Jesse Jackson, a symbol of liberalism, declared to Democratic conservatives Saturday the two sides were at peace, but was met with considerable skepticism from disbelieving party opponents.

In a speech to a conference of Democratic moderates and conservatives, Jackson argued that while he had differed with them in the past, they were now united on issues ranging from defense cuts to human rights and the economy.

''For many years, defeat bred division in our party,'' Jackson told members of the Democratic Leadership Council.

''Bitter scars from intra-party struggles made unity more difficult, so we saw the world differently and we had conflicts about direction,'' Jackson said. ''But now, in 1990, the world has changed, the people are moving our way and we are more united than ever.''

But when Jackson used specifics to illustrate his point, he sparked serious doubts among top DLC officials, many of whom have crossed swords with him in the past about the future direction of the party.

Praising the group's new and somewhat vague policy goals, Jackson put his own spin on many of the objectives and argued that he and the moderates were essentially saying the same things.

''There are many streams in our party - at some point the streams must come together,'' said Jackson, a failed presidential candidate in 1984 and 1988.

The policy goals, he said, ''do not limit one in any way. I do not see, at this point, any outstanding issues that represent fundamental division.''

But several top party moderates, who are struggling to convince Americans that Democrats are not too liberal for average voters, argued with Jackson's interpretations.

Unlike a similar meeting last year in Philadelphia, there was no open hostility. But there was serious skepticism.

''We're both Southern Baptists,'' Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, the incoming chairman of the DLC, said of he and Jackson. ''The problem is that it's a decentralized church.

''He has a rather elasticized reading of our statements,'' Clinton said. ''I think it was a plus, his coming here, but obviously there still are a number of differences.''

''It (Jackson's speech) had some creative interpretation,'' added Sen. Charles Robb, D-Va., one of the founders of the DLC, arguing that it was Jackson and not the party moderates who needed to move.

''If this is a deathbed conversion, all are welcome,'' Robb said.

The split between Jackson and more right wing party elements illustrates one of the central problems plaguing Democrats, who have lost five of the last six presdential elections.

Moderates and conservatives, represented by the DLC, are convinced that if the party is ever to regain the offensive, it must move to the center and become part of ''mainstream'' America. In Jackson, many of them see a symbol of why average voters are rejecting the party.

The rift also was demonstrated this weekend in the fact that while the moderates met in New Orleans, the Democratic National Committee - the more liberal rulemaking body of the party - met 700 miles to the north in Indianapolis.

In that session, representatives of Virginia Gov. Douglas Wilder, the first black elected governor, pushed a resolution designed to help stop party members from attacking the Democratic presidential nominee. The resolution did not mention Jackson by name, but was aimed at the tactics he used in 1984 and 1988.

Wilder, who has boasted of being a ''mainstream'' Democrat, told the DLC Friday that ''those who lose during our primaries must reject the temptation to cling to a sense of personal injury and defeat; they must unite behind the party's candidate.''

Jackson said Saturday he did not believe the resolution was aimed at him.

Despite the apparent differences between the party factions, there were other efforts Saturday to try to narrow the gap.

Clinton praised a Friday speech by Democratic National Committee Chairman Ron Brown and argued it was a sign both sides wanted to work together.

''That's one of the reasons I took this job (as head of the DLC),'' Clinton said. ''I want to help heal the rift.''

In Indianapolis, DNC aides also tried to play down the split.

''These are two different forums working side by side to get the process going toward 1992,'' DNC press secretary Ginny Terzano said.

On other subjects, Jackson refused Saturday to say whether he would make a third run for the White House in 1992. But, he attacked President Bush on numerous fronts.

Concerning his project of statehood for the District of Columbia, he complained that Bush favored statehood for Puerto Rico, but not the nation's capital. ''He's willing to go against the will of the people, just like (Soviet leader Mikhail) Gorbachev is in Lithuania,'' Jackson said.

Linking events from the Reagan administration and Bush's 1988 campaign with the Louisiana Republican Senate campaign of former Ku Klux Klan leader David Duke, he also hinted that GOP tactics involved veiled racism.

''David Duke could do no worse'' than some Republican actions, Jackson said.

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (MARCH 24) UPI - It is becoming increasingly difficult for NASA to keep up with an ambitious shuttle launch rate and while safety has not been compromised yet, the agency must be on guard against complacency, an astronaut says.

Charles Bolden, scheduled to blast off April 12 aboard the shuttle Discovery to ferry the $1.5 billion Hubble Space Telescope into orbit, said in an interview he is concerned about maintaining adequate safety margins.

While NASA has done an ''excellent job'' recovering from the 1986 Challenger disaster, ''I would be less than honest if I said things were going along great, because they aren't,'' he told United Press International Thursday.

''We have a very ambitious schedule ahead of us this year and subsequent years and the one thing that concerns me is that we not become complacent, become comfortable in our accomplishments and forget that things can go wrong and start overlooking things.

''I don't get the feeling that we're there yet, but personally, I can see where the pace is getting quicker ... and that's something that we as an agency need to take a look at. And I think we are.''

Discovery currently is being readied for blastoff April 12 from launch pad 39B at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The goal of the mission, the ninth since the Challenger disaster, is the deployment of the Hubble Space Telescope, the most powerful astronomical instrument ever built to operate above Earth's shimmering atmosphere.

Technicians plan to move the giant telescope from a special hangar-like facility to the launch pad Sunday for installation in Discovery's cargo bay next week.

Launch processing has been proceeding smoothly. A leaky seal in the ship's No. 2 main engine was fixed Friday and the only other issue under debate is a possible problem with Discovery's nose landing gear that was thought to have been resolved last weekend. Officials said Friday the matter was still under discussion.

Discovery's flight will mark the third of nine planned for 1990, a launch rate that will equal a record set in 1985 when NASA had four space shuttles. NASA currently has just three: Discovery, Atlantis and Columbia.

Eight missions are planned for 1991 and 12 for 1992. NASA managers have talked about launching up to 14 missions a year once Challenger's replacement, Endeavour, is available starting in late 1992.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration appears to be working at near capacity now and launching more than a dozen flights a year may not prove to be a realistic goal if tough post-Challenger safety guidelines remain in force.

Challenger was destroyed by the failure of a solid-fuel booster but the presidential commission that investigated the disaster also found fault with NASA for attempting to meet an overly ambitious launch schedule with limited resources.

Bolden questions whether 14 flights is realistic in the post-Challenger era without sacrificing safety.

''Is that doable? We're already asking ourselves that question and so I think we have learned a lot from the accident,'' Bolden said. ''You know, we were saying 60 flights a year (ultimately) prior to the accident and nobody questioned that. I don't think anybody thought we could get there, but nobody stopped and said 'wait a minute, guys; let's regroup here.'''

''Right now, we're saying, hey, can we make 14 flights a year? At least we're talking about it. Although I can feel a lot of pressure ... I also see with a large degree of satisfaction that we're questioning our ability to do what we say we're going to do.''

Commissioner Fay Vincent is investigating a $40,000 payment made by Yankees owner George Steinbrenner to admitted gambler Howard Spira, according to New York Newsday. Spira was arrested for extortion Friday after a federal grand jury in Tampa, Fla., returned an eight-count indictment. He faces up to 25 years in prison and $2 million in fines if convicted. Two counts allege that Spira twice sent letters to Steinbrenner in 1989 threatening him with physical harm. Spira claimed Steinbrenner had promised him $150,000 and a job for damaging information about Winfield in a lawsuit. Steinbrenner admitted paying Spira $40,000 last January, but said the payment was for unselfish reasons.

ALBANY, N.Y. (MARCH 24) UPI - Gov. Mario Cuomo said Saturday that newspapers are obsolete as a means of communicating to the public, but are increasingly important as a source of news for radio and television reporters.

Speaking at a meeting of the state Society of Newspaper Editors, Cuomo told the editors and reporters, ''You're no match for six seconds on the news.''

But, he added, newspapers are a key source of news for radio and television stations, which he said do not want to spend the money on independent newsgathering.

In fact, he suggested newspapers would soon become little more than a service for providing broadcasters with news.

''You are the creator of television news,'' he said.

The governor's comments were part of a speech on how negativism pervades society today.

Cuomo called this ''the single most negative period of our time,'' blaming it partly on hypercritical campaign television ads.

The governor said he would like to see restrictions both on the size of campaign spending and on how the money is spent so that it could not go toward financing cheap-shot ads.

''I don't like debates and I don't like 28-second commercials,'' Cuomo said, adding the statements made in both are too simplistic.

CHICAGO (MARCH 24) UPI - An Amtrak train overshot a backstop at Union Station Saturday and struck a concrete barrier, derailing eight of 10 cars and injuring 21 people, authorities said.

The accident occurred as train No. 58 pulled into the station. Fire officials said most of the injured were passengers who were standing as they prepared to get off. None of the injuries appeared to be serious.

''At 11:29 a.m. CST, Amtrak's New Orleans to Chicago train, 'City of New Orleans,' as it was backing into Union Station apparently struck the bumping block - the thing at the very end of the track - prior to making a successful complete braking operation,'' said Amtrak spokesman John Jacobsen. ''In other words, it did not stop in time.''

The train was moving about 3 mph as it approached the bumping block, he said.

''I don't know whether it was brake failure or human error at this point '' Jacobsen said. ''We're looking into it.''

The lead compartment struck the retaining wall and came to rest at a slight angle. Bits of concrete debris were scattered along the arrival platform.

Two of the injured were members of the Amtrak crew, he said. Railroad officials said eight cars derailed, meaning at least one wheel of each had left the track.

There were 254 passengers aboard the train at the time of the mishap, Jacobsen said. The train's last major stop was Memphis, Tenn.

Firefighters summoned 10 ambulances and additional manpower to the scene. Paramedics removed the injured, who were conscious, using stretchers and, in a few cases, train station wheelchairs.

''It overshot the stop and derailed,'' Fire Department Deputy District Chief Ron Lelo said. ''You've got people with sore necks and sore backs.''

''There were walking wounded, no pin-ins,'' said District Chief Fred Van Dorpe.

Twenty of the injured were taken by ambulance to four hospitals: Cook County, Northwestern Memorial, Michael Reese and Mercy, a fire department spokesman said. One other passenger went to the hospital later, officials at the scene said.

''We had complaints of neck and back strain,'' said James Henry, spokesman at Northwestern, where four of the injured were treated.

Three were brought to the emergency room at Michael Reese, nursing supervisor Somnuk Putlek said.

''They are all in good condition,'' she said. ''They have minor lacerations, pain in the legs and one had a loose tooth.

INDIANAPOLIS (MARCH 24) UPI - The Democratic National Committee Saturday endorsed a plan to cut Social Security taxes - the party's first formal endorsement of the proposal by New York Sen. Daniel Moynihan.

Although Democratic National Chairman Ron Brown strongly endorsed the plan as politically advantageous to Democrats, Democratic Congressional leaders have been slow to support the proposal, pointing to unknown long-term costs.

Brown said the plan shows that Democrats ''stand for the working people of America.''

Moynihan's plan would roll back the Social Security payroll tax to 6.06 percent from 6.20 and would return the system to a ''pay-as-you-go'' basis eliminating the Social Security surplus the Bush administration has used to artificially lower the federal deficit.

Republicans oppose Moynihan's plan, instead supporting a President Bush-backed proposal to cut the capital gains tax - a proposal blasted by Democrats as benefitting the rich.

''Clearly the Republican Party stands for those at the top of the economic spectrum,'' Brown said.

Also approved Saturday, the final day of the DNC's two-day meeting in Indianapolis, were several changes in the presidential primary process, including the approval of a California plan to move its primary up to the first week in March.

Previously, states were prohibited from selecting delegates before the second Tuesday in March. Although the new rule applies to any state, it is chiefly geared toward California.

The California legislature is considering moving the state's primary up from its current date in June, near the end of the primary season.

Iowa, New Hampshire and Maine still would be allowed to select their delegates in February.

Other changes approved include setting a 15 percent vote threshhold presidential candidates must meet before being guaranteed delegates; allocating delegates according to a candidate's proportion of the vote, and setting penalties for states that do not meet the new calendar, threshhold and allocation requirements.

Previously, vote threshholds varied among states from 10 to 25 percent and some states allocated delegates on a winner-take-all basis by Congressional district.

Under the new penalties, states not in compliance with the new rules could lose 25 percent of their delegates to the national convention.

DOLLY FIGHTS DROPOUT RATE: Country music star Dolly Parton, whose Dollywood Foundation helps fight the dropout rate in her native Sevier County in Tennessee, will speak to the National Dropout Prevention Conference in Nashville Tuesday. Parton's foundation is financing a buddy system program where students are promised $500 if they sign an agreement and graduate from a high school in Sevier County like Parton did. Parton will speak at the closing session of the conference.

MANDELA'S MERCEDES: South African autoworkers on Monday will start building the red $81,000 Mercedes-Benz 500 SE that they plan to give black leader Nelson Mandela in appreciation for his fight against apartheid. Mercedes spokeswoman Wendy Hoffman said workers at the plant in the South African port city of East London will donate one hour of free labor per day for four days and the company will make up the shortfall in the manufacturing cost. The car will have a sun roof, air conditioning, leather interior trim and state-of-the-art safety features but Hoffman didn't say if it will have security modifications such as bulletproof glass. The workers hope Mandela, who was freed last month after 27 years in prison, will personally pick up the car when it is ready.

TERROR AT THE TAJ: A casino analyst says Donald Trump fired him because he publicly questioned whether Trump's new casino, the Taj Mahal in Atlantic City, N.J., will make money. ''I've now been fired because I wanted to tell the truth, unfortunately,'' said Marvin Roffman. Roffman was quoted in The Wall Street Journal as saying the Taj, which opens next month, might not be able to earn the $1.3 million a day it needs to pay its annual debt of $94.5 million during the slow winter months. Roffman said Trump's brother, Robert Trump, told him to ''get the hell off the property'' and the apology letter that Roffman wrote didn't please Donald. Roffman quoted Trump as ordering him to write a letter ''telling me that the Taj Mahal is the greatest success of all time.''

(MARCH 24) UPI - Tensions are mounting in Lithuania. Moscow sent more than 100 Soviet tanks and hundreds of soldiers parading outside parliament in the rebellious Baltic republic's capital today. Nationalist President Vytautus Landsbergis has responded to the Kremlin's initiative by telegraphing a protest to Soviet President Gorbachev.

The Kremlin's show of force comes one day after President Bush told reporters in Washington that military intervention by Moscow in Lithuania was bound to ''backfire.'' Landsbergis responded to the action by saying... ''an alien power has sent forces and we didN'T know why.''

EAST RUTHERFORD, NJ (MARCH 24) UPI - Christian Laettner hit a 15-footer off an inbounds play at the overtime buzzer Saturday, giving Duke a wild 79-78 victory over Connecticut and the Blue Devils a third straight trip to the Final Four.

The winning play began after Duke called time trailing 78-77 with 2.6 seconds left. Laettner inbounded from the left side to Brian Davis, who bolted from the lane to meet the ball. Davis quickly returned the ball to a charging Laettner. The 6-foot-11 sophomore then hoisted a one-handed jumper that cleanly cut the net and allowed Duke to make as theatrical an escape as Connecticut did Thursday night against Clemson.

The play was designed for Phil Henderson or Alaa Abdelnaby to take the last shot, but Duke had no quarrel with the result.

The No. 14 Blue Devils, 28-8, move on to Denver, where next weekend they will be competing in their fourth Final Four in the last five years. They are the first school since Houston (1982-84) to qualify for the Final Four three straight years.

The victory brought an end to an exhilarating season for the No. 3 Huskies 31-6, who were bidding for their first appearance in the Final Four.

Laettner finished with 23 points, hitting 7 of 8 field goals and 9 of 11 free throws. He was backed by the ferocious inside play of Abdelnaby, who had 27 points and 14 rebounds, and the outside shooting of Henderson, who scored 21 points.

Connecticut offered its own dramatics, with Chris Smith sinking a 3-pointer with nine seconds left in regulation to force overtime at 72-72. The spark for Connecticut came from John Gwynn, who scored 13 of his 15 points in the second half. Nadav Henefeld added 15 and Smith 11.

Duke's triumph continued their success in New Jersey. The Blue Devils raised their Meadowlands record to 11-1, including 8-0 in NCAA Tournament play. This is the third straight season Duke heads to the Final Four by way of East Rutherford.

Laettner's layup gave Duke a 77-76 lead with 2:28 left. A minute later Henderson fouled away from the ball. Henefeld missed the first shot of a 1-and-1, but Abdelnaby was called for goaltending on the rebound. The shot counted and Henefeld promptly nailed the second, putting the Huskies on top 78-77.

On Duke's next possession, Henderson and Abdelnabby missed shots, and Connecticut's Tate George - the hero in Thursday night's victory over Clemson - did likewise the next time down the court.

George then nearly picked off a pass by Duke guard Bobby Hurley. The ball was awarded to the Blue Devils, setting the moment for Laettner.

Connecticut appeared in good shape with a 69-64 lead and 3:57 left in regulation. But the Huskies went 3:48 without a point. Duke ran off eight straight, with Henderson sticking a 3-pointer and Hurley's foul shot making it 72-69. Had Hurley completed both ends of his 1-and-1, Duke would have ended matters in regulation.

But Smith sank a 21-footer from the right side of the top of the key for a 3-pointer to even the count.

Duke had one last gasp. Hurley's shot was blocked by Rod Sellers, leaving Duke to inbound underneath with three-tenths of a second left. And that was almost enough time. Hurley lobbed the inbound pass to Abdelnaby in the lane and his shot caromed off the glass.

Apparently, that was all the practice the Blue Devils needed. Their next crucial inbounds play would carry them to Denver.

NEW YORK (MARCH 24) UPI - Six pallbearers carrying a black casket filled with furs led a Manhattan procession of some 400 anti-fur demonstrators Saturday in an end of the season protest against the killing of animals for their pelts.

A three-block stretch of protesters left a memorial service early in the afternoon and headed down Columbus Avenue, scattering fur wearers who were bundled against the bitter cold weather.

The protest was one of three planned over the next few days to mark the end of winter, when merchants sell most of their furs.

''I'm just getting out of the way,'' said one woman, who was wearing a fur on the avenue as the casket, filled with coats made of fox, mink and other furs, approached. The woman declined to give her name.

Another woman dressed in a full-length black fur strolled up the street with a friend and then retreated quickly, hurrying into the nearest clothing store.

''They should mind their own business. They eat meat. They wear leather shoes - to each his own,'' she said, as pickets headed toward Jindo Furs on 57th Street near Fifth Avenue.

Protesters carried dozens of signs, including one that had a picture of a fox in a fur ranch that read, ''If you're dying for a fur coat, you're not the only one. Stop the slaughter. Don't buy fur.''

Manhattan resident Mary Kelly, 43, said she joined the anti-fur crusade two years ago.

''I feel there's a terrible amount of cruelty and greed and a lot of it is against animals,'' Kelly said. ''I'm speaking out for those animals who can't speak out for themselves.''

An estimated 70 million animals, including chinchillas and muskrats, were killed last year for the industry, not including unwanted animals trapped, said Regina Gavin, a spokeswoman for Trans Species Unlimited, of Williamsport, Pa., which organized the protest.

Trans Species assists groups nationwide in holding anti-fur demonstrations.

Don Doria, a national sales representative for the Lindhurst, N.J.,-based Jindo Furs, said protests in front of Jindo stores have not affected sales.

In the Korean-owned company's three years, it has opened 38 stores, six of them in 1989, he said.

''Wearing a fur coat is a personal choice,'' he said.

Fur protesters scheduled a ''Rock Against Furs'' benefit for Saturday night, sponsored by People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals at Manhattan's Palladium.

INDIANAPOLIS (MARCH 24) UPI - Democratic National Chairman Ron Brown threatened Saturday to cut off party support for Rep. Gus Savage's re-election campaign because of the Illinois congressman's reported anti-Semitic comments.

At a news conference in Indianapolis, where the Democratic National Committee was meeting, Brown said, ''I do not think our party would be proud to (be) helping candidates who are responsible for stating in unacceptable ways views that are either racist or anti-Semitic.''

Savage, first elected to the Chicago-area 2nd District in 1980, was involved in a bitter primary battle with Mel Reynolds. Savage was the subject of a House Ethics Committee investigation for alleged sexual advances he made on a Peace Corps worker while on a visit to Africa last year.

During the campaign, Savage said Reynolds was supported by outsiders, including Jews. DNC press secretary Ginny Terzano said Saturday that Savage read a list of names of Jewish contributors to the Reynolds campaign at a March 17 rally.

Savage, Reynolds and Brown are black.

Brown dismissed any similarities between Savage and David Duke, a Republican Louisiana state representative and former Ku Klux Klan grand dragon.

''I don't think it's quite fair to compare Savage to David Duke. David Duke is a bigot. He's been a bigot all of his adult life,'' Brown said.

But in a formal statement issued after the news conference, Brown stepped up his criticism of Savage.

''I have reviewed Congressman Savage's remarks and, as I indicated earlier I am appalled,'' the release said. ''Racism and anti-semitism are disgusting in any context, and even more so when it is uttered by someone who chooses to identify himself with a party which has led the fight in this nation against bigotry.

''I intend to contact Congressman Savage and let him know in no uncertain terms that the chairman of the party and the party itself abhor and condemn his remarks,'' the statement said.

Brown had not made a final decision Saturday on whether the Democratic Party would endorse or provide support for Savage, Terzano said.

Savage, who has accused Brown of pandering to whites, recently called him ''Ron Beige'' and referred to him as an ''Oreo'' when Brown was campaigning for Chicago Mayor Richard Daley.

Savage was recently the subject of a House Ethics Committee investigation into charges that he had sexually assaulted a Peace Corps worker while on a trip to Zaire last March.

The committee concluded in February that Savage ''did, in fact, make sexual advances'' to the Peace Corps worker and noted the committee ''clearly disapproves'' of the congressman's conduct.

No futher action was taken by the committee, which noted that Savage had written a one-sentence letter of apology to the woman in November 1989.

ST. MARYS, GA (MARCH 25) UPI - Peace activists protesting the deployment of Trident submarines tried to enter the Kings Bay Naval Base's docking area Saturday but abandoned the effort when threatened with arrest.

Navy officials said a sailboat operated by the activist group Greenpeace and several other small non-engine boats approached the restricted area from the bay while other vessels in a peace flotilla stood by in St. Marys River.

Coast Guardsmen aboard several patrol boats warned the protesters they would be arrested if they crossed into the base's security zone, and the TACOMA, WA (MARCH 24) UPI - Puyallup Indian leaders and government officials signed a $162 million treaty Saturday settling the tribe's historic claims to vast tracts of valuable waterfront property in the Tacoma area.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii - who helped lead six years of negotiations between the tribe and local, state and federal government agencies - called the agreement a ''showcase'' for future settlements of claims of other Indians in the nation.

In exchange for giving up rights to the valuable industrial and residential properties, the 1,400-member Puyallup Indians will receive $162 million in cash, property and economic development programs.

Henry John, chairman of the Puyallup tribal council, said the agreement ''will bring about dramatic change between the tribes and surrounding communities.''

''There is no way to erase the wrongs committed, not even with an agreement this large,'' John said. ''But this gives us the opportunity to solve many of the problems caused by the wrongs.''

During the signing ceremony attended by hundreds of people, Inoyue recalled that during his first of a dozen trips to Tacoma, the people on both sides of the issue were ''sullen'' and ''angry'' and ''bitter.''

''But I always felt there was a better answer than litigation,'' Inoyue said. ''I felt that a negotiated settlement, with Indians standing tall defending their rights, is mutually beneficial.''

Gov. Booth Gardner, one of the signers to the agreement, said, ''The real agreement is the commitment we all feel in our hearts and minds.

''Let no one now or in the future doubt the sincerity of these words,'' Gardner said. ''They may be printed on paper, but they are engraved in our hearts.''

Contributing to the settlement fund were the federal government, $77.25 million; Port of Tacoma, $43 million; state of Washington, $21 million; city of Tacoma, $6.1 million; Pierce County, $2.6 million and a variety of private businesses, $11.5 million.

Every adult member of the tribe will receive $20,000 as part of the settlement - the largest Indian claims treaty since the $960 million, 40-million-acre Alaska Native Claims act of 1971. Similar individual payments will be made to younger tribe members when they turn 21.

The 1,900-acre Puyallup Reservation in Pierce County was established by the 1854 Medicine Creek Treaty, but most of the land over the years became part of the city and port of Tacoma, leaving unsettled questions of ownership over some $750 million worth of developed property.

The negotiations were prompted by a 1983 lawsuit filed by the Port of Tacoma that claimed 12.6 acres of former Puyallup River bed land. But the tribe's claim to the land was upheld by an appeals court, opening up the possibility of tribal claims to additional land.

The court ruling resulted in community leaders agreeing to negotiate the Puyallup Indian's land claims. During the six years of negotiations an initial $140 million proposal was rejected by the tribe, a tribal leader was ousted, and the settlement was sweetened by the offer of direct payments to tribal members.

In exchange for giving up the disputed land, the tribe will receive about 300 acres for a marine terminal, and millions of dollars in cash for fisheries enhancement, other forms of economic development, and health and social service programs.

Another $51 million will go for construction of a longer bridge over an improved waterway or a road around it.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 25) UPI - Thousands of people braved an early spring snow Saturday to rally near the White House for an end to U.S. aid to El Salvador on the 10th anniversary of the slaying of Archbishop Oscar Romero.

U.S. Park Police estimated 9,400 people attended the rally on the Ellipse between the Lincoln Memorial and the White House. Participating in the event were celebrities like Bianca Jagger, Ed Asner and actor Raul Julia, who played the title role of Romero in a recent motion picture about the archbishop.

More than 60 organizations sponsored the activities, which began with an all-night prayer vigil Friday and a Saturday morning rally on the west steps of the Capitol and were to conclude Sunday with a rally.

Park Police said they arrested 83 protesters in an act of civil disobedience outside the White House grounds Saturday after the rally. ''Basically, these people were blocking the entranceways to the White House,'' police investigator C. Clark said.

The 83 were arrested on a charge of demonstrating without a permit, a federal misedemeanor, police said. Some of the protesters were released in lieu of bond and others remained in custody as of Saturday night, police said.

Civil war has wracked the Central American nation of El Salvador for a decade, leaving an estimated 72,000 people dead. On March 24, 1980, Romero - an outspoken critic of civil rights abuses by El Salvador's government - was shot to death while delivering mass.

During the rally on the Ellipse, Asner, expressing the anger of many in the crowd, called for a boycott of coffee, El Salvador's chief crop.

''The coffee barons of El Salvador have helped perpetuate the death squads '' he said. ''If the coffee economy is hurt sufficiently enough, it will help temper the aggressive, vicious attitude the landowners in El Salvador have shown the people.''

Organizers put their official crowd estimate at 25,000, saying the snow forced people to leave in the middle of the rally, thus lowering the police count.

Many in the crowd carried soggy signs and placards criticizing U.S. involvement in the war in El Salvador. One soaked sign read: ''When will we stop crucifying El Salvador?''

The crowd became sober and silent as Julia read a letter written to President Jimmy Carter from Romero, asking him to stop aid to El Salvador.

''Because you are a Christian and have said that you want to defend human rights ... I hope your religious sentiments and your sensitivity for the defense of human rights will move you to avoid greater bloodshed in this long-suffering country,'' read Romero's letter, written one month before his death.

Several students from the University of Pennsylvania said the unseasonably cold weather was not enough to keep them from joining an estimated 500 members of the Progressive Student Alliance in making the drive to Washington.

According to Americas Watch, 72,000 Salvadorans have lost their lives in the decadelong civil war.

(MARCH 24) UPI - Lithuania's president has sent an urgent message to Soviet President Gorbachev protesting Moscow's massive show of force in the Baltic republic. President Vytautas Landsbergis said in the telegram that the action only heightened tensions in the republic. More than 100 Soviet tanks and military vehicles carrying hundreds of soldiers rode into the capital of Vilnius early today. The military procession took place just as Lithuania's nationalist controlled parliament held a marathon session to form a new government.

In South Africa, thousands of demonstrators marched in the black township of Soweto today to protest poor living conditions. South African police fired tear gas to disperse the crowd. A police spokesman in Pretoria says he could NOT confirm any reports of injuries. U-S Secretary of State Baker visited one squatter settlement in Soweto yesterday and described the living conditions as ''distressing.''

News reports from India say at least 25 people were killed and 77 others injured when fire engulfed a Hindu temple last night in the southern Kerala state. According to state-run All-India Radio and the Press Trust of India news agency, the blaze sparked explosions in a huge stock of fireworks. The tragedy came on the last day of a 10-day festival that was to end with a colorful fireworks display outside the temple about 14-hundred miles southwest of New Delhi.

MINNEAPOLIS (MARCH 24) UPI - At least 41 airline pilots have lost their Minnesota drivers licenses over the past seven years because of alcohol consumption, a published report said.

In a copyright story in the early editions of its Sunday newspaper, the Star Tribune said 28 of the 41 pilots were employed by Northwest Airlines, which is headquartered in St. Paul, Minn. The other 13 pilots worked for various airlines.

Drinking by pilots has been a well-publicized issue recently. In a separate matter, three Northwest pilots were charged earlier last week with flying a passenger jet from Fargo, N.D., to Minneapolis-St. Paul March 8 while under the influence of alcohol.

The three pilots, who are appealing their firing by Northwest, were due for arraignment in U.S. District Court in Minneapolis this week.

In its report on drinking and driving by off-duty pilots, the Star Tribune said it obtained a list of more than 2,000 Minnesota-based pilots from the Federal Aviation Administration and checked the names against Department of Public Safety records and court files for alcohol-related driving violations that occurred over the last seven years.

The paper said the FAA relies on pilots to voluntarily report alcohol-related convictions.

But they don't, the paper said, ''knowing that if they're diagnosed as alcoholic, their licenses to fly could be suspended until they prove they're recovered and have abstained from alcohol for at least two years.''

The story said the FAA feels even a single alcohol-related driving conviction or license revocation of a pilot is cause for concern. The aviation agency cited various studies have showed one-third to three-fourths of drunken drivers are problem drinkers, the newspaper said.

The paper said Northwest doesn't ask its pilots to report violations to the company and it does not routinely check their driving records, which are available to the public.

The paper said officials of Northwest and the FAA declined to comment on the findings regarding the 41 pilots.

Included in the offenses discovered by the newspaper were 25 convictions for drunken driving or equivalent charges. Fifteen others pleaded guilty to lesser charges, the paper said.

NORTH CASTLE, NY (MARCH 25) UPI - A car going the wrong way on a highway collided with a church bus Saturday, tearing the automobile in two and toppling the bus onto a second car in a crash leaving two dead and 30 injured, police said.

The southbound car drove over a median divider on Interstate 684 near North Castle and smashed into the northbound bus around 4:30 p.m., authorities said. It was unclear why the car went over the divider.

The bus tried to swerve and avoid the oncoming car but couldn't, and the collision turned the bus over twice and knocked it on top of a second automobile, authorities said.

The first car was split in half by the collision, police said.

The three-vehicle crash north of New York City killed two people and injured 30 others, New York State police Sgt. Richard Herbst said. At least three of the people hurt were injured critically, he said.

None of the 49 persons aboard the bus was killed, said Nancy Kaufmann, a spokewoman for Northern Westchester Hospital Center.

Authorities did not know which car the two persons who died had been inside, Herbst said.

The bus was carrying members of the St. Paul African Methodist Church of Cambridge, Mass., who had traveled to New York City to see the play ''Mama I want to sing,'' Kaufmann said.

All 49 people aboard the bus were taken to Westchester area hospitals, although not all of them suffered injuries, she said. Those hurt were treated for facial lacerations, broken bones and assorted fractures.

The owner of the bus, the Crystal Bus Co. of Boston, dispatched a second cruiser to return to Massachusetts those church members well enough to travel.

A section of the highway was closed for about three hours while six medical units from nearby communities tended to the injured.

The accident was under investigation, authorities said.

(MARCH 24) UPI - Two-time presidential candidate Jesse Jackson told a gathering of moderate Democrats in New Orleans today that his faction of the party and theirs are NOT far apart.

Jackson said liberals, moderates and conservatives in the party are moving together on issues ranging from defense cuts to human rights and the economy.

But when Jackson used specifics to illustrate his point, he sparked serious doubts among the moderates. Many of them see Jackson as a symbol of liberalism the party has to move away from in order to win back the White House.

Virginia Senator Charles Robb complimented Jackson on what he called a ''creative interpretation'' of the Democratic Leadership Council's goals. But Robb says it is Jackson and NOT the party moderates who need to move.

While the moderates meet in New Orleans, the Democratic National Committee which is the more liberal rulemaking body of the party, is meeting 700 miles to the north in Indianapolis.

(MARCH 24) UPI - An astronaut scheduled to head into space aboard the shuttle Discovery next month questions whether NASA might be pushing too fast to build up its space program.

Charles Bolden told United Press International he is concerned about maintaining adequate safety margins.

Discovery's mission April 12th is to carry into orbit the Hubble Space Telescope, the most powerful eye ever put in the sky.

Bolden says NASA has done an ''excellent job'' recovering from the 1986 Challenger disaster. But he says things are NOT exactly going along great.

Bolden warns that NASA must NOT get complacent and start overlooking safety.

Three shuttles are scheduled to make nine flights this year. That rate would equal a record set in 1985 when NASA had four space shuttles.

Bolden says it's good that NASA is questioning whether it can safely increase that load.

(MARCH 24) UPI - There is new evidence that living together before marriage does NOT necessarily lead to a healthier marriage.

New studies of couples who live together before marriage say those couples stand a greater chance of divorce.

Two sociologists from Bowling Green State University in Ohio say the odds for divorce among cohabiting couples are 66 percent higher than for those who do NOT live together before marrying.

The researchers base their study on a survey of 31-hundred personal interviews... one-fourth of them with couples who lived together before marrying.

The researchers say people who cohabit before marriage have a tendency to be more modern, or ''hip'' people who areN'T afraid to walk out of a relationship when things aren't working.

These stories, and more, next from United Press International:

Hardline Soviet Politburo member Yegor Ligachev tells a Soviet newspaper the Soviet Union will NOT use tanks to crush the independence movement in Lithuania... the way the Soviets led an invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 to crush the Prague Spring liberal movement.

But early this morning, a column of tanks, armored personnel carriers and trucks carrying an estimated two-thousand Soviet soldiers rumbled through Lithuania's capital. The column moved past the parliament building where legislators were choosing members of a new independent government.

Undeterred, the deputies continue choosing officers of the new government which they have declared independent of Moscow.

European Community foreign ministers meeting in Portugal today echoed a U-S plea to the Soviets NOT to use force or intimidation against Lithuania.

The Soviet Tass news agency says foreign diplomats had been asked to leave Lithuania and foreign correspondents are being asked to temporarily abstain from trips to the freedom-minded republic. The Foreign Ministry has temporarily stopped allowing Polish residents to cross into Lithuania without a visa.

An Amtrak train pulling into Chicago's Union Station overshot its mark and banged into a concrete block today, injuring 38 people.

Eight of the train's 10 cars derailed. Amtrak officials say the New Orleans-to-Chicago train was moving at three miles an hour as it approached the bumping block at the end of the line.

Most of those hurt were passengers standing inside the train as they prepared to get off. Authorities say the injuries were mostly minor, such as sore necks and backs. But one man was hospitalized in serious condition with numbness on one side of his body.

Amtrak is investigating whether brake failure or human error caused the accident. The train's four crew members will undergo standard drug and alcohol tests.

(MARCH 24) UPI - Thousands of people marched in Washington, D-C, and in the capital of El Salvador today to commemorate Salvadoran Archbishop Oscar Romero... who was assassinated 10 years ago today.

U-S Park Police estimate nearly 10-thousand people braved a spring snow to ask for an end to U-S aid to El Salvador on the 10th anniversary of the human rights leader's death.

Romero was killed while saying mass in a San Salvador chapel. He was highly critical of the Salvadoran government's treatment of the poor. His murder has never been solved.

Celebrities including Bianca Jagger, Ed Asner and actor Raul Julia... who played the title role of Romero in the recent motion picture... led the call for an end to U-S aid. Asner promoted a boycott of coffee which he said would hurt El Salvador's coffee barons.

In San Salvador, an estimated two-thousand Salvadorans and about 100 foreigners marched and attended mass at the Metropolitan Cathedral to commemorate Romero's death.

Police arrested at least 98 demonstrators and one person was injured as groups with opposing views on abortion rallied in Pasadena, Maryland.

The confrontation occurred outside a woman's clinic.

Some 100 people organized by Project Rescue protested against abortions and tried to shut the clinic down for the day. An approximately equal number of opposing demonstrators also showed up during a spring snowstorm.

Despite the protests, the clinic director says the facility remained open for business.

A member of Project Rescue says the protest was scheduled months ago and was NOT related to the abortion debate which apparently ended today in the Maryland state Legislature.

In the state capital of Annapolis, a House of Delegates committee last night killed two drastically different abortion bills that had been approved by the state Senate to end an eight-day filibuster.

Convicted spy John Walker says people shouldN'T make more of his crime than it is. He says what he did was NO different than an insider trader who betrays his corporation, or a bank teller who robs his own bank.

The ring sold vital classified material to the Soviet K-G-B for Millions of dollars. That helped the Soviet Union decode secret dispatches... including some detailing U-S troop movements during the Vietnam War. The ring was broken up in 1985 when Walker's wife went to the F-B-I.

BUDAPEST (MARCH 25) - Hungary's first free elections in more than 40 years drew a massive turnout, with voters queuing up to cast their ballots Sunday in a poll expected to sweep away the last vestiges of communism.

Most voters leaving the polling stations stressed the importance of this "historic poll" which they said would lift Hungary out of the economic doldrums and put an end to communist rule.

"The difference this time is that I have a choice," a woman said as she joined the queue outside a Budapest polling station.

In some constituencies up to 40 per cent of electors were estimated to have voted by 0900 GMT, after polling stations had been open for five hours, election officials said. Voters were lining up to vote in Budapest and other cities around the country, they said.

In the town of Sopron, on the Austrian border, 60 per cent of electors had voted by 0900 GMT.

Voting began at 6:00 a.m. (0400 GMT) and was scheduled to end at 6:00 p.m. (1600 GMT) or 8:00 p.m. if turnout is considered low, which now seems unlikely. The first results are expected to be known in the evening and more general trends overnight.

A total of 7.6 million people are eligible to vote Sunday in the first democratic election since 1947 contested by 12 parties.

The frontrunner is the center-right Hungarian Democratic Forum followed by the liberal Alliance of Free Democrats (SZDSZ) and the agrarian Smallholders Party, according to all pre-election opinion polls.

The three parties, all promising to turn the country into a Western-style democracy, will together take more than 60 per cent of the vote, according to the polls.

The ruling Hungarian Socialist Party, the former communist party, is expected to win about 10 per cent of the vote. Its leaders seem resigned to going into opposition.

"We are carrying on our back the burden of our communist past, which puts us at a disadvantage compared to new parties that promise hope for the future," said Minister of State Imre Pozsgay, a leading party reformer.

Foreign Minister Gyula Horn said after voting in his Budapest constituency that "no party's going to win an absolute majority."

Nearly half of the 386 deputies in a future parliament are to be decided Sunday. A second round of voting is to be held in two weeks.

Jozsef Antall, the leader of Hungarian Democratic Forum, said he was "confident that we'll finish first."

"It's definitely a good feeling to take part in these elections because I participated in drafting the electoral law and everything else which led us to this stage," he added.

But some voters were skeptical about the ability of the opposition, which has only emerged in the past few months, to transform Hungary into a fully-fledged democracy with a market economy.

"I won't live long enough to see any improvement," said a 74-year-old woman who cast her ballot in the same constituency as Mr. Horn.

Hungary has the Eastern bloc's highest foreign debt, at 21 billion dollars. It has staved off bankruptcy only through Western credit and has nearly a quarter of its population living below the poverty line.

The only reported hitch was the invalidation of 30 to 40 votes in an electoral district in western Hungary. Tibor Csiba, an election official, said this was because an unregistered voter had cast a ballot.

Voters interviewed as they left the polls said they favored Hungarian Democratic Forum and the SZDZS, the liberals.

An SZDZS leader, Peter Toelgyessy, said he was certain his party would finish among the top three, if not first.

The 386 legislature seats have been divided up three ways under Hungary's complex electoral system.

Of these, 176 constituency seats are being fought over by 1,600 candidates, who can become deputies after a first round of voting by winning an absolute majority of votes.

Those who fail to get a majority face a second round on April 8.

MOSCOW (MARCH 25) - Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev Sunday appointed five more members to the new Presidential Council, bringing to 15 the number of advisers on the body that serves as an inner cabinet to help him run the country.

Among those picked Sunday were Interior Minister Vadim Bakatin and Valery Boldin, head of the important general department of the communist party central committee.

The three others were Surpreme Soviet (parliament) union council chairman Yevgeni Primakov, Kiev party chief Grigori Rebenko and the vice president of the Academy of Science, physicist Yuri Ossipjan.

The presidential council automatically includes Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov, but other members are appointed by the president. On Saturday, Gorbachev appointed ten members, including Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and Defence Minister Dmitri Yazov.

Others named Saturday were First Deputy Premier Yuri Maslyukov, Chairman Vladimir Kryuchkov of the Kgb secret police, reform-minded Central Committee Secretary Alexander Yakovlev, Central Asian writer Chingis Aitmatov, economics expert Stanislav Shatalin, people's deputies Albert Kauls and Veniamin Yarin.

Yarin, considered a conservative, is a founder of the Soyuz movement of legislators to keep the Soviet Union together. A second member of the conservative camp is writer Valentin Rasputin.

Tass news agency said the council's duties would include drawing up measures ''to implement the main directions of the Soviet Union's internal and foreign policy and ensure the country's security''. It would also be responsible for seeing to the implementation of economic policy,

MOSCOW (MARCH 25) - The Estonian Communist Party voted at a congress in the Baltic republic's capital Tallinn on Sunday to break in principle with the Soviet Communist Party, a central committee member said.

Villo Silvi, who is also a member of the ideological department of Estonia's Communist Party, said the final decision on whether to make a complete break with the Soviet Communist Party would be taken at another congress in six months.

This was planned for three months after the 28th congress of the Soviet party in Moscow scheduled from July 2, she said, contacted by telephone.

The Estonian Communist Party would be the second to declare itself independent from the Soviet Communist Party.

The Lithuanian Communist Party broke with the Soviet Communist Party in December and the Baltic republic's parliament went on to declare complete independence from Moscow on March 11.

TEHERAN (MARCH 25) - The Iranian leadership Sunday laid down conditions for its offer to help secure the release of Western hostages in Lebanon, apparently bowing to pressure from Islamic hardliners.

The Teheran Times newspaper, close to the government of President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, said countries expecting Iran's help must exert pressure on Israel for the release of thousands of imprisoned Moslems.

It was the first time that the Iranian leadership, which for the last month has voiced a desire to resolve the hostage issue, laid down such a condition, following pressure from anti-Western Islamic hardliners, analysts said.

Seventeen Western nationals are held hostage in Lebanon, many of whom are believed to be in the hands of pro-Iranian militants.

"Iran will of course use its good offices with the Lebanese groups, out of Islamic and humanitarian considerations, to facilitate the release of Western hostages," the English-language Teheran Times said.

"But the countries expecting Iranian assistance in this issue should also pressure Israel to free thousands of Moslems who have been incarcerated on no charges at all and to instruct its agents to release kidnapped Moslem activists like Sheikh Obeid."

Israeli commandos abducted the Lebanese Shiite religious leader Sheikh Abdel Karim Obeid from south Lebanon last July, offering an exchange for Israeli troops and hostages held by Shiite groups.

Iran's new condition also reflected the demands of underground groups holding five U.S. hostages, which have resurfaced with communiques since Mr. Rafsanjani said on March 7 that the issue was "moving toward a solution."

A key hardliner in parliament, Ali Akbar Mohtashemi, on March 10 dampened the president's optimism by urging pro-Iranian militants in Lebanon to pursue their "hostages' cold war" against Israel and the West.

At the initiative of hardliners, a majority of MPs said in a letter to the government March 20 that the hostages' fate depended solely on the will of "oppressed Lebanese Moslems" and the release of Moslem detainees in the West.

Speculation has mounted since the Teheran Times called for their unconditional release on February 22, for Islamic and humanitarian reasons.

Deputy Foreign Minister Ali Mohammad Besharati recently said all the hostages could be freed this year, although he cautioned that similar efforts in the past to resolve the issue had been thwarted by Israel.

The Teheran Times added Sunday that "Iran too wishes to see its citizens, including its charge d'affaires in Beirut, released this year."

Iran has accused Christian militiamen in Beirut of having kidnapped four Iranians, including Charge d'Affaires Mohsen Mussavi, in July 1982, the month of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon.

Referring to the Iranian new year which started last Wednesday, the Teheran Times voiced confidence that the country would expand its foreign relations in the coming year.

"It is a policy of the Islamic Republic to expand friendly ties with non-hostile nations to the fullest extent," it said.

"It is expected that with the efforts of the Islamic government and a little effort on the part of foreign governments, particularly those in this part of the world, Iran's foreign relations will continue their upward trend."

The hostage issue is seen as part of President Rafsanjani's efforts to secure foreign participation in Iran's ambitious five-year development plan, although he faces opposition to foreign investment from the hardline camp.

CAIRO (MARCH 25) - Indonesian Foreign Minister Ali Alatas condemned on Sunday Israel's resettlement of Soviet Jews in the occupied territories, calling it illegal and a violation of international law.

The settlement policy also ran counter to efforts for peace in the Middle East, Alatas said after a meeting with Butrus Ghali, minister of state in the Egyptian Foreign Ministry.

Alatas arrived in Cairo on Saturday. Foreign ministry sources said he was carrying a message from Indonesian President Suharto for Egypt's head of state, Hosny Mubarak.

BEIJING (MARCH 25) - The Mongolian opposition kept up its pressure on the government with a large demonstration Sunday in Ulan Bator aimed at taking the nation further down what it hopes is a one-way road to democracy.

More than 10,000 people gathered in Sukhe Bator square to accuse the ruling communist party of reneging on promises of democratic reform, and to demand the resignation of the People's Great Hural, or parliament, as well as the quick adoption of a law ensuring multi-party politics.

The opposition also wants an election that would put the seal on a movement which has ended the communists' power monopoly.

Sunday's demonstration was one of the bigger since opposition groups emerged in Mongolia in December.

In the three months since, the world's second-oldest communist state has advanced as far towards a multi-party democracy as some of the former socialist bulwarks of Eastern Europe.

The change seems inconceivable for the former bastion of Stalinism, locked away in economic stagnation on the edge of the Siberian wildnerness and the Gobi Desert.

The opposition took its first faltering step towards democracy in late December, when some 2,000 people in the freezing cold of Ulan Bator took part in a demonstration organised by the fledgling Mongolian Democratic Association (MDA).

Three months and a dozen demonstrations later, the country has emerged from what the press has dubbed its 66-year winter under communist rule and is also moving towards independence from Moscow.

The current government has promised to step up contacts with the United States, the European Economic Community and countries in Asia.

Changes have come hard and fast since February 18, when the MDA and the Mongolian Democratic Party held their founding congresses, heralding an era of political pluralism after so many decades of communist rule.

Soon the bronze statue of Stalin was pulled down from its commanding position in the heart of the capital, to be followed by the dismissal of Jambyn Batmonh as leader of the ruling Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party and head of state.

CANBERRA (MARCH 25) - The outcome of a neck-and-neck race in the Australian general election may depend on a remote constituency in the tropical north of Queensland state where flooding caused by torrential rains prevented voters from casting their ballots.

As all eyes were set on the 3,000 voters in Kennedy who were expected go to the polls Monday, the big parties quickly sent their top campaigners to the scene to net as many votes as possible.

The outcome of the race between Prime Minister Bob Hawke's Labor Party and the conservative coalition of Liberal Party and National Party led by Andrew Peacock will be known only in the next few days after counting of the so-called preferential votes.

Preferential voting means that voters must number candidates in order of preference on the ballot, rather than choosing just one. That way, if no one wins a majority outright, the second preference votes are added on until someone gets 50 per cent.

Hawke's Labor Party suffered a massive six-percentage point slide in Saturday's poll as voters disgruntled by high interest rates defected to the opposition Liberal Party or to smaller parties.

Both Hawke and Peacock have said they thought they had won enough seats in the lower house of parliament to form a government. Both conceded that the worst possible situation that could occur was a hung parliament in which Labor and the conservative coalition would each have 73 seats in the lower house of parliament with the two remaining seats held by independent legislators.

At stake in the election were all 148 seats in the lower house and 40 of the 76 seats in the upper house. The previous lower house, in which Labor had 85 seats and the conservative coalition had a combined 63 seats, was formally dissolved Feburary 16.

LONDON (MARCH 25) - Thousands of protesters demanding continued economic sanctions against Pretoria and shouting "Viva Mandela" marched through central London and rallied in front of the South African embassy Sunday.

"The world must recognize that until apartheid is destroyed there can be no relaxation, no holding back in the struggle" against the policies of the South African government, Archbishop Trevor Huddleston, president of the Anti-Apartheid Movement (AAM) which organized the demonstration, told the crowd.

AAM officials estimated that between 25,000 and 30,000 people attended the protest in London's Trafalgar Square, but police put the number at about 10,000.

Before the rally, Archbishop Huddleston led a group of marchers to 10 Downing Street where they delivered packages wrapped in the black, green and gold colors of the African National Congress containing 16,000 messages of protest against Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's decision to relax sanctions.

Addressing the crowd, Andrew Mlangeni, one of six senior ANC leaders released by South African President Frederik de Klerk last October, said: "The vast majority of British people reject Mrs. Thatcher's stand on South Africa."

Mr. Mlangeni, one of the founders of the ANC's military wing, said that "the international community should not be duped" by recent concessions made by Mr. De Klerk, including the release of historic ANC leader Nelson Mandela and the legalisation of the ANC and several other anti-apartheid groups.

"The foundation of apartheid is still intact," he added.

The crowd, carrying banners and placards stating support for the ANC, interrupted Mr. Mlangeni's speech several times with applause and singing.

Walter Sisulu, the senior ANC leader who was due to attend the rally but cancelled at the last minute, said in a message read to the protesters that Britain could make no contribution to ending apartheid until the government receognized the need to maintain sanctions against Pretoria.

HYDERABAD, Pakistan (MARCH 25) - Sniper fire killed three people and wounded 12 in this Pakistani city Sunday, raising to 10 the death toll from attacks by unidentified gunmen here this week, hospital sources said.

Residents said armed men opened fire indiscriminately in several districts of Hyderabad, 100 miles (160 kilometers) north of the Arabian Sea port Karachi.

The cause of the firing was not immediately known, but on Wednesday sniper fire sparked by a clash between rival groups of girl students left seven people dead.

Paramilitary troops were patrolling sensitive areas of the city, residents said.

GENEVA (MARCH 25) - Four men overpowered two staffers and two guards at a Geneva bank Sunday morning and escaped with 35 million Swiss francs' (23 million U.S. dollars') worth of foreign currency, authorities said.

Police said the unidentified robbers made the haul after forcing the staffers and guards at the Geneva branch of the Schweizerische Bankgesellschaft to hand them the keys to half a dozen safety-deposit boxes.

After cleaning out the boxes, the robbers sped off in cars with French number-plates, officials said. They added that investigators still had no clue as to the identities of the robbers.

It also was still unclear what the guards and staffers were doing at the bank on a Sunday morning, police said.

LONDON (MARCH 25) - The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Robert Runcie, announced his resignation Sunday on the 10th anniversary of his assumption of office as senior prelate of the Anglican Church.

Dr. Runcie's resignation, which he handed to Queen Elizabeth, the head of the Church of England, goes into effect on January 31, nine months before he had been expected to retire at the age of 70.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is to pick his successor from a list of names submitted by the monarch.

The Archbishop will probably be remembered for a decade spent trying to keep together a Church more divided than at any other time in its 400-year history.

The 70-million-strong community, which spans Britain, the United States and the Commonwealth countries, has been bitterly at odds over issues like the ordination of women and homosexuals, and relations with the Roman Catholic Church.

As spiritual leader of the Church of England, the Archbishop of Canterbury's only authority over Anglican Churches in other countries is a moral one.

However as head of the Lambeth Conference, which brings together leaders of all 27 autonomous Anglican Churches every decade, Dr. Runcie played an important role as moderator and conciliator.

In recent years, the most delicate and controversial issue he faced was whether women should be ordained. The subject caused an uproar among the 525 bishops who attended the last conference in July 1988.

Delegates at the meeting overwhelmingly approved the consecration of women bishops, on a vote of 423 to 28. However so-called "traditionalists" immediately decided they would not recognize such women as belonging to the Anglican communion.

A few months later, in February 1989, the American Anglican Church elected its first woman bishop, Barbara Harris.

Faced with such tensions, Dr. Runcie preached tolerance and set up a committee to study the Church's evolution on the issue.

The Church of England approved the ordination of women by only a slim majority, and the decision could not go into effect for five years.

ISLAMABAD (MARCH 25) - Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto Sunday said the military budget and buildup of rival India ''imposes a great burden'' on poverty-ridden Pakistan.

She told a conference of the country's ambassadors abroad that managing relations with India, ''not through confrontation but by containment'', represented ''the greatest challenge to our diplomacy''.

Bhutto welcomed the easing of tension between the superpowers but cautioned it could encourage ''any other powerful country to strive for regional hegemony''.

She asked the 38 envoys assembled for the conference to prepare ''to meet the challenges of political and economic diplomacy posed by the current world situation''.

International assistance might ''considerably shrink'' in the years ahead, making foreign investment ever more crucial for countries like Pakistan, she said.

Pakistan should try to profit from Aarab and African markets. ''The Soviet Union, particularly (its) Moslem belt, offers potential for imaginative trade policy,''

MOSCOW (MARCH 25) - The Soviet interior ministry has sent more troops to the southern republic of Azerbaijan, where nine people have been killed and many others wounded in attacks by armed groups of Armenians, Tass news agency said Sunday.

The agency quoted the Azerbaijani interior ministry as saying that the reinforcements included 150 policemen.

Tass said that five peple died in one of eight houses which were set ablaze in Baganis Airum, northeast of the Armenian frontier, and that a policeman was killed "while on duty" in the same village.

Many other people were injured by automatic weapons fire there and in the nearby villages of Pirili and Tashili.

Two Armenians were killed, Tass said, when a weapon they were aiming at Azeri houses in an unnamed village backfired on them.

"In all, nine people were killed," the agency said, and three kidnapped.

A petrol station was destroyed by a bomb Saturday near Shusha, on the fringe of Nagorny-Karabakh, an Armenian enclave inside Azerbaijan, while a locomotive and two carriages of a passenger train were derailed near Megri northern Armenia, by an explosion.

The incidents are the latest in a two-year conflict pitting the Christian Armenians against the Moslem Azeris, and come amid a fresh nationalist crisis in the Soviet Union's Baltic republics.

VILNIUS, Lithuania (MARCH 25) - Two Soviet generals will hold talks on Sunday night with Lithuanian officials, it was announced here.

Romualdas Ozolas, one of the three deputy prime ministers in the breakaway Baltic republic, said the "negotiations" would start at 11.30 p.m. local time (2030 GMT).

He was speaking to journalists after a meeting of the Lithuanian parliament here.

Lithuania proclaimed its independence from the Soviet Union shortly after non-communist nationalists won elections to the republic's parliament this month. Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev has rejected the proclamation.

NEW YORK (MARCH 25) - A Soviet military crackdown against Lithuania would seriously damage superpower ties, U.S. Defense Secretary Richard Cheney warned in an interview Sunday.

"An inopportune use of Soviet military force to crush the Lithuanians would in fact have significant negative consequences" on U.S.-Soviet relations, Mr. Cheney told CBS Television.

He echoed the sentiment of President George Bush's national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, who said Saturday that the situation in the breakaway Baltic republic "has to be our business because it could affect the (U.S.-Soviet) relationship."

The United States does not recognize the Soviet annexation of Lithuania in 1940.

Lithuania declared itself independent from the Soviet Union March 11, and pressure from the Kremlin for it to renounce that declaration has mounted steadily.

Mr. Cheney refused to say if the situation in Lithuania could jeopardize the next summit between Mr. Bush and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, tentatively set for late June in Washington.

But, he said, "Obviously, it could undermine a lot of good work which has been done in recent years" towards arms reduction accords and in other areas.

"We made it clear we share the aspiration of the Lithuanian people to self-determination," said Mr. Cheney.

Asked what effect Soviet military intervention in Lithuania could have on the U.S. defense budget, Mr. Cheney said current proposals by Mr. Bush's administration would not be modified.

VILNIUS, Lithuania (MARCH 25) - Three high-ranking Soviet military officials started "negotiations" in the parliament building here late Sunday with Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis, shortly after Soviet troops took over two Communist Party buildings.

The Soviet side was represented by two colonels and a lieutenant-colonel at the talks, which commenced around 11.30 p.m. (2030 GMT).

Lithuanian Prime Minister Kazimiera Prunskiene, who did not attend, explained: "It's a question of negotiations with the Lithuanian president."

Mrs. Prunskiene did not give details of what was being negotiated.

Lithuania proclaimed its independence from the Soviet Union shortly after non-communist nationalists won elections to the republic's parliament this month. Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev has rejected the proclamation, and ordered Lithuanians to surrender their firearms.

A senior official of the Lithuanian nationalist movement Sajudis, Virgil Cepaitis, said that the republic and the Soviet authorities were engaged in "a war of nerves" rather than actual conflict. Dismissing rumours that a military assault on the Lithuanian parliament was imminent, he said: "if an attack was in the offing, I would have been told."

Radio Moscow's English-language news bulletin meanwhile quoted Algirdas Brazauskas, first secretary of the Lithuanian communist party, as saying that people who were predicting "the end of the world in Lithuania" were doing nothing to improve matters.

HAVANA (MARCH 25) EFE - A Mexican journalist has died from injuries sustained when a Cuban airliner crashed on takeoff Friday, bringing to three the number of Mexicans killed in the accident, officials said.

The Mexican Consulate in Havana said Saturday that Ramon Zorrilla, who worked for Mexican news agency Notimex, was among the dead.

Fifteen Mexican tourists were also injured in the crash, five of them seriously, health authorities said.

The Cubana de Aviacion AN-26 airliner with 41 people on board, most of them Mexican tourists, crashed at the end of the runway and burst into flames while attempting takeoff Friday at the airport in the eastern city of Santiago.

Cuban officials were investigating the cause of the accident which happened as the plane was taking off on a flight to Havana.

CHICAGO (MARCH 25) UPI - Polish Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki, hoping to drum up support among Polish-Americans, said Saturday his country's emerging market economy faces problems but also gives reasons for optimism.

''In the complicated and difficult situation of today's Poland and Eastern Europe, we tend to talk about fear and pain,'' Mazowiecki told a crowd at DePaul University through a translator. ''We are less inclined to talk about hope.''

Mazowiecki, who was inaugurated in September, is the country's first non-Communist prime minister in 40 years. He came to Chicago on an invitation from Illinois Gov. James Thompson.

Musicians, folk dancers and about 1,200 people turned out to greet the prime minister in the city Mazowiecki called the ''capitol of Polish America.''

Mazowiecki noted Poland's ''great triumph of democracy,'' but said the country still needs to reform its economy and asked the United States for its help.

The Polish leader was presented with the St. Vincent de Paul Award by DePaul University President John Richardson. The school awards the honor to people who devote their lives to aiding the poor and oppressed.

''You bring new character to the struggle of your people,'' Richardson said. ''Your courageous life has inspired not only your own nation, but those in the west who stand in solidarity with you.''

At a news conference later in the day, Thompson praised Mazowiecki and the Polish people for triggering the wave of change in eastern Europe.

''Because you prevailed, millions of others are prevailing across eastern Europe,'' Thompson said. ''Poland is where freedom began in 1989.''

(MARCH 25) UPI - A small group of young Americans and Canadians have returned to Lithuania to help the land of their parents in its drive for independence from Moscow. Dozens of North Americans of Lithuanian descent are helping spread news about Lithuania's struggle. When the Lithuanian president sent an angry telegram to the Soviets, the foreigners translated it into English and faxed it to news organizations around the world.

Some nine-thousand people marched through Washington Saturday to call for an end to U-S aid to El Salvador. The march also commemmorated the 10th anniversary of the assassination of Salvadoran Archbishop Oscar Romero, who was killed in San Salvador while giving mass. Following the march, 83 of the protesters were arrested for blocking entranceways to the White House grounds.

A Minneapolis newspaper reports at least 41 pilots have had their Minnesota drivers' licenses revoked because of alcohol consumption. 28 of those pilots were employed by Northwest Airlines, which is based in St. Paul. The report also notes the F-A-A relies on pilots to voluntarily report alcohol-related convictions.

MANILA, Philippines (MARCH 25) UPI - Communist rebels ambushed buses along a rural highway, killing three children, and a separate shootout in suburban Manila caused the deaths of a police officer and a suspected Communist rebel, officials said Sunday.

Police said Communist rebels opened fire Saturday on two passenger buses near Bongabong, 150 miles south of Manila, sparking a gun battle with soldiers on board the buses. Three children were killed and 18 others were wounded in the exchange of fire.

In Manila, Police Col. Nicandro Mendoza said two rebels of the communist New People's Army pulled guns and fired on police at a checkpoint in suburban Quezon City before dawn Sunday when the taxi in which they were riding was stopped by suspicious officers.

Police Sgt. Dionisio Perez and one of the rebels were killed in the shootout and another officer was seriously wounded, Mendoza said. The second gunman was arrested four hours later.

The 19,000-member New People's Army, the armed wing of the outlawed Communist Party of the Philippines, will mark its 21st anniversary of armed struggle against the Philippines government on March 29. The rebels usually conduct a spate of ambushes and attacks on military outposts in the days surrounding the anniversary.

Suspected rebels staged two ambushes in the capital Thursday, killing six people, including a colonel, three soldiers and a policeman.

KATMANDU, Nepal (MARCH 25) UPI - Doctors said Sunday they will stage two general strikes in coming days to protest alleged human rights violations in connection with the kingdom's budding pro-democracy movement.

An official of the International Red Cross also said the agency was monitoring humanitarian conditions in the country in the wake of the movement, which has led to at least one dozen deaths and hundreds of injuries.

''We are concerned from the humanitarian point and we are following the situation,'' said a local official of the Geneva-based aid organization, who asked not to be identified.

He said the Red Cross was concerned that people involved in the sometimes violent protests had not received proper medical treatment and feared the kingdom had inadequate supplies of blood.

The Nepal Medical Association said in a statement it will conduct a general strike Wednesday in the populated Katmandu Valley and a nationwide strike on Sunday.

''It is well known that repression, arrest and torture of peaceful demonstrators demanding basic human rights have created a feeling of insecurity and tension in the country,'' an association statement said.

The statement charged that 800 police ''brutally intervened to stop an exchange of views of professionals, including doctors'' at the Tribhivan University campus on March 20.

One of the signers of the document was S.K. Pahari, a royal physician.

Protesters are demanding that the kingdom lift a 29-year ban on political parties and move toward greater democratic freedoms. But the government has argued that the present system was approved by the people in a national referendum in the early 1980s.

Those who have been arrested in the protests claim they were badly treated and even tortured.

''After six hours of detention in an overcrowded cold cell, I was brought to a waiting room for interrogation,'' said lawyer Kusum Shrestha, a lawyer who was among those arrested on the Tribhivan University campus on March 20. ''While waiting for interrogation, a young man who was physically tortured was paraded before us.''

Also arrested in the March 20 sweep was Devendra Raj Pandey, acting president of the Human Rights Organization of Nepal and Mathura Prasad Shrestha, president of the Forum for the Protection of Human Rights.

The government has said 13 people have died in the protest but the opposition puts the death toll at 24. The opposition also disputes government figures that show 1,000 people are currently under arrest in connection with the movement, saying 5,000 people are being detained.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Government negotiators Saturday agreed to pay the Puyallup Indians of Washington state 162-Million dollars in cash, property and economic development programs. In return, the Puyallups give up rights to valuable property. Vast lands were given to the tribe in an 1854 treaty but during the years the property became part of the city of Tacoma.

A return of winter weather buried the Midwest in heavy snow Saturday, and is blamed for a fatal accident in Missouri. The driver of a road plow was killed when he was struck by a freight train at a crossing. The snow storm also coated the daffodils and cherry blossoms which had bloomed in the East.

In St. Paul, Minnesota, Saturday, more than four-thousand people greeted members of the trans-Antarctic expedition team that made an UNprecedented four-thousand-mile trek across the frozen continent in seven months. Team member and Minnesota resident Will Steger says the welcome made it ''the greatest day'' of his life. The team... which also includes members from Japan, France, the Soviet Union and Great Britain... will meet President Bush in Washington Tuesday.

SRINAGAR, India (MARCH 25) UPI - A Moslem extremist group claimed responsiblity for the slaying of a former state legislator whose body was found by police Sunday, saying he was kidnapped and killed because he was a government informer.

Police said a patrol recovered the body of Mir Mustafa early Sunday morning in central Srinagar, the summer capital of Jammu and Kashmir state 400 miles north of New Delhi.

The body was fully clothed and there were rope burns on the neck, indicating that he had been hanged, police said. They said an autopsy had been ordered to determine the exact cause of death.

Later in the morning, a local journalist received a telephone call from a representative of the Hezbul Mujahideen - Kashmiri for the Party of the Soldiers of God - claiming responsiblity for the slaying.

The caller said Mustafa was killed for ''indulging in objectionable activities,'' including providing ''vital information'' to the government.

The victim's body was found a day after he was abducted by extremists who forced his car to a halt in Srinagar and bundled him into their vehicle, police said.

Mustafa was an independent member of the Jammu and Kashmir assembly that was dissolved last month by Governor Jagmohan, who assumed control of the state on New Delhi's orders following the resignation in January of its government.

Mustafa was involved in negotiations last December with militants who kidnapped the daughter of federal Home Minister Mufti Mohammad Sayeed. She was freed in exchange for the release of five jailed extremists.

In a related development, police said separatists Saturday night shot and killed a Congress (I) Party leader and dumped his body outside his home in the Kashmir town of Pahalgam, about 60 miles east of Srinagar. The body of Ghulam Nabi Kullar was discovered Sunday morning, they said.

Mustafa and Kullar were the latest victims of separatists who are engineering a popular uprising against Indian rule of the predominantly Moslem Kashmir, whose 3 million people believe their interests have long been neglected by the Hindu-dominated government in New Delhi.

Kashmiri Moslems also charge New Delhi reneged on a pledge to hold a referendum to determine whether Kashmir - which is also claimed by Pakistan - should remain with India, accede to Pakistan or become independent.

Since the insurrection erupted Jan. 20, thousands of troops and police have been deployed across the Kashmir region and more than 160 peole have been killed in protests.

The militants have stepped up their attacks in the past few days, especially against government officials and members of the Congress (I) Party, which had governed the state.

The Jammu and Kashmir Liberation Front, the largest and most popular militant group, late Saturday warned Prime Minister V.P. Singh not to visit Kashmir unless security forces are removed from the region.

The group said in a statement that its executive body also voted to reject any negotiations with New Delhi until such a withdrawal is implemented.

''Unless the last Indian soldier is off Kashmiri soil, no talks can be held on Kashmir with New Delhi,'' the statement said.

Singh on Thursday said he might travel to Kashmir to talk to residents in an effort to solve the crisis.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (MARCH 25) UPI - Rival Christian forces fought fierce battles Sunday northeast of Beirut, killing at least two people and wounding two others, security sources said.

Sources said troops loyal to Christian strongman Gen. Michel Aoun and militiamen of Samir Geagea's Lebanese Forces traded fire from machine guns rocket launchers and 155 mm howitzers in Kesrouwane, 13 miles northeast of Beirut. They said at least two civilians were killed, among them an Indian national, and two militiamen wounded.

The two Christian leaders have been locked in a bitter power struggle for control of the Christian sector in and around East Beirut since the end of January.

Sources said the renewed fighting was the worst violation of a shaky cease-fire reached on March 2 by Christian mediators in which the rivals agreed to halt all battles.

Observers feared the renewed violence would only be a prelude to large-scale battles. They said both sides had reinforced their postions and put their fighters on high alert.

''East Beirut is facing a decisive week,'' the East Beirut based Ad Diyar newspaper said Sunday. ''It is clear that all mediation efforts have so far failed to find a solution amid growing fears of a new military confrontation between the rivals.''

At least 815 people have been killed and 2,755 others wounded since the fighting erupted Jan. 31.

VATICAN CITY (MARCH 25) UPI - Pope John Paul II prayed Sunday for an easing of the tense situation in Lithuania, calling for a ''just and peaceful solution'' to the country's problems during his weekly greeting to pilgrims from his Vatican window.

The Polish pontiff's appeal for calm in the troubled Baltic republic, which has declared independence from the Soviet Union, came a day after President Vytautas Landsbergis urged Lithuanian deserters from the Soviet Red Army to ''seek sanctuary in churches'' as Soviet tanks rumbled through the capital of Vilnius in a show of force.

''Today Lithuania is in the center of interest for Europe and the world,'' John Paul said of the overwhelmingly Catholic republic.

''In the name of our centuries of links with Lithuania, I pray for divine providence (to guide decision makers) in this delicate moment until the Lithuanian question reaches a just and peaceful solution with a sincere dialogue in the framework of international order.

''May God grant light and force to everyone involved in reaching this solution,'' he said.

The pope recalled the centuries-long relationship between Lithuania and the Holy See.

''In the grotto of St. Peter's is the Lithuanian chapel, a sign of centuries of links,'' the pope said. ''In 1986 we thanked the Holy Trinity for 600 years of Lithuanian nationhood.

''Two years earlier, I prayed to St. Casimir, patron saint of the country, to protect Lithuania on the 500th anniversary of his death.''

The pope was invited to Lithuania by bishops 10 years ago, but was not allowed to celebrate the anniversary of St. Casimir's death on Lithuanian soil.

NEW YORK (MARCH 25) UPI - A fire of suspicious origin swept through a cramped Bronx social club early Sunday, killing at least 87 people with thick smoke and seriously injuring one person, authorities said.

The fast-moving fire broke out before 3:41 a.m. at the Happy Land social club in the run-down East Tremont section, near the Bronx Zoo. The bodies of 61 men and 26 women were pulled from the building.

''It appears that we have approximately 87 confirmed dead at the scene,'' Assistant Fire Commissioner Robert Ungar said. ''The fire has been declared suspicious.''

The fire occurred on the 79th anniversary of the Triangle Shirt Waist factory fire, which killed 145 people in Manhattan and led to major reforms in sweat shop working conditions. The fire was the worst in the city since then.

The one injured person was taken to Bronx Municipal Hospital in critical condition with burns over 50 percent of his body, said Lt. Raymond O'Donnell, a police spokesman.

Mayor David Dinkins, who toured the interior of the building while firefighters pulled bodies out to the street, said an eviction notice had been issued to the club in December or January.

More than 100 firefighters and rescue workers from 22 companies arrived to heavy fire and the street outside was filled with emergency vehicles,

Ungar said. The fire was brought under control at 6 a.m.

Most of the victims in Sunday's fire were trapped among a group of tables near a dance floor on the second floor of the two-story brick building and died of smoke inhalation, Ungar said.

Alfredo Johnson, 41, a courier driver from Boston, described the club, which he was visited two months ago, as having a bar on the first floor and tables, a bar and disco on the second floor. He also said the club apparently changed management about two months ago.

Bodies were still being pulled from the club, which had a yellow ''happy face''on its scorched sign and three exit doors, as the sun rose over the city about 6 a.m.

Bodies lying under pale blue shrouds littered the sidewalk near the club and firefighters and police emergency service workers were putting the victims in black body bags and placing them in a black van to be taken to two makeshift morgues set up nearby.

Ungar said he did not know why so many people were trapped in the building which measured 20 by 50 feet.

''What we have is a lot of people in a relatively small building, the fire marshals are investigating,'' Ungar said.

When asked if the bodies were found piled on top of one another, Ungar said, ''It looks very bad.''

It was unknown whether the social club, which was popular among Latin American immigrants, was fully licensed, Ungar said.

''The buildings department and the fire department are going over licensing records,'' he said.

Ungar also was asked about a report that gasoline cans were found inside the club and would only say the fire had been declared suspicious in origin.

Police at the scene were interviewing people who believed they had friends or family in the club.

BUCHAREST, Romania (MARCH 25) UPI - Arsonists torched the Bucharest office of the Hungarian national airlines Sunday in an attack Budapest radio linked to last week's clashes between Romanians and ethnic Hungarians in Transylvania.

The early morning attack on the Malev Airline office prompted fears that ethnic unrest was spreading outside Transylvania, the westernmost province of Romania, where two days of ethnic violence left about eight people dead and 300 wounded.

The Hungarian ambassador to Romania, Pal Szuts, sent a letter to the Foreign Ministry protesting the incident and demanding an immediate investigation, state-run Budapest radio reported.

The letter called on Romania to take steps to guarantee the security of the Hungarian Embassy, trade mission and other official insitutions as well as their employees, saying Hungary would hold Romania responsible for future attacks.

Budapest radio said the arson was the latest in a series of attacks by Romanian nationalists against the nation's Hungarian minority.

It said the glass doors of the Malev Airline office had been shattered, and separate fires had been started in several rooms. The damage to the building was described as extensive.

The attack came a day after Szuts met with Prime Minister Petre Roman in an attempt to end a diplomatic feud sparked by the ethnic violence in Transylvania.

The meeting followed renewed criticism by the Hungarian government over Bucharest's handling of the unrest, which Budapest described as a ''pogrom'' against Romania's 2 million ethnic Hungarians.

Bucharest sent letters Saturday to the government of the United States, Canada and several European countries as well as the United Nations, defending its actions and urging that foreign governments use their influence to ''end all outside interference in Romania's affairs,'' the official news agency Rompres said.

The letters stress that ''necessary steps had been taken to avoid new confrontations and to re-establish calm.''

On Saturday, about 1,000 Romanian nationalists marched through the troubled city of Tirgu Mures, chanting ''Hungarians leave Transylvania.'' There were no reports of violence.

Tirgu Mures, a city of 150,000, was the scene of deadly clashes between thousands of ethnic Hungarian and Romanian demonstrators who fought with iron bars, clubs, axes and pitch forks.

TOKYO (MARCH 25) UPI - The controversial book ''Japan That Can Say No,'' which set off a furor in Congress because of passages on U.S. trade competitiveness, will be published in America this summer, the author said Sunday.

Shintaro Ishihara, the author of the book and a member of parliament, said he will receive $300,000 in royalties from U.S. publisher Simon and Schuster, believed to be the biggest sum ever paid for a Japanese work published in the United States.

Ishihara said at a news conference the book, a best-seller in Japan since its release in January 1989, will undergo drastic revisions before its U.S. release because of opposition by the co-author, Sony Corp. Chairman Akio Morita.

Ishihara said the U.S. version will delete all of Morita's passages and expand on his own, which have been blamed for much of the controversy.

Ishihara said in the book that Japan could alter the balance of power between the United States and the Soviet Union if it wanted by selling microcircuitry to Moscow.

The U.S. Department of Defense last summer allegedly made an authorized translation which created a furor in Washington's political circles. Portions of the translation were entered into the Congressional Record.

Some congressional critics have branded Ishihara, who ran in last year's election for prime minister, as ''a dangerous ultra-nationalist.''

Ishihara claims the unauthorized translation has blown his criticism of U.S. trade competitiveness out of proportion, necessitating the new translation.

''A proper translation will let the American people see the misunderstandings,'' Ishihara told reporters.

But Ishihara defends the premise of the book that Japan must no longer stand in the shadow of the United States and is justified in demanding a greater say in the U.S.-Japan relationship.

Americans must ''give up foolish pride and racial prejudice'' in order to accept a more assertive Japan, he said.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 25) UPI - Three homeless men died when a fire they set to keep warm spread from a barrel to the wooden shanty in which they lived authorities said.

The three unidentified men were found dead late Saturday after firefighters doused the fire under Interstate 95 in an industrial area of South Philadelphia, Deputy Fire Commissioner Harold Hairston said.

The men had apparently been living in the shanty for some time, Hairston said. Firefighters found a shopping cart, a mattress, cans of food and empty wine bottles in the rubble.

Authorities believe the blaze spread to the shanty from a fire the men had set in a barrel to keep warm. Temperatures dropped into the 30s overnight in Philadelphia.

A fourth man escaped, but suffered burns over about 10 percent of his body and was being treated Sunday at a local hospital.

EAST POINT, GA (MARCH 25) UPI - A man believed responsible for a series of recent rapes left his latest prospective victim unharmed, telling her, ''I'm sorry; I'll go,'' after she pleaded with him to leave her alone because she was ill, police said.

Four incidents, two of which ended in rape, have occurred since mid-February in an eight- to 10-block area of the south Atlanta suburb.

The latest occurred Saturday at 3 a.m. when the suspect entered the home of an 80-year-old woman.

''She told him she was generally sickly,'' said East Point Capt. F.L. Brown. ''He sat down on the bed and had a conversation with her for several minutes. Then he asked if he could go out the rear door instead of the rear window.''

Before leaving, the rapist said, ''I'm sorry; I'll go,'' according to the police report.

Since Feb. 13, the man allegedly has raped two women, ages 52 and 85, and attempted to rape a 20-year-old whose husband chased him out of their residence March 18, Brown said.

In each of the attacks, the unmasked assailant wore gloves, carried a knife and entered the homes through a back door or a rear window. The attacks occurred between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m., Brown said.

In at least two of the attacks, the assailant had easy access to the homes entering once through an open window and once through an unlocked door.

The attacks have occurred in a narrow corridor of a largely middle-class neighborhood with many elderly residents.

Detectives have not determined if the attacker prefers elderly women or if he strikes at random.

TUNIS (MARCH 25) UPI - The Palestine Liberation Organization said Sunday it was stunned and disappointed by a U.S. Senate vote backing the Israeli position that Jerusalem is the capital of Israel.

Hakam Balaoui, who has frequently represented the PLO in talks with the U.S. ambassador to Tunisia, Robert Pelletreau, said in a statement Friday's Senate resolution will make the current peace efforts more difficult. It said the resolution plays into Israel's efforts to derail the peace process.

Balaoui added the resolution links the United States with the Israeli occupation of old Jerusalem. The PLO called the Senate action surprising in light of Washington's recent criticism of new colonies recently established by Israel in Jerusalem as well as in the occupied territories.

Israel captured Arab east Jerusalem in 1967 and later moved its capital from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

ALPINE, TX (MARCH 25) UPI - Republican gubernatorial nominee Clayton Williams compared sitting through cold, drizzly weather on his West Texas ranch to a woman being raped, adding ''if it's inevitable, just relax and enjoy it.''

Williams, who received more than 60 percent of the vote during the GOP primary earlier this month, made the remark Saturday to reporters who had joined him on the ranch for a cattle roundup.

He later said the remark was a ''joke'' and not ''a serious statement.''

Williams' comments drew immediate condemnation from his Democratic opponents, who accused him of being insensitive to victims of rape and other violent crimes.

The millionaire rancher and businessman made the comparison to rape after foul weather delayed the start of the annual spring roundup at his ranch near Alpine in West Texas. He added: ''If it's inevitable, just relax and enjoy it.''

Williams was sitting at a campfire for a chuck wagon breakfast with reporters, campaign aides and ranch hands when he made the remark.

Williams and his wife, Modesta, both said later they thought it was unfair for reporters to quiz the candidate on the rape remark because it was intended as a joke.

''This is not a Republican women's club that we're having,'' he said. ''It's a working cow camp - tough world where you get kicked in the testicles if you're not careful. It's a different world.

''You're here in the cow camp. There's barnyard language, and you came to the barn,'' Williams said.

The campaigns of Attorney General Jim Mattox and Treasurer Ann Richards, who will compete in an April 10 Democratic runoff for the right to oppose Williams in November, both issued statements critical of his comments.

''If Clayton Williams had ever worked with victims of violent crimes, as I have, he would know that his remark is totally unacceptable,'' Mattox said in Austin. ''I am sorry he said it. I hope he doesn't mean it.''

Richards said the ''sad part of it is that level of ignorance - not understanding that rape is a crime of violence.''

''Until we have an intolerance of violence, we will not be able to solve crime problems in Texas,'' she said.

Marilyn Rickman of Austin, head of the Texas Women's Political Caucus, which has endorsed Richards for governor, called the remark ''totally insensitive in every sense.''

Joyce Gersh, head of the Houston chapter of the National Organization of Women, said Williams' remark indicates he knows little about the crime of rape.

But Virginia Steenson, a member of the State Republican Executive Committee, rejected the complaints, saying, ''It's an old joke which we've heard a million times.''

And Beverly Kaufman of Houston, first vice president of the Texas

Federation of Republican Women, said it appeared Williams made the comment in jest.

''I'm sure no offense was intended by it, and I'm not offended by it,'' she said.

Williams, 58, a West Texas businessman who made his fortune in oil, cattle and telecommunications, spent at least $6 million of his own money on television commercials that boosted him from unknown to runaway favorite in a few months in the gubernatorial primary - his first bid for public office.

LONDON (MARCH 25) UPI - Saying it would be the ''right time'' to step down, the head of the Church of England announced Sunday that he will resign next year after spending more than a decade in office.

Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, 68, made the announcement on his 10th anniversary in office and asked for prayers in the naming of his successor. His resignation will take effect Jan. 31, 1991, nine months before his 70th birthday, when he would be required by church rules to step down.

Sources within the Church of England General Synod said Runcie was tired qfter a trying decade in which he confronted a number of sensitive issues, including the ordination of women and the divisions between Catholics and Evangelicals.

Other associates said Runcie was looking foward to spending more time with his wife, Rosalind, and their two children, James and Rebecca.

''I judge the beginning of 1991 to be the right time for me to hand over to the next archbishop of Canterbury,'' Runcie said in a prepared statement. ''I ask for prayers in support of those responsible for making that choice.

''The first half of next year will be a time of fresh initiatives for the church of England and for the churches of the British Isles,'' he said.

Runcie expressed hope that hostage Terry Waite, who served as his special envoy until he was kidnapped in Lebanon in January 1987, would be released before he stepped down, spokeswoman Eve Keatley said.

He also said he hoped his successor would be able to attend the Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Canberra, Australia, next February and the Primates of the Anglican Communion in Belfast, Northern Ireland, next spring.

Runcie's resignation is expected to spark a battle between Anglican traditionalists and liberals to succeed him. The final decision will be made by the prime minister.

Throughout his tenure, Runcie has sought to boost declining membership by trying to present a thoughtful Christian faith that would smooth divisions within the church. Runcie, often called brilliant and tireless, was criticized after distancing the church from the values of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and attacking government social policies.

Runcie became the 102nd archbishop of Canterbury at a time when the Anglican Church was beset by divisive issues. When he became the pastoral leader of an estimated 64 million Anglicans around the world on Feb. 25, 1980 his church also was suffering a declining membership.

Runcie made known at the time of his installation as archbishop he did not intend to become a ''platitude machine'' in speaking his mind about moral or political issues.

He had been bishop of St. Albans, north of London, for 10 years when he succeeded the retiring Archbishop Donald Coggan.

Runcie fondness for travel was helped him in his work beyond the borders of the old British Empire. More than half of the world's Anglicans, including the Protestant Episcopalians in the United States, live beyond the United Kingdom.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reports the Soviet Foreign Ministry has asked foreign diplomats to leave Lithuania- quote- ''in connection with the aggravation of the situation'' in the Baltic republic. The announcement was made Saturday, the day after two American envoys were expelled. Also, Tass says foreign correspondents are being asked to NOT enter the freedom-minded republic.

Tass also says the Foreign Ministry has temporarily suspended the procedure allowing Polish residents to cross into Lithuania without a visa. The ministry said its offices also had temporarily stopped issuing multiple-entry visas for foreigners to enter Lithuania.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Salvadorans, Americans and Europeans joined together Saturday to mark the 10th anniversary of the killing of Archbishop Oscar Romero. Thousands of people marched through downtown San Salvador to pay their respects to the priest who championed the rights of the poor. Romero was gunned down in 1980 as he said mass in San Salvador.

A Peruvian author-turned-politician, Mario Vargas Llosa leads the opinion polls for April 8th's presidential elections. Llosa is the candidate for a center-right coalition. RABAT, Morocco (MARCH 25) UPI - U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar met with King Hassan II of Morocco Sunday in an effort to find a peaceful solution to the 15-year old conflict between Polisario guerrillas and Moroccan forces in the Western Sahara, diplomatic sources said.

Details of the hour-long meeting between the two men were not disclosed, but the conversations took place in an optimistic atmosphere, the sources said.

Perez de Cuellar arrived in Morocco Friday to discuss the war in the Western Sahara, which heated up in October after a year's lull when Polisario guerrillas attacked the Moroccan-built wall that divides the territory.

The U.N. secretary general, who is scheduled to visit Algeria after his two-day stay in Rabat, was accompanied to the talks by Johanns Manz, his special representative in the region.

Morocco contends the Western Sahara, a former Spanish colony, is part of its territory while the Polisario claims it is an independent country.

The Moroccan press was optimistic Sunday about the chances for finding a peaceful solution to the war, with the national opposition newspaper L'isti Lal writing that peace is favored by the ''reduction of tensions between the two superpowers and the creation of the Maghreb Arab Union,'' a regional economic group.

The fighting last October ended a cease-fire established in February 1989 when King Hussein and Polisario guerrilla leaders met for the first time.

The peace process was also helped when Algeria, the guerrillas' main backer, restored diplomatic relations with Morocco in May 1988 and agreed to enter the Maghreb Arab Union.

NEW YORK (MARCH 25) UPI - Belgica Acevedo sobbed quietly as she struggled to phone the family of her boyfriend, feared dead in Sunday morning's disastrous fire that destroyed a packed social club in the Bronx, killing 87 people.

Acevedo stood across the street from a school which officials had turned into a disaster command center, where hundreds of shocked relatives were examining pictures of corpses, trying to identify their loved ones.

Outside, clusters of grieving relatives comforted each other as they waited to enter the school, P.S. 67, at 178th Street and Southern Boulevard, a block away from the charred Happy Land social club.

Acevedo and her sister, Carmen, clutched each other as they described how they dreaded finding out whether Belgica's boyfriend, Orvin Garbutt, 22, perished in the fire.

''He didn't come home last night,'' Carmen said, choking back tears. ''I was supposed to meet him last night and he was going to be (at the club).''

Those who were unable to identify their relatives from the instant photographs taken by authorities were taken by bus to the city's main morgue at Bellevue Hospital in Manhattan, where the bodies had been transported.

Relatives who picked out victims from the photos were put in contact with clergy, who helped them make funeral arrangments.

''It's a pretty slow process,'' said the Rev. A.B. Duncans of the nearby First Glorious Baptist Church, who was consoling the victims outside the school.

''Most of the people inside there are really upset,'' Duncans said. ''People are hysterical. It's terrible. We're trying to do what we can. It's rough. It's just an awful tragedy.''

''We're working with the families one by one, to look at photos to get positive IDs,'' said Ken Curtin, the Red Cross's head of disaster services. ''It's a highly emotional scene. We're also working with them to help with money for funeral and burial arrangments.''

At the scene of the fire, grim-faced city officials who examined the inside of the building said they were horrified by the wreckage of the social club, which had been ordered closed by the city.

Mayor David Dinkins, who was obviously shaken by what he saw, used the tragedy to plead for people to avoid illegal clubs.

''Part of what we need the media to assist us in doing is to spread the tale of these gruesome circumstances so that the general public will know that these are not safe places to go,'' said Dinkins, who arrived at the scene shortly after 6 a.m., about 2 1/2 hours after the fire erupted.

Dinkins added: ''Believe me, if anyone could view and witness (the inside) they would not wish to go. I don't care how good the music, how fine the company, how great the camaraderie. They would not want to be there.''

Norman Steisel, the first deputy mayor, who went inside the club with Dinkins, said, ''It's not a pretty sight to walk in there, as the mayor and I did, and see 87 bodies stacked up.''

Firefighter Frank Curtin, who reached the club a few minutes after the fire broke out, said the horrific site of 60 bodies piled on top of each other on the second floor reminded him of his experience as a soldier in Vietnam.

''It gave me flashbacks of Vietnam,'' Curtin said.

LONDON (MARCH 25) UPI - Britain's ''special relationship'' with the United States is stronger than ever, according to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, who said in an interview published Sunday that she talks even more frequently with President Bush than she did with Ronald Reagan.

In an interview with The Sunday Telegraph, Thatcher dismissed suggestions that her relationship with the American president is weaker than it was when Ronald Reagan was in the White House.

The suggestions arose after Bush took office last year. They have surfaced periodically since then, particularly as observers have perceived differences of opinion over matters such as the European Community.

''The special relationship is very important, and it will always be there '' Thatcher said. ''We have the same language, the same heritage. Straightaway, we can sit down and do business in a spirit of fundamental friendship.''

Calling the U.S.-British relationship ''just there, like the air you breathe,'' Thatcher said she and Bush kept in close touch through a series of visits and frequent telephone calls.

''I think I talk to George on the telephone even more than I talked to Ronald Reagan,'' Thatcher said.

The prime minister made her remarks during a wide-ranging interview held after a politically harrowing week for her and the ruling Conservative Party. The Conservatives suffered a resounding electoral defeat in a Mid-Staffordshire by-election and opinion polls showed further popularity declines nationwide.

An opinion poll published by The Sunday Times showed the Conservatives trailing 23 points behind the opposition Labor Party, now favored by 54 percent of Britons.

The Conservatives garnered support from only 31 percent of those surveyed, while 76 percent voiced dissatisfaction with Thatcher. A survey by another newspaper, The Independent on Sunday, found most Britons believed the Labor Party could form a credible government.

Thatcher denied that she was in trouble and said she was intent on leading her government out of its current crisis caused in part by fierce opposition to a new levy called a poll tax and high interest rates.

On the subject of Germany, Thatcher said she had always supported unification but thought it was important to point out that the Germans were moving ahead too fast and not paying attention to matters such as trade, troops, the Polish border, and the implications for the EC, the newspaper said.

SEATTLE (MARCH 25) UPI - Crew members who survived the capsizing of a 162-foot fishing vessel that left nine missing and presumed drowned in the Bering Sea say an emergency alarm system designed to warn of impending danger never sounded and had been inoperable for months.

Alaska State Trooper Robert Stevenson, who interviewed 21 of the 22 survivors in Dutch Harbor, Alaska, said Saturday that several crew members told him the alarm system had not worked for some time.

The alarm never sounded as the Aleutian Enterprise listed badly, rolled over and sank in five minutes Thursday 60 miles south of the remote Pribiloff Islands, Stevenson said he was told.

Nine crewmen from the Seattle-based trawler were missing following a seven-hour search and presumed drowned.

Applause and cheering greeted survivors as they arrived at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport about 9 p.m. Saturday. About a half dozen survivors were met by more than a dozen crying family members and friends.

One survivor, John Hobbs, 23, who arrived later, said the vessel's alarm system did not go off like it was supposed to.

''Some were on the sleep shift. There was no general alarm, which wasn't working,'' he said.

His mother, Judy Hobbs, and his girlfriend, Nola Johnson, said Hobbs told them he was below decks in the ship's processing area . Hobbs had gotten out and the boat was partly rolled over, said his family, when Hobbs tried to go back below decks to rescue a friend, Matt Schnieider, 22, of Issaquah.

Hobbs heard people screaming apparently trapped by the water, said his family. Hobbs couldn't get into the ship, and Schneider is listed among the missing.

VILNIUS, Lithuania, U.S.S.R. (MARCH 25) UPI - Soviet troops took over two buildings from the independent Communist Party Sunday and handed them over to Moscow-loyal communists in an escalation of tension between the Kremlin and Lithuania's national leadership.

Lithuania's secession-minded leaders, headed by President Vytautas Landsbergis, gathered Sunday for an unscheduled evening meeting.

''I am here for a meeting,'' Landsbergis told reporters and then rushed past them into the building.

Lithuania's Bureau of Information said the soldiers entered the Marxism-Leninism Institute and the Higher Party School along with communists who have remained loyal to Moscow rather than join with the independent communists.

The purpose of the action was not clear beyond denying control of the property to the Independent Communists, who split in December from Moscow.

But Lithuanian Deputy Prime Minister Romualdas Ozales said the action could be a prelude to an attempt by the Soviet army to take over the parliament.

''I fear they will be sent outright to storm this building,'' he said, citing information he said he received from a soldier.

On Saturday, the Baltic Council of independence movements suggested that the three Baltic republics - Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania - work together to end the crisis that began when Lithuania's parliament declared Lithuania independent March 11.

Landsbergis so far has refused to meet President Mikhail Gorbachev's demands to stop formation of self-defense units and hand over deserters from the Soviet army. He told deserters Saturday to seek sanctuary in churches.

The Soviet soldiers who arrived by trucks took over the two buildings shortly before nightfall.

A United Press International reporter watched as troops pulled up in a truck at the Marxism-Leninism Institute and disappear inside. Other journalists witnessed the other action.

The Lithuanian Bureau of Information said Moscow-loyal Communists went inside with the soldiers.

The still-unexplained action came one day after an armored column roared through Vilnius and right past the Parliament while legislators were inside desperately trying to select a government they hope the world will recognize.

''I must regrettably state that the war of nerves and psychological, political pressure against Lithuania continues,'' President Vytautas Landsbergis told the Lithuanian Supreme Soviet.

Lithuanians Sunday crowded churches in the largely Roman Catholic republic and listened to sermons urging calm, patience and faith in the Lithuanian cause.

In the mass at the Basilica of St. Stanislav, the symbol of the city, the priest compared the Lithuanian people to the blind man whose sight was restored by Christ. Lithuania had been blinded, the sermon said, by 50 years of Soviet occupation.

The sermon urged Lithuanians not to be provoked into using force ''by our powerful enemy.''

In Lisbon Saturday, the European Community foreign ministers told the Soviet Union to avoid using force and intimidation in dealing with the recalcitrant republic, which is seeking to regain its pre-World War II independence.

In an interview published Saturday in the Soviet newspaper Argumenti i Fakti, hard-line Politburo member Yegor Ligachev ruled out military intervention of the type that crushed Czechoslovakia's Prague Spring reform movement of 1968.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said late Saturday that foreign diplomats were asked to leave Lithuania and foreign correspondents were requested to temporarily put off trips to Lithuania because of the ''aggravation of the situation.''

Tass said the Foreign Ministry temporarily has suspended both the simplified no-visa crossings into Lithuania for Polish residents and the issuing of multiple-entry visas to foreigners.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry on Friday sent two American diplomats in Lithuania packing, ordering them to return to the U.S. consulate in Leningrad.

Gorbachev has called the Lithuanian parliament's declaration of independence illegal and has ordered the KGB and Interior Ministry to reassert Soviet control and for the army to round up Lithuanian deserters from the Soviet army, whose mounting numbers are said to have reached 1,500.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Maryland state legislators appear to have returned to square one in their attempt to re-structure the state's abortion laws. Yesterday, the House of Delegates refused to O-K a dual piece of Senate-passed legislation that, if approved, would have brought the issue before the state's voters. Pro-choice lawmakers wanted to structure Maryland law to allow abortions if the U-S Supreme Court reverses its Roe versus Wade decision.

(MARCH 25) UPI - New York authorities say more than 80 people have been killed in a fire that swept through a Bronx social club. The fire broke out in the East Tremont section of the Bronx around 4 a-m E-S-T.

Political observers in Australia predict Prime Minister Bob Hawke will retain his post for a record fourth term over National Party candidate Andrew Peacock. Hawke says his Labor Party has won 73 of the 74 seats needed to keep control in Australia's 148-member House of Representatives. Analysts say the election hinges on polling delayed until today in flooded areas in Queensland state.

It appears the sun is setting on British Prime Minister Thatcher. A survey shows 76 percent of Britons polled are dissatisfied with Thatcher's performance after nearly 11 years in office. This growing discontent has affected the popularity of Thatcher's ruling Conservative Party, which now sits 23 percentage points below the main opposition Labor Party. 54 percent of people say Labor could rule Britain.

Hard-line Soviet Politburo member Yegor Ligachev says Moscow will NOT respond to Lithuania's drive for independence the it responded to the Prague Spring liberal movement in Czechoslovakia in 1968. (MARCH 25) UPI - New York officials say at least 87 people died this morning when a fire of ''suspicious'' origin swept through a Bronx social club. The fire occurred in the second-floor Happy Land social club, a night spot popular with Dominican immigrants. Most of the victims died of smoke inhalation after they were trapped near a dance floor. More than 150 firefighters and rescue crews battled the blaze.

It may be one week to 10 days before the outcome of this weekend's vote in Australia is known. Both Prime Minister Bob Hawke and opposition candidate Andrew Peacock are nervously proclaiming victory in the tight race. Political observers say Hawke may win a record fourth term as down under's number one man. But analysts say the narrow race could very well come down to extended balloting in two areas that were flooded yesterday.

BOGOTA, Colombia (MARCH 25) UPI - A former finance and interior minister who supports a hard-line stance against Colombia's powerful drug cartels was formally chosen Sunday as the Liberal Party's candidate for May presidential elections.

The nomination of Cesar Gaviria Trujillo for the May 27 elections came at a party convention delayed one day out of respect for Patriotic Union presidential candidate Bernardo Jaramillo, who was shot and killed Thursday in a Bogota airport by a gunman apparently hired by right-wing extremists.

Gaviria, 43, supports extradition of wanted drug traffickers to the United States and has dismissed the possibility of peace talks with the drug lords.

''We won't be stopped because the terrorists always forget that in adversity, liberalism grows,'' said Gaviria, the political heir to Luis Carlos Galan, the presidential front-runner assassinated Aug. 18 by gunmen believed hired by drug traffickers.

''We won't let this crisis be an alley without exit,'' Gaviria, a former finance and interior minister, said in his acceptance speech before Liberal Party convention delegates. ''They can kill the beautiful flowers in the garden, but they can't stop the spring.''

Gaviria, who has received death threats, took his party's helm in a violent climate launched by right-wing hit squads, powerful drug traffickers and more than 10,000 leftist rebels leading a guerrilla war against the government.

The Liberal Party, currently in office, is the largest party in the country and Gaviria is favored to win the election.

The convention of some 800 delegates was little more than a rubber stamp for Gaviria, who was nominated without opposition after swamping his opponents in the March 11 primary.

The government, meanwhile, has not officially responded to a call from opposition parties to postpone elections because of assassination threats against candidates from death squads.

In the presidential elections, Gaviria will face Social Conservative Rodrigo Lloreda and Carlos Pizarro Leongomez, candidate of the former rebel group the April 19 Movement. President Virgilio Barco is prohibited from seeking a consecutive term.

Jaramillo was buried Sunday in his hometown of Manizales, 120 miles west of Bogota, one day after a demonstration by his mourners in the capital city turned violent.

Thousands of supporters who gathered Saturday at the Central Cemetery in Bogota for a symbolic funeral for Jaramillo shattered store windows and shouted insults at riot police, who fired tear gas cannisters into the crowds. There were no reported injuries.

More than 1,000 members of the Patriotic Union, a coalition of former guerrillas and communist politicians, have been killed in the past five years.

NEW ORLEANS (MARCH 25) UPI - Dennis Scott ended a shooting slump with 40 points Sunday and Georgia Tech outscored Minnesota by 22 points at the foul line for a 93-91 victory in the NCAA Southeast Regional final, sending the Yellow Jackets to their first Final Four.

The seventh-ranked Yellow Jackets, 28-6, won their eighth straight and moved on to Saturday's NCAA semifinal game at Denver. Willie Burton scored 35 points in his final game for Minnesota, which was also seeking its first spot in the Final Four.

Scott, who shot 17-for-54 from the floor over his previous two games, sank seven 3-pointers Sunday. Freshman of the Year Kenny Anderson added 30 points and Brian Oliver 19 as Georgia Tech's big three accounted for all but two baskets.

Georgia Tech held a 27-5 advantage in free throws, yet the outcome remained in doubt until a desperation shot by Minnesota's Kevin Lynch failed at the buzzer.

Oliver's two free throws put the Yellow Jackets ahead to stay 84-83 with 3:50 left and Scott followed with a steal that led to two foul shots. Anderson's 3-pointer opened a 89-84 advantage, but Burton responded with a 3-pointer.

Oliver's floor-length drive down the middle with 58 seconds remaining was nullified by a charging call. Lynch was fouled with 35 seconds left but missed the first free throw attempt, leaving Minnesota behind 89-88.

Oliver and Anderson sank two foul shots apiece to build the lead back to five points before Burton dropped in a 3-pointer with eight seconds remaining.

Anderson missed the front end of a 1-and-1 with six seconds left, but the Golden Gophers hurried downcourt and Lynch threw up an air ball from deep in the right corner as time expired.

Jim Shikenjanski scored a season-high 19 points for the 23-9 Golden Gophers, just two years removed from a second straight ninth-place finish in the Big Ten. Melvin Newbern added 15 points.

Georgia Tech set a school record with its 28th victory and improved its record outside the Atlantic Coast Conference to 17-0.

The Yellow Jackets opened the second half with a 9-2 surge, capped by a Scott 3-pointer for a 56-51 lead. Minnesota then used a 15-5 spurt to open a 66-61 advantage with 13:22 remaining.

Scott and Anderson combined for 39 first-half points, but Burton hit three 3-point shots within four minutes to put Minnesota ahead 42-30. Scott's 3-pointer capped a 17-7 spurt by the Yellow Jackets that sliced Minnesota's advantage to 49-47 at halftime.

Burton, held to 12 points Friday against Syracuse, led the Golden Gophers with 19 points in the opening half. Shikenjanski, who averages nine points per game, hurt the Yellow Jackets inside with 13 points.

Scott, Anderson and Oliver accounted for Georgia Tech's first 30 points and a Karl Brown basket represented the only first-half scoring from outside the big three. Anderson sank seven of his first eight field goal attempts, but Minnesota cut off his penetration as Georgia Tech registered just three first-half assists.

Minnesota, the Big Ten's rebounding leader, crashed the offensive boards and successfully posted up 6-foot-9 center Shikenjanski. Burton and Shikenjanski combined to shoot 70 percent from the floor and Minnesota never trailed in the final 14 minutes of the opening half after Lynch's 3-pointer made it 14-13.

PESHAWAR, Pakistan (MARCH 25) UPI - Gunmen Sunday assassinated a prominent Afghan guerrilla commander who was reportedly involved in opium cultivation and heroin manufacturing, resistance sources said.

The gunmen opened fire on a jeep carrying Mullah Akhundzada near the border city of Peshawar, killing him and five other Afghan guerrillas, the sources said. Another guerrilla in the jeep was critically wounded and an eighth escaped unhurt, the sources said.

Akhundzada, 38, the most powerful guerrilla commander in western Helmand Province, belonged to the Islamic Revolutionary Party, one of the seven main U.S.-backed Afghan guerrilla groups based in Pakistan fighting the pro-Soviet government in Kabul since 1978.

Pakistani news reports have said Akhundzada was also involved in large-scale opium cultivation and heroin manufacturing in Helmand and that his followers had been fighting rival guerrilla groups for control of the drug trade in the area.

Several Afghan guerrilla commanders have been assassinated in the past few years in Afghanistan and the Pakistan border region in fighting between rival resistance groups.

VILNIUS, Lithuania, U.S.S.R. (MARCH 25) UPI - There was a spot reserved for tank gunner Richard Klimas in the column of Soviet armor that rumbled past Lithuania's Parliament Saturday in a flexing of Moscow's military muscle. But Klimas, a Lithuanian, was not there.

''I would have been with them if I hadn't deserted. How could I do that to my own people?'' Klimas, 19, said.

Klimas left his post at the Soviet military base outside Vilnius and went to the Lithuanian Parliament.

There the Sajudis nationalists who now control Lithuania's government called a Red Cross ambulance, and Klimas was bundled off to the State Psychiatric Hospital in the hills overlooking Vilnius' Old City.

''I didn't run away,'' Klimas said. ''A deserter is a coward. I left of my own free will.''

Klimas' father came to visit him Sunday morning at the hospital where 28 Lithuanian young men have been granted refuge in a wing cleared of its mental patients.

In the ward displaying the relief organization's white flag with a red cross in the middle, the young man defended his decision to his father.

''I simply told him that I don't want to scare my own people with tanks,''

Klimas said.

''I think he planned to drag me away. But when he came here and I explained, he changed his mind. He just said to be careful, and left,'' Klimas said.

The Lithuanian Red Cross is working with the Baltic republic's new government to protect the deserters in the hope the army, under the constitutional command of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, will not storm a hospital.

The 28 hospital holdouts are the only young Lithuanians of an estimated 1,500 army deserters whose whereabouts are known. The rest are on the run, riding trains and buses somewhere in the vast Soviet Union, catching nights of furtive sleep at safe houses.

Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis told the deserters Saturday to stay away from their families or close friends whose addresses might be known by Soviet authorities. He suggested they seek sanctuary in churches should any danger threaten.

Lithuania's March 11 independence declaration accelerated the draft resistance movement that has swept the entire Baltic region in the past year.

The army's fall conscription drive in the Baltics was crippled by protests in which demonstrators urged young men not to serve and picketed military centers with signs reading ''Soviet occupiers go home.''

''Nobody has a plan,'' Kestutis Krasauskas said of those who have left the army. ''If everyone could be sure of the actions of the Soviet ''iet

The temporary home for Krasauskas, 21, and his new buddies is a typical Soviet hospital: creaking wooden floors, wiped bare of their varnish, gouged walls with whole strips of gray paint missing, tiny cots barely softened by thin, lumpy roll matresses. But they did not complain about the accommodations.

''This is the Ritz compared to the army,'' one of the deserters called out from his bunk.

A mental patient from another wing occasionally peered around the corner at the young Lithuanians, an expression of amusement and confusion on his face.

Svayunas Noriekis, 19, left his unit in the Estonian capital of Tallinn after serving just three months in the neighboring Baltic republic. He said two fellow Lithuanians on guard duty at the base helped him escape by sneaking him civilian clothes and buying him a bus ticket to Vilnius.

Love for their homeland was not the Lithuanian patriots' only motive in leaving the Soviet army.

Those who served outside Vilnius said only 150 Lithuanians are stationed at the giant base among 3,000 soldiers from Central Asia and other parts of the country. They are a small minority on the base in their own republic where Lithuanians represent 80 percent of the population of 3.6 million.

(MARCH 25) UPI - At least 87 people are dead and one person is seriously injured following a quick-moving fire in a crowded Bronx social club. New York officials term the blaze ''suspicious.'' Mayor David Dinkins toured the two-story building this morning as firefighters pulled bodies out into the street. Dinkins says the city issued an eviction notice to the club in December or January. Ironically, today is the 79th anniversary of New York's worst fire disaster- the Trangle Shirt Waist factory fire, which killed 145 people.

Former President Nixon says in a new book that he's sorry for any damage he caused to the American political system through the Watergate affair. But 77-year-old Nixon asserts he merely abided by the political rules which existed before he took office. A report reveals Nixon also uses his book ''In the Arena'' to accept blame for trying to persuade the C-I-A to de-rail an F-B-I investigation of the break-in.

Anti-Hungarian unrest may have spread to the Romanian capital. Arsonists torched the Bucharest office of Hungary's national airlines today in an attack that Hungarian radio links to last week's battles between ethnic Romanians and Hungarians. Budapest radio reports Hungary's ambassador in Bucharest has notified Romanian officials that they are responsible for the safety of official Hungarian institutions in Romania.

Energy Department experts are studying a dangerous buildup of hydrogen gas in nuclear waste storage tanks at the Hanford Nuclear Reservation near Richland, Washington. D-O-E officials say they doN'T believe there's any reason to fear the large site exploding. But just to play it safe, they say they anticipate coming up with further safety measures for the facility by June.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Fire officials in New York City say a tragic blaze that killed at least 87 people in a rundown Bronx nightclub early this morning appears to be of a suspicious origin. Most of the victims apparently were young Latin American immigrants trapped at tables near a dance floor on the second floor of the Happy Land social club. A police spokesman says thick smoke killed most of the victims. One man in his 30's was in critical condition with burns over 50 percent of his body.

New York Mayor David Dunkins toured the fire scene this morning and said an eviction notice had been issued to the club in December or January. Dinkins says the city is checking its records to determine if the eviction order was still in effect.

Fighting between warring Christian forces eased a bit in Lebanon today after day-long battles left at least three people dead. Police say troops loyal to Christian strongman Michel Aoun traded sporadic rifle, rocket and cannon fire with Samir Geagea's Lebanese Forces militia in the mountains northwest of Beirut. At least five people were wounded. Fighting died down as the head of the Maronite community urged the Christian factions to stop what he called ''the war of extermination.''

Hungarians are voting in the country's first free, multi-party elections in 43 years today. Long lines were reported outside polling places in Budapest as Hungarians choose a new parliament. Election officials hope for a 60 to 70 percent turnout. That's good, but still less that the 99-point-nine percent turnouts under communist dictator Matyas Rakosi, when everyone was required by law to vote.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Seismologists at the Univerisity of California say a major earthquake has rocked Costa Rica. It was NOT immediately known whether the powerful quake- measuring six-point-eight on the Richter Scale- struck a populated area of Central America. Officials at the U-C seismographic station in Berkeley say the tremor hit at five a-m and there have been NO reports of damage or injuries.

Richard Nixon is finally accepting some blame for the Watergate scandal that forced him to resign from the presidency in August, 1974. In excerpts of his newest book, ''In the Arena,'' published in Time magazine, the former chief executive says he made the ''inexcusable error'' of asking the C-I-A to derail a criminal investigation of the Watergate break-in. However, the 77-year-old Nixon still insists he was a ''victim of dirty tricks'' and ultimately blames his political downfall on his enemies.

(MARCH 25) UPI - A fire of suspicious origin has claimed the lives of at least 87 people at an after-hours Bronx social club in New York City. Authorities pulled the bodies of 61 men and 26 women from the Happy Land social club, which was popular with Latin American immigrants. Mayor David Kinkings called he blaze a ''tragedy of immense proportions'' that didN'T have to happen.

Dinkins says the city had issued an order closing the cramped illegal after-hours club in December or January. He says investigators are checking if the order was still in effect.

In Philadelphia, three homeless men died when a fire they set to keep warm spread from a barrel to the wooden shanty in which they lived. Authorities say say the three unidentified men were found dead late yesterday after firefighters doused the fire in an industrial area of South Philadelphia.

There's still NO word on damage or injuries following two major earthquakes that rocked Costa Rica just minutes apart today. The U-S Geological Survey in California says the strongest temblor measured six-point-nine on the open-ended Richter scale... and was felt about 66 miles away in San Jose.

SEATTLE (MARCH 26) UPI - Nordstrom Inc. officials announced Sunday that employees in the company's Tacoma store have filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board asking that the United Food and Commercial Workers Union be decertified as their bargaining agent.

A Nordstrom company statement said the company had been notified of the filing by the board. The filing was the latest salvo in what has become a bitter war of accusation between the union and the fashion retailer.

The statement was accompanied by a copy of an NLRB petition dated March 15 and signed by Pam Egenberger, an employee in the Tacoma store.

Egenberger, reached at the Tacoma store Sunday, said ''about 180'' of the store's union employees signed the decertification petition.

''The feeling among the great majority of employees here is that they are appalled by the way the union is representing them and would like to distance themselves from (the union),'' she said.

''They could maybe find 15 people at this store who support what the union is saying.''

A petition for decertification must contain the signatures of at least 30 percent of a bargaining unit's union employees. Nordstrom's Tacoma Mall store has 310 union employees, the company said.

Nordstrom spokeswoman Kellie Tormey in Seattle said company officials were not given the number of employees who signed the decertification petition.

''We aren't part of it; it's an employee action, and we really don't know how many signed it,'' she said.

The labor relations board, once it has reviewed and validated the petition signatures, can schedule a decertification vote for store employees to determine whether they want to continue being represented by the union.

''It is apparent that many of our employees are unhappy with their union and feel the UFCW has been inaccurately representing their views,'' Joe Demarte, Nordstrom personnel director, said Sunday. ''They have been forced to take matters into their own hands.

''We hope an election date will be set promptly, although we fully anticipate the union will file a string of unfair labor practice charges to delay and block the decertification process.''

Phone calls to the union offices in Seattle and Tacoma were not answered.

UFCW contracts at five Nordstrom stores expired July 31, 1989. The union, led by Joe Peterson, present of Seattle Local 1001, has accused the company of union-busting because of compoany demands that employees be given a chance to vote on whether they want to remain in the bargaining unit.

The state Department of Labor and Industries in February supported a union claim that Nordstrom had engaged in unfair pay practices by failing to pay employees for non-sales work such as writing thank-you notes and delivering purchases to customers.

The company established a $15 million fund to pay for any claims filed by employees. Peterson has said the amount of back pay owed employees in Washington, Oregon and California could reach $300 million, a figure the company claims is absurd.

The union last week made a new accusation: that the company ordered employees to wear Nordstrom clothing in sales areas and then returned the garments to the racks for sale to customers. Nordstrom has vehemently denied the charges.

Employee groups within the company, angered by what they say are union misrepresentations, have demonstrated on behalf of Nordstrom and have begun petition campaigns to decertify the union. The filing by the Tacoma bargaining group is the first to reach the National Labor Relations Board.

Demarte contended accusations that Nordstrom is anti-union are ''simply untrue.''

OAKLAND, Calif. (MARCH 25) UPI - Nevada-Las Vegas, sympathetic to the tragedy gripping Loyola Marymount, tended to business Sunday.

Stacey Augmon scored 25 of his 33 points in the first half, powering the Rebels to a 131-101 rout of Loyola Marymount that ended the Lions' emotional NCAA Tournament journey for fallen star Hank Gathers.

''Any time you go to the Final Four is sweet,'' said UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian.''I told the kids the greatest sporting event, in my opinion, is the Final Four.''

The 33-5 Rebels, the lone top seed to advance to Denver, play Georgia Tech Saturday. Duke meets Arkansas in the other semifinal. The winners play Monday in the tournament championship game.

UNLV, trounced by Seton Hall in the 1989 West Regional final, last reached the Final Four three seasons ago.

Loyola Marymount, an 11th seed adopted by much of the nation since the Gathers tragedy March 4, finished 26-6. Gathers, the Lions' leader who averaged 29 points and 10.8 rebounds, collapsed during a West Coast Conference tournament game and died hours later.

''When I made the decision to play in the tournament, it was not a matter of winning or losing,'' said Loyola Marymount Coach Paul Westhead. ''I told the team to go out, put their best effort forward and play hard. That's what they did and I'm proud of them.''

Anderson Hunt added 30 points for UNLV. Bo Kimble had 26 of his 42 points for Loyola Marymount in the second half. Kimble, Gathers' closest friend and the country's leading scorer, left to a thunderous standing ovation with 63 seconds to go.

''I think they were just happy that I played hard,'' said Kimble, a senior. ''They were showing their support. Going out with class is what it's all about.''

The Rebels shot 62 percent in the first half and used three blitzes for a 67-47 halftime lead. The closest Loyola Marymount got in the second half was 13 points on three occasions.

''Stacey Augmon is an All-America in ever way,'' guard Greg Anthony said. ''It has been great playing with him all year, but he was just super today. He carried us.''

Augmon downplayed his performance.

''I play all right,'' he said. ''I could've had a bad game. If we lost, I'd still be happy.''

Hunt had five points in a 12-0 UNLV spree that pushed the Rebels ahead 16-4 just 2:04 into the game. A pair of three-pointers by Terrell Lowery moved the Lions within 22-15 with 14:47 left, but Greg Anthony had five points and Augmon four in a 13-2 run that opened UNLV's advantage to 35-17 with 10 minutes remaining.

Kimble had five points - one coming on a left-handed free throw in memory of Gathers - when Loyola closed to 43-39 with a 14-4 burst. The Rebels ignored a vociferous pro-Lions crowd at the Oakland Coliseum Arena, storming to a 65-44 lead when Augmon scored seven points and Anthony six in an 22-5 blitz.

''We just got into the huddle with the starters and said we couldn't be rattled,'' Hunt said. ''We knew the crowd would be behind Loyola.''

Kimble hit two 3-pointers as the Lions pulled within 69-53 in the second half's opening minute. Another by Kimble cut Loyola Marymount's deficit to 81-68 with 14:46 to go.

UNLV put the game away with a 14-0 roll that ended when Hunt's fastbreak dunk made it 108-74 with 9:05 left.

UNLV reached the regional final with triumphs over Arkansas-Little Rock, Ohio State and Ball State. The Lions, who lost to the Rebels 102-91 in the preseason NIT, advanced by beating New Mexico State, defending champion Michigan and Alabama.

(MARCH 25) UPI - It's the most deadly fire in New York City in 79 years. (MARCH 25) UPI - Soviet troops take over two buildings in Lithuania... Estonian communists vote to split from Moscow... A deadly night club fire kills 87 in New York... And two earthquakes cause considerable damage in Costa Rica... These top stories and more, next, from U-P-I.

Soviet troops shortly before nightfall took control of two school buildings being used by Lithuania's independent Communist Party in Vilnius.

The troops handed the buildings over to the minority of Lithuanian communists who remain loyal to Moscow.

Lithuania's new independence leaders immediately gathered for an unscheduled meeting. President Vytautas Landsbergis rushed past reporters into the meeting.

The purpose of the troops taking over the buildings is NOT clear beyond denying control of the property to the Independent Communists... who split in December from Moscow.

But Lithuania's deputy prime minister says the action could be a prelude to an attempt by the Red Army to take over the parliament. He says information from a soldier leads him to believe Soviet troops could storm parliament.

In Rome today, Pope John Paul urged people to pray for a peaceful solution to the crisis in predominently-Catholic Lithuania. At mass, priests in Lithuania urged people NOT to be provoked into violence by what one priest called ''our powerful enemy.''

Estonia's Communist Party is following the example of Lithuania's communists, but with some differences.

The Soviet news agency Tass says the Estonian party voted to split from Moscow and declare itself independent, as Lithuanian communists did in December.

But the Estonian Party Congress voted to make its break gradually, with a transition period that will end in October. At the end of that period, another party congress will decide the issue.

Lithuania's communists made their break immediate, but it did them little good. They were soundly defeated in parliamentary elections that led to Lithuania's declaration of independence from the Soviet Union.

That's another area where Estonia and Lithuania differ. The head of Estonia's communists says his country wants to reach independence through negotiation with Moscow, NOT through unilateral declaration.

(MARCH 25) UPI - New York Mayor David Dinkins calls it a ''tragedy of immense proportions.''

At least 87 people were killed early today when a fire of suspicious origin swept through a crowded after-hours social club in the Bronx. More than half the victims were under the age of 25. Officials say most of the victims died of smoke inhalation.

The blaze spread quickly through the two-story Happy Land social club, and fire officials say that raises suspicions of arson. The cause of the fire is being investigated.

Mayor Dinkins says the city had ordered the cramped club which was popular with Hispanic immigrants closed in December or January. City officials say they're checking to see if the order was still in effect or if the club had made needed changes.

The fire is the city's deadliest in 79 years, and came on the anniversary of the 1911 Triangle Shirt Waist factory fire, which killed 145 people in Manhattan.

Authorities in Costa Rica say at least three people were injured this morning when two strong earthquakes rocked the Central American country.

The quakes hit just minutes apart damaging churches, hotels, the National Library and one of the country's biggest hospitals. The U-S Geological Survey says the first jolt measured five-point-five on the Richter scale, and the second six-point-nine.

The quakes were felt across Costa Rica and in parts of Panama, and damaged buildings in the capital of San Jose. Electricity was knocked out in San Jose for 45 minutes. The quakes also forced evacuation of hotel guests in the capital.

The country's vice president led a team from the National Emergency Commission to a town about 80 miles northwest of San Jose. The town is 11 miles from where Costa Rican officials say the quakes were centered.

The three injured people were hit by falling plaster and concrete. NONE of the injuries were serious, and NO deaths were reported.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Former President Richard Nixon says it was an ''inexcusable error'' on his part to ask the C-I-A to derail an F-B-I criminal investigation of the Watergate break-in nearly 18 years ago.

The 77-year-old former president says in excerpts of his new memoirs that he asked the C-I-A to intervene in the investigation because of ''bad advice'' from his staff.

But Nixon says then-C-I-A director Richard Helms and his deputy, Vernon Walters, refused his request.

Nixon still argues he was the ''victim of dirty tricks'' and blames his downfall largely on ''a political vendetta by my enemies'' in his book, ''In the Arena.''

Nixon says that while he was NOT involved in the decision to break into the Democratic National Committee offices at the Watergate... he should have set a higher ''moral tone'' in his administration which would have made such antics ''unthinkable.'' Nixon resigned in August 1974.

The new leader of the Democratic Party's moderate caucus has some advice for his party.

Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton... the head of the Democratic Leadership Council... says Democrat are so in need of direction... perhaps they ought to forget about beating George Bush in 1992 and instead concentrate on defining themselves.

After a three-day party conference of moderates and conservatives in New Orleans... Clinton says the Democrats have to work on what they stand for. In his words... ''People doN'T know what a Democrat is.''

Clinton disputes arguments of the party's liberals that moving further to the right will make the Democrats thinly-disguised Republicans.

Clinton argues that in a rapidly changing world where Communism is crumbling and decades-old beliefs are changing... the issues that have defined the parties are changing and Democrats and Republicans will look somewhat alike as both sides look for a new message.

Virginia Senator Charles Robb agrees that the need for a fresh message is the top Democratic priority. But he says he thinks that Democrats can find their message and take back the White House in 1992 at the same time.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Voter turnout is unexpectedly high today in Hungary's first free, multi-party elections in more than 40 years.

A neck-and-neck race has developed between the two leading anti-communist parties.

Hungarians got their first taste of democracy in four decades last November when the reform communist government put the issue of a parliamentary election to a referendum vote.

A complicated voting process means voters will have to wait until late tonight or tomorrow to find out who won. Many seats may be decided in run-offs on April 8th.

But it looks like two opposition parties will poll better than the communists in today's parliamentary elections. The liberal Free Democrats are leaving the door open to a coalition with the more conservative Hungarian Democratic Forum.But Forum leaders rule out that possibility.

Despite today's high voter turnout, election officials doN'T expect the turnout to be as high as it was in the 1950's, when all citizens were ordered to vote for the communists. Turnout in those days was 99-point-nine percent.

Serbia sent 25-hundred police to the southern province today to try to prevent further violence. Serbian police have already started replacing many Albanian police officers who allegedly did NOT defend Serbs from attacks by Albanians.

Officials say Serbian police officers have been placed throughout Kosovo province to supervise work by local, mostly ethnic Albanian police.

Yugoslavia yesterday sent troops and tanks to patrol Kosovo following two days of clashes. Those clashes began Thursday when rumors spread that Serbs had made hundreds of Albanian school children sick by poisoning them.

(MARCH 25) UPI - New York police say today's early morning fire that killed 87 people at a Bronx social club was arson, which qualifies it as the worst mass murder in U-S history. Police have arrested 36-year-old Julio Gonzalez and plan to charge him with arson and murder. They say he set the fire after arguing with a female employee at the club. Most of the victims were under 25. Many were Honduran immigrants.

The president of Lithuania met with two Soviet army colonels and a major tonight as Soviet President Gorbachev turned up the heat on the independent-minded republic. A Soviet defense official arrived at the site where Soviet troops took back two school buildings for the communists loyal to Moscow. The official says he was sent on direct orders from Gorbachev.

The Soviet news agency Tass says there's been a resurgence of violence along the border between Armenia and Azerbaijan . Armenian nationalists reportedly killed nine Azerbaijanis yesterday, including a family of five that was burned alive in their home. Tass also says an explosion rocked a passenger train in Armenia that was bound for Baku, the capital of Azerbaijan.

Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton says he thinks Democrats should forget about trying to defeat George Bush in 1992 and focus instead on what the party stands for. He says Democrats need to adopt a consistent, mainstream message and move past internal bickering... or they could end up a permanent opposition party. Clinton's comments came today at the end of the Democratic Leadership Council's three-day conference in New Orleans.

(MARCH 25) UPI - Two earthquakes hit just minutes apart in Costa Rica today, injuring three people and damaging buildings. The U-S Geological Survey says the first quake measured five-point-five on the Richter scale, and the second six-point-nine. Authorities say the quakes, which were felt across the Central American country, were followed by about 150 aftershocks. Power was cut off in the capital of San Jose for 45 minutes. NO deaths were reported.

In Lebanon, rival Christian forces fought fierce battles today northeast of Beirut, depite a fragile cease-fire that was negotiated March 2nd. Sources say troops loyal to Christian General Michel Aoun fought against rival militiamen of Samir Geagea's Lebanese Forces. At least three civilians were killed. The two sides have been fighting since the end of January for control of the Christian sector in and around East Beirut.

The Justice Department says space in local jails increased by 44 percent between 1983 and 1989, but the inmate population grew by 54 percent during the same period. That adds up to a net loss of prison space per inmate of about six percent. The Department says the number of corrections officers hired from 1983 to 1989 increased by 65 percent. That means the ratio of inmates to correction officers dropped from five-to-one to four-point-six-to-one.

(MARCH 25) UPI - A suspect arrested in the predawn arson fire in New York that claimed at least 87 lives...

Tensions continue to rise in Lithuania...

And Hungarians go to the polls in the nation's first free elections in 43 years...

These stories... and more... next, from United Press International:

New York police have arrested a man they say set fire to an illegal nightclub early this morning... killing at least 87 people.

Authorities say Julio Gonzalez, an unemployed Cuban immigrant, was thrown out of the Happy Land social club in the Bronx after he had a fight with his ex-girlfriend... who was checking coats at the club.

A police investigator who spoke on the condition of anonymity says Gonzalez came back and set the club on fire... leading to the worst mass murder in U-S history.

Officials call the club an overcrowded ''firetrap.'' Flames consumed the first floor of the building, killing 19 people and sending smoke up to the second floor... where 68 more died. There were NO windows or exits on the second floor.

Gonzalez's ex-girlfriend was one of the few people police say escaped the blaze.

Most of the victims were under the age of 25. The club in the run-down East Tremont section was popular with Honduran and Dominican immigrants. Many of the victims were related.

Police expect to charge Gonzalez with arson and murder.

(MARCH 25) UPI - The president of Lithuania met tonight with representatives of Soviet ground forces after Soviet troops marched in and took over two Lithuanian school buildings.

The buildings belonged to the Lithuanian Communist Party, which broke from the Soviet Communist Party. The new independent communist party has kept control of the buildings. But the troops today gave control of the buildings to a small group of Lithuanian communists who remain loyal to Moscow.

A Soviet defense official who arrived at the scene said he was acting on direct orders from Soviet President Gorbachev . The official dismissed rumors that the Soviets were preparing to use force to stop Lithuania from finishing its break-away from Moscow.

The takeover prompted an unscheduled meeting of Lithuania's independent-minded parliament. President Vytautas Landsbergis received the Soviet army officers in the parliament's presidium.

Following the meeting, Landsbergis told a news conference in Vilnius, where it's early Monday, that he doubted the Soviet army would intervene militarily to halt the republic's drive to regain its pre-World War Two independence.

And one of the Soviet officers told reporters as he left the Parliament building- quote- ''We won't occupy any more buildings.''

One official of the Lithuanian Sajudis independent movement says he talked to troops who had taken over the buildings. He says one soldier broke into tears because he did NOT understand why Moscow was intimidating the Lithuanians.

Early computer results show the Free Democrats slightly ahead of the Forum in Budapest and several western counties.

Prime Minister Miklos Nemeth, a reform communist, won re-election to Parliament running as an independent.

More than 16-hundred candidates are running for 185 of the 386 parliament seats. The rest are being filled by party lists or proportional representation.

Final results are NOT expected until tomorrow, but many of the seats will NOT be decided until runoffs on April 8th.

In Washington, the White House says the United States welcomes the election ''as another sign of the emerging democracies in eastern Europe.'' Today's voting is expected to end the communists' hold on power in Hungary.

Moscow faces new problems in the Caucasus, where violence has again flared along the border between the Soviet republics of Armenia and Azerbaijan.

The Soviet news agency Tass says Armenian nationalists killed nine Azerbaijanis in attacks yesterday in Azerbaijani villages along the border. In one of the villages, eight houses were set on fire, and a family of five were burned alive in their home.

In Armenia, Tass says an explosion yesterday rocked a passenger train that was leaving for Baku, the capital of Azerbaijan. The blast derailed the locomotive and two cars, and Tass says Armenian militants opened fire on repairmen who were sent to the scene.

The new violence is the worst since martial law was imposed in January. That ended open fighting between Christian Armenians and Moslem Azerbaijanis over the disputed enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh .

(MARCH 25) UPI - A New York University researcher says part of the reason so many Americans are coming down with melanoma skin cancer is that the ozone layer which filters the sun's harmful rays has decreased three to seven percent.

Dr. Darell Rigel told an American Cancer Society seminar in Daytona Beach, Florida, today that melanoma has gone from being a rare disease to the ninth most common form of cancer in the country.

A study by Rigel's research group found six primary risk factors for melanoma... including light hair, freckling, a family history of the disease and the presence of red, rough skin marks from sun exposure.

Two others factors that predispose people to melanoma are blistering sunburns and outdoor jobs during teenage years.

Rigel says early diagnoses means a 98-percent survival rate. Once the tumor has grown, the survival rate drops to 53 percent.

A sophisticated new ground surface radar may have cracked an eight-year-old murder case in Towson, Maryland.

The state medical examiner's office today began examining human remains found in a grave in the Gunpowder Falls State Park, north of Baltimore.

The remains are believed to be those of Jamie Griffin, a high school student who was 17 years old when he disappeared in April of 1982.

Baltimore County police discovered the remains yesterday in a watershed area of the park, using equipment that discovers irregularities in soil.

Police were led to the area in the park nearly eight years ago by a source who said a friend of Griffin, Michael Whittlesey, killed the gifted pianist. Whittlesey was convicted in 1984 for robbing Griffin. But he was never charged with murder because the body was never recovered. He is serving a 25-year prison term.

Police say the autopsy information will be turned over to the state's attorney and possibly a grand jury.

The detecting equipment was lent to the victim's family by private firms after the Griffins read about it.

SEAL BEACH, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - The U.S. Air Force launched the seventh of the new Navstar production satellites for its Global Positioning System (GPS) March 25.

Built by Rockwell International, this Block II GP satellite joins an active constellation of six early Block I Navstars and six of the newer spacecraft.

The GPS Navstars provide navigational information through radio signals sent to receivers installed in aircraft, ships, ground vehicles and manpacks.

These signals provide data 10 times more accurate than any other radio system in existence. Although built for the military, the system has many civilian uses including land surveying, off-shore oil exploration and guidance for ships and aircraft.

''In just a few years the GPS will be able to provide worldwide navigation with its 21-satellite constellation,'' said Richard E. Derr, president of Rockwell International's Satellite and Space Electronics Division. ''Both military personnel and civilians will be able to access the GPS to obtain extremely accurate navigation information.''

Rockwell's Satellite and Space Electonics Division is located in Seal Beach and produces navigation satellites, space surveillance systems and electro-optic sensors.

Rockwell International is a $12 billion, multi-industry company applying advanced technology to a wide range of products in its aerospace, electronics, automotive and graphics businesses.

KANSAS CITY, MO (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Kansas City Southern Industries Inc. and its Martec Pharmaceutical subsidiary, based in Kansas City, jointly announced Monday the sale by KCSI of a 51 percent controlling interest in Martec to ratiopharm GmbH, a leading European pharmaceutical company, located in Germany.

The transaction closed on March 22.

In making the announcement, KCSI noted that this transaction represented the divestiture of the largest component of its pharmaceutical business, consistent with its earlier fourth quarter announcement in January regarding the planned restructuring of its pharmaceutical operations.

The sale price was not disclosed but the company did indicate that it was in line with its earlier expectations. The sale will have no impact on first quarter 1990 earnings.

In making the announcement, Landon H. Rowland, president and chief executive officer of KCSI, stated that he was pleased with the new arrangement with ratiopharm GmbH. Under terms of the sale agreement, KCSI will retain 49 percent passive interest in Martec and will have no further involvement in the operational management or financial support of the company.

John Wilcox, a veteran pharmaceutical industry executive for over 35 years who has been associated with Martec Pharmaceutical in Kansas City, has been retained and elected president of Martec. Wilcox said, ''ratiopharm's investment in Martec, a young and developing pharmaceutical company, represents ratiopharm's initial entree into the U.S. pharmaceutical market.''

NEWPORT BEACH, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Ray E. Wirta, 46, has been named president and chief operating officer of The Koll Company, the largest real estate development firm with headquarters on the West Coast, according to Donald M. Koll, chairman and chief executive officer.

In this position, Wirta will focus on overall day-to-day management of the real estate development, acquisition, management and construction company, Koll said.

''My involvement in the company's activities will remain as strong as ever but the realignment will give me more opportunity to concentrate on broader issues,'' Koll stated.

The Koll Company has functioned without a president and chief operating officer, with all divisional presidents reporting directly to Koll, who was supported by several corporate group presidents.

Wirta had been president of the Management Services Group, with reponsibilities for managing the company's $4 billion property portfolio, for acquisitions to that portfolio and for the company's adminstrative activities.

Wirta joined The Koll Company in 1982 as corporate senior vice president in charge of asset management. He was promoted to executive vice president in 1984 and to the group presidency in 1988.

Prior to joining The Koll Company, Wirta was senior vice president of World Savings and Loan in San Francisco, president of Bank of America's Premises Corp. which administered all real estate for the bank, and was in commercial real estate with The Irvine Company.

During Wirta's eight years with The Koll Company, the firm's owned and managed property portfolio more than tripled from 10 million square feet to 35 million square feet.

Koll also stated that he projects fiscal 1990 to be a record year for the firm he founded in 1962.

With headquarters in Newport Beach, Calif., the firm has offices in Seattle; Portland, Ore.; San Franscisco; Pleasanton, Calif.; San Jose, Calif.; Sacramento, Calif.; Los Angeles; Ontario, Calif.; San Diego; Phoenix and Dallas.

Wirta lives in Newport Beach, Calif., with his wife, Sandy.

COSTA MESA, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Archive Corp. (NASDAQ:ACHV), Monday announced that Summit Partners of Newport Beach, Calif. committed to purchase $7.5 million newly issued Archive convertible subordinated debentures.

The debentures are convertible into Archive common stock at $12.50 per share.

The commitment between Archive and Summit provides that the debentures will be subordinated to all other senior financial institutional indebtedness, including the secured credit facilities provided by Barclays Bank in connection with Archive's pending merger of Cipher Data Products Inc. into Archive's wholly owned subsidiary, CAC Corp.

The debentures will bear interest at 8.875 percent per annum and will be redeemed, if not previously converted, between June 1996 and June 1998. Other redemption and conversion rights and obligations apply and the common stock, upon conversion, is subject to registration rights.

''Archive is extremely pleased to be associated with Summit Partners in this transaction,'' said B.J. Rone, senior vice president and chief financial officer. ''Summit is one of the largest venture capital partnerships in the country managing $400 million. They have a reputation for investing in winners.''

According to Rone, the funds will help the company to pay down a part of the Barclays Bank financing and the completion is still subject to various conditions, including completion of the Cipher merger, preparation of definitive documentation, Summit's due diligence and Barclays Bank approval.

Founded in 1980, Archive today is a leading manufacturer and supplier of data backup products to original equipment manufacturers and resellers.

Archive and Maynard Electronics, an Archive company, offer a complete selection of tape drives and subsystems for economical computer data backup for fixed-disk drives in workstations, multi-user systems and personal computers.

CITY OF INDUSTRY, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Ingram Paper Co., one of the Southland's largest closely-held major paper distributors operating in the Los Angeles area for over 65 years, will break ground Monday, March 26 in the City of Industry on a new $15 million corporate headquarters and main distribution center, announces John M. Ingram, a company principal and owner.

Ingram reports that Oltmans Construction Co. of Whittier is general contractor for the build-to-suit, 350,000 square foot ''new generation'' facility on 13.4 acres of land at 17411 Valley Blvd., at the intersection of Valley Blvd. and Azusa Ave.

''The new City of Industry headquarters will accommodate our company's expansion and allow us to take advantage of modern warehousing technology '' said Ingram.

''It will feature the next generation of automated material handling equipment enhanced by a 'super flat floor' that will allow us to stack product higher than with conventional warehouse buildings,'' Ingram said. He added that approximately 220 people are expected to be employed in Industry, most of whom will relocate from Commerce.

Ingram Paper Co., with sales in excess of $100 million, is a wholesale distributor of printing and miscellaneous paper products serving printers and industry.

Designed by McLean & Schultz of Fullerton, the new Ingram headquarters is a concrete tilt-up facility on two levels and includes some 40,000 square feet of office space.

Other key building features are dock high loading, 36-foot interior clearance, generous landscaping around the entire building perimeter, and parking for approximately 350 cars.

Occupancy of the new Ingram headquarters, which nearly triples its present capacity, is scheduled for the first quarter of 1991.

SALT LAKE CITY (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Questar Corp. (NYSE:STR) Monday announced the sale of Interstate Brick Co., an affiliate that engages in brick-manufacturing operations.

Pacific Coast Building Products Inc., of California purchased a portion of Interstate Brick's plant and equipment. PacBric Inc., acquired the brick company's remaining assets by purchasing all Interstate Brick common stock.

The sale price was not disclosed, but Questar officials said it was slightly more than Interstate Brick's book value.

Interstate Brick was owned by Questar subsidiary Entrada Industries since 1971. Located in West Jordan, Utah, the Interstate Brick plant is the largest brick-making facility between Denver and Los Angeles and had approximately 138 permanent full-time employees. In 1989, Interstate Brick sold 67.7 million brick equivalents, consisting of a variety of brick products.

Questar officials said the sale was in line with the company's goal of focusing on its primary, energy-related business lines: oil and gas exploration and production, interstate natural gas transmission and retail gas distribution.

PHOENIX (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - This week Best Western International will videotape two television commercials in the Soviet Union with celebrity spokesperson Yakov Smirnoff.

The comedian traveled to his native country to tape a special for the cable channel SHOWTIME. While in Moscow, Best Western Advertising will tape two commercials featuring Smirnoff in Red Square.

One script has him scouting for new hotels for Best Western, while in the other he discovers ''Yakov Loves America'' graffiti he apparently left behind when he and his parents gained exit visas in 1978. He became a U.S. citizen on July 4, 1986.

This is the second year Smirnoff has been the advertising celebrity for Best Western. The $11 million 1990 advertising plan includes cable television, network radio and print.

Best Western will open its first Eastern Bloc property when the Hotel Korona is completed in Budapest, Hungary, this June. The world's largest lodging chain has more than 3,300 independently owned and operated hotels in 38 countries and anticipates adding properties in the Soviet Union by 1995.

SANTA CLARA, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Applied Materials Inc. Monday announced that Siltec Silicon, a manufacturer of polished and epitaxial silicon wafers, has purchased multiple Precision 7700 Epi systems for its epitaxial fabrication facility in Salem, Ore.

The 7700s were chosen for capacity expansion following extensive evaluation and testing. Siltec's decision was influenced by the highly successful full-production operation of their original AMC-7820 systems, purchased in 1988.

''Our decision to buy the Precision 7700 Epi systems is based on the demonstrated performance shown by our original systems in high-quality, high-volume epi applications, as well as the excellent service and support we have received from Applied Materials,'' said Dennis West, vice president of Marketing and Sales at Siltec.

Addition of the new epi systems will increase Siltec's epi production capacity by 40 to 50 percent, according to West. Shipments of the systems are scheduled to begin in Marck, and continue through the next several months.

The Precision 7700 Epi system, introduced in May 1989, utilizes the latest generation of Applied Materials' industry-standard radiant heating technology, in addition to fully automated wafer handling and exceptional particulate control for product cleanliness.

Siltec's epitaxial production facility entered service in the spring of 1989, adjacent to the company's polished wafer facility in Salem. ''More and more customers are asking wafer suppliers to provide epitaxial wafers in addition to their own products,'' said West. ''Our success in this market requires the most cost-effective capital manufacturing equipment, and the 7700 has demonstrated its advantage in this area.''

Applied Materials Inc., a global growth company based in Santa Clara, is the leading independent supplier of wafer fabrication systems to the worldwide semiconductor industry. It is a worldwide market leader in chemical vapor deposition (CVD), dry plasma etching and silicon deposition and is rapidly increasing market share in ion implantation, its fourth product technology.

BOULDER, COL (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Daisy Systems Corp. (OTC:DAZX) Monday announced that its principal secured lender, Heller Financial Inc., has guaranteed up to $4.5 million of DAZIX' purchases of workstations manufactured by Sun Microsystems Inc., the company's major supplier.

Gary J. Sbona, the company's chief executive officer, stated that the guarantee allows Daisy to acquire Sun's workstations on favorable payment terms rather than C.O.D., which had been the case for many months.

According to Sbona, Daisy can now purchase sufficient hardware to fulfill the increasing backlog of orders, thereby generating cash and enabling the company to continue operations and implement its restructuring program.

DAZIX, the operating company subsidiary of Daisy Systems Corp., designs, manufactures, markets and supports CAE, computer-aided design (CAD), and computer-aided manufacturing (CAM) systems used to automate the electronic design engineering process.

The company's products are used to design, simulate, and layout application-specific integrated circuits (ASICs), very large-scale integrated circuits (VLSIs), and printed circuit boards (PCBs). The company has a worldwide customer base covering a wide range of industries,

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - PacTel Corp. announced Monday that it has decided to reallocate capital from its real estate subsidiary, PacTel Properties, back to its core business in order to take advantage of business opportunities in international telecommunications.

In recent months PacTel's international subsidiary has won national cellular telephone licenses in Germany and the United Kingdom which have placed increased capital demands on the corporation.

PacTel Properties will continue to maintain and improve its current $475 million portfolio of properties and will develop projects that have already received approval. However, because of this new direction, PacTel Properties will not look at any new developments or property acquisitions at this time, and gradually will reduce its holdings over the next several years.

PacTel Properties was founded in 1984 to acquire prime commercial real estate throughout California. It currently employs 60 staff members in the San Francisco Bay Area and in Southern California, sites of its real estate holdings.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY, CA (MARCH 27) BUSINESS WIRE - National Lumber & Supply Inc. (NASDAQ:NTLB) reported that an informal creditors' committee was formed at a meeting of suppliers held by the company Monday in Los Angeles.

As the company reported on March 16, National Lumber called the supplier meeting to work cooperatively in restructuring debt.

At the meeting attended by approximately 200 people, National Lumber officials and counsel reviewed the company's operating status and proposed an informal moratorium on repayment of vendor claims, with C.O.D. payment upon receipt of merchandise shipments.

Suppliers at the meeting also were informed that the company has been considering a number of strategic financial plans, such as:

- Renegotiating major credit arrangements, including increasing credit facilities available to National Lumber through its principal secured lender, Fidelcor Business Credit Corp

- Filing for Chapter 11 protection under the Federal Bankruptcy Code

- Closing stores and consolidating inventory, with a resultant lowering of general and administrative expenses

- Subletting or assigning certain valuable store leases

- The possible sale of some or all of the company's assets

National Lumber noted that negotiations with potential investors have not resulted to date in a viable offer.

The company stated at the meeting that inventory levels have been reduced through routine seasonal adjustments and halted vendor shipments. A key purpose of the meeting was to reopen shipments on a C.O.D. basis. National Lumber is planning to increase cash flow through a company-wide sales campaign in the next few days.

In addition, suppliers were told that the company expects to report a reduction in net worth and a significant loss for the fourth quarter and fiscal year ended Jan. 31.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 27) BUSINESS WIRE - Carolco Pictures Inc. (NYSE:CRC) Monday announced that it had received the consent of the holders of a majority in principal amount of its 14 percent Senior Notes due 1993 to certain amendments to the Indenture pursuant to which the Senior Notes were issued.

The Consent Solicitation expired on March 22, and the results were announced by Carolco as follows: Holders of $36,611,000 in principal amount of the Senior Notes (representing approximately 70 percent of the $52,500,000 aggregate principal amount of the Senior Notes outstanding) consented to the amendments to the Indenture and holders of $2,983,000 in principal amount of the Senior Notes (representing approximately 6 percent of the aggregate amount outstanding) did not consent to the amendments to the Indenture.

The Indenture will now be amended pursuant to the Consent Solicitation (i) to grant to Carolco the ability to incur liens in excess of $75 million provided that Carolco's consolidated cash flow coverage ratio meets certain requirements and (ii) to increase the amount of Senior Notes to be issued under the Indenture from an aggregate principal amount of $52,500,000 to an aggregate principal amount of $82,500,000.

The amendments to the Indenture will enhance the ability of Carolco to finance its activities, including scheduled production and distribution of theatrically filmed product, and to consummate its Exchange Offer for all of the outstanding depository receipts representing limited partnership interests in The Vista Organization Partnership, L.P., which is scheduled to expire on April 2.

EL SEGUNDO, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Computer Sciences Corp. (NYSE:CSC) will ask a federal administrative board to set aside a ruling that disqualified the company from the award of a $170 million NASA contract.

The ruling on March 20 by a panel of the Board of Contract Appeals of the General Services Administration eliminated CSC from participation in a procurement for support services to Ames Research Center in Northern California. The company said it would file its request for reconsideration by the full board this week.

NASA had twice selected CSC for the multiyear contract. However, successive protests by the incumbent contractor, Sterling Software Inc. of Dallas, have prevented CSC from receiving the contract.

''We strongly disagree with the conclusions set forth in the decision and are confident that they are invalid,'' the company said in a statement Monday. ''We believe we were selected for this contract award based on our mission suitability and low price in accordance with NASA's own procurement practices.''

CSC denied statements in the decision that it misled NASA about salaries of personnel who would work on the contract, saying: ''We are confident that NASA fully understood our proposal. There was no misrepresentation.''

The company said it would file its request for reconsideration this week.

ROBBINSVILLE, NJ (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - The AAA Automobile Club of Central New Jersey recently upgraded its member service with the installation of AXIS, the Auto Club Information system, developed by Ultimate Canada Inc., a subsidiary of East Hanover, NJ-based The Ultimate Corp. (NYSE:ULT).

AAA offers more than 30 services to its members, ranging from customized ''Triptik'' road-map routes, car rental, insurance, plane reservations and passport photos to 24-hour emergency road service.

According to Wojnarowicz, the Central New Jersey AAA organization wanted a system that was reliable, easy for its operators to use, and one that could expand for future growth.

The hardware system provided by Ultimate includes a Bull HN 7425 minicomputer with 2.1 gigabytes of disk storage, supporting 125 terminal users and a network of existing on-site PCs. The system is equipped with a high-speed tape drive that now allows the AAA headquarters to back up its daily data in 40 minutes, instead of overnight. In addition, there are two high-speed printers, as well as modems to serve the computing needs of the five regional branches.

More important than hardware, according to Wojnarowicz, was the application software developed by Ultimate's Canadian subsidiary in conjunction with the Canadian Automobile Association.

The new system has proved to be a timely acquisition. Until recently, the membership and accounting systems were supported through AAA's main headquarters in Washington, D.C. Though this arrangement has been fine through the years, it was time for the AAA of Central New Jersey to move to its own computer system, allowing greater flexibility in programming, data storage and billing procedures.

With a growth target of adding 30,000 new members yearly to its 325,000 membership file, AAA of Central New Jersey needed an information solution that would take them through the 1990s, as well as provide them with more immediate benefits.

With member files already on-line, the system eliminates the need to fill out paper forms, thus reducing the ''wait time'' for members on the phone. For the future, on-line information will not only speed everything from the dispatching of emergency road assistance to the mailing of road maps, it will provide significantly better member service, according to Moore.

Ultimate provides business solutions to companies of all sizes by integrating system-level software and applications software on hardware platforms from premier computer vendors such as Bull HN, Hewlett-Packard, IBM and Sequoia. The firm also provides education training, consulting, and field-maintenance services to customers across a wide range of vertical markets. In addition to its domestic operations, Ultimate has subsidiaries in the United Kingdom, Canada, France and Australia.

SAN JOSE, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Hyundai Electronics America Monday announced it is spearheading an effort with LSI Logic (Milpitas) and Metaflow Technologies (San Diego) to develop the next generation SPARC chip.

The new super SPARC microprocessor will serve as the basis of the next generation of high-performance RISC-based personal workstations, to be introduced by Hyundai in 1991.

All three companies involved expect that the new SPARC chip, known by its development name, Lightning, will be the highest performance CMOS processor available in the 1990s, initially exceeding 80 MIPs on most compiled programs.

The Lightning chip will implement Sun Microsystems' SPARC instruction set for RISC microprocessors, and will be based on a unique architecture developed by Metaflow Technologies that significantly improves efficiency and performance.

Hyundai has acquired the rights to Metaflow's technology. All three companies will be involved in the chip's development, which is expected to become available in the first half of 1991.

The Lightning improves performance over current superscalar chip designs through a number of innovative techniques. The device will be unique in that instructions will be executed out-of-order and execution will continue on speculation beyond unresolved branches. The Lightning will execute multiple instructions at the same time.

The Lightning's design will strictly adhere to the SPARC instruction set, and will be compatible with all existing SPARC software.

Hyundai Electronics America (HEA) is a leading supplier of a full line of personal computer products. HEA is a subsidiary of Hyundai Electronics Industries Co. Ltd. (Ichon, Korea), a worldwide producer of telecommunications products, industrial electronics and semiconductors, in addition to personal computers.

LSI Logic Corp. is the world's premier supplier of HCMOS ASICs in gate array and cell-based technologies with over 8,000 designs completed worldwide. Additionally, the company is the largest supplier of 32-bit RISC microprocessors and a leading supplier of high-performance DSP ICs. The company employes more than 3,700 people worldwide and has facilities in the United States, Europe, Japan and Canada.

Metaflow Technologies Inc. is a privately held research and development company based in San Diego. Metaflow is dedicated to the development of advanced processor architectures and computer systems. The company is the inventor of the processor architecture upon which the Lightning chip is based. Metaflow is a SPARC licensee developing technologies for the SPARC community.

MILPITAS, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Logic Modeling Systems Inc. Monday announced an OEM relationship with Harris Scientific Calculations Division for sales and distribution of the LM-1000 industry standard hardware modeling system.

Scientific Calculations develops, markets and supports high performance EDA systems for printed circuit and hybrid circuit design.

This agreement establishes a comprehensive OEM relationship and integration of the Logic Modeling advanced hardware modeler with the SCICARDS Systems worldwide. Scientific Calculations offers a common design and database environment for its schematic capture, simulation, SCICARDS layout, thermal analysis, and drafting and documentation tools.

''Simulation is becoming critical for Printed Circuit Board design so that electronic products can be brought to market faster,'' stated Holly Stump, director of marketing for Logic Modeling. ''Scientific Calculations has an open system of tools and the LM-1000 hardware modeler fits naturally into them.''

Hardware modeling solves the simulation model availability problem for system and ASIC designers by allowing the physical VLSI device to be used to model its own behavior during design verification. Hardware models are full-function, full-fidelity and execute at hardware speed. The LM-1000 provides designers with easy access to over 600 hardware models of important VLSI devices on the market today, and ASIC models can be developed in less than one day. The LM-1000 hardware modeling system is platform- and simulator-independent.

Logic Modeling sells through OEM relationships with EDA vendors including Cadence, GenRad, Valid Logic Systems, Vantage Analysis Systems, Viewlogic Systems, and to companies with proprietary simulators.

Logic Modeling Systems Inc. is a privately held company, with corporate headquarters located in Milpitas.

Scientific Calculations is a division of Harris Corp. Harris, with worldwide sales of more than $3 billion, is focused on four major businesses: advanced electronics systems, communications, semiconductors and office equipment.

NEW ORLEANS (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Imatron Inc. and Picker International announced that Ultrafast CT (computed tomography) has been used successfully in screening for coronary artery disease, which currently claims 20 lives per hour in the United States with no prior warning.

The Picker Imatron FASTRAC CT system provides the most accurate non-invasive cardiac screening method available today for the detection of coronary artery disease.

''Ultrafast CT can reproducibly quantify coronary artery calcification. Calcific deposits indicate the presence of coronary atherosclerosis. No other non-invasive technique, including fluoroscopy, conventional computed tomography or magnetic resonance imaging, has this capability,'' said Authur Agatston, M.D., director, Non-Invasive Cardiology, Mt. Sinai Medical Center, Miami Beach, Fla.

The application is described by Agatston et. al. in the March 15, 1990 issue of the Journal of the American College of Cardiology. The article, ''Quantification of Coronary Calcium Using Ultrafast CT,'' demonstrates the ability of this technique to exclude the presence of coronary artery disease with 95 percent confidence.

''Ultrafast CT could provide the rapid, non-invasive, accurate screening capability not currently available using treadmill testing, thallium scanning or even cholesterol screening,'' according to Bruce Brundage, M.D., Chief of Cardiology, Harbor UCLA Medical Center, Professor of Medicine and Radiologic Sciences, UCLA School of Medicine, and Director of Research, Saint John's Cardiac Research Center.

This screening method was also used in a Japanese study comparing occurrence of coronary calcium among Japanese and Americans. ''Data from this screening process confirm that prevalence of atherosclerosis is lower in Japan than in the United States, and that in Japan the disease occurs approximately 15 years later in life,'' according to Nobuyuki Aizawa, M.D. Shohnan Kamakura General Hospital, Kamakura, Japan.

FASTRAC, the only Ultrafast CT available, employs patented electron beam technology that eliminates all mechanical motion and its inherent limitations while achieving variable ultrafast scan speeds as fast as 50 milliseconds.

The 100 millisecond scan speed, combined with an ECG trigger mode, facilitates this unique application of CT scanning technology.

Imatron Inc., based in South San Francisco, Calif., developed the electron beam scanner technology and designs and manufactures the Ultrafast CT scanning system as well as other computed tomography products for medical, industrial and airline security applications.

The FASTRAC Ultrafast CT system is marketed in North America exclusively by Picker International, a leading manufacturer of medical imaging systems and radiological health care products.

CUPERTINO, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Apple Computer Inc. announced that on Friday afternoon the U.S. District Court in San Francisco dismissed five out of six claims filed by Xerox Corp. in a lawsuit challenging the validity of Apple's Lisa and Macintosh copyrights.

Xerox's remaining claim seeks a declaratory judgment identifying Xerox as the sole owner of its Star copyright registrations.

''We are pleased with the efficiency by which the court dealt with its decision, and confident that the sole remaining issue will be dismissed in the near future,'' said Edward B. Stead, Apple's vice president and general counsel.

''Over the last decade, Apple has made a major investment of time, energy and resources in the development of its interface. We have always maintained that our Lisa and Macintosh works are original, and that we hold valid copyrights to protect them.''

In its lawsuit, filed Dec. 14, 1989, Xerox alleged that Apple's Lisa and Macintosh copyrights should be cancelled because they incorporated material from its Star program. Xerox also alleged that Apple engaged in unfair competition by claiming ownership of its Lisa and Macintosh works. The lawsuit sought damages in excess of $150 million. All of those claims were dismissed by the court.

Judge Vaughn Walker indicated that Xerox has 30 days to submit evidence that a controversy between Apple and Xerox exists with respect to their claim of ownership of the Star program.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Ventura Entertainment Group Ltd. (NASDAQ:VEGG) has acquired Harmony Pictures, the preeminent producer of television commercials for a combination of cash and stock.

The joint announcement was made Monday by Harvey Bibicoff, chairman of the board, and Irwin Meyer, president, Ventura Entertainment Group, and Stuart Gross, president, Harmony Pictures.

In making the announcement, Meyer noted, ''This acquisition is an extension of our operational philosphy and growth strategy, and further solidifies Ventura's position in the entertainment marketplace as a growing independent production company.''

Upon completion of the deal, Harmony Pictures co-owners Stuart Gross and Robert Lieberman also joined Ventura's board of directors.

Harmony Pictures was founded in 1979 and has grown into one of the country's most creative and prolific production companies, garnering over $18 million in annual revenues. Harmony produces more than 100 commercials annually for many Fortune 500 companies.

Robert Lieberman, who has won every major commercial directing award, including the very first Director's Guild of America Award for Best Commercial Director, is widely considered one of the premier spot directors in the country. He also gained accolades for the 1987 Christmas episode of ''thirtysomething'' for ABC-TV, the feature ''Table for Five,'' starring Jon Voigt, and ''Will: The Autobiography of G. Gordon Liddy'' for NBC-TV. In addition, Lieberman directed the pilots for ''The Young Riders'' and ''Dreamstreet'' series and is currently at the helm of ABC-TV's pilot ''Gabriel's Fire,'' starring James Earl Jones.

Stuart Gross, the producing half of the pair, gained valuable experience working his way up the industry ranks as a unit production manager and as an assistant director of the theatrical release ''Foxes'' and as line producer for ''Mafu Cage,'' to name a few.

Located in Orem, Utah, the Ventura Media Center, formerly the Osmond Media Center, was acquired in July 1989. It was formerly the production home of the ''Donny and Marie'' show and has played host to numerous productions involving such celebrities as Ron Howard, Bob Hope and Danny Thomas, and hundreds of television commercial shoots for such corporations as Chrysler Sears-Roebuck Co. and Toyota, to name a few.

In addition, internationally known film directors/producers Francis Ford Coppola and Michael Cimino have recently utilized the facility.

The Ventura Media Center is one of the largest production facilities outside of Los Angeles and features three sound stages (the main stage measuring 17,500 square feet with a 45-foot height to the grid), rehearsal studios, a recording studio, a post-production area and separate carpentry paint and prop shops.

Ventura Entertainment Group Ltd. is a fully integrated entertainment production company which develops and produces theatrical motion pictures, network, cable and syndicated TV series, miniseries, MOWs and music/variety specials for the domestic and international marketplace.

REDMOND, WA (MARCH 23) BUSINESS WIRE - Microsoft Corp. Monday announced the integration of voice messaging capabilities into Microsoft Mail for AppleTalk networks.

Mail is the first business application to incorporate sound recording, compression and playback technology and was developed by Farallon Computing Inc.

This voice messaging capability will dramatically increase Microsoft Mail users' efficiency by enabling them to send voice messages or to annotate a written message with voice by using the new Mail Voice Form. Mail users will now be able to send brief messages more quickly and easily, and they will also be able to annotate a voice message with a written one, giving emphasis to key points. Voice messaging exploits the Single Copy Storage (SCS) and intelligent Voice Form technologies inherent in Microsoft Mail.

''Voice messaging breaks down another barrier to using computers because it enables users to easily and quickly communicate electronically with their voices,'' said Jeff Raikes, manager of Microsoft's office business unit. ''We believe that Mail's intelligent architecture, combined with Farallon's sound technology, will make communicating via electronic mail even more popular.''

System requirements for Macintosh servers and clients are a Macintosh computer with 1 MB of RAM; System version 6.0.2 or higher; and an AppleTalk, EtherTalk or compatible local area network. In addition, the server requires a Macintosh-compatible SCSI or serial hard disk that boots the system file at startup. Microsoft Mail is compatible with MultiFinder.

Microsoft Corp. (NASDAQ:MSFT) develops, markets and supports a wide range of software for business and professional use, including operating systems languages and application programs, as well as books, hardware and CD-ROM products for the microcomputer marketplace.

REDMOND, WA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Microsoft Corp. Monday announced the shipment of several products designed to enhance the enterprise-wide connectivity of Microsoft Mail version 2.0.

The Gateway for AppleLink as well as the HyperCard and Gateway Software Development Kits are available now from Microsoft. Third-party developers have also announced the availability of gateways providing links to other communication systems, including Touch Communications' X.400 Gateway and Solutions Inc.'s FAXGATE gateway.

''This will be an exciting year as we extend Mail's reach to link with numerous external mail systems,'' said John Morey, group product manager for electronic mail at Microsoft. ''The availability of these tools will enable our partners in technology to complete a great variety of gateways and application solutions for Microsoft Mail.''

System requirements for Macintosh servers and clients are a Macintosh computer with 1 MB of RAM; System version 6.0.2 or higher; and an AppleTalk, EtherTalk or compatible local area network. In addition, the server requires a Macintosh-compatible SCSI or serial hard disk that boots the system file at startup. Microsoft Mail is compatible with MultiFinder.

SANTA BARBARA, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Signal Technology Inc., the leading manufacturer of Digital Signal Processing (DSP) Software used to develop products from consumer electronics to hearing aids, announced Monday the release of nthPOWER, an object-oriented application environment for digital signal processing, data analysis and presentation.

Signal Technology's DSP software is a key component of the research and development for many of the newest digital-based products including compact laser disks, on-board DSP chips for voice recognition devices and digital telephones.

nthPOWER is an integrated software solution for X-Window-based workstations and client server networks. Application areas include consumer electronics, acoustics, biomedical, radar, sonar, speech and voice processing, seismic activity and vibration.

nthPOWER includes the functionality of Signal Technology's ILS (Interactive Laboratory System) the world's standard signal-processing software package. nthPOWER has been designed using emerging industry standards to facilitate fast prototyping and higher productivity. It is the first commercial signal-processing package developed to incorporate the benefits of object-oriented programming. Signal's new product also boasts features that include:

-- X-Window user interface -- Client-server distributed architecture -- Extensive signal and data analysis functionality provided through a symbolic high-level application language -- Bi-directional 3GL interface allowing preservation of current software investment -- Easy menu selection of most commonly used analysis functions with custom menu setup using point-and-click mouse operations. -- Network licensing techniques allowing any number of concurrent users to access software nthPOWER has extensive DSP analysis functions. There are over 200 core mathematical, analysis and control functions available to the user. The core nthPOWER analysis functions are broadly applicable to data from a variety of disciplines allowing the user to tailor nthPOWER to best fit the application.

''X-Windows technology has allowed us to create a user interface that is interactive and intuitive,'' said Pfeifer. ''STI is bringing new DSP functionality to the workstation market. Making our software easier to use allows for better productivity.''

Initially available on VAXIVMS, ULTAIX and SUN systems. nthPOWER price ranges from $6,000 to $24,000.

Also announced is the availability of ILS 6.1 on Digital Equipment Corp.'s DECStation. ILS users benefit from the DECStation's high performance RISC (reduced instruction set computer) architecture. ILS for DEC Station offers multiwindow color graphics in the DEC-Windows environment through DEC terminal graphics windows. Fortran source code available for user-specific application customization.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Carolco Pictures Inc. (NYSE:CRC) Monday released the final notice regarding the consideration that it will exchange for each validly tendered depositary receipt representing a limited partnership interest (''Partnership Unit'') in The Vista Organization Partnership L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (the ''Partnership''), pursuant to Carolco's exchange offer for partnership units, which is scheduled to expire at midnight on April 2.

For each validly tendered partnership unit, Carolco will exchange .00245 Carolco units. Each Carolco unit consists of a $1,000 principal amount 14 percent senior note of Carolco due 1993 and 30 warrants to purchase Carolco common stock, determined in the manner set forth in the exchange offer prospectus.

Each warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one share of common stock at a price of $11.25 per share until June 1, 1993.

A partnership unit holder must tender at least 408.17 partnership units to receive a whole Carolco unit and for each partnership unit tendered by a partnership unit holder in excess of zero but less than 408.17 partnership units, or in excess of a multiple of 408.17 partnership units, such partnership unit holder will, in lieu of Carolco units, receive .22273 of a share of Carolco common stock.

To the extent that any fractional shares of Carolco common stock are required to be issued in connection with the exchange offer, Carolco will pay cash in lieu of fractional shares.

Since the class action lawsuits filed against the partnership (and others) described in the exchange offer prospectus have not been settled, Carolco will deposit in escrow .00909 of a share of Carolco common stock for each tendered partnership unit. This Carolco common stock will be held in the escrow fund established pursuant to the exchange offer in connection with the class action lawsuits.

The Carolco common stock to be deposited in the escrow fund and the Carolco common stock to be paid in lieu of a fractional Carolco unit, as well as the cash payments in lieu of fractional shares of Carolco common stock, are based upon an $11 valuation of a share of Carolco common stock determined in the manner set forth in the exchange offer prospectus, which value represents the median of the market price of the common stock for the 15 trading days prior to March 22.

Seven million, seven hundred and thirty seven and eighty six (7,737,086) partnership units, or approximately 67 percent of outstanding partnership units, had been tendered for exchange as of March 23.

The exchange offer is conditioned upon, among other things, a minimum of 8,050,000 partnership units (70 percent of the partnership units outstanding) being validly tendered.

The Vista partnership units are traded on the NASDAQ National Market System. The exchange offer is subject to the terms of, and is being made only by means of, a prospectus and supplement thereto, copies of which can be obtained from Carolco.

CALABASAS, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Dynatech Microwave Technology Inc., a leading supplier of electromechanical switches and RF-integrated assemblies announced Monday that it has signed an agreement with Aviall, a Dallas-based company, to supply Mode S Traffic Collision Avoidance System (T/CAS) electromechanical switches (models D2-729B001 amd D2-729B002).

Aviall will have exclusive worldwide distribution of these two models to the commercial airline industry. The value of the contract is approximately $500,000.

''We selected Aviall because of its proven distribution network, its worldwide network of sales offices, and its recognized leadership in supplying the commercial aircraft industry with quality equipment,'' said Walt Reed, vice president of marketing at Dynatech.

Ronald L. Patrick, vice president and general manager at Aviall, indicated his delight in the Dynatech/Aviall partnership. Patrick said that ''Dynatech has a clearly articulated world-class manufacturing outlook and a superior product, as well as an excellent customer- service record.'' He also noted that Dynatech is the ''sole source for T/CAS switches with the Boeing Corporation.''

The T/CAS safety system has been mandated by the FAA. The T/CAS system provides an early-warning alert for aircraft to avert potential collisions by scanning the surrounding airspace.

Dynatech Microwave Technology's switch, which has patented internal terminations, is currently the only Mode S T/CAS switch to be environmentally tested and qualified to FAA certification requirements (RTCA/DO-160B).

Dynatech Microwave Technology, a leading manufacturer of electromechanical high-frequency switches and components for the aerospace, defense, and commercial marketplace, has more than 50 major customers in the aerospace/defense industry.

The company is a subsidiary of Massachusetts-based Dynatech Corporation, (NASDAQ:DYTC). With reported annual sales of $400 million, Dynatech Corp.'s 40 manufacturing subsidiaries supply electronic products worldwide to highly diversified niches of the communications, scientific, automotive aviation and medical markets.

DAYTON, OH (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - NCR Corp. and Software Earnings Inc. of Memphis, Tenn., Monday announced a joint marketing agreement to provide check processing systems for the banking industry.

Specifically, Software Earnings is developing PC-based Reject Repair software for the NCR 7770 Multi Pocket Proof Machine and Productivity Tracking software for the NCR 7766 Clustered Proof Machine.

NCR estimates the value of the alliance to be approximately $20 million over the next several years.

7770 Reject Repair System

For NCR's 7770 Multi Pocket Proof Machine, Software Earnings is developing reject repair software for check processing. The system will correct both the actual rejected checks and the internal data image.

''This agreement with Software Earnings allows us to enter a new niche application area, reject repair systems,'' said R.L. Miolla, vice president of NCR's financial systems division.

''Since Software Earnings' products are based on industry standards, the 7770 Reject Repair System fits in with NCR's Open, Cooperative Computing strategy to provide enterprise-wide computing solutions based on open systems components and cooperative processing,'' added Miolla.

The 7770 Reject Repair System will interface with industry-standard check processing systems.

The NCR 7770 Multi Pocket Proof Machine has a suggested price of $80,000, while Software Earnings' Reject Repair software costs approximately $40,000. The 7770 Reject Repair System will be available in August 1990.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Family Home Entertainment (FHE), the children's division of International Video Entertainment Inc. (IVE), a wholly owned subsidiary of LIVE Entertainment Inc. (NASDAQ:LIVE), will join with Burger King Corp. for one of the largest consumer promotions ever conducted in the home video industry, it was jointly announced March 26 by Lauren A. Becker, vice president of marketing for IVE and Gary Langstaff, executive vice president of marketing for Burger King.

Burger King will offer consumers four separate episodes of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, never before released on home video, at a promotional price with any purchase. A different title will become '' The Great Boldini,'' ''Invasion of the Turtle Snatchers'' and ''Sky Turtles.''

The video promotion, scheduled to hit Burger King restaurants across the nation on March 29, is the second Turtle tie-in for Burger King, following its highly successful Turtle badge promotion in February, which distributed nearly 15 million toys.

Burger King will support the promotion with a bold advertising campaign, including prime time and Saturday morning spots. Burger King restaurants will display posters, mobiles and other in-store support material during the promotion.

''The Turtles are a home video phenomenon,'' Becker says, ''and continue to gain momentum. It's one of today's hottest premiums for children and IVE is very excited to coordinate such a broad-based promotion of this caliber with an organization as aggressive in the marketplace as Burger King.''

''The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle craze is sweeping through Burger King restaurants across the country,'' Langstaff said. ''This home video promotion is an exciting new concept for us and we anticipate it will carry on the overwhelming success of our Burger King Kids Club program.''

To date, FHE has sold more than 3 million Turtle videocassettes and according to Becker, feels ''that a promotion of this depth continues to build both the marketplace and the widespread recognition for this product.''

Recently, IVE acquired the highly sought after domestic home video rights to the live-action feature film, ''Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles,'' from New Line Cinema. Featuring life-like Turtle constumes by Jim Henson's Creature Shop, and a major soundtrack, New Line plans to release the film nationwide to coincide with spring break on March 30. The home video release is scheduled for late 1990.

A phenomenon as unbelieveable as they sound, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles have taken the country by storm. Originating in 1984 as popular comic book characters, the Turtles were transported to television last year as a parody of the ninja-genre movies by a leading animation studio and Group W Productions, which syndicates the series on over 112 stations nationwide, clearing 90 percent of the country.

Recently, the series was picked up by CBS, marking a historical first for programming to debut in syndication and later move to network. Over 50,000 Turtle fanatics have enlisted in the Turtle Force Fan Club, with an average of 100 new subscriptions coming in daily.

WILMINGTON, MA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Kevlin Microwave Corp. (NASDAQ National Market System:KVLM) Monday reported results for the third quarter and for the nine months ended Feb. 28, l990. Net sales for the third quarter increased 8 percent to $2,869,478 from $2,646,032 in the third quarter last year.

Net income for the third fiscal quarter declined 40 percent to $103,204 or $.04 per share from $171,807 or $.06 per share last year. This decline in net income is primarily the result of increased product development expenses and administrative expenses, including increased costs for employee health insurance.

For the first nine months ended February 28, 1990, net sales increased 14 percent to $7,660,428 from $6,691,141 last year. Net income for the first nine months of fiscal 1990 was $272,769 or $.10 per share, a decrease of 38 percent from net income of $436,484 or $.16 per share for the same period last year.

The decline in net income was principally attributable to increased product development and administrative expenses, higher employee health insurance costs and expenses relating to the completion of Kevlin's move to new headquarters.

Kevlin received new orders totalling $5,753,000 during the first nine months of fiscal 1990, however, the backlog at the end of the third quarter of fiscal 1990 was $7,071,000, a decrease of 23 percent from the end of the third quarter last year.

Ernest W. Lattanzi, chairman of Kevlin, stated, ''Shipments for the third quarter exceeded last year but were accompanied by a continuing decline in our backlog. The current slowdown in new order activity, which we believe is the result of decreases in government spending and is being felt industry-wide, will require consolidation of company operations during the fourth quarter in anticipation of a lower level of business in the near term.''

Kevlin Microwave Corp. is a leading supplier of microwave rotary couplers and high frequency connectors and components which are sold to the major manufacturers of modern radar and communications systems.

PETALUMA, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Tegal Corp. Monday announced the appointment of James E. Williams to the newly created post of chief financial officer.

The establishment of the CFO position is the latest move by Tegal intended to strengthen its executive staff after a management-led buyout of the compay in December 1989. Prior to that time, Tegal was owned by Motorola.

Williams, a seasoned CFO with considerable experiences in the international arena, will be responsible for setting the company's financial direction and providing it with the financial structure and systems form which to grow worldwide. In this role, Williams will report to Tegal's president and CEO, Dr. Elliott Philofsky.

''It is our intention to build a major international semiconductor equipment company,'' said Philofsky. ''Jim's extensive background in foreign operations, accounting, and finance, and his familiarity with the financial community, will help Tegal position itself for the next decade, Jim will build solid relations with the banking and investment communities and he will develop better internal reporting and control systems.''

Before joining Tegal, Williams was senior vice president, chief operating officer, and chief financial officer for Masstor Systems Corp., where he was responsible for all financial controls and reporting relations as well s software development and technical support.

In addition, he was a member of Masstor's board of directors. During this period, Williams was also elected to the presidency and chairmanship of the National Association of Corporate Treasurers.

Prior to Masstor, Williams was vice president and treasurer for Syntex Corp., where he was responsible for the financing of all Syntex domestic and international entities, worldwide cash management, banking relations, and corporate investments. During his tenure, Williams led Syntex's successful 20-billion-yen bond transaction, one of the largest of its kind.

Before Syntex, Williams was international controller for Tektronix, where he was responsible for international accounting and finance, negotiating joint ventures for the company, and assisting in the decentralization and organization of the company's accounting structure.

Prior to Tektronix, Wiliams was based in London, as vice-president of finance for Itel International Corp. In that position, he opened new foreign subsidiaries for the company, served as the general manager of the Italian operation, and assisted in the sale of an Itel business line to National Semiconductor.

Williams, age 46, holds a bachelor of arts in accounting from San Francisco State University and a master's degree in finance from Golden Gate University. He is a resident of Redwood City, and is an active member of the district school board and the community Boy's Club.

Tegal Corp. is a leading U.S. semiconductor equipment company which develops, manufactures and markets front-end wafer fabrication systems. Founded in 1972, Tegal has over 300 employees in offices throughout Europe Asia, and North America. The company is headquartered in Petaluma, Calif.

HOUSTON (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - ENERCAP Corp. (NASDAQ:ENCP) released Monday their year-end 1989 oil reserve information.

The company's independent petroleum engineers, Dowdle, Fairchild and Ancell, informed ENERCAP that it had estimated that ENERCAP's proved reserves directly attributable to its ownership interest are approximately 21.7 million barrels of recoverable crude oil.

The petroleum engineering firm also determined that its estimate of future net cash flow, discounted at 10 percent, for ENERCAP's proved reserves is approximately $147 million.

The company also announced the initiation of production from its 18 pattern steamflood expansion project in Camp Hill Field, Anderson County, Texas. The company now has 32 steam injection wells and 55 producing wells in Camp Hill Field. This expansion together with existing production, is expected to bring Camp Hill Field production to over 1,500 barrels of oil per day by mid 1991.

ENERCAP Corp. is in the business of acquiring and developing heavy oil reserves in the United States through the well-proven thermal recovery technique of steamflooding.

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Chalone Inc. (NASDAQ:CHLN) Monday released results of operations for the quarter and year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Sales increased by 11 percent for the 3-month period and 2 percent for the 12-month period over the comparable periods in 1988. Although net earnings were less than in 1988, they exceeded the company's 1989 plan and were the second highest in the company's history.

Management implemented certain decisions in 1989 for the long-term benefit of the company. These decisions, which reduced sales for three of the company's wineries, set the stage for further growth in 1990.

Chalone Vineyard sales decreased by 18 percent, Carmenet Vineyard by 4 percent and Acacia Winery by 9 percent. Correspondingly Edna Valley Vineyard sales increased by 20 percent and Imports increased by 42 percent.

The Chalone Vineyard decrease occurred because the company is holding back a substantial portion of Chardonnay for release when it is more fully mature. Carmenet sales were down due to the fact that the company did not offer futures on the Carmenet Red in 1989.

The Acacia sales were down for the simple reason that there was less wine to sell due to a very strong last quarter of the previous year. All of these are the result of sales being displaced into other periods, the first two into the future, and the third into the past.

SCOTTS VALLEY, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Turbo Pascal from Borland International Inc. (NASDAQ:BORL) is a proven software development tool for leading developers of commercial financial and accounting software.

Companies such as Great Plains Software have built more reliable and efficient software more quickly than would have been possible using other programming languages.

Turbo Pascal, one of the world's most widely used computer programming languages and one of the best-selling microcomputer software programs in history, has served as the programming environment of choice for the developers of Andrew Tobias' TaxCut, Turbo Fast, and the Great Plains Accounting Series, among others. Andrew Tobias' TaxCut

Andrew Tobias' TaxCut, from Meca Software and Legal Knowledge Systems, includes ''expert system'' technology written in Turbo Pascal. TaxCut allows the user to prepare an IRS-approved tax return by working directly with the program's tax forms and schedules, or by working interactively through the program's ''expert system'' based on guidelines provided by Dan Caine, chief developer of TaxCut.

Financial Proformas Inc. developed Turbo FAST, the financial Analysis Support Techniques (FAST) system, for credit analysis in commercial lending. Turbo FAST was rewritten in Turbo Pascal in 1987, and is today the world's most widely used microcomputer-based credit analysis tool in commercial lending institutions. The Great Plains Accounting Series

The Great Plains Accounting Series serves businesses in more than 400 different industries. The Series was selected by PC Magazine in 1989 for its Editor's Choice Award from among eight leading products in the LAN accounting software category. Developers at Great Plains have used Turbo Pascal for their development of the Great Plains Accounting Series since 1984.

Borland International Inc. (Scotts Valley, Calif.) is a leading developer of high-performance software products. Borland offers some of the world's most widely used business applications and programming software such as Paradox, QUATTRO PRO, and SideKick object-oriented Turbo Pascal, Turbo C and Turbo Assembler & Debugger.

PEABODY, MA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - PictureTel Corp. (NASDAQ:PCTL) Monday announced a new trade-up program under which companies using videoconferencing systems can swap outmoded codecs for new codecs that will support the Px64 standard for $10,000 plus installation.

The trade-up program, effective immediately, allows companies to trade in any codecs purchased before Jan. 31, 1990 from other vendors. The codecs traded in will be replaced by PictureTel's C-3000 codecs with HVQ software. The C-3000 with HVQ provides excellent picture quality even when using dial-up digital services such as switched-56 and ISDN.

The C-3000 is software upgradeable to support the CCITT Px64 (H.261) videoconferencing standard slated for adoption in November 1990, as well as planned new proprietary software releases from PictureTel.

PictureTel will offer three levels of Px64 support through its Link options for the C-3000. With the Link options, the codec will automatically select either the HVQ or Px64 algorithm at call set-up.

''The Px64 standard will be adopted later this year as the international videoconferencing standard and many users will need to upgrade their videoconferencing network to support it,'' said Randall Smith, PictureTel's vice president of U.S. sales.

''Videoconferencing technology has improved dramatically since many of the codecs currently in use were purchased. This offer will allow many companies to upgrade their videoconferencing networks with the latest technology at minimal cost. These companies will also be able to realize dramatic savings by operating at the lower data rates permitted by this new technology.''

PictureTel Corp. develops, manufactures and markets software-upgradeable codec and videoconferencing systems for use on public or private ditigal networks. It is the world's leading codec vendor based on codec shipments in 1989.

CARLSBAD, CA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Microbics Corp., the world's leading supplier of instrumentation which quickly detects and measures environmental toxicity, Monday introduced an advanced system which uses light given off by microscopic organisms to determine whether or not toxicity is present in a sample of material.

''The new units, the Microtox Model 500 and associated 'Quick Test,' are capable of performing toxicity tests in under 30 minutes and at a fraction of the cost of other toxicity tests,'' according to Jeff Wolking, vice president of sales and marketing for Microbics.

''Virtually all other standard toxicity tests take two or more days to conduct and analyze,'' Wolking said.

The company's earlier Microtox model has been in use for over a decade and is one of the most frequently used toxicity tests in the world, the Microbics executive said.

Some industry observers say the market for hazardous waste instrumentation -- a category which covers only part of the Microtox function -- was just under $400 million in 1988 and is expected to reach $1.1 billion by the year 2000.

The Microtox systems are marketed to industrial corporations, government agencies, consumer products firms and others to measure the level of acute toxicity in virtually any type of material.

Microbics products, sold and supported in two dozen countries, are used to measure land and water pollution and wastewater toxicity, and are used in industrial process control applications in the chemical, paper, primary metals, food, petroleum and other industries.

They are also used in the medical device and household/personal care industries in tests for ''bioreactivity,'' the short-term changes that occur when a material reacts with a living system.

In addition, Microtox applications can greatly reduce, and in some instances eliminate, the dependence on tests that use live animals, such as the rabbit eye irritancy test.

The newly introduced ''Quick Test'' is a prepackaging of the disposable test items, eliminating much of the laborious procedure previously required for toxicity testing, including many of the steps needed for the earlier Microtox model. Operation of the simplified Microtox Model 500 is now ''little more than pushing two buttons,'' Wolking said.

The system provides computer software for automatic data collection and reduction in a variety of different procedures. Detailed reports and graphs are available within minutes after tests are run.

Wolking noted that the technology developed by Microbics has been discussed and analyzed in over 200 scientific papers and technical articles during the last decade. ''Test results are shown to be highly repeatable and correlate well with more elaborate and time-consuming methods of determining the level of toxicity present in a sample,'' he said.

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Homestake Mining Co. Monday announced a $23 million underground exploration program to follow up encouraging gold discoveries three miles north of the company's Homestake Gold Mine near Lead, S.D.

The company said gold mineralization has been found more than a mile below the surface by deep drilling from the surface that began in early 1989.

''We are excited and optimistic about the potential of the discoveries,'' said Harry M. Conger, chairman and chief executive officer. ''They are the first ore grade intercepts that we have found in the Lead District outside of the mine in a favorable geologic setting, and we are dedicating the necessary resources to explore this new opportunity thoroughly.''

The company said it will drive an exploration drift from the 6,800-foot level in the mine more than three miles north to evaluate the discoveries. The entire project, including diamond drilling, is expected to require up to five years. The project will also test for additional gold mineralization north of the mine along the path of the drift.

Because of the length of the drift and the long completion time, drifting will be done on a three-shift around-the-clock schedule. The work will begin immediately. Deep drilling from the surface will also continue.

GREENWICH, CT (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Transnational Industries Inc. (NASDAQ:TRSL), a diversified aerospace company, Monday announced the election of Thomas J. Flaherty, a 30 year veteran of the aerospace industry who was formerly executive vice president of the Hamilton Standard division of United Technologies, a $1 billion diversified aerospace producer, as president and chief executive officer.

Flaherty succeeds Dennis L. Miller who is retiring.

Alan W. Drew, Transnational chairman, said, ''Transnational is fortunate to have attracted an individual with the depth of experience in our industry that Mr. Flaherty possesses.''

Flaherty has also served in various manufacturing, purchasing, and customer support positions with the Pratt & Whitney division of United Technologies a $6 billion jet engine manufacturer. A graduate of Notre Dame, he resides with is wife Patricia and two children in Glastonbury, Conn.

Transnational recently reported a record backlog of $62 million, of which future sales to commercial customers represented more than two-thirds.

''Mr. Flaherty, who assumes his new responsibilities at Transnational immediately, will remain dedicated to our aerospace businesses focusing principally in three areas -- the improvement in the performance of existing businesses, development of an after-market business, and the expansion through acquisition into the supply of end products,'' said Drew.

Headquartered in Greenwich, Transnational, through its subsidiaries, Alloytek Inc. (Grandville, Mich.) and Magna Mill Products Inc. (South Gate Calif.), specializes in the fabrication of oil tanks and precision components of afterburner assemblies for jet engines, and in the machining of landing gear and other complex airframe components.

Through its Spitz Inc. subsidiary (Chadds Ford, Pa.), the company designs and manufactures a variety of state-of-the-art simulation equipment, including computer-controlled astronomical simulators and simulation domes.

WALLINGFORD, CT (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Novametrix Medical Systems Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS Symbol: NMTX) Monday announced that it has entered into a $2 million prepaid OEM purchase agreement with Siemens Medical Electronics, Inc., a U.S.-based affiliate of the West German conglomerate, Siemens A.G., for the sale of the Company's capnography products and technology.

In addition, the Company has granted to Siemens a 120-day option to purchase newly issued shares representing 51 percent of the company's voting stock on a fully diluted basis for $10 million or all of the Company's assets and business on terms to be negotiated.

Louis P. Pellegrino, Chairman of the Board, stated, ''We are delighted to announce our relationship with Siemens, one of the world's major health care companies, and we look forward to working with them. We believe that Siemens' extensive marketing resources will prove advantageous in promoting the Company's products and in building revenues in future periods.''

The Company further announced that it has reached agreement, subject to documentation, with its principal lender, Union Trust Company, to restructure its outstanding indebtedness to that lender. In addition, the Company announced results for the third quarter and nine month period ended January 28, 1990. The Company reported a net loss for the third quarter ended January 28, 1990 due to the expenses associated with the restructuring of the Company. The Company expects to report a substantial improvement in its bottom line for the fourth quarter ending April 29, 1990 as a result of its restructuring efforts.

Revenues for the quarter ended January 28, 1990 were $4,804,542 compared to $7,539,642 reported in the third quarter of fiscal 1989. The net loss for the third quarter was $1,603,892, or $0.42 per share, as compared to net income of $441,065, or $0.12 per share, for the quarter ended January 29, 1989.

For the nine month period ended January 28, 1990, revenues were $13,177,460 compared to $22,082,215 for the comparable nine month period in fiscal 1989. The Company reported a net loss of $10,296,219, or $2.72 per share, compared to net income of $1,354,502, or $0.36 per share ($0.35 per share fully diluted), reported for the nine month period ended January 29, 1989.

Commenting on the announcement, William J. Lacourciere, the company's president and chief operating officer, stated, ''We have now completed the first phase of our plan to put the Company back on a firm financial footing. We have closed our manufacturing facility in the U.K., sold our magstim product line, significantly reduced our operating expenses, entered into an important OEM agreement with Siemens and agreed to restructure our bank debt with our principal lender.

Novametrix Medical Systems Inc. is a leading designer, developer, manufacturer and marketer of medical electronic instruments which non-invasively and continuously assess a critically ill patient's oxygen and carbon dioxide status. The company's products are primarily used in operating rooms, intensive care units and respiratory therapy departments.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (MARCH 26) BUSINES WIRE - Lotus Development Corp. Monday announced it has begun shipping 1-2-3/G, a graphical version of its best-selling 1-2-3 spreadsheet, designed for the OS/2 and Presentation Manager personal computer operating system.

1-2-3/G combines advanced spreadsheet functionality with the familiarity of 1-2-3 and a graphical user interface, enabling users to move to the new operating environment, while preserving their investments in 1-2-3.

''Customer reaction to 1-2-3/G has been enthusiastic and we're pleased to say that our design goals for 1-2-3 compatibility and advanced spreadsheet functionality have been well received,'' said Marty Fahey, general manager for 1-2-3/G. ''1-2-3/G demonstrates the potential of the OS/2 and Presentation Manager environment and is an important component of the suite of upcoming applications for OS/2 from Lotus.''

According to Miki Hohnsen, information center manager at FMC Corp. in Chicago, ''1-2-3/G is the most powerful application for OS/2 and Presentation Manager to date. If you know 1-2-3, then you know how to use 1-2-3/G. Not only is the product intuitive, but it offers dynamic spreadsheet and graphing capabilities as well.''

Analysts are also encouraged by the potential of OS/2 applications such as 1-2-3/G. Steve Frankel, an analyst with Adams, Harkness & Hill, said, ''As with any new technology, the ramp up for OS/2 has been slow; however, with the availability of new applications like 1-2-3/G, we're likely to see a significant number of benefits to users that will continue to drive purchases during the coming months.''

New Spreadsheet Features

1-2-3/G brings a wide range of new spreadsheet features to OS/2 users. A Lotus technology, Solver, delivers new analysis capabilities for solving and understanding complex problems. Solver is an advanced goal-seeking tool that solves problems defined in the familiar spreadsheet environment. Solver automates the tedious ''what-if'' process, and shows the user ''how-to'' achieve desired results.

1-2-3/G also incorporates the advanced spreadsheet features found in 1-2-3 Release 3, including true three dimensional worksheets, file linking across worksheets and files in memory or on disk; and database enhancements, such as the ability to perform relational database joins.

1-2-3/G also incorporates Lotus' DataLens technology, which allows users to access external data sources, directly from within the spreadsheet. 1-2-3/G will support the same DataLens drivers available for 1-2-3 Release 3. 1-2-3/G includes a DataLens driver for Ashton-Tate's dBASE III Plus. Lotus will soon make available a DataLens driver for the OS/2 SQLServer.

Drivers for IBM's Extended Edition Data Manager, Gupta's SQLBase, Microrim's R:BASE, Borland's Paradox, Oracle, and Novell are also under development.

1-2-3/G is part of a family of Lotus spreadsheets designed to provide users with compatible choices for different hardware and operating system environments, as well as varying application requirements. 1-2-3/G offers data and file compatibility, and shares a common macro language with 1-2-3 Release 3 for DOS and OS/2 and 1-2-3 Release 2.2 for DOS, as well as workstation, minicomputer and mainframe versions of 1-2-3.

User Interface Innovations

In order to provide a smooth transition to OS/2 applications, Lotus designed the user interface for 1-2-3/G so that the product is instantly familiar to today's character-based 1-2-3 users. Lotus and WordPerfect Corporation joined efforts last year to preserve popular conventions in 1-2-3 and WordPerfect's best-selling word processing package.

Both 1-2-3/G and WordPerfect for Presentation Manager maintain familiar commands and command structure, first letter selection, full keyboard, as well as full mouse support. Full keyboard support permits users to use intuitive shortcuts and speed through operations as they gain expertise.

In addition, Lotus has incorporated a number of enhancements that provide new functionality and enable users to work more efficiently within the graphical environment.

These innovations include: dialog box previews to see the effect of a setting, including fonts and borders, before the change is made; color palettes, to select text, background and conditional colors from a tablet; direct manipulation of objects such as graph titles on-screen with the mouse; and ''collections,'' to work with multiple spreadsheet cells, as if working with a single range.

1-2-3/G's new graphing capabilities exploit the Presentation Manager environment. For example, Graph Gallery enables users to select a graph from a pictorial menu of graph types. Users can then choose a graph from the Gallery and preview how it will look with their data.

1-2-3/G is compliant with IBM's System Application Architecture (SAA) and Common User Access (CUA) guidelines for Presentation Manager applications. 1-2-3/G also takes full advantage of the OS/2 Presentation Manager environment and supports capabilities such as true multi-tasking, optimal use of background operations for calculating, solving, printing, and macros.

In addition, 1-2-3/G utilizes OS/2's virtual memory environment, enabling users to run multiple applications concurrently. The product also supports Dynamic Data Exchange (DDE), acting as both a client and a server in order to receive and send live data from other OS/2 Presentation Manager applications. In addition, 1-2-3/G is shipping with the OS/2 drivers for PostScript, HP LaserJet and Epson printers.

1-2-3/G is designed to work with other Presentation Manager applications from Lotus, as well as from other software vendors. Lotus products under development for OS/2 include database tools designed to work with SQL servers (code-named Lotus/DBMS), and a version of Lotus' leading business graphics product.

Lotus has recently shipped an OS/2 group information management application called Notes.

International Market Opportunities

1-2-3/G was designed from the outset as an international product, with features for users who frequently exchange data and files with users in other countries. The product, which is shipping simultaneously worldwide in an English language version, offers complete support for numerical, date and time, and currency conventions for 17 countries and regions.

1-2-3/G also supports the requirements of the Japanese OS/2 Presentation Manager environment. The English language version of 1-2-3/G will run unmodified on IBM PS/55 personal computers under IBM's forthcoming OS/2 1.2J.

1-2-3/G will be available in French, German, Italian, Swedish, Spanish, and Dutch. Availability will be announced at a later date. System Requirements, Availability and Pricing

1-2-3/G requires an IBM PC AT, IBM PS/2 models 50Z, 60, 70, P70, 80, Compaq 286, 386, Compaq Portable 386, or 100 percent compatibles. Lotus recommends a 386-based computer. OS/2 Version 1.1 or higher is supported and a minimum of 4 megabytes of RAM is required. Lotus recommends 5 megabytes of RAM if users are running the DOS compatibility box or network software.

1-2-3/G is designed for use with networks that support OS/2 Version 1.1 or higher, including IBM LAN Server 1.0, 3Com 3+ Open LAN Manager 1.0, 1.1, and Novell OS/2 Requester 1.1. In addition, it fully supports networks by providing file administration features that provide control over concurrent access to and security of spreadsheet files.

1-2-3/G will be available in Server and Node editions in 90 to 120 days.

1-2-3/G has a suggested retail price of $695. Through Sept. 30, 1990, 1-2-3 Release 3 and 1-2-3 Release 2.2 users can upgrade to 1-2-3/G for a special price of $75 directly from Lotus. In addition, Master Agreement customers may upgrade for $75 through participating authorized Lotus Upgrade Resellers. Users must have a proof of purchase in order to receive the special upgrade price.

All other 1-2-3 users can upgrade to 1-2-3/G for a suggested retail price of $150 directly from Lotus or through reseller volume upgrade programs. For upgrade information, customers should call 1-800-TRADEUP.

SPARTANBURG, SC (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Synalloy Corp. (ASE:SYO) producer of specialty chemicals, dyestuffs, stainless steel pipe, vessels and process equipment, announced Monday it has commenced the previously announced self-tender offer for 525,000 shares (14 percent) of its outstanding Common Stock at $9.50 per share.

In documents released today related to the offer, the Company disclosed the following information about anticipated operating results.

Although information is not yet available for the first quarter of 1990, it is anticipated that net profits will be less than in the first quarter of 1989. Sales for the first eight weeks of the Company's year beginning Dec. 31, 1989 were 10 percent above the comparable period last year.

However, net income was down significantly because of lower profits in the Metals Division. The largest factor contributing to the decline was reduced profits from products purchased for resale. The resale program was substantially discontinued during 1989 but contributed significant profits during the first several months of that year.

Part of the profit decrease was the result of declining prices of stainless steel, the company's Metals Division's principal raw material, that led to a reduction of inventory value and lower profit margins.

The company anticipated the major impact of these negative factors to occur during the first quarter of 1990 and anticipated less effect thereafter.

BRANFORD, CT (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Multiflow Computer Inc. Monday announced the completion by GEI Rechnersysteme GmbH of the installation of a TRACE 14/300 Series supercomputer at the Max Planck Institute for Biophysics, Frankfurt, West Germany.

GEI Rechnersysteme is Multiflow's distributor in West Germany.

Dr. Hartmut Michel, a 1988 recipient of the Nobel Prize, is the director of the Max Planck Institute.

The TRACE system is being used to simulate molecule properties in cell membrane research.

''The cases in which we are interested would run for several hundred hours on our VAX,'' said Dr. Juergen Koepke of the Max Planck Institute. ''With the TRACE 14/300, these runs will require only a few hours.''

According to Dr. Lutz Kampmann of the Max Planck Institute, ''Our TRACE supercomputer fits perfectly into our existing DECnet environment. Computer-intensive applications have been ported to the TRACE in very little time.

''Without any program code tuning,'' Kampmann continued, ''we have achieved speed-ups of 40 to 50 times, compared to our VAX system.''

GEI Rechnersysteme GmbH, headquartered in Aachen, West Germany, is one of West Germany's leading systems integrators. It is a member of the Daimler Benz/AEG Group.

Multiflow Computer Inc. manufactures distributed supercomputers for scientific, engineering and general purpose technical applications.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - This week at the Hannover Fair in West Germany, the Open Software Foundation announced an aggressive, simplified pricing schedule for its innovative OSF/1 operating environment.

''Today's announcement demonstrates our commitment to offer reasonable and stable licensing terms,'' said David Tory, OSF president. ''The binary fee structure will ensure proliferation of OSF/1 across all systems, from PCs to supercomputers.''

The fee for a single-CPU source code license with full redistribution rights has been set at $50,000, and a single-CPU source-code license without redistribution rights is priced at $25,000. In both cases, source code for each additional CPU costs $3,000.

A new licensing option offered by OSF enables licensees to purchase a commercial site license for $50,000, after the purchase of the initial source license.

The single binary license fee ranges from $65 down to $13 per copy for a maximum volume discounted per-copy price for all systems.

Universities may purchase a special $5,000 site license, which allows the licensee to distribute both source and binary copies throughout a given campus site.

Included in the OSF/1 source code at no extra fee are the TCP/IP networking protocols, B1 security and an NFS-compatible file system from the University of California at Berkeley.

The OSF/1 operating environment is based on the Mach kernel from Carnegie-Mellon University, and in its initial release requires a minimum of an AT&T System V.2 license. The modular, portable OSF/1 operating system provides fully symmetric multiprocessing, B1-level security, and advanced internationalization capabilities.

OSF/1 is compliant with POSIX and the X/Open Portability Guide Issue 3. In addition, OSF/1 will comply with AT&T's SVID as tested by AT&T's verification suite for UNIX System V.3 and V.4 comptibility.

This operating system offering reflects the needs of OSF membership -- system vendors, independent software vendors, end users, and educational and research institutions -- for an open portable, scalable, interoperable operating system.

Through an early access snapshot program, the OSF/1 operating environment is available now to OSF members. Under this program, OSF members who choose to license OSF technology receive bimonthly snapshots of the code in development prior to general product availability. The fully integrated, tested system will be generally available to the industry in November 1990.

Open Software Foundation (OSF) is a non-profit research and development organization dedicated to develop and deliver an open software environment based on standards, for the benefit of the industry.

OSF utilizes an innovative open process, soliciting technologies from the industry at large, and inviting member participation in setting technical direction for the Foundation's development efforts.

MILFORD, CT (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - BIC Corporation Monday declared a special dividend of $1.00 per share, as well as its regular quarterly dividend of $.28 per share.

Both dividends are payable on May 1, 1990 to shareholders of record on April 12. Dividends paid in 1990 will mark BIC's sixth consecutive year of dividend increases.

''The special dividend,'' Bruno Bich, president, said, ''is made possible by the increasing strength of our balance sheet. Not only have earnings added to our financial strength, but manufacturing efficiencies and tighter controls have enabled us to substantially reduce inventories.''

BIC currently has 12,121,028 shares outstanding.

BOSTON (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - The Gillette Company (NYSE: GS) announced that it has reached a settlement with the Department of Justice of the civil antitrust suit filed on January 9, 1990, alleging that the acquisition by Gillette of Wilkinson's blade and razor business outside the European Community violated U.S. antitrust laws.

Shortly after the suit was filed, Gillette indicated that it would not acquire any portion of the U.S. Wilkinson business in the United States and, under the settlement, Gillette agreed not to do so in the future.

When the proposed transaction was announced in December 1989, Gillette indicated that the U.S. business of Wilkinson was a minor part of a large international acquisition. Gillette's principal purpose was to develop the global potential of the Wilkinson brand outside the European Community and the United States.

Gillette had hoped to persuade the Justice Department that the acquisition would have complied fully with the U.S. antitrust laws. When Gillette was unable to do so, it decided not to acquire the Wilkinson U.S. business to avoid a lengthy trial and the expenditure of substantial time, effort and expense. The settlement will have no impact on any other aspect of the transaction.

BOSTON (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Norwood Partners Limited Partnership Monday announced it has notified the board of directors at Phoenix Technologies Ltd. (NASDAQ:PTEC) of its plans to make an offer to purchase shares of the company's outstanding common stock.

Norwood Partners is prepared to ''provide tendering shareholders the option of receving either $5 per share in cash or, for each tendered share one share of non-voting common stock'' through a corporation to be established by Norwood Partners to make the offer, according to an exhibit attached to a form 13D filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on Monday, March 26.

Under the second option shareholders would be able to participate pro rata with Norwood Partners but without voting rights.

Norwood Partners also is prepared to merge the new corporation into Phoenix Technologies Ltd. in order to take Phoenix private. According to the exhibit, ''it is our expectation that the number of shareholders who would elect to receive non-voting shares of Acquisition Corp. would be sufficiently few, so that it would be possible to terminate the registration of shares under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and it would be our intention to do so.''

''The offer was constructed in this manner to give those shareholders who believe in the long-term viability of the business an opportunity to maximize the value of their investments through participation with Norwood Partners in the on-going entity,'' said Daniel Barnett, general partner of Norwood Partners.

''We chose to move at this time because we're convinced that the long-term value of Phoenix can only be realized by taking the company private now rather than waiting any longer. The company's 'Focus '90' operating plan put in place last September has not proven as effective as hoped for,''

Barnett said.

''Given the uncertainty and unpredictability in the business today, together with the company's announcement on March 14, that it expects to post a loss of at least $4.9 million for its second quarter, the same amount reported for its first quarter, we believe it's imperative that shareholders be given the opportunity today to realize a return on their investments.

''Norwood Partners believes this action is in the best interests of all the shareholders. We trust the board at Phoenix has those same interests in mind. Our financing is in place and available once Phoenix agrees to allow us in to conduct our due diligence and revokes its shareholders rights plan. Our due diligence may enable us to increase our bid in order to maximize shareholders values.''

CINCINNATI, OH (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - CBIS, Cincinnati Bell Information Systems Inc., Monday announced it has reached an agreement with American Cellular Communications (ACC) and LIN Broadcasting to provide cellular management information and system processing.

The value of the agreement could exceed $40 million. ACC and LIN are partners in providing cellular service to five major markets affected by the agreement: New York, Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas, and Philadelphia. Under the terms of the contract, ACC and LIN will continue using the CBIS Macro/Cell information management system and several CBIS mobile communications subsystems.

Russell Akins, director of MIS at American Cellular Communications, said, ''We look forward to our continuing relationship with CBIS, especially as reflected in its commitment to software updating and customer service of its Macro/Cell product. We are delighted that CBIS worked with us on a contract that focuses on the objective of providing quality information services for a reasonable price.''

CBIS currently is implementing software which will electronically transmit ACC and LIN message data from the cellular switches to the billing system. Bills will be laser-printed in a new letter-size format, widely regarded as an improvement over the typical multiple sheet, index card format phone bills.

Miles Huskey, vice president of the CBIS Mobile Communications business unit, said: ''The ACC/LIN partnership is one of the largest and most well-respected cellular communications providers in the world. CBIS is proud of the continuing trust ACC and LIN have put in our products and services.''

Present from CBIS at a ceremony marking the four-year agreement were Richard Licursi, president; Dan Cornely, senior vice president of the Mobile Communications unit; and Miles Huskey. Present for ACC and LIN were Ben Holcomb, vice president of finance and administration for ACC; Russell Akins, director of MIS for ACC; and Joe Grenuk, vice president of LIN operations.

CBIS, a subsidiary of Cincinnati Bell Inc., is a worldwide information services company. It develops management systems for financial, commercial, and telecommunications entities, as well as management systems used by the federal government.

PLYMOUTH, MI (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - Unisys Corp. announced Monday that it shipped its first InfoImage Image Item Processing System (IIPS) to The Northern Trust Company in Chicago on March 21.

Barry Borgerson, vice president and general manager of Document Processing and Imaging Systems for Unisys, said that this shipment represents the culmination of 3 years of systems engineering at the Plymouth, Mich. facility and 13 years of applied research by Unisys Corp.

''This delivery is the beginning of a new era in high-speed document processing,'' said Borgerson. ''The impact that image processing technology will have on the banking industry will be as great, if not greater, than the impact that Magnetic Ink Character Recognition (MICR) technology had 25 years ago.''

With this shipment, Unisys has also kept its InfoImage program, which it announced on Oct. 11, 1989, on schedule. The Northern Trust Company was one of the first-day orders for InfoImage IIPS.

IIPS components include: o An IC1800 imaging module for the Unisys DP1800 high-speed reader/sorter o IW800 image workstations for image displaying/printing, amount/data entry, corrections/balancing, and image advice printing o IR9000 image storage and retrieval module o High-speed power encoder

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - The Sharper Image (NASDAQ:SHRP) Monday reported results for the fourth quarter and fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1990.

In the fourth quarter this year, The Sharper Image had new record quarterly revenues of $88 million, and net income of $6.2 million, or 75 cents per share. For the same period in the prior year, the company had revenues of $83.5 million, and net income of $6.9 million, or 84 cents per share.

For the full year, total revenues reached another record mark, topping $208.6 million, and a net income of $4.2 million, or 51 cents per share, compared to total revenues of $191.3 million, and net income of $4.8 million, or 58 cents per share, a year ago.

''We are gratified by our strong sales in both the fourth quarter and the year, which is a testament to both the attractive and desirable product selection at The Sharper Image and committed efforts by all our employees throughout the country,'' said Richard Thalheimer, chairman and chief executive officer.

He added, ''As we had previously announced, the shortfall in earnings for the quarter and the full year this year reflects increased advertising expenses to stimulate sales in a generally weak retailing environment during that time, although our steps taken to maintain our merchandise margins were successful.''

He further added, ''We expect the difficult retail environment to effect sales during the first part of 1990.''

The Sharper Image is a specialty retailer of a unique selection of innovating and high quality products that are marketed through its colorful, monthly catalogs and expanding retail network which now totals

66 stores nationwide and six internationally.

MAYWOOD, NJ (MARCH 26) BUSINESS WIRE - As previously announced, AP Industries Inc. has extended the expiration date of its exchange offer to its debentureholders pending the filing of a supplement to its prospectus and consent solicitation.

The exchange offer, as described in the prospectus, contemplates that, upon consummation of the exchange offer, the consenting debentureholders will own all of the stock of AP and AP will sell certain assets, primarily AP's entire investment in Nytronics Inc. and H.H.R. Food Industries Inc., to EY Holdings Inc., a newly formed, nominally capitalized corporation.

Yehochai Schneider, a creditor of AP's parent company, D.E.H. Holdings Ltd. (which presently owns 100 percent of the stock of AP), Ezra Harel, currently the sole stockholder of DEH and chairman of the board and chief executive officer of AP, and Roger Slotkin, a business associate of Schneider, own 49 percent, 49 percent and 2 percent, respectively, of the stock of EY Holdings. In consideration for these assets, EY Holdings was to issue to AP a $4,161,516 note and a 10-year warrant to purchase up to 25 percent of the common stock of EY Holdings, assume AP's liabilities, if any, associated with such assets and agree to indemnify AP for losses incurred with respect to certain liabilities.

Because of delays in the exchange offer, AP determined that it was in its best interest to consummate the asset transfer promptly, and on March 26, 1990, the asset transfer was concluded on essentially the terms described in the exchange offer prospectus. In addition, proposed amendments to the credit facility between General Electric Capital Corp. and Nytronics were consummated on substantially the terms described in the prospectus, except that the transactions that were to have taken place upon consummation of the exchange offer were consummated at the time of the asset transfer. In connection with such amendments, GECC and AP exchanged cross-releases with respect to claims that either party might have against the other in connection with the Nytronics' credit facility with GECC. Ezra Harel also agreed to discontinue receiving salary payments under his employment agreement with AP.

Effective March 21, Elie Housman resigned as a director of AP. DEH has informed AP that, in order to facilitate the consummation of the exchange offer, it is investigating an appropriate method of transferring the stock of AP to a trustee for the benefit of the AP debentureholders, which trustee will appoint new directors, at which time the present board of directors will resign from their positions in AP and will be replaced by such new directors.

AP intends to continue the exchange offer, and will file an appropriate supplement or post-effective amendment with the Securities and Exchange Commission as soon as practicable. The exchange offer will remain open for a period of 10 business days commencing upon either the mailing date of such supplement or the declaration of effectiveness of the post-effective amendment, as the case may be.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows on March 16, 1990, Larry's Ice Cream reported that an employee in its accounting department, since fired for other reasons, recorded several transactions incorrectly in the company's books. Those errors, pertaining to company business during the first five months of 1989, resulted in an increase of $225,286 in the company's loss for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1989.

Larry's believes that systems and proceedures implemented during the last quarter of its fiscal 1989 year will prevent the reoccurence of such errors.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows in connection with a settlement agreement between Sheldon Kass and Digital Solutions Inc. dated Nov. 28, 1990, Sheldon Cass would resign as president and chairman of the board of the company and be retained as interm president and as a salaried employee of the company. Also connected to the agreement, Jack Safran would resign as director, and the board would appoint Raymond Skiptunis chairman of the board and CEO.

The bylaws of the company would also be changed such that the president would become chief operation officer and the chairman would become CEO and controller of the operations of Digital Solutions. The board of directors would then be increased to seven.

If the settlement plans were not to be adopted, it had been agreed that Mr. Kass and Mr. Safran would not resign, and Mr. Skiptunis would resign as director.

These settlement plans relate to a lawsuit brought by Digital Solutions against Mr. and Mrs. Kass related to their holdings in the company and monies lent to them by the company.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) COMTEX - Former Secretary of Energy James R. Schlesinger warned today that by 1995 the annual cost of United States oil imports will likely exceed its present $100-billion-plus trade deficit.

Schlesinger noted that growing domestic demand along with declining production has raised U.S. imports by 3.5 million barrels per day and that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has expanded its production in excess of 23 million barrels per day.

"Increased U.S. imports have counted for more than half of the growth of OPEC exports," Schlesinger said. The United States has been the principal engine in the restoration of OPEC's power."

In his remarks before the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, Schlesinger said if present trends continue, the U.S. will be roughly 65 percent dependent on foreign oil supplies by the middle of the decade.

"We import 8 million barrels per day and production is falling at a 6 percent annual rate," Schlesinger said. "This means by the mid 1990s, domestic production will be down to 7 million barrels per day. With domestic demand growing by about 2 percent per annum, U.S. imports will reach 10 to 11 million barrels per day by 1995."

The former Carter cabinet official further cautioned that prices will soon be forced up by market forces. "OPEC's sustainable capacity today is little in excess of 25 million barrels per day," Schlesinger said. "With the call on OPEC growing at over a million barrels per day each year, we are only a couple of years away from the point that demand would theoretically reach the level of present capacity."

Should such an event occur, demand would exceed supply and prices would naturally tend to rise.

"I think there will be a price surge in the mid 1990s, and there is a 40 percent chance of a price spike like those of 1973-74 and 1979-80," Schlesinger predicted.

However, the Bush administration presents a much more benign outlook. "There appears to be substantial excess capacity in the oil market currently and little upward pressure on prices," said Richard Schmalensee, member of the Council of Economic Advisers. "Taking longer view, a gradual shrinking of world excess capacity may produce rising real oil prices by the end of the decade."

In order to limit future vulnerability for national security and/or international financial reasons, Schlesinger advocates conserving domestic use of oil, providing better tax incentives for producers, and increased drilling. In addition, Schlesinger is urging that the U.S. strategic petroleum reserve should be increased from 750 million barrels to 1 billion barrels and he suggested the establishment of an "energy bank" to help oil-producing firms located in the Southwest to obtain credit.

"If we are more dependent on foreign oil, our position is weakened," Schlesinger said. "Rising oil prices result in higher interest rates, slower economic growth and greater unemployment."

The administration differs with this asssessment and used West Germany and Japan to illustrate that even near-total dependence on oil is not inconsistent with strong economic growth.

"West Germany and Japan have managed to run persistent current account surpluses despite importing essentially all the oil they consume," Schmalensee said.

Schmalensee added that even though there is rising global demand for oil and U.S. imports are rising, there are many reasons to be optimistic about future oil markets and prices.

"World and U.S. energy security preparedness is at a much higher level now than it was in the 1970s," he said. "Should a massive oil disruption occur even though such an event is thought to be highly unlikely, there would be price increases but the economy could ride it out without major dislocations."

MILWAUKEE (MARCH 26) UPI - Rock 'n roll fans know Ted Nugent as ''The Motor City Madman'' but he'd prefer to be called ''The Whackmaster,'' a term conjured up by his father to describe an expert bow hunter.

As the Motor City Madman, the wild-haired guitar strangler, Nugent is back with a new band, Damn Yankees, which includes Tommy Shaw of the defunct Styx and Jack Blades of Nightranger.

''It was a labor of love all through '89 in and around the hunting season '' Nugent said. ''We were writing some songs and playing. I said, 'Wait a minute. This stuff kicks my ass and God knows I need more of that.'''

As The Whackmaster, the stealthy hunter stalking the Michigan woods with bow and arrow, he's about to come out with his own line of bow hunting gear.

The Whackmaster line will be gray and black striped with a curved bow. A hunter also can get a Whackmaster arrows and other equipment, as well as Whackwear clothing and boots.

''It's my life,'' Nugent said of his hunting while in Milwaukee recently for a sports show. ''It's been a source of recharging my batteries my entire life. It's kind of like a Zen thing.''

In Nugent's world there are two types of people. There are ''whackers'' - those who hunt - and there are ''gomers'' - people unaware about hunting or morally against the sport.

''The gomers who don't like hunting lie,'' said Nugent. ''Controlled hunting is preserving the game in America and around the world.''

The rock star, who is married with three kids, spends months each year hunting on his 1,100-acre ranch in Michigan when not touring or cutting records.

''I've never bought any meat in the Nugent house,'' he said. ''We only eat what I kill. Of course, the sheep farmer down the street is getting angry because we like lamb. No, that's a joke.''

In addition to hunting in the United States, Nugent manages 40,000 acres in South Africa where he hunts regularly. He sponsors three 10-day hunts a year in Africa, costing $275 a day for each person.

He has shot numerous game in Africa, including two cape buffalo. But his biggest prize came two years ago when he bagged a record 650-pound black bear in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

''I thought it was a Toyota with hair,'' he said. ''It was huge.''

Nugent's children also have become avid hunters, which he believes has kept them away from trouble.

''When we are hunting, the conversation just flows,'' said Nugent, 41. ''I don't think there's another spot on earth where people will have a more open relationship than when you're in the wild.''

He also encourages other children to hunt and was cited in a resolution by the Michigan Legislature recently as being a good role model for kids.

''Increasingly, we need to find something for young people to do in life and battle this lie called peer pressure,'' he said.

''I've never smoked a joint and I've never done drugs,'' he said. ''Other rock stars were promoting peace while doing drugs and ended up choking to death on their vomit. I was out chasing short skirts and whacking things.''

Nugent's music sometimes reflects his love for hunting. Last year, he had a hit song, ''Fred Bear,'' honoring the man of the same name who brought bow hunting into prominence.

Nugent met the late Bear in the 1960s and hunted with him in the '70s.

''Fred Bear was absolutely awe inspiring,'' he said. ''The guy was magnificent - an uncanny hunter and a gentleman.''

TOKYO (MARCH 26) - Japan agreed Monday to lend 7.2 billion yen (47 million dollars) to the Ivory Coast to help boost agricultural production in the West African nation.

The agreement was signed here Monday by Ivory Coast Foreign Minister Simeon Ake and his Japanese counterpart Taro Nakayama, an official Japanese source said.

The 30-year loan, designed to aid the country in restructuring agriculture and increasing food production, carries a grace period of 10 years and an annual interest rate of 2.7 percent.

Mr. Ake, in Tokyo at the invitation of Mr. Nakayama, was to leave Thursday after talks with the Japanese foreign minister about economic cooperation between the two countries.

SINGAPORE (MARCH 26) - A high-level Singapore trade mission will visit India next month to develop and expand mutual trade ties, the Trade Development Board (TDB) announced Monday.

TDB said the mission, led by Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Peter Sung, was part of an ongoing programme started in 1985 to develop and expand bilateral trade with India.

While in New Delhi, from April 8 to 11, Mr Sung will have talks with several ministers, key government officials and leading businessmen, it said.

The mission members, made up of four groups with interests involved in timber, tourism and construction, trade and investment and electronics, will tour India during the first half of April. They will meet businessmen senior officials in the various ministries and public organizations, members of the chambers of commerce and trade organizations.

They are expected to explore business prospects in Bangalore, Bombay, Madras, Mangalore, Mysore and New Delhi.

Chandra Das, a government backbencher who is chairman of the Defence and Foreign Affairs Parliamentary Committee and of Jurong Shipyard, will be among them.

"The mission will enable Singapore companies interested in doing business with India to update first-hand information on developments in the Indian market," the TDB statement said.

The companies could also "evaluate first-hand the implications of India's government policies on foreign investments and imports," it added.

Trade between Singapore and India grew from an average of 100 million dollars (53.7 million U.S.) a year in the 1960s to reach 2.4 billion dollars 1.3 billion U.S.) in 1989. Last year exports went up 23.2 per cent from 1988 to reach 1.8 billion dollars (968 million U.S.) while Singapore imports grew by 10.8 per cent to reach 591.7 million dollars (318.1 million U.S.). India is Singapore's 15th largest trading partner.

Sinapore's main exports to India are industrial inputs, semi-manufactured goods, industrial components and machinery spare parts. Imports from India are office and data processing machines and parts, precious stones, leather and textile products, iron pipes and fittings and machinery.

BEIJING (MARCH 26) - Investment in gold mining will increase by 50 million yuan (11 million dollars) this year to 1.1 billion yuan (233 million dollars) to ensure that China meets its foreign debt payments, according to the director of the State Gold Administration.

Xu Daquan, quoted by the China Daily on Monday, said the money would be used to put nine new mines into operation by the end of 1990 while construction on at least four others would be accelerated with the hope of increasing output by 6.9 percent over last year.

Work on a gold smelter in central Henan province is also expected to be completed by June, Mr. Xu told the opening of the annual gold industry meeting here Sunday, adding that funds for new gold prospecting would be increased.

Mr. Xu said the new investment would help ensure that China meets its foreign debt payments this year. The country currently owes about 40 billion dollars in foreign debts.

China, one of the world's top gold producers with an estimated annual output of 50 tons, has invested a total of about three billion yuan (635 million dollars) in the gold industry in the last three years and output has increased by an average annual rate of 10 percent in the last decade.

But Mr. Xu said a 1988 ban on private prospecting, which has damaged 100 gold mines and robbed the state of tens of thousands of ounces a year, would be continued.

TOKYO (MARCH 26) - Toshiba Corp., Japan's leading computer and electronics maker, said Monday it would boost imports of electronic parts and products to 200 billion yen (1.3 billion dollars) by the year ending March 1993.

Toshiba officials said the company decided to bring forward by one year the targeted date of its program to double imports in five years from the year ended March 1989 because of the growing tension between the United States and Japan on trade-related matters.

The target date was initially set for the year to end March 1994.

Toshiba is to establish a task force within the company, effective April 1, and to set up a subsidiary to increase imports, they said.

MOSCOW (MARCH 26) - French publishing group Hersant is planning to launch a Soviet business monthly in April in a joint venture with two Soviet companies, one of the partners said here Monday.

The news magazine, "Business in the USSR", would be published in both English and Russian and is aiming to be the equivalent for the Soviet business world of the U.S. periodical "Fortune."

It will initially publish 100,000 copies a month in Russian and 40,000 in English.

The magazine, a joint venture between Hersant, Soviet publishers Progress and Soviet bank Innovation, will be printed in France but edited in Moscow by a team of 20 Soviet journalists led by the former head of the Tass news agency diplomatic service, Vladimier Biriukov.

PARIS (MARCH 26) - The number of unemployed in France rose by 2,600 in February over the January level to 2.493 million, the labour ministry said Monday.

The unemployment rate was unchanged from January at 9.4 percent.

On a year on year basis, the number of unemployed was down 46,200, or 1.7 percent.

Unemployment had been falling steadily in the past six months, and the labour department said that the February figure did not mean that the overall downward trend was threatened.

KUALA LUMPUR (MARCH 26) - Malaysia has raised oil production by 30,000 barrels to 590,000 barrels per day since January, the president of the national oil company, Petronas, said Monday.

President Azizan Zainal Abidin said that output was expected to increase by a further 30,000 barrels per day when new capacity in the Dulang oil field off northeastern Trengganu state, became operational early next year.

Mr. Azizan was speaking to reporters after signing a production sharing contract and joint operating agreement with Texaco Exploration Penyu Inc., a unit of the U.S.-based Texaco International Petroleum Ltd.

The production sharing contract for PM 14, a 10,800-square-kilometre (4,212 square miles) area off eastern Pahang state, is the first signed this year. A total of 32 contracts have been signed since production terms were revised in 1985.

Mr. Azizan said Texaco, working in an Indonesian area next to PM 14, had found oil reserves estimated at 200 million barrels. The PM 14 block is a geological extension of Indonesia's oil and gas producing West Natuna basin.

The terms of the agreement provided for a total minimum investment of 25.25 million U.S. dollars, collection of seismic data and the drilling of eight exploration wells, including at least five wildcat wells.

Petronas expects to sign one more production sharing contract this year for an onshore block in the east Malaysian state of Sarawak, Mr. Azizan said.

Industry sources said they expected Petronas to revise terms for exploration. Existing terms were essentially drafted for shallow areas, they said.

HONG KONG (MARCH 26) - A fall in the value of domestic exports caused Hong Kong's trade deficit to widen sharply to 2.7 billion dollars (346 million U.S.) in February, according to official figures released here Monday.

The February deficit was 35 percent wider than the two billion dollar (256 million U.S.) figure recorded in the same month last year.

The value of domestic exports fell 5.2 percent to 13.3 billion dollars (1.7 billion U.S.) in February while the value of re-exports, mainly goods from China, increased 9.2 percent to 24.5 billion dollars (3.1 billion U.S.)

Imports jumped 5.2 percent to 40.5 billion (5.2 billion U.S.).

Continuing weak exports have trimmed the British colony's economic growth rate to 2.5 percent, less than half the government's original forecast.

A more recent official prediction puts growth in the colony's gross domestic product this year at around three percent, on the assumption of a slight recovery in trade figures in the second half.

PARIS (MARCH 26) - The European rocket Ariane is to launch a second generation French telecommunications satellite next year, its 80th launch contract in 10 years, Arianespace said here Monday.

The announcement that Telecom-2-B would be launched by Ariane coincided with the 10th anniversary of Arianespace, which markets the European rocket worldwide.

It was Ariane's third new contract since a failed launch in February which saw the destruction of two Japanese satellites.

Telecom-2-B will weigh 2,200 kilograms (4,840 pounds) and will relay telephone calls, numerical data and television broadcasts. It will also be used by the defence ministry for military communication.

Ariane now has 35 satellite launches on its order books, worth a total 14.8 billion francs (2.5 billion dollars). But no date has been set for a resumption of launches pending the results of an enquiry into the February failure, which are not expected before the end of the month.

KUALA LUMPUR (MARCH 26) - Malaysia recorded a deficit of just under 500 million Malaysian dollars (185 million U.S.) in the current account of its balance of payments last year, Bernama news agency said Monday.

Clifford Herbert, secretary of the treasury's economic division, said the deficit in the current account was caused by lower export growth of about 22 per cent against a 40 percent increase in imports, Bernama reported.

Malaysia had a 4.9 billion Malaysian dollar (1.8 billion U.S.) surplus in the current account in 1988.

Mr. Herbert said the import bill for capital goods had risen significantly because of an unprecedented influx of foreign investment.

He said that despite the deficit, Malaysia's overall balance of payments position was still in a surplus position as reflected by the central bank's strong reserves of about 22 billion dollars (8.15 billion U.S.) at the end of last year.

Mr. Herbert added that Malaysia's economy was still fundamentally strong having registered a growth rate of more than eight per cent in its gross domestic product last year.

KUALA LUMPUR, March 26 (AFP) - Malaysian International Shipping Corp. (MISC) Monday reported a 10 percent hike in group pre-tax profit to 432.7 million Malaysian dollars (160.3 million U.S.) for the year ended December 31.

The MISC group made a pre-tax profit of 391.6 million dollars (145 million U.S.) in the previous financial year.

MISC said group turnover rose three percent to 1.57 billion dollars (581 million U.S.) from 1.53 billion dollars (567 million U.S.).

The group's flagship company made a pretax profit of 426.9 million dollars (158.1 million U.S.), up 9.7 percent from 388.9 million dollars (144 million U.S.) a year earlier.

MISC said the improved performance was due to the better contribution from liner and bulk trade, full employment of liquefied natural gas carriers, savings in operating costs and reduced interest payments on borrowings.

The company said prospects appeared favourable this year although there would be uncertainties in the liner and dry bulk sectors.

LEVERKUSEN, West Germany (MARCH 26) - West German pharmaceutical group Bayer on Monday posted record results for last year, with pre-tax profit up 7.8 percent from 1988 at 4.1 billion Deutsche marks (2.4 billion dollars).

Consolidated turnover rose seven percent to 43.3 billion Deutsche marks, and "should stabilise at this high level in 1990," Bayer said.

The results given in a letter to shareholders confirmed figures unofficially leaked at the end of last month

Bayer's activities abroad showed an 8.8 percent increase in sales, with U.S. sales up 19.3 percent but those in Latin America down 18.6 percent.

Domestic turnover was up 4.5 percent.

Pharmaceuticals sales rose by 22 percent and industrial products revenue rose four percent.

LONDON (MARCH 26) - French bank Credit Commercial de France is holding talks with British financial group Throgmorton Trust on taking a stake in Throgmorton fund management subsidiary Framlington Holdings, Throgmorton said Monday.

"There is a long way to go" and CCF "may or may not" take a stake in Framlington, Throgmorton said.

Framlington manages 2.4 billion pounds (3.9 billion dollars) and was formed in 1969 to offer fund management services to clients of Laurence Prust, a brokerage that has since been acquired by CCF.

CCF held a 29 percent stake in Framlington in 1988 when Throgmorton launched a 70 million pound (116 million dollars) takeover bid for the British company. CCF ceded its Framlington stake to Throgmorton.

But analysts said that the link-up between Framlington and Throgmorton had not been a happy one, and 11 portfolio managers had left Framlington in the past year.

Throgmorton estimates Framlington's value at around 75 million pounds, but its real price in current market conditions is nearer 50 million, on the basis of the formula of 2.1 percent of funds managed used when French bank Indosuez acquired Gartmore for 140 million pounds recently.

Framlington had a net profit of 3.6 million pounds last year, against 4.2 million in 1988.

Islamabad (MARCH 26) - Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto's government Monday announced increases in petroleum and fertilizer prices in Pakistan.

Officials said petrol price had to be raised by about 16 per cent, because of the recent increase in the price of imported crude, and fertilizers by about seven per cent.

Political observers in Islamabad said the increases, dictated by the terms of a three-year financial support agreement signed by the previous government with the International Monetray Fund (Imf) in 1988, would provide ammunition to the bitter opposition which had exhausted its arsenal against Bhutto in their running feuds.

Business circles said costlier petrol and fertilizer would have inflationary effect on the prices of a wide-range of goods and services.

Bhutto's main economic adviser, V. A. Jaffery, admitted the costlier petrol and fertilizers would have inflationary impact on a whole range of goods and services but insisted the rate of inflation would remain within the eight per cent limit set in the current budget. dpa sc 261652 mrz 90

PARIS (MARCH 26) - French group Bernard Krief Consultants said Monday it had offered to buy the U.S.-based Hay Group, a subsidiary of troubled British advertising group Saatchi and Saatchi for 120 million dollars.

Hay Group specialises in management consultancy and is Saatchi's leading company in this sector.

Bernard Krief, which specialises in recruitment, said it had been negotiating the operation since the middle of last year.

Saatchi said in June that it wanted to sell Hay, which it acquired in 1984 for 100 million dollars. Hay's employees have said they are interested in staging a management buyout.

Saatchi's management consultancy division had a turnover of 248 million pounds (413 million dollars) last year, with operating profit of 14 million (23.3 million dollars) before tax and exceptional items.

London analysts estimated Hay's turnover at around 100-110 million pounds (166 to 183 million dollars), with profit of 3.5 to four million (5.8 to 6.6 million dollars).

Saatchi had a net loss of 58 million pounds (96.6 million dollars) in the year to September after 19 years of continually rising profit.

Saatchi shares rose five pence to 136 in early afternoon trading in London on Monday.

ATHENS (MARCH 26) - The European Commission has expressed concern over Greece's worsening economic situation and urged it to take urgent measures to improve the situation, it was disclosed here Monday.

The warning came in a letter from the Commission, the European Economic Community executive, to Greek Prime Minister Xenophon Zolotas, details of which were given to the press by Constantin Mitsokakis, head of the conservative New Democratic Party.

The current level of Greece's foreign and public debt and the danger that it would rise even further "threaten to harm Greece's solvency," the letter said. "The development gap between Greece and the other EEC countries threatens to undermine progress towards a single market, economic and monetary union and European union."

The Commission also said it was in a "difficult position" over whether to participate in and guarantee a new loan sought by Greece as it would be a loan to a country that had not respected its commitments in the past.

The letter, dated March 5, had been handed to Mr. Zolotas by Greek Commissioner Vasso Papandreou on March 16, Mr. Mitsokakis said.

Greece's foreign debt totalled 22 billion dollars at the end of last year, while the public sector deficit was running at 22 percent of gross domestic product.

Mr. Mitsokakis said he had decided to make the letter public to enable people to vote in a general election April 8 in full possession of all facts relating to the country's economic problems.

SEOUL (MARCH 27) - South Korean exports plunged last year for the first time in a decade while imports soared, the central Bank of Korea (BOK) said Tuesday.

BOK statistics showed that South Korea exported 61.28 billion dollars' worth of commodities on a balance of payment (BOP) basis in 1989, 5.2 percent down from the previous year.

Imports increased by a remarkable 14.3 percent to 56.77 billion dollars, leaving a 4.51 billion dollar trade surplus on a BOP basis, compared with a 11.4 billion dollar surplus in 1988.

The 5.2 percent reduction in 1989 exports was the first cutback since 1979, when the country suffered a 0.6 percent decrease in commodity exports amid the second oil shock.

The cutback was the more striking when compared to the previous years' figures. Exports increased by 23.7 percent in 1987 and by 14.0 per cent in 1988.

Government officials and business firms blamed slow exports in 1989 on the appreciation of South Korea's won and sharp wage hikes since 1987.

However, many analysts and the opposition criticized business firms, especially the country's giant business conglomerates, for a lack of entrepreneurship, accusing them of indulging in speculative investments in property and valuables.

Despite the decrease in exports, the Gross National Product (GNP) increased 6.7 percent to 141 trillion won (210.1 billion dollars) in 1989 prices thanks to an increase in domestic demand, especially in construction.

The manufacturing sector grew by a mere 3.7 percent, compared with 13.4 per cent growth the previous year, contributing a low 20.7 percent to GNP growth, down from 39.6 percent from the previous year.

PANAMA CITY (MARCH 26) - A private Panamanian lawyers' group said Monday it would take legal action in the United States to obtain reparations for damage from the U.S. invasion in December.

The group, called Associated Lawyers, represents several hundred plaintiffs who resided in the capital's Chorrillo neighborhood, most of which was burned to the ground during the invasion, according to the group's spokesman Felipe Waisome.

Hundreds of Panamanians were killed and more than 1,500 families were left homeless by the invasion in which U.S. troops toppled military strongman Manuel Antonio Noriega and installed a civilian government.

U.S. President George Bush is seeking from Congress dlrs 500 million in aid for Panama.

The lawyers plan to base their case on the 1977 Panama Canal Treaty, under which the United States agreed to compensate Panama for any damage done by U.S. troops.

Under the treaty, more than 10,000 American troops are stationed at bases in Panama.

TOKYO (MARCH 26) KYODO - FUJITSU LTD. SAID MONDAY IT HAS AGREED TO SUPPORT A LOCAL AREA NETWORK (LAN) SYSTEM DEVELOPED BY A U.S. SOFTWARE FIRM FOR USE WITH ITS LARGE MAINFRAMES AND SUPERCOMPUTERS.

THE COOPERATIVE SOFTWARE AGREEMENT WITH ULTRA NETWORK TECHNOLOGIES INC., LOCATED IN SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA, WILL ENABLE THE COMPUTER MAKER'S VP 2000 SERIES SUPERCOMPUTERS AND M-780 AND M-760 MAINFRAME SYSTEMS TO OPERATE OVER AN ULTRAFAST LAN, WHICH IS ALREADY SUPPORTED BY SUCH COMPUTER MAKERS AS CRAY RESEARCH INC, INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS MACHINES CO., AND SUN MICROSYSTEMS INC.

THE HIGH-SPEED LAN, CALLED ''ULTRANET,'' CAN TRANSMIT DATA AT A SPEED OF 1 GIGABITS PER SECOND. A GIGABIT IS EQUAL TO ONE BILLION BITS OF DATA.

A LOCAL AREA NETWORK IS AN IN-HOUSE COMMUNICATIONS NETWORK WITHIN A SINGLE BUILDING, CONNECTING A NUMBER OF MICROCOMPUTERS TOGETHER. THE MICROCOMPUTERS CAN SHARE DEVICES SUCH AS PRINTERS AND FILES STORED ON HARD DISKS.

THE LAN IS EXPECTED TO BE USED FOR ENGINEERING AND SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS RUN ON SUPERCOMPUTERS BECAUSE OF ITS DISTRIBUTED PROCESSING CAPABILITIES AND HIGH SPEED FILE TRANSFER RATE.

THE JAPANESE COMPUTER MAKER SAID IT PLANS TO BEGIN SUPPLYING THE LOCAL AREA NETWORK TO USERS OF ITS SUPERCOMPUTERS AND MAINFRAMES SOMETIME LATE IN THE FOURTH QUARTER THIS YEAR.

MEANWHILE, TOKYO ELECTRON LTD. WILL INDEPENDENTLY MARKET AND SUPPORT ''ULTRANET'' SOFTWARE SALES IN JAPAN, THE COMPANY SAID.

FUJITSU WILL PROVIDE MARKET AND SUPPORT INTERFACE SOFTWARE IN JAPAN AND OVERSEAS.

SEOUL (MARCH 26) KYODO - SOUTH KOREAN VICTIMS AND SURVIVING FAMILIES OF SOLDIERS FORCED TO FIGHT FOR JAPAN IN WORLD WAR II GATHERED HERE MONDAY TO DEMAND THAT JAPAN COMPENSATE THEM FOR THEIR HARDSHIP.

BACKED BY BOTH SOUTH KOREAN AND JAPANESE LAWYERS, THE GROUP FINALIZED PLANS TO BRING THE SUIT BEFORE AN INTERNATIONAL COURT IF THEIR DEMANDS ARE REJECTED BY THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT.

THE GATHERING OF SOME 350 VICTIMS AND SUPPORTERS DECLARED VOID A 1965 SOUTH KOREAN-JAPANESE PACT WHICH RELINQUISHED INDIVIDUAL DAMAGE CLAIMS AND PROVIDED LIMITED COMPENSATION TO SOME 9,000 PEOPLE.

DEMANDS INCLUDE AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF APOLOGY FROM TOKYO, THE RELEASE OF A LIST OF WAR VICTIMS AND THE EXCAVATION AND RETURN OF THEIR REMAINS. THE GROUP SAID IT WOULD PURSUE ITS SUIT AGAINST JAPAN AS A ''WAR CRIME'' UNDER INTERNATIONAL LAW.

PROTESTORS JOSTLED WITH RIOT POLICE WHEN THEY TRIED TO MARCH TO THE JAPANESE EMBASSY SHORTLY AFTER THE MEETING BUT NO INJURIES WERE REPORTED.

JAPAN DRAFTED KOREANS FROM THE THEN-COLONIZED PENINSULA DURING THE WAR TO FIGHT FOR THE IMPERIAL FORCES AND PERFORM HARD LABOR.

MONDAY'S GATHERING FOLLOWS A DEMONSTRATION ON CITY STREETS BY SOME 300 SOUTH KOREAN VICTIMS OF THE HIROSHIMA AND NAGASAKI BOMBINGS WHO DEMANDED REPARATIONS FOR THEIR SUFFERING.

SOME 70,000 KOREANS BROUGHT TO JAPAN AS FORCED LABORERS WERE IN THE TWO CITIES WHEN THE BOMBINGS OCCURRED.

COMPENSATION FOR THE ATOMIC-BOMBING VICTIMS IS ONE OF SEVERAL ITEMS IN CURRENT NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN SEOUL AND TOKYO TO PAVE THE WAY FOR THE MUCH-DELAYED VISIT OF SOUTH KOREAN PRESIDENT ROH TAE WOO IN LATE MAY.

TOKYO (MARCH 26) KYODO - IN AN APPARENT EFFORT TO DIFFUSE U.S. COMPLAINTS ABOUT JAPAN'S RETAIL MARKET, THE GOVERNMENT HAS DECIDED TO GIVE THE GO-AHEAD TO A GIANT U.S. TOY DISTRIBUTOR, TOYS ''R'' US, INC., TO ESTABLISH A FOOTHOLD IN NIIGATA PREFECTURE, GOVERNMENT SOURCES SAID MONDAY.

THE KANTO BUREAU OF THE INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND INDUSTRY MINISTRY, TOGETHER WITH THE LOCAL GOVERNMENTS AND THE NIIGATA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY, IS TO BEGIN PROCEDURES IN MID-APRIL FOR SETTING UP A BY THE U.S. COMPANY.

THE PLANNED STORE IS EXPECTED TO OPEN IN TWO YEARS, AS THE GOVERNMENT PLANS TO RELAX ENFORCEMENT OF THE LARGE-SCALE RETAIL STORES LAW AND CURTAIL THE PERIOD NEEDED TO OPEN A SHOP TO TWO YEARS FROM THE CURRENT PERIOD OF UP TO 10 YEARS.

THE MOVE APPARENTLY CAME UNDER U.S. PRESSURE TO SCRAP THE RETAIL LAW AT ONGOING BILATERAL TRADE TALKS KNOWN AS THE STRUCTURAL IMPEDIMENTS INITIATIVE (SII).

WASHINGTON IS PRESSING JAPAN TO REPEAL THE LAW, WHICH IT CLAIMS LIMITS IMPORTS BY HINDERING ESTABLISHMENT OF BIG RETAIL STORES, WHICH ARE BELIEVED TO DISTRIBUTE MORE IMPORTED GOODS THAN SMALL-SCALE SHOPS.

IN JANUARY, TOY ''R'' US ANNOUNCED A PLAN TO OPEN A 5,000 SQUARE-METER DISCOUNT STORE IN NIIGATA CITY, BUT THE MOVE MET FIERCE OPPOSITION FROM LOCAL SHOPKEEPERS.

HOW THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT HANDLES THE CASE IS REGARDED BY WASHINGTON AS A LITMUS TEST FOR FURTHER ENTRY BY U.S. RETAILERS INTO JAPAN.

NOBEOKA, MIYAZAKI PREF (MARCH 26) KYODO - A BRANCH OF THE MIYAZAKI DISTRICT COURT ORDERED A MINING COMPANY ON MONDAY TO PAY COMPENSATION AMOUNTING TO ABOUT 210 MILLION YEN TO NINE LOCAL RESIDENTS SUFFERING FROM ARSENIC POISONING AND BEREAVED FAMILIES OF NINE OTHER PEOPLE WHO DIED FROM THE POISONING.

THE VICTIMS, WHO CONSTITUTE THE SECOND GROUP TO HAVE FILED SUIT IN THE CASE, DEMANDED COMPENSATION OF 830 MILLION YEN AGAINST SUMITOMO METAL MINING CO.

PRESIDING JUDGE SHIGEAKI KABURAGI SAID THAT THERE WAS A LEGAL CAUSE-AND-EFFECT RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN ARSENIC POISONING FROM THE MINE AND SKIN DAMAGE AND NERVE DISORDERS SUFFERED BY THE VICTIMS.

THE JUDGE ALSO RULED THAT BENEFITS PAID TO THE VICTIMS UNDER A LAW ON COMPENSATION FOR HEALTH DAMAGE FROM POLLUTION ARE NOT TO BE DEDUCTED FROM THE COMPENSATION.

THE FIRST GROUP OF PLAINTIFFS IN THE CASE WON THEIR SUIT IN SEEKING 560 MILLION YEN IN COMPENSATION AGAINST THE COMPANY IN THE LOWER COURTS IN 1984 AND 1988. THE CASE IS PENDING AT THE SUPREME COURT BECAUSE THE FIRM HAS APPEALED.

THE COMPANY WAS THE LAST OWNER OF THE FORMER TOROKU MINE IN TAKACHIHO, MIYAZAKI PREFECTURE. NEARBY AREAS ARE STILL CONTAMINATED WITH A HIGH DENSITY OF ARSENIC.

KABURAGI ALSO SAID IN MONDAY'S RULING THE LIABILITY LAY WITH THE OWNER OF

THE MINE RIGHTS, REGARDLESS OF WHETHER THE MINE WAS STILL IN USE, AS WERE THE PRECEDENT COURT RULINGS TO THE FIRST PLAINTIFFS.

THE MINING LAW STIPULATES THAT THE POSSESSOR OF MINING RIGHTS HAS A LIABILITY TO PAY COMPENSATION.

THE COMPANY HAD DENIED ANY RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE POLLUTION ON THE GROUNDS THAT IT HAS BEEN NEITHER OPERATING NOR PROFITING FROM THE MINE, WHICH WAS CLOSED 28 YEARS AGO.

TOKYO (MARCH 27) KYODO - ECONOMIC PLANNING AGENCY CHIEF HIDEYUKI AIZAWA SAID TUESDAY HE IS CONCERNED ABOUT THE POSSIBLE IMPACT ON PRICES OF THE YEN'S CURRENT WEAKNESS, BUT RULED OUT THE POSSIBILITY OF IMMEDIATE, SHARP INFLATION.

AIZAWA SAID HE HAS HEARD SOME SAY THAT JAPANESE MANUFACTURERS ARE ALREADY DOING BUSINESS WITH A 160-YEN TO THE DOLLAR EXCHANGE RATE IN MIND. BUT AIZAWA SAID THE GOVERNMENT IS OF THE VIEW THAT THE YEN'S CURRENT WEAKNESS IS NOT GOOD FOR ECONOMIC MANAGEMENT.

HE INDICATED THAT THE BANK OF JAPAN MAY HAVE BEEN TOO CAUTIOUS IN THE TIMING OF ITS INCREASE IN THE OFFICIAL DISCOUNT RATE LAST WEEK.

HE ALSO MENTIONED A PROBABLE DIFFERENCE IN VIEW BETWEEN JAPAN AND THE UNITED STATES ON FOREIGN EXCHANGE RATES IN A REFERENCE TO THE LOS ANGELES TALKS BETWEEN FINANCE MINISTER RYUTARO HASHIMOTO AND TREASURY SECRETARY NICHOLAS BRADY LAST WEEKEND. THE TALKS FAILED TO PRODUCE ANY NEW MEASURE

TO PREVENT THE YEN'S DECLINE.

HAMAMATSU, SHIZUOKA PREF (MARCH 27) KYODO - THE SHIZUOKA DISTRICT COURT ON TUESDAY SENTENCED JUN HIROSE, A FORMER DOCTOR AT HAMAMATSU MEDICAL UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL, TO 17 YEARS IN JAIL FOR THE MURDER OF A PATIENT IN A KIDNEY TRANSPLANT OPERATION SCAM.

IN SENTENCING HIROSE, PRESIDING JUDGE HIROSHI YAMAGUCHI SAID THE CRIME HAD BEEN ''A SELF-CENTERED ACT TO FULFILL ONE'S OWN HAPPINESS THROUGH THE PREMEDITATED SHORT-CUT OF SACRIFICING ANOTHER PERSON'S LIFE.''

''THIS CRIME HAS NO SMALL INFLUENCE ON SOCIETY WHOSE TRUST IN DOCTORS MUST BE UNSHAKEN,'' SAID YAMAGUCHI. IN SENTENCING THE ACCUSED, YAMAGUCHI NOTED THAT HIROSE HAD SURRENDERED TO POLICE AND CONFESSED TO THE CRIME.

PROSECUTING LAWYERS HAD ASKED FOR A 20-YEAR SENTENCE. LACKING MATERIAL EVIDENCE, TUESDAY'S RULING WAS BASED SOLELY ON HIROSE'S CONFESSION WHICH DISCLOSED CONCRETE DETAILS OF THE CRIME TO INVESTIGATORS.

HIROSE'S LAWYERS, HOWEVER, SAID AT THE TIME OF THE CRIME THE DOCTOR HAD DETERIORATED MENTALLY AND LACKED THE ABILITY TO DIFFERENTIATE RIGHT FROM WRONG.

LAST SPRING, HIROSE ARRANGED FOR A BOGUS KIDNEY TRANSPLANT FOR MASAO NAKAGAWA, THEN 61, WHO SUFFERED FROM CHRONIC KIDNEY PROBLEMS AND STRONGLY HOPED FOR A TRANSPLANT OPERATION.

AFTER NAKAGAWA TRANSFERRED 25 MILLION YEN TO THE BANK ACCOUNT OF A SUPPOSED KIDNEY DONOR, HIROSE VISITED THE PATIENT APRIL 10 AND OSTENSIBLY ADMINISTERED DRUGS TO RELAX HIM.

THE LETHAL COMBINATION OF SEDATIVES ADMINISTERED TO NAKAGAWA MADE IT APPEAR AS THOUGH HE HAD DIED OF THE ILLNESS.

DURING THE TRIAL, HIROSE ACKNOWLEDGED THE FACTS OF THE CRIME BUT HIS LAWYERS, WHILE ACKNOWLEDGING THE SWINDLING CHARGES, SAID IN THE ABSENCE OF MATERIAL EVIDENCE OR A WEAPON, THE CHARGE OF MURDER COULD NOT BE PROVEN.

THE LAWYERS SAID THE ONLY EVIDENCE PROSECUTORS HAD HAS HIROSE'S CONFESSION AND CITED ARTICLE 38 OF THE CONSTITUTION WHICH SAYS NO PERSON CAN BE COMPELLED TO TESTIFY AGAINST HIMSELF.

THE PROSECUTION COUNTERED THAT HIROSE KNOWINGLY ADMINISTERED A LETHAL COMBINATION OF SEDATIVES TO NAKAGAWA AND ATTEMPTED TO COVER HIS CRIME BY HIDING THE USED NEEDLES AND SYRINGES AT HIS HOME.

THE UNIVERSITY HAS TAKEN DISCIPLINARY ACTION AGAINST HIROSE WHILE THE MEDICAL ETHICS COUNCIL OF THE HEALTH AND WELFARE MINISTRY WILL MEET TO DECIDE ON PUNITIVE ACTION AGAINST THE DOCTOR.

RALEIGH, NC (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Firstcorp (AMEX: FCR), a Raleigh-based financial holding company, will make a $273,000 quarterly interest payment to its bondholders as scheduled on March 31, 1990, the Company announced today.

The March 31, 1990 payment will be made out of Firstcorp's operating funds according to Frank R. Gailor, Chairman of the Board.

"Firstcorp has always had the funds on hand to meet its obligations to bondholders," he said. "But under new federal regulations governing thrift institutions that went into effect on December 7, 1989, it was unclear if the quarterly payment could be made."

"After thorough review by our attorneys and discussions with the Federal Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS), the Board concluded that the interest payment will be made."

Gailor said the members of the Board of Directors of Firstcorp as well as Directors of 1st Federal of Raleigh will back the $273,000 payment with personal guarantees, indicating "a strong vote of confidence" in a recently unveiled Plan designed for long-term soundness and a return to profitability.

Gailor also said that "significant progress" has already been made in implementing the Company's recovery Plan. This includes:

-- First quarter 1990 sales of foreclosed real estate by Firstcorp's 1st Federal of Raleigh subsidiary are expected to top $18 million, compared to $14 million in all of 1989.

-- A dozen prospective buyers have been qualified and have received detailed information on 1st Security of Pinehurst, the profitable sale of which is part of Firstcorp's Plan.

-- Work is progressing on the preparation of preliminary materials required to be filed and approved in connection with the merger of 1st Federal of Durham and 1st Federal of Raleigh as well as subsequent conversion of the resulting institution to a commercial bank.

Firstcorp is the parent company of 1st Federal of Raleigh, 1st Federal of Durham and 1st Security of Pinehurst. Firstcorp's subsidiaries operate twenty-two full service offices in four counties in North Carolina which include the Research Triangle and Sandhills areas. Firstcorp's Class A Common Stock is traded on the American Stock Exchange under the symbol FCR.

HARRISBURG, PA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - General Motors (GM) has agreed to clearly disclose that "dealer participation" in its car rebate deals may increase the buyer's cost, Attorney General Ernie Preate Jr. announced today.

Preate said the disclosure requirement is part of an agreement on rebate advertising negotiated with GM by Pennsylvania, Illinois, Kansas, Maine and New York.

The negotiations were conducted under the direction of New York Attorney General Robert Abrams.

Preate said an investigation by the states disclosed that when GM requires dealer participation in a particular rebate offer, dealers routinely increase the bottom line price of the car to recoup the amount they contributed to the rebate.

Under the agreement, GM's rebate advertising must disclose the actual amount that the dealer contributes to a particular rebate and must state that this dealer participation "may or may not increase the consumer cost."

Preate noted that recent rebates offered by GM included a $750 rebate for the 1990 Chevrolet Lumina Sedan that required a dealer contribution of $150; a $1,250 rebate for the 1990 Jimmy that had a dealer contribution of $250, and a $2,000 rebate for an Oldsmobile Cutlass Ciera with a dealer contribution of $500.

Under GM rebate programs, customers can receive a rebate check directly from GM, or have the amount applied to the down payment, Preate said.

Before the agreement, GM's rebate advertising included a footnote that stated: "Dealer financial participation may affect consumer cost." Preate said the disclaimer was ambiguous, and many consumers may have interpreted it to mean that the value of the rebate to the consumer would be enhanced by dealer participation.

In entering into the agreement, GM did not concede that its advertising was deceptive. GM also agreed to pay $5,000 in legal costs to each of the five states.

Preate said Deputy Attorney General Daniel R. Goodemote, attorney-in-charge of the Erie office of the Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Protection, represented Pennsylvania in the negotiations with GM.

AUSTIN, TX (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Texas Instruments (NYSE: TXN) and Thai Airways announced today that they are jointly developing a knowledge-based flight operations system. The system, named EXPICS (EXPert Irregularity Control System), will provide advanced decision support for flight operations controllers. TI will provide knowledge engineering services, hardware, software, training and systems integration. Thai Airways will contribute the operations control, airline management information expertise and development assistance.

"As one of the leading international carriers in the Pacific Rim, we constantly operate under extreme time constraints," said Air Chief Marshal Weera Kitchathorn, president of Thai Airways. "In order to keep our operations on time, our controllers must make quick, accurate decisions. Recognizing this, we knew we had to find a system that would help our flight controllers better manage complex operational problems, which in turn, would help us operate more efficiently within our time constraints."

The system will provide up-to-the-minute computer displays, which alert controllers to irregular operations or disruptions in the flight schedule and allow them to rapidly test alternatives using various rescheduling strategies. EXPICS will be integrated with Thai's existing information management systems, so that once an alternative has been selected, the system can update the required data bases.

"Our goal in working with Thai was to complement their existing mainframe applications with an advanced decision-support system," said James Poage, TI Asia Pacific transportation marketing manager. "Once the system is on-line, it will allow the controllers to investigate alternate solutions and simulate the down-line effects."

According to TI's transportation systems Manager Tommy Fox, TI knowledge engineers and communications experts worldwide will team with the Thai Airways' experts in operations control, data processing, and communications to complete the Thai project. In addition, the TI/Thai teaming effort provides the opportunity for Thai knowledge engineers to train and gain valuable AI experience. With this experience, Thai plans to apply this technology to other operations areas such as aircraft maintenance, diagnostics and scheduling, crew and aircraft planning and scheduling, and passenger space control.

This project is the most recent announcement in a series of advanced decision-support systems being developed by TI for the transportation industry. TI has already developed airline-specific solutions in the areas of flight operations, station operations, and maintenance operations. The agreement between TI and Thai Airways allows TI to market this flight operations application to other carriers.

CALGARY, ALBERTA (MARCH 23) PR NEWSWIRE - Asamera Minerals Inc. (Toronto, Montreal: AUA) reported cash flow from operations of U.S. $13,633,000

(U.S. $0.54 per common share) on total mineral sales of U.S. $36,959,000 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989. Net income for the same period was U.S. $1,982,000 (U.S. $0.08 per common share).

Cash flow from operations and net income declined from the comparable period in 1988, due primarily to lower average precious metals prices. Higher total operating costs were incurred in mining certain areas of the Cannon Mine and at the Gooseberry Mine and tailings projects which were not in full operation in 1988. For the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1988 cash flow from operations was U.S. $15,886,000 (U.S. $0.63 per common share) and net income of U.S. $6,195,000 (U.S. $0.25 per common share) on total mineral sales of U.S. $40,220,000.

Asamera Minerals Inc. operates, and is a 51 percent owner of, the Cannon Mine in Wenatchee, Washington and owns 100 percent of the Gooseberry Mine near Reno, Nev. Gross metal shipments from the two mines and the Gooseberry Tailings recovery project during 1989 were 157,407 ounces of gold (83,701 net) and 609,522 ounces of silver (461,184 net). Gross metal shipments during the comparable period of 1988 were 155,681 ounces of gold (81,390 net) and 501,553 ounces of silver (372,663 net).

Asamera Minerals Inc. indicated that the Company and its subsidiaries, Asamera Resources Inc. and Asamera Minerals (U.S.) Inc., have been fully indemnified by Asamera Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Gulf Canada Resources Ltd., for certain potential liabilities and expenses related thereto arising from the former business and operations of Asamera Oil (U.S.) Inc. Asamera Inc. has executed an Indemnity Agreement made effective as of July 1, 1987.

Asamera Minerals also announced that a major land acquisition program in the Rankin Inlet area of the Northwest Territories has been completed. In excess of 700,000 acres have been acquired by claim staking and permits. Asamera is operator and 50 percent owner of the Meliadine River gold project, from which first stage exploration results have been highly encouraging.

LANGHORNE, PA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Cabot Medical Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: CBOT) today announced that it has signed a letter of intent to acquire the assets of the Ultroid product line from Boston Scientific, Watertown, Mass., in a cash transaction.

The Ultroid Hemorrhoid Management System provides an effective means for treatment of hemorrhoids without surgery, anesthesia, or special patient preparation. The procedure is painless and can be performed in the physician's office with little or no post-procedure discomfort and no disruption of work schedule or life style.

Approximately 11 million people a year contact a physician regarding a hemorrhoid problem. Many more delay treatment due to their fear of the treatment or disruption to their life style. The ease-of-use and cost-effectiveness of Ultroid positions the product perfectly for primary care physicians (110,000 Family Practice, Gynecologists, and General Practice Physicians) as well as specialists (45,000 colorectal surgeons, General Surgeons, and Gastroenterologists).

"The Ultroid Hemorrhoid Management System further extends our product line directed to the rapidly growing office based market, complementing our strong position in the hospital market," said Marvin B. Sharfstein, vice president-corporate development.

Specific terms of the agreement were not disclosed. Sharfstein said that the acquisition is expected to be finalized within 30 days.

Cabot Medical, based in Langhorne, designs, develops, manufactures and markets a variety of medical devices and systems for less invasive diagnosis and treatment of medical disorders. The company earned $1,426,000 on sales of $21,252,000 in the Fiscal Year ended Oct. 31, 1989.

BETHESDA, MD (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - When the Hubble Space Telescope scans deep space to uncover the mysteries of the universe, IBM-developed equipment and software will control the scientific equipment and flow of data.

IBM (NYSE: IBM) had a major role in the development of the Science Instrument Command and Data Handling (SI C&DH) system as part of a $41.8 million NASA contract. IBM also manufactured the NASA Standard Spacecraft Computer-1 (NSSC-1) and associated software and developed a set of simulators under that contract.

Control of the instruments aboard HST is crucial to mission success. The command system allows scientists to systematically scan the heavens and zero in on unusual phenomena.

SI C&DH not only controls the science instruments but also controls delivery of science instrument health/safety and image data to the Support Systems Module (SSM), developed by Lockheed Missile and Space Corp. The SSM then transmits the data to the HST ground control center at Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

Technical experts from IBM's Systems Integration Division in Gaithersburg, Md., supported the overall integration, verification and checkout of the science payload, integrated the instruments with SI C&DH and integrated the total package into the spacecraft.

Simulators developed by IBM were used to support the development of the science instruments, the development of the SI C&DH and the NSSC-1 flight software, the integration of the SI C&DH with the science payload, and the collection processing and distribution of the science data during the HST Assembly and Verification Program at Lockheed.

The instruments controlled by IBM's SI C&DH are: -- Wide Field and Planetary Camera. -- Faint Object Spectrograph. -- Faint Object Camera. -- High Resolution Spectograph. -- High Speed Photometer/Polarimeter.

CLEVELAND (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - NACCO Industries, Inc. (NYSE: NC) announced today that it has entered into a letter of intent to combine Hamilton Beach Inc., a subsidiary of Glen Dimplex of the Republic of Ireland, with its Proctor-Silex, Inc. subsidiary. The combined annual sales of Proctor-Silex and Hamilton Beach would be approximately $350,000,000.

Completion of the business combination requires the negotiation of a definitive agreement, the approval of the NACCO board of directors, and reviews by certain government agencies. Upon completion of the business combination, NACCO would own 65 percent of the combined company and Glen Dimplex would own 35 percent.

Ward Smith, chairman and chief executive officer of NACCO Industries, said "This is an excellent business combination. Our product lines are compatible and complementary. Furthermore, the much broader product line will enhance our position in a highly competitive market. We will preserve the individual brand names inasmuch as each has substantial consumer recognition and acceptance."

Hamilton Beach, which was acquired by Glen Dimplex in 1985, produces small electric appliances that are largely motor driven such as blenders, food processors, mixers and knives. It operates two plants in North Carolina, at Clinton and Washington, its headquarters. Glen Dimplex, a corporation organized under the laws of the Republic of Ireland, designs, manufactures and markets kitchen and other household appliances throughout the European Common Market.

Proctor-Silex, headquartered in Richmond, Virginia, was acquired by NACCO Industries in 1988. Proctor-Silex produces small electric appliances that are largely heat generating such as toasters, irons, coffeemakers and toaster ovens. It also operates two plants in North Carolina, at Southern Pines and Mt. Airy, and a manufacturing facility in Juarez, Mexico.

NACCO Industries is a holding company that has two other major operating subsidiaries in addition to Proctor-Silex. Hyster-Yale Materials Handling, Inc. designs, manufactures and markets forklift trucks and related service parts under the Hyster and Yale trade names. The North American Coal Corporation mines and markets coal for use primarily as fuel in power generation by electric utilities.

JACKSON, Mich. (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - CMS Energy Corporation (NYSE: CMS) announced today that its oil and gas exploration unit, Northern Michigan Exploration Company (NOMECO), participated recently in high bids on seven tracts located in the Gulf of Mexico. NOMECO's net cost for the new leases will total $2.2 million, subject to acceptance by the United States Department of Interior's Mineral Management Service.

NOMECO's working interest in the tracts ranges from 25 percent to 33.33 percent. Partners participating with NOMECO in the bids include The Louisiana Land and Exploration Company (LL&E), Equitable Resources Energy Company, and Nerco Oil and Gas, Inc.

All the tracts are located in the central Gulf of Mexico, offshore Louisiana, in water depths of 400 feet or less. Initial exploratory drilling is planned for 1991, following geological and geophysical evaluation of the tracts this year.

If the recent high bids are accepted by the Mineral Management Service, NOMECO will have acquired interests ranging from 25 percent to 33 percent in a total of 20 Outer Continental Shelf tracts, through participation with the LL&E group in Federal lease sales and other transactions.

NOMECO is among the top 100 U.S. oil and gas companies in production and reserves. It is Michigan's largest independent oil and gas producer, with activities in 14 states and seven foreign countries.

CMS Energy Corporation is a $3 billion (sales) diversified energy company with businesses engaged in the distribution of electricity and natural gas interstate storage and transmission of natural gas, oil and gas exploration and production, independent power generation and utility services. NEW YORK (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Cambridge Capital Fund, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership, announced today that it had requested to meet with Lee D. Webster, chairman of Whitehall Corporation (NYSE: WHT), to discuss a negotiated transaction in which Cambridge Capital, or an affiliated buyer, would acquire Whitehall Corporation. The following is the text of a letter delivered to Webster:

"On behalf of Cambridge Capital Fund, L.P., we wish to advise you that at the present time we own approximately 4.9 percent of the outstanding shares of Common Stock of Whitehall Corporation.

"We would like to meet with you at your earliest convenience to discuss a negotiated transaction in which we, or an affiliated buyer, would acquire Whitehall Corporation. We are confident we can obtain any necessary financing in connection with such transaction. Cambridge Capital is one of a family of funds with aggregate capital of over $500 million.

"Because we are not certain that you will be willing to meet with us and/or to seriously consider our proposals, we also wish to inform you that we will be proposing a slate of directors at your forthcoming Annual Meeting of Stockholders and will solicit proxies for the election of this slate. For a number of reasons, a change in the direction of Whitehall would be beneficial to all stockholders. Whitehall has been, and continues to be, a consistent underperformer. Since 1983, Whitehall's stock price has plummeted from a high of $65-3/8 to a closing price of $12-7/8 at the beginning of March. Net sales have continued to decline from a high of $65 million in fiscal 1983 to a low of $24 million in fiscal 1989. Net income, notwithstanding the modest 1989 year end profit, continues to be far below historical highs.

"Our nominees, led by Russell Thayer, former senior vice president of Pan American Airways, will be pledged to (i) promptly review management performance and personnel; (ii) give due consideration to any buyout proposal we may make, as well as evaluate any other proposal for the sale of the company or one or more of its businesses or divisions; and (iii) review all other potential restructuring alternatives. In furtherance of such solicitation we are contemporaneously delivering to you a demand for a stockholders list.

"Because the Annual Meeting is rapidly approaching, it is necessary that we receive your response as quickly as possible. We look forward to hearing from you no later than 12:00 noon, New York time, on Tuesday, March 27, 1990, advising us of your intentions."

ATLANTA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Norcross, Ga.-based Colorocs Corp. (NASDAQ: CLRX) today announced the opening of a Denver area office for the direct marketing and support of the company's full-color copier.

The office is located at 5660 Greenwood Plaza Boulevard, Triad Plaza North in Englewood, Colorado.

Michael Weiss was named branch manager and will be responsible for Colorocs copier sales and service throughout the Denver area. Weiss also is president of Executive Presentation Systems of Colorado Inc., and the owner of Executive Graphics Inc., a Denver-based computer graphics systems distributor.

The Colorocs copier features a patented two-belt transfer system that builds multiple color planes onto an intermediate surface and then transfers the full-color image onto the paper in a single step.

This revolutionary Colorocs technology allows the paper to pass through the machine one time in a straight path, instead of multiple times wrapped around a drum.

The Colorocs machine can copy either in full-color at 7.5 copies per minute, or in black-and-white at 22 copies per minute. And it enlarges and reduces from 64 percent to 154 percent in one percent increments.

It copies on 8-1/2 by 11 and 11 by 17-inch plain paper, as well as transparency film for overhead projection presentations. A slide adapter to produce full-color copies of slides also is available.

According to Weiss, the copier finds ready acceptance with printing companies, advertising agencies, computer users and corporate graphic arts departments. He further stated that the branch is offering a special cost per copy (CPC) program that avoids front-end capital or lease expense.

The new Colorocs branch will provide full-service sales and maintenance and is starting with a staff of six. Within the next few months, Weiss expects to have between eight and 10 employees, all of whom are to be selected from the local area.

Colorocs was formed in 1982 to develop and distribute full-color copiers and electronic printers. Shipments of its first product, the full-color copier, commenced in June, 1989.

MORRIS TOWNSHIP, NJ (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Allied-Signal Inc. (NYSE: ALD) today announced plans to build a manufacturing plant in Thailand to produce copper-clad laminates for circuit boards. Construction will begin in September 1990 with commercial production scheduled to start in early 1992.

The new facility, located south of Bangkok in Chonburi, will be operated by Allied-Signal's Norplex/Oak division and will supply customers in the Pacific Rim, including Thailand, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and the People's Republic of China.

"The Pacific Rim is one of the world's most significant growth markets for advanced technology products," said Edward L. Hennessy Jr., chairman and CEO of Allied-Signal Inc. "This new facility represents an important part of Allied-Signal's strategic commitment to strengthen its market position in the Far East."

The plant will be the first significant copper-clad laminate plant in Thailand, whose market is the fastest growing in the region. "We expect the new plant to boost our market share in Thailand by 50 percent," said Norplex/Oak President Thomas Williams. "The Pacific Rim, where demand is projected to grow by 10 percent over the next five years, represents a crucial market for us because of its size and projected growth." Worldwide demand for copper-clad laminates was $2.2 billion in 1989, and has grown 10 percent per year since 1984.

Laminate boards are stacks of resin-coated paper pressed between sheets of copper foil. When the copper is etched, electronic components are attached to produce circuit boards for computers and other uses.

Allied-Signal's new Norplex/Oak facility will have an initial annual production capacity of 6.3 million square feet of laminate boards, and be capable of expansion to 13 million square feet.

Norplex/Oak, headquartered in LaCrosse, Wis., is the largest supplier of laminate boards in the world, with annual sales of about $350 million. It has production facilities in the U.S., Europe, Taiwan and Singapore as well as equity interests in facilities in Korea and India.

COLUMBIA, MD (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of the Ryland Group, Inc. (NYSE: RYL), today announced the appointment of Roger W. Schipke, 53, as president of the Ryland Group, effective May 1, 1990.

Schipke will succeed Charles E. "Ted" Peck, 64, who will remain as chairman and chief executive officer until his retirement in December of this year. Schipke will assume the CEO responsibilities at that time.

Schipke joins Ryland from GE, where he most recently was senior vice president, GE Appliances, and headed GE's $5.6 billion appliance business. He has spent his entire career with GE in various positions.

"Roger's experience and success at GE in managing large businesses and developing effective strategies will play a key role in helping Ryland achieve its ambitions for profitable growth," Peck said.

The Ryland Group, Inc., is a homebuilding and mortgage-related finance company that specializes in the on-site construction and sale of single-family attached and detached homes. The mortgage finance arm of Ryland is one of the nation's largest firms specializing in mortgage-backed securities. In 1989, Ryland sales were $1.4 billion with net earnings of $57.9 million. Ryland has 2,700 employees and is headquartered in Columbia, Md., with operations in 17 states coast-to-coast, and is ranked as one of the nation's largest homebuilders.

HOUSTON (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Allwaste, Inc. (NASDAQ: ALWS) has entered into an agreement in principle to acquire all the outstanding common stock of a privately held company that provides environmental vacuum services, waste transportation, spill response and other related environmental services from four locations in the Mid-Atlantic region of the United States. In consideration, Allwaste will give shares of its common stock, and the transaction will be accounted for as a pooling-of-interests. The company to be acquired reported in excess of $2.7 million in income before taxes during the year ended Jan. 31, 1990, on approximately $11.2 million in revenues.

According to R.L. Nelson Jr., Allwaste's chairman, "This proposed merger will represent Allwaste's largest acquisition to date in our air-moving and related services division and expands the geographic presence of this division into the Mid-Atlantic region of the United States. The company to be acquired provides complementary lines of services and affords Allwaste a well-established base to expand its air-moving services into this region of the country." The closing of the acquisition is scheduled to occur during April 1990, and is subject to the performance of due diligence procedures by both parties and the negotiation of a final acquisition agreement.

RICHMOND, VA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Reynolds Metals Company (NYSE: RLM) today announced completion of an expansion of its plastic bag production capacity, which has enabled the company to take its brand name plastic food storage bags into national distribution.

Introduced last year with strong consumer acceptance in two regions of the country, the Reynolds Sure-Seal reclosable plastic bag brand is on target for a 10 percent market share in 1990 in the $500 million plastic bag category, according to John M. Lowrie, vice president and general manager of the Reynolds Consumer Products Division.

"Because of their growth potential, reclosable plastic food bags could become our company's second largest consumer product this year, behind only Reynolds Wrap aluminum foil," he said.

"This would make our new plastic bags one of the most significant new consumer product introductions of the last decade in the grocery industry."

Sure-Seal plastic bags are manufactured by Presto Products Company, a Reynolds subsidiary based in Appleton, Wis. The expansion at Presto has doubled the company's capacity to produce branded plastic bags.

According to the company, recent marketing research results indicate that the Reynolds brand has gained business from new and infrequent purchasers of plastic food bags, as well as from consumers who switched from competitive brands.

"In the fourth quarter of last year, 40 percent of our plastic bag volume came from new buyers and higher consumption in the category, while the remaining 60 percent was from brand switchers," said John L. Shiffer, product brand manager.

"Marketing research has revealed that our plastic bags are adding a new dimension of strength and durability to the category, something which consumers have requested," he said.

Distribution of Sure-Seal plastic bags is now underway in the Northeast and West, where 75 percent of the retail grocery stores that could possibly carry the product have already agreed to do so, Mr. Lowrie said.

An advertising campaign which includes spot television commercials, newspaper coupons and other consumer price incentives has begun in those two regions.

In addition to the successful launch of Sure-Seal bags, the company last year introduced Reynolds Crystal Color Plastic Wrap, the first ever plastic wrap in colors.

ATLANTA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Norcross, Ga.-based Colorocs Corp. (NASDAQ: CLRX) today announced the opening of a Houston office for the direct marketing and support of the company's full-color copier.

The office is located at 10375 Richmond Avenue in Houston. Justin Mullennix was named branch manager and will be responsible for Colorocs copier sales and service throughout the Houston area. Mullennix also is the owner of Executive Presentation Graphics Inc., a Houston-based distributor of computer graphics systems.

The Colorocs copier features a patented two-belt transfer system that builds multiple color planes onto an intermediate surface and then transfers the full-color image onto the paper in a single step.

This revolutionary Colorocs technology allows the paper to pass through the machine one time in a straight path, instead of multiple times wrapped around a drum.

The Colorocs machine can copy either in full-color at 7.5 copies per minute, or in black-and-white at 22 copies per minute. And it enlarges and reduces from 64 percent to 154 percent in one percent increments.

It copies on 8-1/2 by 11 and 11 by 17-inch plain paper, as well as transparency film for overhead projection presentations. A slide adapter to produce full-color copies of slides also is available.

According to Mullennix the copier finds ready acceptance with printing companies, advertising agencies, computer users and corporate graphic arts departments. He further stated that the branch is offering a special cost per copy (CPC) program that avoids front-end capital or lease expense.

The new Colorocs branch will provide full-service sales and maintenance and is starting with a staff of six. Within the next few months, Mullennix expects to have between eight and 10 employees, all of whom are to be selected from the local area.

Colorocs was formed in 1982 to develop and distribute full-color copiers and electronic printers. Shipments of its first product, the full-color copier, commenced in June, 1989.

ROCKAWAY, NJ (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Osicom Technologies, Inc. (NASDAQ:

OSIC), a supplier of computer systems and components, said today it secured a one-year $11.8 million revolving credit facility with United Jersey Bank of Princeton, N.J.

Osicom said the new facility, which expires Jan. 31, 1991, replaces a previous loan arrangement with the bank which expired Feb. 28.

"We are hopeful that the new credit facility and the company's continuing growth in higher margin computer sales will return the company to profitability in the current fiscal year," said Parvinder S. Chadha, Osicom's CEO.

The company is required to replace $3 million for its European operations by June 30, 1990, and is in the process of seeking financing for these operations, which currently account for 25 percent of total revenue and are expected to grow. The interest rate on the new credit facility is 12.5 percent, but may be lowered to 12 percent if Osicom makes these credit arrangements relating to its European business.

The facility also requires periodic reduction of principal, maintenance of levels of profitability and equity during the term.

BURLINGTON, NC (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Environmental Diagnostics, Inc. (NASDAQ: EDIT) announced today that it has received pre-market clearance from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for its EZ-SCREEN: OPIATES test for the detection of the use of heroin and related drugs. The Company has already been selling the test in the United States for forensic testing and to the European marketplace through its distribution partners.

The EZ-SCREEN: OPIATES test is, according to the Company, an easy-to-use, on-site screening test which can detect the metabolites of opiate-derived drugs such as heroin and morphine. The Company markets the test along with its EZ-SCREEN: CANNABINOID/COCAINE test for detecting marijuana and cocaine use to law enforcement, substance abuse facilities, and medical facilities primarily in the United States and Europe.

James D. Skinner, EDI president and chief executive, said, "Receipt of FDA clearance for the new opiates test adds another important dimension to the EDI EZ-SCREEN Drugs of Abuse product line. The test may now be sold into the human clinical drug testing market. The EZ-SCREEN: OPIATES test, along with the EZ-SCREEN: CANNABINOID/COCAINE test, provide tests for detecting approximately 99 percent of those abused drugs found in positive samples."

Mr. Skinner added that early acceptance of the new opiates test by European customers and by law enforcement customers in the United States has been promising.

Environmental Diagnostics, Inc. develops and manufactures human clinical and agricultural diagnostics specifically designed for on-site testing by non-technical personnel. The Company's Conventional Biodiagnostic products are used by government agencies, researchers, clinical testing laboratories and private companies for clinical and veterinary testing. The Company's EZ-SCREEN products provide the accuracy of laboratory results in minutes.

FAIRFIELD, CT (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - General Electric Company (NYSE: GE) announced today that Gary L. Rogers has been named senior vice president in charge of GE's Appliance business, effective April 1. He is currently head of GE's Electrical Distribution & Control business. In his new post, Rogers will succeed Roger W. Schipke, who on May 1 becomes president of the Ryland Group Inc.

Stephen Rabinowitz, currently vice president-technology for GE Lighting, will succeed Rogers as head of GE Electrical Distribution & Control.

GE Chairman John F. Welch Jr. said: "We're pleased for Roger Schipke, and we wish him well after a long and successful career at GE. We're excited about Gary Rogers taking on this assignment. Gary is an outstanding GE leader with a strong record both at GE Lighting and in building and globalizing another key GE business. Steve Rabinowitz has a strong background in the Electrical Distribution & Control business and a proven record of marrying technology and markets."

GE Appliances, based in Louisville, Ky., had 1989 revenues of $5.6 billion. It is the U.S. market leader in major appliances, and in 1989, through its joint venture with GEC of the United Kingdom, became the second largest appliance firm in the world.

GE Electrical Distribution & Control, also one of GE's 13 key businesses, has world leadership positions in its various product lines and 1989 revenues of nearly $1.5 billion. Under Rogers' leadership, it significantly improved its global competitiveness with international joint ventures, enhanced productivity, and new products that offer increased flexibility and customer service.

Last year, GE Electrical Distribution & Control announced two joint ventures with Fuji Electric Company Limited of Japan to market circuit breakers, equipment, fuses and earth leakage breakers in the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Also in 1989, the business completed a joint venture combining GE's affiliate in Italy, named COGEMEC, with the Belgian and French subsidiaries of GEC of the United Kingdom, named Vynckier and UNELEC. The venture manufactures and markets electrical and electronic distribution and control products for the European market.

Rogers, 45, is a native of Bloomington, Ill., and a graduate of Florida State University. He joined GE's Financial Management Training Program in 1966 at the Apollo Systems Department in Daytona Beach, Fla., and has also had assignments in the GE Corporate Audit Staff and GE Lighting where he headed the Lamp Products Division. He was elected a vice president in 1982 and a senior vice president in 1989.

Rabinowitz, 47, is a graduate of the Polytechnic Institute of New York and holds a Ph.D. in materials science from the University of Pennsylvania. After a 13-year career as a research scientist and manager at Ford Motor Company, he joined GE in 1982 as manager-advanced manufacturing technology for GE Electrical Distribution & Control. He has been with the Lighting Technology Division since 1986 and was named vice president-technology in 1988.

ANN ARBOR, MI (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Philips Display Components Company (PDCC) of Ann Arbor, today announced at a news conference attended by Gov. James J. Blanchard and other federal, state and local officials that it will construct a new state-of-the-art color TV picture tube plant at a cost of over $100 million in nearby Saline, creating approximately 400 new jobs in the area.

Plant construction will begin in July 1990 and is to be completed early in 1992. Upon completion, the plant will total 400,000 square feet.

Initially, the plant will manufacture 1 million 27-inch color television picture tubes a year and will have the ability to produce high definition picture tubes in the future.

In making the announcement, Dr. Iva Wilson, PDCC president, said the decision to build in Saline was made after examining a large number of sites in different states.

"Since we moved our headquarters to Ann Arbor about a year ago," Dr. Wilson said, "we have enjoyed an exceptional relationship with the community and we look forward to building on that relationship with our new plant."

Wilson said this was the first time that Philips ever built a new CRT plant in the United States. The plant will be constructed on vacant land at the intersection of Michigan and Industrial Drive in nearby Saline about 10 miles from the company's headquarters on Huron Parkway in Ann Arbor.

MIAMI (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Capturing time is a key to success. Busy law firms and other professional agencies need easy-to-use, cost-effective systems to accurately and quickly bill time charges and expenses.

To help better manage this aspect of running a successful business, NYNEX today introduced NYNEX Callview Information System.

With the touch of a button, the Callview system tracks outgoing and incoming telephone calls; records, stores and retrieves client information; and facilitates the generation of client invoices and activity reports. The new system will initially be sold in Boston, Dallas, Hartford, Miami and New York.

The announcement was made today at the Miami branch of NYNEX Business Centers, the third largest non-franchised computer reseller in the country.

"The Callview system will give our customers the ability to increase revenue," said Bob Leibman, assistant vice president-new product integration at the NYNEX Business Centers. "It not only ensures timely and accurate client billing but also enhances employee productivity and reduces administrative workload."

"This is the first NYNEX product to be marketed through the Business Centers," said Doug Mello, president-NYNEX Business Information Systems Company, which owns the NYNEX Business Centers. "We have a national distribution system in place to support NYNEX products and services and the addition of the Callview system to our product line can only enhance our ability to provide customized solutions to meet our customers' needs."

The Callview system is compatible with existing PBX or central office-based service and its application processor is a 386 UNIX-based platform. The NYNEX Science & Technology Center in White Plains, N.Y., developed the software that runs the system.

The system will be available through the NYNEX Business Centers in other selected major markets later this year.

With 78 branches in 28 states, the NYNEX Business Centers offer microcomputers, software, peripheral equipment and specialized services -- including the design and installation of local area networks -- to business customers throughout the country.

SPOKANE, WA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Inland Gold and Silver Corp. (NASDAQ: INGS) today reported a gross profit of $233,097 for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared to a gross profit of $276,733 for the same three-month period last year. Net income after taxes, including reclamation expenses of $90,000, was $190,843, or 1 cent per share, compared to last year's fourth-quarter loss of $373,647, or 3 cents per share. Gross profit in the fourth quarter resulted from the absorption of certain costs into the deferred mining costs inventory that had been originally expensed during the third quarter. This absorption resulted from the discovery of additional ore reserves in the fourth quarter and provided the fourth-quarter gross profit in the absence of additional fourth-quarter sales.

Gross profit for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1989, was $1,509,431, compared to $2,839,983 for the same period in 1988. Net income for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1989, was $512,135, or 4 cents per share, compared to $1,190,713, or 10 cents per share for the same period last year. Gross sales were $4,931,877, as compared to $13,719,028 for the same period in 1988. The decline in gross sales and net income in 1989 was primarily due to management's decision to defer the sale of 12,965 ounces of gold beyond year end.

Ten thousand ounces, representing $4,208,000 in revenue, have been sold forward for 1990 delivery. On Feb. 1, 8,000 ounces at $420 per ounce were delivered, and 2,000 ounces at $424 per ounce will be delivered on April 1. On April 1, 2,965 ounces will remain in inventory representing approximately $1,200,000 at $400 per ounce.

Mining costs, including facility costs and pad amortization were reduced 17 percent from $295 per ounce in 1988 to $245 per ounce in 1989.

Gold recovery for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1989, was 24,761 ounces, compared to 31,077 ounces last year. Gold production at the Toiyabe mine, since its inception, has totaled approximately 64,000 ounces. 1990 mining operations are currently underway.

Michael L. Clark, president and chief executive officer of Inland, reported, "Exploration and operations have continued to be successful and profitable at our Toiyabe mine. Mining for the upcoming season has resumed at the Toiyabe with gold and silver production estimated to be 15,620 and 8,000 ounces, respectively. Exploration for additional heap leach reserves will continue in 1990 with a comprehensive program of deep drilling exploration for refractory ores planned. This project could include a joint venture on our 26,000 acre Toiyabe Property, which is located in the heart of the Eureka/Battle Mountain Mineral Belt."

The company's 26,000 acre Toiyabe gold mine, located in Nevada, has yielded approximately 64,000 ounces of gold to date. Production is ongoing. Two 50/50 joint ventures currently underway with N.A. Degerstrom Inc., containing approximately 130,000 ounces of recoverable gold, are scheduled for production within two years. Inland is also engaged in two additional joint venture exploration projects, one near Republic, Wash., and the other in Lake County, Ore.

Focused into the telecommunications market, the product announced by HP climaxes a strategic alliance agreement announced early this year between the two companies. HP's fault-tolerant system will begin shipping to customers in April.

The strategic alliance agreement between HP and Sequoia involves the sharing of technology; an OEM (original equipment manufacturer) agreement; and an equity investment. The technology-licensing agreement would, when effective, allow HP to use Sequoia's multiprocessing and fault-tolerant technologies in current and future HP products. Sequoia will also incorporate HP's Precision Architecture - RISC (reduced instruction set computing) chips into future upgrades of its system. Under the OEM agreement, HP became a Sequoia OEM and will market Sequoia's Series 300 System as the HP 9000, Model 1240, with primary emphasis in the telecommunications marketplace. Lastly, HP made an equity investment in Sequoia in December 1989, and currently owns approximately 8 percent of Sequoia's outstanding shares.

"We are pleased to have formed this strategic alliance with the Hewlett-Packard Company," said Sequoia's Chairman and CEO Gabriel P. Fusco. "We believe that the combination of Sequoia's technology with HP's outstanding reputation as a leading supplier of computing systems will enhance Sequoia's ability to compete successfully in important areas of the on-line transaction processing marketplace."

The Sequoia system has a number of important strategic benefits. It is based on the UNIX(R) operating system, it is a leader in price/performance it has a multiprocessor architecture, it is fault-tolerant, it supports true linear expansion, and it has major third-party relational databases available on the system.

Fusco said, "As businesses move to an on-line computer environment, they require a number of features that our system can provide. Our customers have consistently told us that our open architecture, fault-tolerance and high performance are key decisions in their selection of the Sequoia system for mission critical applications."

Sequoia Systems, Inc. designs, manufactures and markets fault- tolerant systems to serve the on-line transaction processing (OLTP) needs of companies. Sequoia's systems have an open architecture adhering to industry standards and a UNIX operating system. The company also offers the Pick Open Architecture. Sequoia provides ongoing service and maintenance support to its worldwide customer base. Major customers include manufacturers, distributors, banks and financial institutions, insurance companies, telecommunications operations, and federal agencies.

CHICAGO (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - American National Can Co. (ANC) today announced that Frank W. Considine resigned his position of chairman of the board. As previously announced, Jean Gandois, chairman of Pechiney S.A., the France-based parent company, has become ANC's board chairman. Considine had planned to step down in June 1989, but agreed to remain chairman during the transition period following the election of Jean-Pierre Ergas to chief executive officer.

Considine, 68, chief executive officer from 1973 to 1988, will remain chairman of the executive committee and a member of the ANC and Pechiney International boards of directors. He will also assume the title of honorary chairman. "After more than 40 years in the packaging industry, this move enables me to pursue some personal interests while retaining a close involvement with American National Can and its parent company," said Considine.

"We're very pleased to have the continuing benefit of Frank's experience and counsel as we utilize ANC's strong technological and marketing base to grow in markets around the world," said Gandois, new ANC chairman.

Pechiney S.A., a diversified industrial company with 1989 revenues of more than $13 billion, purchased ANC in December 1988.

ANC is one of the world's largest packaging manufacturers and marketers, producing a wide range of metal, glass and plastic products. It operates more than 100 facilities in 12 countries.

DETROIT (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - A Michigan Bell trial starting April 2 will enable some Detroit customers to have their phone calls answered while they're using the phone or while they're away.

The trial allows an independent voice-messaging company to offer automated call-answering and voice-messaging services to residential and small business customers.

Voice messaging, also known as voice mail, lets customers use the phone to record, store, deliver and retrieve spoken telephone messages.

Calls to voice-messaging customers that otherwise would receive a busy signal or go unanswered are transferred to a recording asking the caller to leave a message.

A special "stutter" dial tone tells customers they have messages waiting. They can then hear their messages by dialing a simple code.

Michigan Voice Mail Inc. of Detroit has been chosen by Michigan Bell to provide the "voice mailboxes" and other services during the trial, while Michigan Bell will provide the network facilities and necessary custom calling services.

With one service option, families can have separate voice mailboxes for each family member. With this trial service, calls are answered with a recorded greeting and instructions for the caller to press a certain number on the telephone keypad to leave a message for a specific family member.

The service gives each family member more privacy. It also eliminates the danger of missing important messages because they were erased from the family answering machine by another family member.

With another service option, a customer could record and store a message and then forward it automatically to other telephones at a specific date and time. This would allow a sales manager, for example, to record a phone order for a supplier in the evening and have it delivered when the supplier opened for business the next day.

Other trial services include notifying a customer by pager that a message is waiting, employing a "time stamp" to indicate the time and date a message is received, and broadcasting a single message to a number of telephones.

Customers interested in the services should contact Michigan Voice Mail by calling 313-259-5439.

DALLAS (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - The LTV Corporation (NYSE: QLTV) said today that Europe's largest steelmaker, Usinor Sacilor of France, has expressed an interest in discussing the possibility of purchasing a minority stake in the company's LTV Steel unit.

LTV said Usinor's inquiry was unsolicited and that no negotiations have been held to date or are scheduled. Discussions are under way on a confidentiality agreement, a necessary precursor to any discussions.

LTV is currently in a Chapter 11 reorganization process and the company said any ultimate transaction would have to consider the interests of its creditor constituencies and shareholders.

Usinor Sacilor is the second largest steelmaker in the world. It operates three facilities in France and two in West Germany. LTV Steel is the third largest domestic steelmaker and the largest producer of flat rolled steel products for the automotive industry. The two companies presently have minor technology exchange relationships.

"We will explore at the proper time and under the proper circumstances a business relationship between LTV Steel and Usinor Sacilor, just as we will explore other appropriate inquiries," said LTV Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Raymond A. Hay. "This is a normal and appropriate endeavor for a company going through the Chapter 11 reorganization process."

LTV is a diversified manufacturing company involved in steel, aerospace/defense and energy products.

NEW BRUNSWICK, NJ (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - A class-action lawsuit seeking a security-surcharge refund for passengers who bought tickets for Pan Am flights from 1986 through 1989 was filed here today in New Jersey Superior Court.

"Millions of tickets carrying a $5 surcharge earmarked for security were sold by Pan Am during this period," said Richard A. Grossman, of Grossman & Kruttschnitt, the Toms River, N.J., law firm that filed the suit. "Damages could amount to over $100 million, with more than a million passengers in line for refunds plus punitive damages. The truth is that these passengers paid for something they did not get. That something was effective security."

Among the plaintiffs of record in the lawsuit are Peter and Aphrodite Tsairis of Franklin Lakes, N.J., parents of Alexia Tsairis, one of 259 passengers killed Dec. 21, 1988, when a bomb exploded on Pan Am flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland.

Grossman said New Jersey law did not permit the amount of damages to be specified in a suit of this kind, but he expected the total to exceed by far the $18 million Pan Am has admitted collecting in $5 surcharges.

"Actually, the airline should have collected nothing extra in the way of a security fee since it provided nothing extra in the way of security," he said. "Indeed, its security was substandard, and it was alerted to this fact two years before the Scotland crash by its own security expert. The man told Pan am that taking $5 per ticket to support an almost totally ineffectual security system could be regarded as fraud."

Grossman identified the expert as Isaac Yeffet, a former head of security at El Al Airlines, who was hired by Pan Am in 1986 to conduct a survey of Pan Am security. In two reports based on investigations at more than 20 airports, Yeffet pointed out serious flaws in the programs designed to protect Pan Am passengers, and he recommended sweeping changes. According to the lawsuit filed today, Pan Am ignored the reports but continued to collect the $5 security surcharge.

Pan Am not only charged its passengers for security it failed to supply, Grossman said, but it reassured them in a leaflet distributed at several airports early in 1986.

"On June 12, 1986," the leaflet said in part, "Pan Am will initiate one of the most far-reaching security programs in our industry, a program that will screen passengers, employees, airport facilities, baggage and aircraft with unrelenting thoroughness. The program will be called Alert."

The leaflet referred to Pan Am's "highly trained security experts" and it use of "many of the most sophisticated screening devices in the world." It went on to say that "with our new Alert program and with your help we at Pan Am are determined to provide a safe and secure environment for our passengers. We at Pan Am feel that the Alert program is more than worth the extra cost in both time and money."

According to Grossman, those words were cruelly misleading. "As Isaac Yeffet reported and as subsequent events demonstrated, the Pan Am security program was largely illusionary, although the extra cost, paid by the passengers, was real enough," he stated.

Named as defendants in the lawsuit are the Pan Am Corporation, Pan Am World Airways, Pan Am World Service, Inc., Alert Management Systems, and several present and former officers of the company, including C. Edward Acker, a former president and chief executive officer of the Pan Am Corporation, and Martin E. Shugrue, Jr., a former vice chairman of the corporation and chief executive officer of Pan Am World Airways.

LANCASTER, PA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - The merger of The First Community Bancorp, Nazareth, Pa., and Fulton Financial Corp. (NASDAQ-NMS: FULT), a Lancaster-based bank holding company, became effective today, the company announced.

The Second National Bank of Nazareth, First Community's sole subsidiary, becomes the fifth banking affiliate of Fulton Financial, joining Lafayette Bank as the holding company's second affiliate in Northampton County. With the addition of Second National Bank, total assets of Fulton Financial increase to nearly $1.6 billion.

Grant W. Walizer, president of Second National, and William E. Rusling, retired president of Hercules Cement Co., have been named to the board of Fulton Financial. Both men are directors of Second National Bank.

The six Second National Bank offices being acquired brings to 54 the number of banking offices Fulton Financial operates in the eight Pennsylvania counties it serves.

Under terms of the merger, First Community shareholders receive 2.65 shares of Fulton Financial common stock for each share of First Community Bancorp stock owned.

In addition to Second National and Lafayette, the other Fulton Financial affiliates are Fulton Bank, Lancaster, Dauphin, Cumberland and Chester counties; Farmers Trust Bank, Lebanon County; and Swineford National Bank, Snyder County.

The pending merger with the First National Bank of Danville, Montour County, will become effective March 31, giving Fulton Financial its sixth banking affiliate and increasing the holding company's assets to $1.7 billion.

MANILA, THE PHILIPPINES (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Atlas Consolidated Mining & Development Corp. (AMEX: ACMB) reported a net profit of $15.215 million in 1989 which included an extraordinary gain of $3.138 million compared to $36.196 million in 1988 including an extraordinary gain of $8.499 million. Earnings per share for 1989 were $0.18 as compared to $0.43 for 1988.

Net operating revenue totalled $220.043 million in 1989 compared to $230.188 million in 1988. Operating profit before depreciation on appraisal increase was 23 percent lower than the previous year due to the 3 percent increase in total operating expenses during 1989 amounting to $169.586 million. A substantial portion of this increase in operating expenses was due to increased labor cost.

The 5.12 percent devaluation of the peso in 1989 against the U.S. dollar also had a negative effect on Atlas because of its foreign currency-denominated loans. The company recognized a foreign exchange loss of $4.536 million in 1989, substantially higher than the $2.425 million loss recognized in 1988.

Atlas encountered many difficulties in mining operations during the year 1989. Continuous heavy rains from late January to early February caused landslides in Cebu and later precipitated muckrushes in the underground mine. At Masbato, one of the four undergorund mines was shut down in June when it was flooded during a strong typhoon.

With the completion of the Ilag River Diversion and Khyber Pass Conveyor Belt system project and the forthcoming operation of the Carmen Underground Mine together with the implementation of the financial restructuring plan, management expects to improve productivity in 1990.

With Atlas' commitment to reduce its overdue foreign currency- denominated loans, a third partial payment was made on March 21, 1989 which reduced the total outstanding foreign debt from $176 million to $164 million.

Negotiations with the company's foreign currency creditors for approval of the financial restructuring plan have been vigorously pursued. The plan essentially calls for obtaining external funds through a long-term loan from Mitsubishi Metal Corporation and a proposed rights offering, which will be utilized to repay a substantial portion of Atlas' foreign currency debts at a discount. The balance will be restructured under terms and conditions mutually acceptable to Atlas and its bank creditors. Atlas intends to commence the rights offering soon after the requirements of the Securities and Exchange Commissions of the Philippines and United States are completed and upon approval of the financial restructuring plan by Atlas' foreign currency lenders.

GAITHERSBURG, MD (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Oncor, Inc. (NASDAQ: ONCR) announced today "that it has signed a licensing agreement with Stanford University for the manufacture and marketing of a new DNA probe for the diagnosis of acute lymphoblastic leukemia, one of the most common forms of pediatric leukemias," stated Stephen Turner, Oncor's chairman and chief executive officer.

"This is the first time an E2A gene probe specific for acute lymphoblastic leukemias containing the t(1;19) chromosomal translocation has been developed," added Turner.

The development of the probe resulted from a collaboration between the laboratories of Michael Cleary, M.D., of the Stanford University School of Medicine, department of pathology, and David Baltimore, Ph.D., of the Whitehead Institute for Biomedical Research.

Under terms of the agreement, Oncor will pay royalties on all sales of the probe. Initially, the probe will be sold for research purposes only.

"By incorporating the Stanford/Whitehead E2A probe into our system for the detection of hematopoietic malignancy, Oncor offers the state of the art in molecular analysis," Turner said.

"We intend to develop clinical trials to support an application to the FDA utilizing the new E2A probe, thereby expanding upon Oncor's existing FDA-approved B/T Gene Rearrangement Test, the first complete DNA probe-based cancer test system to receive such approval. The E2A probe adds a new dimension to the B/T Test which is already used to diagnose the majority of leukemia and lymphomas," he added.

According to the American Cancer Society, there were 77,600 new cases of leukemia and lymphoma diagnosed in the United States in 1988. In addition, there are approximately 400,000 patients who have suffered from leukemia and lymphoma and who are at risk for recurrence of the disease.

Other laboratories that have collaborated in the research on the E2A probe include M.E. McDonald; Neurogenetics Laboratory; Massachusetts General Hospital; A.J. Carroll Laboratory of Medical Genetics; the University of Alabama, and the S.D. Smith department of pediatrics of Stanford University School of Medicine.

Oncor, Inc., established in 1983, was the first company to commercialize DNA probes for tumor analysis. The company continues to develop, manufacture and market nucleic acid (DNA/RNA) probes, reagents and instrument systems for the early detection and characterization of molecular diseases such as cancer and genetic disorders.

WILMINGTON, DE (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Du Pont (NYSE: DD) has pledged $1 million to the Delaware Community Foundation (DCF) to promote organized philanthropy in Delaware.

The money will help the foundation meet a $2 million challenge grant made by the state last year.

"The long-term vitality of the community and the state has always been a high priority at Du Pont," said Peter C. Morrow, manager of corporate contributions and community affairs for DuPont. "We hope this action will pave the way for others to join in this important community effort."

Community foundations nationwide help attract contributions from a broad range of contributors that otherwise might not be able to donate endowment assets for charitable activities. The DCF will support charitable organizations throughout Delaware.

"Du Pont's gift is a tremendous investment in Delaware's charitable future " said Pierre S. du Pont IV, chairman of DCF's founding donor campaign.

When the DCF was incorporated in July 1986, Du Pont and several other local companies provided the seed money by committing $10,000 a year for three years.

Spurred by the challenge grant from the state, the DCF has been able to accumulate more than $7 million in permanent endowment assets.

The DCF has established the following objectives to encourage greater philanthropic activity:

Provide a cost-effective philanthropic vehicle for use by a broad range of donors in achieving their charitable objectives.

Develop an unrestricted endowment fund and use the income to support established institutions and continuing projects, respond to changing community needs and provide start-up funds to new organizations throughout the state of Delaware.

Strengthen the Delaware charitable base by working with other nonprofit organizations to encourage creation of permanent endowments.

Act as a catalyst by marshalling available resources and convening interested parties to help meet community needs statewide.

METALINE FALLS, WA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Lafarge Corporation (NYSE: LAF) today announced that it is closing its cement plant in Metaline Falls.

Manufacturing and distribution operations at the 200,000-ton cement manufacturing facility are expected to be phased out by June 23 and will result in a permanent layoff of nearly all the plant's 60 workers.

"The decision to close the plant was a difficult one," plant manager Tom Roberts told employees in a meeting at the Metaline Falls facility today. "The plant is not being closed because of anything our employees did or failed to do; it is being closed because of economic conditions."

Roberts cited the run-down condition of the 80-year-old plant, which Lafarge acquired in June 1989, adding that an "enormous" amount of capital would have been required to modernize the facility.

Roberts said that he could not specify the benefits that would be made available to employees because talks had been scheduled with the workers' union, but he added that Lafarge is concerned about its employees and would be considering various ways to assist them to adjust to the plant closure.

ROSEMONT, IL (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Comdisco, Inc. (NYSE: CDO) today announced that it has entered into an oil and gas joint venture agreement with Nomura Babcock & Brown Co., Ltd. (NBB), a company jointly owned by Nomura Securities Co., Ltd. and Babcock & Brown, Inc., a California company.

Under the agreement, Comdisco will transfer its oil and gas assets, valued at approximately $101.7 million, to the new joint venture, and Comdisco will also grant patent and trade secret licenses to the joint venture of Comdisco's proprietary Waterflood Technology. NBB has agreed to arrange for Japanese investors to contribute cash to the joint venture, named NBB Oil & Gas Partners (USA), in the amount of $101.7 million within 90 days through a limited partnership. The agreement stipulates that if during the 90-day period, certain events occur, including: changes in Japanese laws adversely affecting the legality and economic consequences of the investment, a drop in the price of West Texas Intermediate crude oil below $15.00 per barrel for three consecutive days during the 90-day period, or payment of $10 million to Comdisco, NBB would be relieved of its obligations. The joint venture interests will be proportioned evenly between NBB and Comdisco.

The oil and gas joint venture agreement with NBB is expected to result in an extraordinary gain of approximately $10 million to $12 million after the utilization of a capital loss carryforward of $35.1 million. The gain is expected to be recognized, by Comdisco, subject to the previously mentioned conditions, during the third fiscal quarter of 1990.

Commenting on this new joint venture agreement, Kenneth N. Pontikes, chairman of the board and president, stated, "The restructuring of our oil and gas business allows us to continue to participate in the energy marketplace and to facilitate further development of our oil and gas assets without additional funding by the company." Pontikes concluded, "I believe this agreement is in the best interest of our stockholders."

A new management company, Duncan Energy Company, has been formed to manage the joint venture. It will be headed by Ray Duncan, chairman and Ray Sebastian, vice chairman, and will be located in Denver. The current employees of Comdisco Resources, Inc. will become employees of the new management company.

Comdisco is engaged primarily in buying, selling and leasing new and used IBM equipment, communication and other high technology equipment. It also arranges related financings. The company, through a wholly owned subsidiary, provides disaster recovery services for computer users.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26 /PRNewswire/ -- O! Deli, a nationally franchised delicatessen chain operating primarily in major office buildings, announced today that it expects to open 72 new units in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1991 and earn a profit of $525,000.

O! Deli (OTC: Pink Sheets) currently has 17 units open. During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1990, according to Rick Cardin, chief executive officer, the company made a deliberate decision to invest heavily in development activities. These include securing sites; selling franchises; new product development and introduction; operational and training systems development; and recruiting professional staff. These development costs have been expensed against earnings rather than capitalized. In addition, franchise fees are not recognized as income until the unit opens for business. As a result, the company expects to realize a loss of approximately $1.4 million for the year ending March 31, 1990.

The company expects to sustain profitable growth in the coming years. O! Deli currently has $1,320,000 in deferred franchise and area development fees which represent sources of future income when the units open. Each new O! Deli opened also represents a source of ongoing royalties. O! Deli receives a $25,000 franchise fee per unit and a 6 percent continuing royalty.

O! Deli's growth is facilitated by its relationships with major national office building developers. The company recently signed its fifth lease with JMB. Each of the retail locations has been a replacement of an existing food service, a replacement designed to complement JMB's upgrading of the building. O! Deli also has leases with Gerald Hines (in the tallest building in Miami), Tishman (in the tallest building in San Diego), Trammell Crow, Shuwa and others.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - ARCO (NYSE: ARC) Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Lodwrick M. Cook and ARCO Products Company President George H. Babikian have been named "Executives of the Year" by Octane Week a national energy newsletter, for their leadership in developing EC-1 Regular, the nation's first reformulated gasoline.

"Reformulated gasoline is another in a long historical record of industry firsts for ARCO," said Frederick L. Potter, publisher of Octane Week. "Not only does reformulated gasoline provide ARCO with a new marketing edge in Southern California, but it offers the nation a premier example of progress that private industry can provide by improving fuel quality and simultaneously reducing air pollution."

EC-1 Regular was introduced into the Southern California market last September as a replacement for leaded regular gasoline in older cars and trucks without catalytic converters. The gasoline is uniquely formulated to reduce the benzene, aromatics, sulfur, and olefins content of gasoline, along with a lower vapor pressure to reduce evaporative emissions. ARCO plans to convert its unleaded and premium gasolines to emission control formulations in the coming years.

Last month, the California Senate and Assembly passed resolutions commending Babikian for his leadership in the ongoing effort to develop clean air solutions. ARCO Products Company is the refining and marketing division of ARCO.

Octane Week is a weekly newsletter published in Washington D.C. that provides news coverage and technical and economic analysis of refining processes, fuel composition and gasoline reformulation on a worldwide basis.

PATCHOGUE, NY (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Homecare Management, Inc. (OTC: HOMECARE MANAGEMENT), which primarily provides comprehensive health care, medical equipment/supplies and pharmaceutical infusion therapy to patients in their homes, today reported record level 9-month revenues (up 169 percent), record level net income (up 423 percent) and record level earnings up (400 percent) per common share for the nine months ended Jan. 31, 1990, as compared to the nine months ended Jan. 31, 1989.

According to Dr. Clifford E. Hotte, president and CEO, "HMI's increase in revenues was due primarily to growth in the home care segment of the company's operations, especially in the hi-tech pharmacy area." The company provides at-home pharmacy services and specialized drug therapies for organ transplant patients and patients with AIDS, as well as operating "neighborhood" drug stores and providing staff leasing services to nursing homes, insurance offices and other businesses. HMI's service area is the largest medical market in the United States; namely the metro New York, Long Island, northern New Jersey, and southern Connecticut areas.

On a consolidated basis, for the nine months ended Jan. 31, 1990, as compares to the same period ended Jan. 31, 1989, operating revenues were $4,146,696 as compared with $1,538,823 for the prior period; net income was $588,053 as compared to $112,481, and earnings per common share were 4 cents as compared to 1 cent. A net loss carryforward minimized the company's tax obligation for the nine-month period ended Jan. 31, 1990.

For the three months ended Jan. 31, 1990, as compared to the same period ended Jan. 31, 1989, operating revenues were $1,636,662 as compared to the $1,143,014; net income was $368,379 as compared to $66,156, and earnings per common share were 3 cents as compared to zero cents. A net loss carryforward minimized the company's tax obligation for the three months ended Jan. 31, 1990.

Homecare Management, Inc. began its operations in 1985 and became a publicly held corporation on Feb. 29, 1988. Its principal executive offices are located in 31 West Main Street, Patchogue, N.Y. 11772.

ORLANDO, FL (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Hughes Supply, Inc. (NYSE: HUG) today announced net income of $6,394,000 for the fiscal year ending Jan. 26, 1990. Last year's net income was $9,718,000. Primary earnings per share were $1.33 compared to $1.99 last year while fully diluted earnings per share were $1.25 compared to $1.79. Sales for the year totaled $529,926,000, a 5.6 percent increase over last year.

Net income for the fourth quarter was $101,000 compared to $2,577,000 last year. Primary earnings per share for the fourth quarter were $.02 compared to $.53 in last year's fourth quarter. Fully diluted earnings per share were $.02 compared to last year's fully diluted earnings per share of $.47. Sales for the fourth quarter ending Jan. 26, 1990 were $131,057,000 compared to $125,578,000 a year ago.

Fourth quarter results were adversely affected by a downturn in sales caused by bad weather and a slow down in construction activity. In addition, management increased provisions for bad debts and inventory write downs. These additional provisions totaled approximately $2,000,000 more on a pre-tax basis than in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989. Additionally, last year's fourth quarter included a pre-tax gain of $400,000 from the sale of excess property.

Hughes Supply, Inc.'s board of directors approved the purchase of an additional 10 percent or 460,000 shares of the company's common stock. The stock buyback would be made in the open market and through private transactions. With the current authorization, stock repurchased by the company since 1987 would total more than 1,000,000 shares. Hughes has approximately 4.6 million shares outstanding.

COLUMBUS, GA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Total System Services Inc. (NYSE: TSS) and Synovus Financial Corp. (NYSE: SNV) announced today that they have signed agreements with a subsidiary of AT&T (NYSE: T) under which a wholly owned SNV banking affiliate will issue a combination telephone charge card/credit card under the name, "The AT&T Universal Card."

The card will be offered with either a VISA or MasterCard affiliation. The agreements, made with AT&T Universal Card Services Corp., stipulate that TSS will be the exclusive provider of processing services for the new credit card.

The card will be issued by Universal Bank, a wholly owned banking affiliate of SNV. SNV said that it will sell certain receivables (monies generated by the use of the new card) to AT&T and other companies.

As part of the agreements, AT&T has the right to purchase in the future up to 1,500,000 newly issued shares of TSS common stock. TSS currently has 15,887,272 outstanding shares of common stock. AT&T's ability to exercise its right to purchase TSS common stock and the price at which such shares will be purchased are based, among other factors, on the number of AT&T Universal Cards processed by TSS.

TSS' revenues from its arrangement with AT&T will begin immediately and are expected to yield margins comparable to those historically realized by TSS. The revenues received by TSS from AT&T may become material to TSS' future operations, depending upon the market acceptance of the AT&T Universal Card. The agreements were signed for initial terms of five years.

SNV is a multi-financial services company based in Columbus, Ga. TSS provides credit card processing services. SNV owns approximately 82 percent of the issued and outstanding shares of TSS common stock.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Teryl Resources Corp. (''Teryl'') (Alberta: TRC) and Wedgewood Resources Ltd. (''Wedgewood'') (Vancouver: WGW) wish to announce that a letter agreement outlining the terms of a joint venture agreement has been completed by both parties on Teryl's optioned properties near Fairbanks, Alaska.

Wedgewood has been granted an option to earn a 60 percent interest in Teryl's interest in the Stepovich property which consists of seven patented claims and has also been granted an option to earn a 60 percent interest in Teryl's interest in the Gilmore project, consisting of 237 claims optioned from Nerco Exploration Company by Teryl by expending $2,700,000 US on exploration and development -- $1,000,000 US on the Stepovich claims over four years and $1,700,000 US on the Gilmore project over three years.

Wedgewood also agrees to pay Teryl a total of $450,000 US and issue 100,000 common shares of Wedgewood.

The Stepovich property and the Gilmore project claims are adjacent to the Fort Knox Joint Venture discovery which is reported by Fairbank's Gold to contain 80 - 100 million tons of .036 - .047 oz. gold per ton.

Based on previous work carried out on these claims, several gold occurences have been located on both properties. Exploration for ''intrusive hosted gold'' is recommended for this year's program. Teryl and Wedgewood have agreed to a $380,000 US work program to be carried out in 1990 on these properties.

Teryl and Wedgewood each have agreed to pay a finder's fee to certain parties in accordance with the regulatory bodies' policies.

The terms and conditions of the letter agreement are subject to the approval of regulatory bodies.

To facilitate the exploration expenditures and other payments which Wedgewood will undertake pursuant to the letter agreement, Wedgewood announces that L.O.M. Western Securities Ltd. (''L.O.M.'') has agreed to privately place up to 1,000,000 units of Wedgewood at $1.00 per unit. Each unit consists of one common share and one non-transferable share purchase warrant, exercisable at $1.00 in year one and $1.15 in year two. L.O.M. will receive a commission to be determined.

CHICAGO (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - First Chicago Capital Markets, Inc., (FCCM), a subsidiary of First Chicago Corp. (NYSE: FNB), has named four new executives to its public finance division.

Kenneth E. Glover, vice president, will manage FCCM's public finance office in New York and will have responsibility for the development and delivery of municipal investment banking services to select major urban cities.

In addition, three new executives have recently joined FCCM in Chicago, where they will expand First Chicago's capabilities in health care and industrial revenue bond financings. The new executives are Thomas P. Fischer, Kenneth B. Vallrugo and Donald L. Bach.

"First Chicago believes the nation's infrastructure needs will continue to grow significantly in the future which will present enormous challenges to municipalities throughout the country," said John E. Gilchrist, chairman of FCCM and head of the public finance department. "While some firms have retreated from the arena, we believe a real opportunity exists for us to expand our presence in a number of major urban centers where we believe public financing needs will increase dramatically during the next decade."

Glover, 38, previously was deputy manager and managing director of municipal finance at Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. in New York. He has strong ties to Chicago, having served as campaign manager for Mayor Harold Washington's re-election in 1987. Prior to that, Glover spent 10 years working in banking and urban government.

Fischer, 36, is vice president and co-manager of FCCM's health finance group. Prior to joining FCCM, he spent 14 years as a health care investment banker and consultant.

Vallrugo, 33, is also vice president and co-manager of the health finance group. He has more than 10 years of investment banking experience in this market segment.

Bach, 41, is a vice president with FCCM with primary responsibility for arranging tax-exempt financings for utility, co-operative and public power clients. He has 14 years of experience in the municipal securities industry.

In 1989, FCCM ranked 19th among all securities firms as senior managing underwriter of municipal offerings as measured by Bond Buyer/Securities Data and it ranked fourth among those bank holding companies which have established Section 20 underwriting subsidiaries.

BONN, GERMANY (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - U.S.-based McDonnell Douglas Corp.

(NYSE: MD) and Bell Helicopter Textron have completed a week-long series of meetings with more than 30 German companies to explore potential of their involvement in the U.S. Army's Light Helicopter (LH) program.

During the March 19-23 session sponsored by the Association of German Aerospace Manufacturers (BDLI), each German company provided an hour-long capabilities briefing to visiting managers from the McDonnell Douglas/Bell Helicopter Textron LH "SuperTeam." In turn, they were briefed on LH program opportunities.

The LH program is the largest new helicopter program under way anywhere in the world and is the U.S. Army's top priority aviation program. The LH will team with the AH-64 Apache helicopter on the battlefield. Prime mission of the LH will be armed reconnaissance. It also will be called upon for ground attack and air combat.

McDonnell Douglas Helicopter Co., of Mesa, Ariz.; McDonnell Aircraft Co., of St. Louis, Mo.; and Bell Helicopter Textron, of Fort Worth, Texas, are competing as the SuperTeam for a U.S. Army contract to develop and build 2,096 LH helicopters. Full-scale development contract award date is January 1991.

SuperTeam managers were in Germany to identify promising German engineering concepts and manufacturing technologies for potential use in the full-scale development and production phase of the LH program.

The LH is being designed to be as technologically advanced as the most modern fixed wing combat aircraft. It is expected to set new rotary-wing standards for airframe, flight controls, mission equipment, targeting systems, weapons, rotor dynamics and engines.

SuperTeam analyses project that LH helicopters will be many times more effective than the Vietnam era rotorcraft they will replace in the U.S. Army inventory and will be billions of dollars less expensive to operate over their service lives.

DAYTON, OH (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - KRUG International Corp. (NASDAQ: KRUG) announced today that its Technology Life Sciences Division has received from NASA's Johnson Space Center a $15.9 million expansion on its existing contract in support of space shuttle operations and space station research and development activities. This contract expansion is for services, materials and hardware necessary to meet the contract requirements through Dec. 31, 1990, and further expands the division's support of medical operations and laboratory research at NASA's Johnson Space Center.

In October 1986, the corporation announced the initial three-year contract with NASA's Johnson Space Center at a negotiated value of $22 million. The contract value grew to $34.4 million which included a $10.6 million contract expansion announced in August 1988. In July 1989, the corporation announced a two-year contract addition which extended the performance period to Dec. 31, 1991 and increased the contract's potential value to an estimated $63.5 million. This $15.9 million expansion increases the contract's actual value to $74.8 million.

Commenting on the contract expansion, Maurice F. Krug, chairman and chief executive officer of KRUG International Corp, stated, "The corporation's activities with NASA's Johnson Space Center continue to expand as does the corporation's commitment to its role as a leading supplier of life sciences research."

The Technology Life Sciences Division of KRUG International, located in Houston, Texas, conducts a diverse array of biomedical services for the government. The division's interdisciplinary staff has provided research and development support to NASA's Medical Sciences Division and has played an important role in the ultimate success of the Apollo, Skylab, Apollo-Soyuz and Shuttle missions.

Through its two separate business groups -- Aerospace and Commercial/Consumer -- KRUG International provides government, industry and consumers with a wide variety of products and programs.

CHARLOTTE, NC (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Southern Bell is spending $322.1 million to expand and upgrade its telecommunications facilities in North Carolina this year.

The majority of the funds are for modernizing central office switching equipment and systems and improving transmission capabilities.

"In the last few years we have taken great strides as new technologies have become available," said Joseph P. Lacher, North Carolina vice president. "Our network -- and our service -- in North Carolina is second to none. We intend to stay at the forefront of the Information Age."

1990's budget is 6 percent above last year's budget of $303.8 million. 1989 expenditures were higher than anticipated, however, because of damage caused by Hurricane Hugo.

Construction budget totals by network district are: Asheville, $60 million; Charlotte, $102 million; Greensboro, $65 million; Raleigh, $55 million; and Wilmington, $40 million.

The company has invested more than $1 billion in new plant and equipment in North Carolina in the last three and a half years.

Southern Bell plans to spend more than $150 million in new central office equipment in 1990. It will continue converting analog (electronic signal) switching equipment to digital (light signal) equipment.

The company expects to convert all switching equipment to digital by the mid-1990s. It replaced the last electromechanical switch in its North Carolina network with computerized switching at the end of 1988.

Bell also plans to expand the use of computer software that makes the TouchStar(SM) generation of advanced calling services available.

TouchStar features such capabilities as "repeat dialing," "call return" and "call tracing."

"Last year we were able to bring TouchStar to several regions of the state " said Lacher. "This year we are working hard to make it available in even more areas."

OKLAHOMA CITY (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Devon Energy Corporation (AMEX: DVN) today announced that it has purchased an approximate 88 percent interest in six producing gas wells and associated leasehold in LaSalle and Webb counties, Texas. The company said it estimates the reserves of the acquired interest to be 9.6 billion equivalent cubic feet of natural gas. The company used cash on hand and drew $5 million against its revolving credit lines to fund the $7.4 million purchase price. The sellers, which were not disclosed, are not affiliated with Devon Energy.

The company also announced that it recently sold its interest in some 34 minor Rocky Mountain properties and is negotiating the sale of some 64 additional minor properties in the region. The proceeds from these sales expected to be approximately $2.8 million, will be used to reduce bank debt.

"The acquisition and sales are part of our continuing efforts to increase our reserves while decreasing our well count," said H.R. Sanders Jr., Devon Energy's executive vice president. In 1989 the company increased its reserves by 35 percent, or 46.7 billion equivalent cubic feet, while simultaneously decreasing its well count by 27 percent, or 1,418 wells. "Not only is the Texas acquisition another low cost addition to our reserves, but it is also expected to generate about $1 million in net operating revenue for 1990." Sanders added that he expects the company to continue its efforts to sell its minor, non- strategic properties and reinvest the proceeds in its major properties or in new oil and gas reserves.

Devon Energy Corp. is an independent energy company engaged primarily in oil and gas property acquisitions, exploration and production activities, and oil and natural gas remarketing. The company's common and preferred stocks trade on the American Stock Exchange under the symbols "DVN" and "DNV.Pr," respectively.

NEW YORK (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Victor W. Hussey has been named director of business development for Gannett national newspaper sales and the newspaper division, it was announced today.

Hussey, 53, most recently served as director of advertising for the Anchorage Daily News in Anchorage, Alaska.

"Vic's solid marketing, sales and advertising background will add significantly to our business development plan for the '90s," said Gary F. Sherlock, executive vice president of advertising of the newspaper division and president of Gannett national newspaper sales.

Hussey started his newspaper career with the Everett (Wash.) Herald in classified advertising in 1961. He held several sales and management positions with the newspaper before being named advertising director in 1968.

In 1972, he joined the Anchorage Times as advertising director and two years later assumed additional responsibilities as director of marketing for the newly formed joint operating agreement between the Times and the Anchorage Daily News.

His background also includes sales and management positions with GTE directories and Multivision Cable company. He also was president of his own public relations and advertising agency.

Hussey was raised in Everett, Wash., and graduated from Washington State University with a degree in marketing. His wife, Carol, is an elementary school administrator in Anchorage.

Gannett is a nationwide news and information company that publishes 82 daily newspapers, including USA Today, and 52 non-daily publications, including USA Weekend, a newspaper magazine. It operates 10 television stations, 16 radio stations, Gannett news services and the largest outdoor advertising company in North America.

Gannett also has marketing, television news and program production, research satellite information systems and a national group of commercial printing facilities. NEW YORK (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Gary Rockhold has been named president PolyGram Group Distribution effective May 1, and Jim Caparro has been named senior vice president sales and branch distribution effective April 1, it was announced today by Alain Levy, CEO PolyGram Records Inc., U.S.A. PGD, the distribution company for A&M Records, Island Records and PolyGram Records will commence operations on April 1, 1990.

Rockhold is currently president and CEO of Commtron Corporation. With 1989 revenues of $550 million, 1,000 employees and 17 locations nationwide, Commtron is recognized as the largest video distributor in the United States. Rockhold also is vice president of Bergen Brunswig Corporation, the second largest pharmaceutical distributor in the nation and the company holding majority ownership of Commtron.

Rockhold has spent his entire business career in the distribution industry. He joined Commtron in 1978 shortly before the home video boom, and in 1980 was promoted to executive vice president. In this position, he helped coordinate Commtron's acquisition by Bergen Brunswig. In 1983 he was named president and CEO, and in 1986 Rockhold was instrumental in taking Commtron public.

Prior to joining Commtron, Rockhold held a variety of positions in the record and video fields at Midstate and Major Records in Des Moines, Iowa.

Gary Rockhold will be reporting to the board of directors of PGD. Rockhold will be in transition between companies from April until May 1.

Rockhold will shortly be relocating to the New York area with his wife of 27 years.

Jim Caparro, senior vice president sales and branch distribution for PGD, will be reporting directly to Rockhold.

Caparro joined PolyGram Records in September of 1988 as senior vice president, national sales and branch distribution. He worked in a number of positions at CBS Records since 1973 in the areas of sales, branch distribution, manufacturing and corporate personnel. Prior to joining PolyGram Caparro was vice president national sales at E/P/A.

Additional senior appointments at PGD, including a president of PolyGram Home Video, which will be part of the new structure, will be forthcoming very shortly.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Silicon Graphics Inc. (NYSE: SGI) today announced Entry Plus Graphics, available as an upgrade to the 8-bit Personal IRIS(TM), Silicon Graphics' entry level three dimensional color graphics workstation. This upgrade makes it possible to render smooth-shaded, lighted 3D objects in real time, and reduces the system price for a Personal IRIS with solids modeling capability.

Entry Plus Graphics provides hidden surface removal and RGB drawing mode with hardware dithering for Personal IRIS workstations with standard 8-bit graphics. Previously, these features were available only on a Personal IRIS with 24-bit graphics. The upgrade consists of a 24-bit z-buffer board and an overlay plane board which provides additional window management planes. Hardware dithering increases the number of colors displayed on an 8-bit system from 256 to over 1 million colors. Applications written for 24-bit systems in RGB (double buffered) mode will run on an 8-bit system with Entry Plus Graphics without modification.

"Our range of graphics options provide cost-effective solutions to meet our customer's specific application needs. With the addition of Entry Plus Graphics, an 8-bit Personal IRIS system can be configured to meet many visual processing applications," said Mike Ramsay, vice president and general manager, Entry Systems Division. "This product provides the enhanced display and manipulation capabilities desired by professionals in markets such as mechanical design and architectural engineering, at an affordable price."

The list price for the Entry Plus Graphics option is $4,000, with customer shipments beginning in April 1990. Entry Plus Graphics is a user installable upgrade. Field installation will be available upon request.

Silicon Graphics Inc. is the leading manufacturer of high performance workstations and computing systems for visual processing applications. These workstations are used by engineers, scientists and creative professionals in the design, analysis, manufacture and simulation of three-dimensional products and services. The company's stock trades on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol SGI.

IRIS is a registered trademark, and Personal IRIS is a trademark of Silicon Graphics Inc.

COLUMBUS, OH (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Bank One, Columbus, NA has signed a definitive agreement with Citizens Federal Bank, a Federal Savings Bank of Miami, Fla., to purchase four offices of its subsidiary Equitable Savings, located in the Ohio cities of Delaware, Sunbury and Lancaster. With this acquisition, Bank One expands its branch network into Delaware County and further into Fairfield County. Bank One, Columbus currently serves customers in Franklin, Fairfield, Union, Pickaway and Madison counties.

This purchase includes $96 million in deposits and certain assets of the four offices, including the buildings and properties located at 61 N. Sandusky St., Delaware; 123 S. Broad St. and 1700 E. Main St., Lancaster; and 45 Granville St., Sunbury.

The announcement was made jointly by William M. Bennett, president of Bank One, Columbus and Charles B. Stuzin, chairman and president of Citizens Federal Bank.

The two Lancaster locations, along with Bank One's recent opening of the Pickerington banking center, expand Bank One's presence south into Fairfield County. The Delaware and Sunbury locations will permit Bank One to expand into the rapid growth areas to the north of Columbus.

Charles Sulerzyski, senior vice president of Bank One's Community Banking Group, said, "We are delighted to be adding these locations in Delaware and Fairfield counties. Many of our existing customers have asked Bank One for additional service in these counties. We look forward to serving these customers and additional residents right in their hometowns."

It is anticipated that the transaction, which is subject to approval by regulatory authorities, will be completed by mid-summer 1990.

"With the completion of the purchase, Bank One, Columbus will have 46 banking locations in a six-county region," bank President Bennett said. "At Bank One, we view this as part of our ongoing expansion plans to better serve the growing number of residents and businesses in central Ohio," he added.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - SEPTA's Susquehanna-Dauphin Station in North Philadelphia will be rehabilitated at a cost of $4.5 million following groundbreaking ceremonies conducted this morning and attended by U.S. Congressman William H. Gray, III and representatives of the United States and Pennsylvania Departments of Transportation.

Susquehanna-Dauphin Station, 2200 North Broad St., is a Broad Street Subway Station.

The 18-month rehabilitation project will add new railed enclosures for entrances, new stainless steel fencing, floor tiles, fare booths, and lighting. The project also includes the cleaning and restoring of wall tiles, repair of stairways, installation of a new drainage system and the addition of a station washdown system.

SEPTA said the improvements will contribute to passenger safety by providing better visibility throughout the station with improved lighting and fencing.

SEPTA Board Chairman J. Clayton Undercofler and General Manager Louis J. Gambaccini was joined at the groundbreaking by U.S. Rep. William H. Gray III (D-Pa.), Urban Mass Transportation Administration Representative John Garrity, and Pennsylvania Department of Transportation Deputy Secretary for Local and Area Transportation Cheryl Spicer.

MINNEAPOLIS (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - FSI International Inc. (NASDAQ: FSII) today reported results for the fiscal 1990 second quarter and first half, ended Feb. 24.

For the second quarter, sales were $12.8 million, compared with $14.9 million in the year-earlier period. The company previously announced an expected loss for the quarter. The actual loss was $479,000, or 12 cents per share, compared with net income of $748,000, or 21 cents per share, last year.

For the 1990 first half, sales totaled $26.7 million, compared with $27.8 million last year. Net income in the 1990 first half was $31,000, or 1 cent per share, versus net income of $1.2 million, or 37 cents per share, in 1989.

Richard Jackson, FSI president and chief executive officer, stated, "Since our initial public offering in January 1989, FSI had reported higher sales and income in all four quarters, compared with the prior-year periods. We are disappointed with our results for the 1990 second quarter. We are encouraged, however, by the increase in FSI's current order activity over the first quarter levels. We also are encouraged by industry expectations for strong growth for semiconductor equipment companies in 1991 and beyond."

Lower first quarter orders, coupled with some customer-requested delays in shipment dates, contributed to the lower sales in the second quarter. Margins declined due to cost overruns on the company's chemical management and delivery systems; the company also incurred costs to start up the new Polaris(TM) photoresist equipment, which FSI licensed from Texas Instruments in December 1989. Results were also affected by closing costs from the previously announced relocation of FSI's California manufacturing operation to Minnesota.

FSI International Inc. is a leader in producing automated surface conditioning equipment for processing silicon wafers. The company develops, manufactures, markets and services centrifugal spray processing systems, and chemical management and delivery systems for use in the fabrication of advanced semiconductor integrated circuits. FSI's customers include semiconductor manufacturers located throughout North America, Europe, Japan and the Far East.

KANSAS CITY, MO (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Sealright Company Inc., (NASDAQ: SRCO) today said it expects first quarter sales to be in line with analysts' projections, but the company may not meet analysts' forecasts for profit.

Sealright said margin pressures include non-recurring expenses for start-up costs in connection with new customers and new production equipment, as well as expenses in connection with plant changes and with the start-up of the company's new Engineering Services Center. The company also said competitive pressures were causing some softness in the market for its cultured dairy product packaging and in some areas of its packaging for grocery products. The market for frozen dairy dessert packaging remains strong, the company said.

Kansas City-based Sealright is North America's leading supplier of packaging and packaging systems for ice cream and other frozen dairy desserts. The company also produces paperboard and plastic food and dairy packaging and, through a wholly owned subsidiary, flexible packaging for grocery products.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Discovery Airways, an inter- island carrier based in Honolulu, has inaugurated scheduled service.

The airline is initially operating five British Aerospace 146-200 regional jetliners, and will take delivery of an additional seven BAe 146-300 aircraft by the end of 1991. Total value of the Discovery order is approximately $300 million.

More than 4,500 club class seats will be offered each day on Discovery's 48 flights linking Honolulu, Maui and Kauai. Later this year, service will be expanded to the island of Hawaii.

With one of the world's youngest fleets, Discovery's BAe 146 service comes less than nine months after the announcement of the airline's formation.

According to Brian Thomas, BAe Inc.'s president, "British Aerospace has always been confident that the BAe 146 could provide excellent inter-island service, and Discovery Airways would be fully capable of competing in that lucrative market. Now that their scheduled service has begun, we believe that Discovery will firmly establish itself as the airline of choice in Hawaii."

The BAe 146 has proven to be the world's quietest jetliner, and it routinely operates from airfields at which other aircraft are restricted. The aircraft's four Textron-Lycoming ALF502 turbofan engines are built in Stratford, Conn., while its wings are manufactured by Textron Aerostructures in Nashville, Tenn. In total, the 146's American content is roughly 45 percent, depending on customer specifications.

To date, there have been 182 firm orders for the 146 from 35 customers worldwide.

CHATTANOOGA, TN (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Constar International Inc. (NYSE: CTR), the nation's largest manufacturer of plastic containers, today announced expansion into the Canadian market as a result of the acquisition of Montplas Inc. Montplas is a plastic (PET) soft drink bottle manufacturer with a manufacturing facility located in Montreal. The purchase price of the acquisition was not disclosed.

Charles F. Casey, Constar's chairman and chief executive officer, commented that while Montplas is a relatively small operation, they have established a proven record in Canada for quality and service. Casey added that for some time Constar has been enthusiastic about the growth opportunities for plastic packaging in Canada. Montplas offers a foundation for participation in that growth. The acquisition is expected to add slightly to Constar's earnings in 1990.

Constar, in addition to being the largest manufacturer of plastic containers in the United States, through its 40 percent owned "Wellstar" joint venture is also the largest manufacturer of plastic (PET) bottles in Europe. The Montplas acquisition brings to 24 the number of production facilities operated in North America through Constar's wholly owned subsidiary, Sewell Plastics.

Construction of the new facility will begin this fall with operations scheduled to begin by the end of 1991. Fuji will invest approximately $100 million in the facility. The plant will be constructed on Fuji's 150-acre parcel in Greenwood, adjacent to Fuji's current manufacturing facility for its line of pre-sensitized plates and related products used in offset printing. The complex, known as Fuji Photo Film, Inc., is a subsidiary of the Tokyo-headquartered parent corporation. Greenwood is a county of 64,000 located approximately 50 miles south of Greenville, S.C.

Upon completion, the new videotape factory will be approximately 240,000 square feet and will eventually employ 250 people, virtually all of whom will be American workers. The factory will utilize American raw materials, as well.

Fuji's President Minoru Ohnishi made the announcement and said, "We have a strong commitment to the videotape industry in the U.S. With the establishment of a U.S. plant, we can supply videotapes to our customers more quickly and efficiently, while maintaining high quality.

"Greenwood is the ideal home for our new facility," Ohnishi added. "Since this is the site of our first U.S. manufacturing plant, we already know the benefits of Greenwood and have built a positive, working partnership with the community and its members. We look forward to continued success here."

"I am pleased that a company of the caliber and reputation of Fuji Photo Film has again picked South Carolina as a site for a major expansion," South Carolina Gov. Carroll Campbell said. "This facility means 250 new jobs for South Carolinians, but it also means a whole lot more; it is an expression of their confidence in South Carolina and the way we do business.

"I think we are getting a reputation all over the world as a pro- growth state," Campbell added. "This is especially true with the number of investments we have seen recently from Japanese companies. Such friendly relationships mean positive benefits for the citizens of South Carolina, and this announcement is further evidence of the fruits of that association."

Initially the company will produce the equivalent of six million pieces of T-120 blank videocassettes per month. The company expects to increase production to 12 million per month in the future.

Osamu "Sam" Inoue, executive vice president, Fuji Photo Film, U.S.A., Inc. said, "This is a proud moment for Fuji. A U.S. blank tape manufacturing plant allows us to better serve the ever-expanding American marketplace.

"Fuji's same high quality standards and processes will be used in manufacturing Fuji's blank videocassettes at the new plant," added Inoue.

"We are particularly pleased that we will be using American labor and raw materials."

Fuji Photo Film Co., Ltd. has additional overseas manufacturing facilities in Greenwood, S.C., for pre-sensitized plates and related products, Bedford, Mass., for floppy disks, West Germany for videotape, the Netherlands and Brazil for photosensitized materials, Indonesia for photosensitized materials and cameras, and the United States, Canada, Belgium and Singapore for photographic chemicals.

ROCHESTER, NY (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Bausch & Lomb (NYSE: BOL) announced today that it will begin construction in Waterford, Ireland of a new 120,000 square foot sunglass manufacturing facility. The facility will manufacture sunglasses for sale in European and Middle Eastern markets.

Construction on the new plant will begin immediately with completion scheduled for the first quarter of 1991. The total project cost is $28 million, a portion of which is being funded by a grant from the Irish Industrial Development Authority.

Bausch & Lomb noted that it currently has contact lens manufacturing and sunglass assembly facilities located in Waterford. More than 600 people are employed in the current operations and the company expects that number to reach 1,200 by 1994.

Almost half of Bausch & Lomb's total foreign sales are derived from European markets and continued strong growth in that area is anticipated. With the unification of the European market in 1992, establishing manufacturing self-sufficiency in Europe will help the company achieve its growth objectives.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Unocal Corp. (NYSE: UCL) announced today the appointment of Darrell D. Chessum to the position of corporate treasurer, effective May 1. Chessum will replace Edwin H. Powell Jr., who is retiring on that date.

The company also announced that Daniel A. Franchi is being promoted to the position of assistant treasurer.

Chessum joined Unocal in 1971 as an accounting trainee. Following several increasingly responsible positions as an accounting analyst and supervisor, he was promoted to manager of international finance in 1981. He became manager of accounting and finance for Unocal's Netherlands operations in 1984, returned to Los Angeles in 1987 as manager of corporate finance, and most recently served as assistant treasurer.

He has a bachelors degree in business administration from California State University, Los Angeles.

Franchi has been with Unocal since 1978. He has held a number of analyst and managerial positions, and was promoted to manager of corporate finance in April of 1989.

Franchi received his bachelors degree from California State Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo. He also holds masters degrees in systems engineering and business administration from the University of Southern California.

Powell's long and distinguished career with Unocal began in 1953. He held several analyst and managerial positions in the company's Treasury Department before being appointed assistant treasurer in 1972 and treasurer in 1981.

Powell has both bachelors and masters degrees in business administration from California State University, Los Angeles.

MIAMI (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Burger King Corporation announced today that it will sever its relationship with The Horn & Hardart Company, a Burger King franchisee since 1974.

The agreement provides that all of The Horn & Hardart Company's franchise and territorial rights to operate Burger King (R) restaurants will be terminated. The Horn & Hardart Company operated 10 Burger King (R) restaurants, all in the New York metropolitan area.

As part of the agreement, Burger King Corporation will purchase three of The Horn & Hardart Company's 10 restaurants, located at Liberty Street in Manhattan; the Roosvelt Field Mall in Garden City, Long Island; and the Cross County Mall in Yonkers.

Burger King Corporation plans to renovate the newly purchased restaurants.

"This is one of the world's greatest markets, and we plan to make these some of the world's greatest Burger King (R) restaurants," said Barry J. Gibbons, Burger King Corporation's chief executive officer. "This is a bold decision to put a troubled history behind us and signals the start of expansion into new additional sites in the New York metropolitan area."

The Horn & Hardart Company's remaining seven Burger King (R) restaurants will no longer be operated as Burger King (R) restaurants effective today.

Burger King Corporation was acquired by Grand Metropolitan in January 1989. One of the United Kingdom's largest international companies, Grand Metropolitan is a world leader in the food, drinks and retailing businesses.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Genus Inc. (NASDAQ: GGNS) announced today that it has established Genus KK, a wholly owned subsidiary, in response to requests by Japanese semiconductor manufacturers for increased Genus presence in Japan. Genus KK, located in Tokyo, was established to facilitate cooperative product application development between Genus and its Japanese customers, as well as to provide local service and support. Japan represented 28 percent of the company's 1989 $87.3 million revenue. Genus' Vice President of Japan Operations and Chief Technologist, Dr. William R. Harshbarger, has been spearheading the formation of the subsidiary for the past six months. Genus management travels regularly to Japan to facilitate corporate decision-making with the company's Japanese customers.

"The 1990s will see an explosion in the use of artificial memory in consumer and technical products. We are at the forefront of the submicron technology that enables this growth and we intend to stay there " said William W.R. Elder, president and CEO of Genus Inc.

Genus' investment in Japan is consistent with the company's strategy of using cash accumulated during periods of strong financial results to fund developments through business down cycles. In addition to its investment in Japan, Genus is currently investing heavily in three additional areas: customer service and support, Quality Excellence Programs, and product development. Genus has tripled its force of customer service engineers over the past six months.

These resource commitments will continue through 1990 via an aggressive TQC (total quality control) training program which will involve all Genus employees. In the product development area, Genus expects to emerge from the current down cycle with new leading edge products to introduce to the market. Genus is confident that these strategies will allow it to strengthen its position as a leading worldwide semiconductor equipment manufacturer, offering customers high quality service and support, and the most advanced equipment technology for next generation chip research and production.

The current general viewpoint of market analysts is that the present semiconductor industry cycle will bottom out in the second calendar quarter of 1990, which Genus believes will translate into two quarters of soft orders. In accordance with these market conditions and its long term investment strategy, Genus expects to report sluggish earnings performance for the first two quarters of 1990. With $24.5 million in cash, no debt, and the world's leading semiconductor manufacturers as its customer base, Genus believes it has the financial strength to increase its market share over the long term.

Genus Inc. is the industry leader in the manufacture of front end production equipment for tungsten CVD and high energy ion implantation. Genus' products are used in the fabrication of advanced semiconductor integrated circuits by major semiconductor manufacturers around the world.

DALLAS (MARCH 26,) PR NEWSWIRE - Transcontinental Realty Investors (NYSE: TCI) today announced the sale of One East Penn Square, a 189,000-square-foot, 60-year-old office building in Philadelphia, for $16.25 million and the recently-foreclosed 49,000-square-foot Lantern Bay Shopping Center in Dana Point, Calif., for $12.25 million.

One Penn Square Associates L.P., a newly-formed Delaware limited partnership, purchased the Philadelphia property for $14.5 million in cash and a $1.75 million five-year note with interest at 11 percent. Transcontinental retains an equity interest in the property as a limited partner in the new owner and through a subordinated 20 percent profit participation clause in the purchase note.

Lantern Bay was sold for $12.25 million in cash.

"These sales provide the trust with liquidity needed to pursue other strategic investments," said a spokesperson for the trust. "Transcontinental will record a small net gain as a result of these sales and may realize further gain through its continuing interest in One Penn Square Associates. Most importantly, reinvestment of these proceeds is expected to materially increase the trust's cash flow and support an anticipated dividend increase by early 1991."

RICHMOND, VA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Less than two weeks after mailing claim packets to 85,000 claimants, the Dalkon Shield Claimants Trust has settled its first three Option 3 claims.

The three claimants, who had medical records to prove that the Dalkon Shield intrauterine device caused their injuries, were offered a total of $155,298.15. One claimant was represented by an attorney. The other two were unrepresented.

According to Michael M. Sheppard, Director of the Trust, each of the three claimants immediately accepted the Trust's offer.

"The Trust is elated that the time has come when claimants can receive payment for serious injuries. We look forward to continued fair and efficient processing of claims.

To date, 2,138 claimants have returned their packets to the Trust. Of those, 393 claimants have selected Option 2; 325 have selected Option 3.

Option 2 compensates claimants according to a fixed payment schedule for their most serious injury. Claimants must show they used the Dalkon Shield and suffered an injury related to its use. They do not have to prove that the Dalkon Shield caused their injuries.

Compensation for injuries under Option 3 are based on a variety of factors and, therefore, is more individualized. In Option 3, claimants must submit medical records that prove the Dalkon Shield caused their injuries.

The Dalkon Shield was manufactured and distributed by the A. H. Robins Company in the early 1970's. The Dalkon Shield Claimants Trust was established to compensate the women, men and children who were injured through the use of the Dalkon Shield. It is estimated it will take up to 5 years to compensate the approximatley 110,000 active claimants.

CLEARWATER, FL (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Editors at Monitor magazine, a leading shopping center trade publication, have captured one of this year's Jesse H. Neal awards -- the prestigious "Pulitzer Prize" of business journalism.

The magazine was honored for editorial excellence for its "New Directions in Retail," an in-depth series examining emerging trends in the shopping center industry. The articles in the special report were written by Jane A. Black, assistant editor; Kay Harwell Fernandez, former managing editor; Robert E. O'Neill, editor in chief; Jackie M. Papandrew, research editor; and Mali Rebecca Schantz-Feld, contributing editor.

The Neal awards were presented March 21 in New York by the Association of Business Publishers. Some 600 entries were submitted for the 15 awards given this year. Business and trade magazines throughout the nation compete in one of three groups, which are divided by annual sales volume. Monitor won its award among magazines doing under $2 million per year.

"The Neal award stands for all that is best in journalism -- serving readers and maintaining standards of excellence," said John W. Skeels, president of Monitor's parent firm, Stamford, Conn.-based Maclean Hunter Media. "We believe very strongly in both qualities, and we're very proud of our editors for getting us this recognition."

In 1989, Monitor also won five awards from the Florida Magazine Association for editorial and artistic excellence.

WESTWOOD, MA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Bird Environmental Systems and Services, a subsidiary of Bird Inc. (NASDAQ: BIRD) and Compost Management, Inc., of Doylestown, Pa., have formed a new jointly owned entity, Bird Compost Management Inc. Compost Management, Inc., including its subsidiary, Earthlife Sales Company, are leaders in composting technology and by-product marketing, having been active in the business for more than 10 years.

George J. Haufler, chairman and CEO of Bird Inc., said, "This is another step in Bird's strategy to acquire a greater presence in the environmental business. Bird is bringing this leader of composting technology the financial resources and management to rapidly grow beyond the current million-dollar revenue level."

The new company will continue the earlier activities of Compost Management Inc. which include the capabilities to design, construct and operate composting facilities as well as the marketing of recyclable by-products. The merger will provide substantially increased capability to grow these activities more rapidly as well as undertaking larger projects.

The new entity will be managed by Roger Tuttle, the president of Compost Management, Inc., which is being merged into the new company. Tuttle commented, "This combination is taking place at a time of unprecedented interest in composting applied to a very broad range of organic wastes emanating from municipal, industrial and other sources. The beneficial reuse of the products of composting has powerful appeal in a country weary of and concerned about land-fills and ocean dumping."

HOUSTON (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Acap Corp. (NASDAQ: ACAP) announced today that for 1989 the company incurred a loss of $914,517, 40 cents per share, compared to a 1988 loss of $1,015,486, 46 cents per share. Fourth quarter 1989 resulted in a gain of $254,763, 9 cents per share, compared to a fourth quarter 1988 loss of $401,853, 17 cents per share.

Acap Corp. is a life insurance holding company whose two subsidiaries are American Capitol Insurance Co. and Fortune National Life Insurance Co. Acap's corporate strategy is to make leveraged acquisitions of existing insurance policies through direct purchase or the acquisition of companies. Acap focuses its efforts on the ordinary life line of business.

As a result of Acap's Jan. 13, 1989, acquisition of Associated Companies Inc., revenues for 1989 were 87 percent higher than 1988 and assets reached almost $82 million, an 80 percent increase over 1988.

The company attributes the 1989 loss primarily to unexpectedly high death and disability claims. Most of the excess claims occurred during the first half of the year and appear to be a temporary variance.

Acap's audited annual report will be available in approximately 30 days. Acap Corp. stock is traded on the NASDAQ over-the-counter-market under the symbol ACAP.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Shandwick has taken the number one spot as the world's largest public relations company, surging past Hill & Knowlton and Burson-Marsteller, who now take second and third place, respectively, the company announced today.

According to figures submitted for the 1990 edition of "O'Dwyer's Directory of Public Relations Firms," Shandwick's net fee income of US$180 million is significantly ahead of Hill & Knowlton's income of US$164 million and Burson-Marsteller's US$159 million.

Peter Gummer, chairman and chief executive of Shandwick, comments: "We continue to believe that public relations requires a market-by- market approach that can best be achieved by combining the finest public relations agencies in each marketplace, and linking them with worldwide standards of quality and client service. Our leadership position is a reflection of marketplace recognition and acceptance of Shandwick's approach to public relations."

Shandwick's rapid rise to the number one position in based on a solid combination of strategic acquisition and continual organic growth. According to Antony Stoddard, group managing director, Shandwick acquired eight agencies worldwide in 1989, but a significant portion of the increased income arose from new business wins as well as additional assignments from current clients. "Our business continues to develop significantly around a growing core of international clients served in a numberof locations," Stoddard commented.

The Shandwick organization now employs over 2,000 people in more than 70 principal offices in 18 countries.

ST. PAUL, MN (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - H. B. Fuller Co. (NASDAQ: FULL), today reported net sales of $181.5 million for its first quarter ended Feb. 28, 1990, an increase of 2 percent over the $177.6 million for the same quarter a year ago. Net earnings from operations were $1.6 million for the quarter, or $.17 per share, down 16 percent from $1.9 million, or $.20 per share, in first quarter 1989.

The company also took a first-quarter extraordinary charge of $1.4 million or $.15 per share, in connection with losses caused by looting and destruction of its operations in Panama following the December 1989 U.S. military action.

The combination of earnings from operations and the extraordinary charge from Panama resulted in net earnings of $191,000, or $.02 per share, for the quarter.

A decree published March 6 by the Panamanian government provides that losses from looting may be tax deductible in that country. The tax deductibility impact will be reflected in the future as realized against earnings in Panama and is expected to range between $300,000-$500,000. The first quarter extraordinary charge does not reflect any future tax benefits.

European operations recorded a downturn in both sales and earnings for the quarter as compared to first quarter 1989. Sales at the company's businesses in Italy and the United Kingdom were less than anticipated and resulted in operating losses. In France the company wrote off a substantial unrecoverable receivable.

Sales from Latin American operations were moderately above last year's level, but earnings were depressed, excluding the Panama charge, as a result of difficult economic conditions and currency devaluations in Brazil and Argentina.

U.S. sales for the quarter were approximately the same as those for the period a year ago, with a moderate sales increase by the Specialty Divisions and subsidiaries. Earnings from operations were up substantially due to aggressive cost control measures and an increase in gross margins. A softness in the economy, in general, and a slow down in the auto industry, specifically, affected the company's domestic sales growth.

H. B. Fuller Co. is a worldwide manufacturer and marketer of specialty chemical products, including adhesives, sealants, coatings, paints, waxes and sanitation chemicals with fiscal 1989 sales of $753 million.

GOLDEN, CO (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Children's World Learning Centers has appointed Duane Larson as president and chief operating officer.

Larson, 41, will oversee some 11,000 employees who provide quality child care to about 65,000 children at 477 centers in 20 states. Children's World, a leading provider of employer-supported child care, operates a learning center at the Pentagon and will manage a new center at the University of Virginia.

Larson came to Children's World Learning Centers from Manpower Inc., where for the last five years he had been western regional vice president, responsible for 120 offices from Seattle to Minneapolis to Denver. Previously, he worked for Citibank, Times Mirror and Amax Metals.

A 1971 graduate of the University of Colorado, Larson has lived in Colorado all his life. He currently resides in Denver with his wife and two children. His initial introduction to Children's World was as a parent/customer.

Children's World is a division of ARA Services which, in addition to child care, provides such basic services as health care, food and refreshment, and periodical distribution as well as uniform and textile rental.

FORT MYERS, FL (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Palmer Communications Inc. is relocating its corporate headquarters from Des Moines, Iowa, to One University Park in Fort Myers, according to William J. Ryan, president and chief executive officer of the cable television and communications firm. This is a major move for Palmer Communications, which was founded in Iowa 65 years ago.

"The University Park location matches the list of requirements we had outlined for a new headquarters," said Ryan. "It's a first-class facility, easily accessible and strategically located near the airport."

Ryan said the company plans an August 1 move-in date, with approximately 10 corporate professionals relocating from Iowa, occupying 15,000 square feet of space on the fifth floor. They will be joined by about 25 employees from the cellular division in Fort Myers. Palmer Cellular presently serves Florida, Georgia and Alabama. Its communications business includes the 25-year-old Palmer Cablevision and two Florida radio stations, WCVU-FM (Fort Myers), and WNOG-AM (Naples).

One University Park is the first six-story office building of three proposed buildings to be built by the Mariner Group on the 18-acre site located at the corner of College Parkway and Summerlin Road.

University Park has proven to be one of the hottest office developments in Southwest Florida, according to Dennis Parravano, vice president of commercial development for Mariner. "One University Park is the most successful pre-lease office development in our region's history with an 80 percent lease sign-up prior to opening," said Parravano. "Our tenants are companies seeking a premier address with all the amenities."

When completed, University Park will include 400,000 square feet of Class-A office space, a reflecting lake, fountains, green spaces and covered parking spaces, as well as the University Club, a business/social club for meetings and dining.

HOUSTON (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Fortune National Corp. (NASDAQ: FRNC) announced today that for 1989 the company incurred a loss of $778,488, 30 cents per share, compared to a 1988 loss of $955,590, 36 cents per share. Fourth quarter 1989 resulted in a gain of $12,127, less than 1 cent per share, compared to a fourth quarter 1988 loss of $280,729, 11 cents per share.

Fortune National Corp. is a life insurance holding company which owns a controlling interest in two subsidiaries, American Capitol Insurance Co. and Fortune National Life Insurance Co., through its subsidiary, Acap Corp. Fortune National's corporate strategy is to make leveraged acquisitions of existing insurance policies through direct purchase or the acquisition of companies. Fortune National focuses its efforts on the ordinary life line of business.

As a result of Fortune National's Jan. 13, 1989, acquisition of Associated Companies Inc., revenues for 1989 were 88 percent higher than 1988 and assets reached over $81 million, an 81 percent increase over 1988.

The company attributes the 1989 loss primarily to unexpectedly high death and disability claims. Most of the excess claims occurred during the first half of the year and appear to be a temporary variance.

Fortune National's audited annual report will be available in approximately 30 days.

Fortune National Corp. stock is traded on the NASDAQ over-the-counter market under the symbol FRNC.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Apparel Business Systems Inc. (ABS) today announced that it is moving its headquarters and principal computer facilities from Philadelphia to a new location in suburban Conshohocken, Pa.

The relocation, which is intended to provide the framework for ABS' continued growth, is the latest in a series of moves undertaken by the company since it was acquired by a new management team earlier this year.

ABS is the leading producer of computer software systems for the apparel, leather goods and related manufacturing industries. Established in 1973, ABS is an authorized industry application specialist for IBM. Its software systems are in use by more than 500 companies worldwide.

In January 1990, ABS was acquired by an investor group headed by George R. Graham Jr. and Robert J. Shallow. Graham, formerly a senior executive with Chemical Leaman, presently serves as chairman. Shallow, whose background includes extensive experience in both the computer and apparel industries, is president and chief executive officer.

The new management team has expanded the company's programming and customer service staffs, and has initiated a program to add new features to its software package, which provides a comprehensive system for order entry, manufacturing, inventory control, financial management, and electronic data interchange (EDI) for producers of apparel, leather goods and related products.

A total of 19 companies have installed the ABS system on IBM AS/400 computers in the past three months.

The move, to Lee Park in Conshohocken, is expected to be completed by May 15, 1990. In addition to its headquarters and central computer services center, ABS has offices in New York, and Santa Ana, Calif., and affiliates in St. Louis, Dallas, Albany, N.Y., Australia, Canada, South America and the United Kingdom.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, CA (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - McDonnell Douglas (NYSE: MD) and TriQuint Semiconductor Inc. today announced a joint effort to evaluate co-production of gallium arsenide (GaAs) very large scale integration (VLSI) devices. The program addresses the integration of TriQuint's submicron capabilities with McDonnell Douglas Electronic Systems Co.'s VLSI GaAs digital devices.

Initial products of interest are 16K and 64K static random access memories (SRAMs); digital logic devices, including a GaAs processor chip set operating at clock rates greater than 100 MHz; optical interconnect devices; and ferroelectric nonvolatile random access memories of 64K and 256K.

"This is an excellent opportunity to assure that our gallium arsenide designs will be produced in quantity and distributed worldwide," said Dr. Roger F. Roberts, vice president and general manager of the company's Surveillance & Detection Systems.

"McDonnell Douglas' VLSI designs complement the current TriQuint product line and allow us to supply a full range of gallium arsenide digital circuits from a single source," said Al Patz, TriQuint president.

Studies have been initiated under this agreement to determine the compatibility of TriQuint's submicron manufacturing capability with McDonnell Douglas' VLSI GaAs junction field effect transistor (JFET) technology in planar structure and thin film ferroelectric technology. Device designs that have been successfully demonstrated by McDonnell Douglas Electronic Systems will be used for the study.

Sven Roosild, program manager for GaAs development, Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), offered his enthusiastic support for the agreement. "This joint agreement should provide a greater utilization of the gallium arsenide VLSI technology that has been supported at McDonnell Douglas by DARPA for 10 years," said Roosild. "Commercial exploitation of this technology has been a goal of DARPA's program from the beginning."

TriQuint Semiconductor Inc. is a leading manufacturer of GHz digital and microwave GaAs integrated circuits products. TriQuint serves a wide range of customers in the communication, computer, instrumentation and military/aerospace fields in the development and manufacture of both custom and semicustom GaAs integrated circuits components.

McDonnell Douglas Electronic Systems Co. is the leader in the design and fabrication of VLSI GaAs digital circuits using the enhancement mode JFET technology. Much of the company's activity, including the 32-bit microprocessor development, 16K-bit SRAM and 64K-bit nonvolatile memory, has been funded by DARPA.

ST. LOUIS (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Thermadyne Holdings Corp. and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Thermadyne Industries Inc., announced today that 1989 was another excellent year for the company. During this period Thermadyne generated solid operating results, implemented several projects aimed at reducing the company's breakeven point and successfully improved its market position. Sales for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, increased 7.4 percent to $464.6 million and earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA") increased 15.1 percent to $95.4 million.

Thermadyne has successfully completed several of the cost reduction projects previously announced. During the fourth quarter of 1989, the company's Arcair operations located in Lancaster, Ohio, were consolidated with our Tweco operation in Wichita, Kan. The Stoody manufacturing operations have been downsized and the WRAP production previously located at Stoody's City of Industry, Calif., factory have been relocated into a similar production facility at its Belleville, Ontario, operation. During 1989, the company introduced 27 new products, as well as reorganized its sales and marketing departments to provide the most efficient and effective coverage of all its markets. The reorganization of the company's European cutting and welding and wear resistance operations are in process and should be completed by mid-1990.

Thermadyne also announced the acquisition of the assets of The Marison Co.'s high pressure cylinder business on Jan. 23, 1990. Marison is a manufacturer of small and medium sized high pressure cylinders and has a leading market share position. This acquisition provides Thermadyne the ability to better serve its customers by becoming the manufacturer with the broadest cylinder line in the world.

Thermadyne's sales for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, were $464.6 million, 7.4 percent higher than the $432.6 million in 1988. EBITDA for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989 was $95.4 million, which represents an increase of $12.2 million or 14.7 percent over 1988.

In 1989 the company incurred a $10.8 million nonrecurring charge related to stock option cancellation payments and additional amortization of intangibles, both the result of the April 12, 1989 transaction. As a result of these items, the company's operating income decreased in 1989 compared to 1988 from $52.5 million to $46.3 million; excluding the additional costs resulting from the transaction, operating income was $66.0 million or a 25.7 percent increase.

Additional interest expense, transaction related costs and amortization of intangible and deferred costs created as a result of the April 12, 1989 transaction increased the company's net loss for the year ended December 31, 1989 compared to 1988. The company reported a net loss of $77.8 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared to a net loss of $14.8 million in 1988.

NEW YORK (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Sequa Corporation's (NYSE: SQA.A, SQA.B) earnings per share for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989, amounted to income from continuing operations of 58 cents per share and net income of 13 cents per share, after accounting for a loss from discontinued operations of 45 cents per share.

Due to a mathematical error stemming from a change in the number of shares outstanding, the company's previously announced fourth-quarter per-share figures were incorrect.

The error in calculating earnings per share for the fourth quarter of 1989 did not affect the company's income results for the fourth quarter or the full year, nor did it affect per-share results for the year.

MADISON, WI (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Responding to a suit filed by Oscar Mayer charging patent infringement of the packaging of its popular "Lunchables" line of lunch combination products, a U.S. District Court judge has ordered Sara Lee Corp. (NYSE: SLE) to stop selling a "Lunch 'N Munch" product whose packaging mimics "Lunchables."

The preliminary injunction was ordered by Judge Barbara B. Crabb, chief judge for the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Wisconsin. Judge Crabb said her decision on the packaging design was based on the fact that "many of their common features derive from the novelty of the (Oscar Mayer's) '204 patent."

Judge Crabb cited an interoffice memo by a graphic designer for Bryan Foods, a division of Sara Lee, which stated that the molded tray used in the "Lunch 'N Munch" package would be "thermoformed by Bryan with minor changes from Oscar design." The memo also stated that other aspects of the package would have only "minor changes from Oscar design."

"We are encouraged by Judge Crabb's decision," said Joel W. Johnson, senior vice president, marketing and sales, Oscar Mayer. "We went to considerable expense to research the Lunchables concept and packaging and bring it to the American consumer. We protected Lunchables with all the necessary patents, trademarks and copyrights and are pleased to see that our diligence is recognized."

"Lunchables" is a combination of presliced meat, cheese and crackers separately placed in a package along with a napkin, providing consumers with a convenient and easy lunch or snack. The packaging received Food and Drug Packaging magazine's 1989 Package of the Year Award for excellence.

"We filed our suit because consumers have come to recognize 'Lunchables' by its distinctive packaging and name. Oscar Mayer has earned a valuable goodwill with American consumers that we will not allow to be harmed by a competitor's attempt to copy one of our products," Johnson said. "We are prepared to argue our case in the courts and are encouraged by this first victorious step."

Oscar Mayer Foods Corp., based in Madison, is the nation's leading manufacturer of brand identified processed meats.

DALLAS (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - MorningStar Foods Inc. today announced the signing of a definitive agreement whereby it will sell substantially all of its regional dairy operations in the state of Texas.

The sale is subject to customary closing conditions and contingent upon receiving certain regulatory approvals. Other details of the transaction were not disclosed.

"This is the first step in our previously announced plan to restructure the company and place a greater emphasis on our specialty dairy operations

" said James Bach, MorningStar's president and chief executive officer.

MorningStar was formed in 1988 to purchase the dairy group of The Southland Corp. Shortly thereafter, MorningStar purchased Avoset Corp. from Kraft Inc. MorningStar operates regional dairies centered in California, Florida, Maryland and Texas and several specialty dairy plants and nationally markets refrigerated and frozen products such as Barricini ice cream, Second Nature egg product and International Delight non-dairy flavored coffee cream.

CALGARY, ALBERTA, (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - Encor Inc. (ECR) announced today that a flow-through share agreement was signed on Jan. 26, 1990 with CMP 1990 Resource Partnership and Company, Limited (''CMP 1990'').

Under the terms of this agreement, Encor expects to spend up to $10 million on qualified exploration expenses prior to Mar. 1, 1991, of which $7 million would be provided by CMP 1990 as consideration for Encor common shares. Encor will then be entitled to receive incentives of approximately $3 million under the Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (''CEIP''). Although the recent federal budget affects the CEIP program, Encor's entitlement to receive incentives has been grandfathered under transitional rules.

CMP 1990 is currently marketing units to the public. Although Encor expects the units to be fully subscribed for, the total proceeds to be received by Encor are contingent upon the subscription level.

The number of common shares to be issued to CMP 1990 will be based on a predetermined formula and the average trading price of Encor shares for a period of 20 trading days ending on Mar. 23, 1990. These shares will be issued from time to time as exploration expenses are incurred by Encor and renounced to CMP 1990. For Canadian income tax purposes, CMP 1990's limited partners will be entitled to approximately $7 million of Canadian Exploration Expense write-offs.

Charles W. Fischer, president of Encor, stated ''The signing of the flow-through share agreement with CMP 1990 provides further evidence of our commitment to pursue highly prospective exploration projects in western Canada during 1990. It complements the joint venture agreement completed with Texaco Canada Petroleum Inc. in late 1989 as the additional funding will allow us to expand our exploration program and evaluate more prospects during the year.''

SAN DIEGO (MARCH 26) PR NEWSWIRE - The seven members of the San Diego Gas & Electric (NYSE: SDO) Board of Directors today reaffirmed their intention to merge with the Southern California Edison Co. by unanimously extending their merger agreement with Edison.

Tom Page, president, chairman and chief executive officer, said today's 7-0 vote extends the current merger agreement unchanged for another full year, or until Mar. 31, 1991.

Federal regulatory hearings are underway in Washington, and state hearings will start late next month in California.

Page urged all interested in the merger to participate in the upcoming hearings. He noted that the hearings are the proper and best place for citizens to become informed about the merger and to reach a conclusion on whether it is in the best interest of the public.

OAKHURST, CA (MARCH 27) PR NEWSWIRE - Sierra On-Line Inc. (NASDAQ: SIER) announced today the resignation of vice president of Finance/Chief Financial Officer Edmond A. Heinbockel to be effective later this year.

Heinbockel said, "This has been an extremely difficult decision for me, but I have decided to pursue other opportunities outside Sierra. I have enjoyed the innovative environment at Sierra where I was able to work with the finest management team and staff in the entertainment software industry. I look forward to the completion of several projects during this transition phase and continue to have great expectations for Sierra."

Ken Williams, Sierra president/chief executive officer said, "While I am disappointed by this news, I am pleased Ed will be with us during the transition period as he assists in the search and familiarization of his replacement. Ed has assured me that he will remain until he completes his several on-going projects."

Heinbockel has been with Sierra since 1986 and was instrumental in the company's 1988 initial public offering. During Heinbockel's tenure with Sierra, annual revenues grew from approximately $4 million to $26.7 million for the calendar year 1989. Earnings in the same period went from a deficit to a profit of $4.6 million for the calendar year 1989.

Sierra develops and publishes premium priced interactive animated adventure software for the high end of the consumer market. The company's products feature high quality graphics, music and sound effects and are designed primarily for IBM PCs, IBM PC compatibles and computers manufactured by Apple Inc.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 26) UPI - Scores of fans bundled up against a chilly night as they staked out the best bleacher seats for the arrival of the stars for the 62nd Annual Academy Awards.

While the fans partied and shivered through temperatures in the 50s Sunday night, the film industry spent the evening on pins and needles. Countless fragile egos and millions of box office dollars teeter on the presentation of each gold statuette.

The Academy Awards, the industry's chance to recognize the cream of the past year's movie crop, will be broadcast live Monday night from the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion. An estimated 1 billion people in 90 countries are expected to see the presentation of the 23 Oscars.

The contenders for best picture range from ''Driving Miss Daisy,'' a simple character study about a Southern black chauffeur and his Jewish matron passenger; to ''Born on the Fourth of July,'' an autobiography of Vietnam War veteran Ron Kovic's patriotism turned to bitterness. ''Miss Daisy'' was nominated in nine categories and ''Born on the Fourth'' in eight.

Also vying for the academy's highest honor are ''Dead Poets Society,'' about a prep school literature teacher's unconventional methods in teaching his students to ''seize the day;'' ''Field of Dreams,'' about an Iowa farmer's cornfield turned into a fantasy baseball diamond for the return of the Chicago Black Sox; and ''My Left Foot,'' about Irish author and painter Christy Brown's success despite his cerebral palsy handicap.

Since nominations were announced Feb. 14, ''Driving Miss Daisy'' and its star Jessica Tandy have been heavily favored in predictions made by film critics and Las Vegas odds-makers alike.

The best actress nomination is a first for the 81-year-old Tandy, a stage veteran whose age limits her future opportunities for leading roles.

Also nominated for best actress are Isabelle Adjani in ''Camille Claudel '' Pauline Collins in ''Shirley Valentine,'' Jessica Lange in ''Music Box '' and Michelle Pfeiffer in ''The Fabulous Baker Boys.''

Competition is thought to be tough in the best actor category, pitting an emotional performance by Tom Cruise in ''Born on the Fourth of July'' against Morgan Freeman's gentle chauffeur in ''Driving Miss Daisy'' and Daniel Day-Lewis' physically taxing performance as the cerebral palsy-stricken writer in ''My Left Foot.''

Other best actor nominees are Kenneth Branagh, for his title role in

''Henry V,'' and Robin Williams for the role of the teacher in ''Dead Poets Society.''

Oliver Stone comes to the competition for best director with the clear advantage of having won the Director's Guild award for ''Born on the Fourth of July.'' Many guild members who vote for the DGA award also vote in the academy's directing category.

Woody Allen is nominated for best director for ''Crimes and Misdemeanors '' as is Branagh for ''Henry V,'' Jim Sheridan for ''My Left Foot'' and Peter Weir for ''Dead Poets Society.''

For best supporting actor, the nominees are Danny Aiello in ''Do the Right Thing,'' Dan Aykroyd in ''Driving Miss Daisy,'' Marlon Brando in ''A Dry White Season,'' Martin Landau in ''Crimes and Misdemeanors,'' and Denzel Washington in ''Glory.''

For best supporting actress, Brenda Fricker in ''My Left Foot,'' Julia Roberts in ''Steel Magnolias'' and Dianne Wiest in ''Parenthood'' are nominated. Two actresses from ''Enemies: A Love Story,'' Anjelica Houston and Lena Olin, round out the category.

(MARCH 26) UPI - New York police have charged Julio Gonzalez in connection with Sunday's fatal fire at a Bronx social club. Authorities say Gonzalez, a Cuban immigrant who arrived in the United States in the Mariel boatlift, is charged with arson and 87 counts of murder. 87 people died in the fire. Police say many were trapped on the second floor where there appears to have been NO windows.

Australia's Labor Party may be headed toward a slim victory in Saturday's national elections. Oppostion leader Andrew Peacock of the Liberal-National party admits his party's chances for victory are slim, but he's predicting a Parliament in which the two rivals each would hold 73 seats. It may take one week to determine the election's final results.

CANBERRA, Australia (MARCH 26) UPI - Prime Minister Bob Hawke and his ruling Labor Party appeared likely winners of a slim victory in national elections in Australia, where counting votes resumed Monday in races for the 148-seat House of Representatives.

Opposition leader Andrew Peacock said his Liberal-National party coalition was still capturing some Labor-held seats that remained in doubt, but he acknowledged Monday his chances of victory were slim. Instead, he predicted a Parliament in which the two rivals would each hold 73 seats.

''If you are setting a book, I suggest the shortest odds would be regrettably on a hung Parliament, followed by a Labor victory just ahead of the possibility of a (Liberal-National) coalition government,'' Peacock said.

A 73-73 hung Parliament would allow two independent candidates to decide which of the two major groups would govern.

When counting resumed Monday, Labor had 73 seats. The coalition had 68 seats, an independent held one and six seats remained undecided. Because of the complicated system of counting and with crucial absentee ballots still to be tallied, final results were not expected until late in the week.

Although the voting was Saturday, election officials opened the polls in two districts of Queensland state Sunday to accommodate voters who could not cast ballots because of the heavy rains of Cyclone Ivor, which flooded rivers and creeks in the region Saturday.

Electoral officials took the unusual step because voters must cast ballots or face a $15 fine. One of the affected seats is now held by the Labor Party and the other by the opposition National Party, making them crucial in the close election.

Hawke needs his Labor Party to win both seats in order to retain his government and win an unprecedented fourth term as prime minister.

Results from the two districts counted so far indicate Labor will win both - but by narrow margins. Observers said the late voting could possibly tip the scales either way.

Speaking on a Sunday television program, Hawke said the flood-bound voters in the Kennedy area were in the ''unique'' position of being able to decide the future government.

''I haven't had the opportunity to talk to my Queensland people this morning, but on the assumptions that have been made, I believe Labor is going to win Kennedy and government,'' Hawke said. But he declined to declare a Labor Party victory.

''In betting terms, we are odds-on to win at least one of these seats,'' Hawke said, ''but it is not proper to be definitive, it is not proper to speculate.''

Hawke, 60, who became caretaker prime minister Sunday, and Peacock, 51, have tentatively claimed victory, but have tempered their claims with reservations because of the closeness of the vote.

Although he predicted a victory late Saturday, Peacock appeared far less confident Sunday of the outcome. ''It is a very uncertain situation and probably a shifting situation,'' he said.

Laurie Oakes, political commentator for the national television network Channel Nine, and Alan Ramsay, a senior political writer for the influential magazine Bulletin, said Sunday they believed Labor would have a two- to four-seat majority when the final vote was tallied.

But Labor suffered a bitter defeat in Victoria state, where it appeared to have lost nine seats, the victims of strong voter backlash against the current unpopular Labor state government.

According to overall poll results released so far, Labor won 39.6 percent of the primary vote, down 6.2 percent from the last election in 1987. The Liberals scored 34.9 percent, a rise of only 0.03 percent, while its coalition partner, the Nationals, were at 8.4 percent, down 3.1 percent.

Of the other parties, the Democrats polled a record 11.1 percent of the overall vote, an increase of 5.1 percent, but failed to win any seats.

Under the Australian voting system - which has voters rank candidates by preference - votes cast for defeated minor candidates are distributed to the next choice on the ballot until one candidate receives more than 50 percent of the vote and is declared the winner. It could be seven to 10 days before the final outcome is known.

(MARCH 26) - Dallas rallied to defeat Detroit Sunday night, accomplishing what the Pistons usually do to win: play good defense.

Herb Williams stole the ball and fed it to Derek Harper for a layup with eight seconds left in overtime, giving Dallas a 98-96 victory over the defending champions. The Mavericks rallied from a five-point deficit with 30 seconds left in overtime to send the Pistons to their third straight loss.

''Our defense really keyed our win,'' Harper said. ''It kept us close enough to do it at the end. Brad (Davis) came into the game and really gave us a lift. He made seven (points) in the OT to help us keep pace.''

With 30 seconds left, Davis hit a 3-pointer to move Dallas within 95-93. Bill Laimbeer then made one free throw for Detroit before Harper hit a 3-pointer to tie the score 96-96. Harper and Herb Williams then teamed up to steal the ball from Isiah Thomas, with Williams feeding the ball to Harper for a layup and a 98-96 Dallas victory.

''We knew Isiah would get the ball on that last inbounds play because he makes so many things happen,'' Harper added. ''We double teamed him and Herb got a hand on the ball and tipped it to me for the layup. This win is a great confidence builder and we just have to keep it up.''

Detroit Coach Chuck Daly gave the Mavericks credit for the victory.

''Obviously this is a tough loss,'' Daly said. ''It's tough to lose a game on a steal and three-point transition shots. Both were incredible shots.

We were in position to win, but they stole it at the end. In more ways than one.''

Mark Aguirre, making his first appearance in Dallas since being traded for Adrian Dantley last season, was booed loudly by the Dallas fans during the introductions and each time he touched the ball. Aguirre finished with 14 points.

Rolando Blackman scored 23 points for Dallas and Harper finished with 21.Thomas led the Pistons with 22 points and 10 assists while Laimbeer added 19 points and 17 rebounds.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Miami edged Milwaukee 105-102, Minnesota surprised Portland 110-105 and the Los Angeles Lakers defeated Seattle 116-94.

HEAT 105, BUCKS 102

TIMBERWOLVES 110, TRAIL BLAZERS 105

At Portland, Ore., Tryone Corbin and Pooh Richardson each scored 20 points to lead Minnesota to only its third road victory of the season. Portland lost for the first time in 17 games against the four expansion teams; and suffered only its fifth loss at home this season.

LAKERS 116, SONICS 94

At Inglewood, Calif., Magic Johnson and Orlando Woolridge scored 18 points each to lead the Lakers over Seattle. The victory, coupled with Detroit's loss to Dallas, left the Lakers with the best record in the NBA, 51-16.

TOKYO (MARCH 26) UPI - Japan, in a letter to U.S. trade negotiators, said the United States should limit credit card ownership, raise the gasoline tax, impose a federal sales tax and scrap the income tax deduction on home mortgages, the Yomiuri Shimbun, Japan's largest daily newspaper, reported Monday.

The letter, written by the Japanese government, listed 80 steps the United States could take to improve its economy, cut spending, increase savings and help reduce the trade deficit, according to the newspaper, which obtained a copy of the letter.

Japanese officials refused to confirm details of the letter but said it was part of the ongoing U.S.-Japanese trade talks aimed at identifying the causes of the U.S. trade deficit with Japan, which has been hovering around $50 billion a year for several years.

''In the process of negotiation, both parties have proposed various ideas for structural improvements, but in concrete terms, we are not going to make any comment,'' said a Foreign Ministry official.

The United States has drawn up its own list of more than 200 proposals on how Japan can reform its economy to make it more open to U.S. imports, according to a report last week in another newspaper, the Asahi Shimbun.

The Americans suggested Japan take steps to increase public works spending break up business monopolies, bring down land prices and streamline the process for opening retail stores.

Japan's suggestions to the United States, according to the newspaper, included:

-Limit the number of credit cards one person can own to reduce consumer spending.

-Abolish the income tax deduction on home mortgages, which the Japanese say encourages spending not savings.

-Construct a network of high-speed public railways to reduce energy consumption.

-Enact a federal value-added tax, a sales tax paid by manufacturers and merchants, to help reduce the budget deficit.

-Increase the federal gasoline tax.

-Amend the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction act so that any year the budget reduction target is not met, 120 percent of the portion not met must be trimmed from the next year's budget.

-Introduce a system of tax-free employee savings.

President Bush and Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu have said the far-reaching trade negotiations are a two-way street and an opportunity for both sides to improve their economic systems.

The trade talks, known as the Structural Impediments Initiative, began last year and are to conclude with a final report due in July. An interim report will be issued in April.

Bush and Kaifu met in Palm Springs, Calif., this month, and following the meeting, Kaifu promised to make reducing the trade imbalance a priority of his administration.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (MARCH 26) UPI - The spiritual leader of pro-Iranian Hezbollah extremists said in an interview published Monday he has nothing do with the plight of 18 Western hostages believed held by the organization.

Sheikh Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah, interviewed by the pro-Syrian daily newspaper Ash Sharq, also denied reports he was authorized by Iran to find a solution to the hostage ordeal.

He said he did not meet with former President Jimmy Carter last week in Damascus, Syria, on the hostages issue.

Carter, who was on a Middle East tour, said in Damascus March 16 that Syrian President Hafez Assad promised he would help win the freedom of the 18 Western hostages, including eight Americans, being held in Lebanon.

The pro-Iranian clergyman said, ''I have no links whatsoever to this (hostage) issue because I consider that I have nothing to do with the root of the problem.'' Hezbollah, and possibly allied groups, are widely believed to be holding the Western hostages. Among the captors' demands are freedom for Arabs detained in Israeli prisons and freedom for 17 convicts in Kuwait who were found guilty of terrorist attacks.

''But I always try to address responsible words to the people and all the parties concerned with this issue to close this file once and for all.''

He described as ''totally false'' reports claiming that he had been formally entrusted by Tehran with solving the hostage problem.

Analysts have said that Fadlallah favors the pragmatic policy of Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani, who wants to improve relations with the West.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Rain and drizzle dampened parts of the Southwest Monday and light flurries fell in the northern Great Lakes, but skies cleared over most of the nation as lingering traces of winter bowed to warming temperatures.

Showers that covered much of Texas during the weekend ended early Monday over most northern parts of the state, while light drizzle lingered in northeastern Texas and into Shreveport, La. Light rain also fell over southwestern Arkansas and parts of New Mexico and Oklahoma.

A cold front pushed light, patchy rain into parts of Mississippi and Alabama, and clouds prevailed over the rest of the South. Temperatures were on the cool side, ranging from 49 in Chattanooga, Tenn. to 69 in Miami.

Light snow and flurries drifted through parts of Michigan, where the mercury dove as low as 17 degrees, the National Weather Service said. Elsewhere in the Midwest, skies were clear with temperatures in the 30s.

A predicted snow storm veered to the north of New England, leaving the region with clear and fairly cold weather. Most of the region was below freezing under clear skies Monday morning.

Mostly clear skies prevailed over Pennsylvania and West Virginia early Monday, with temperatures in the teens and 20s. Maryland and southern New Jersey also reported mostly clear skies, with temperatures climbing into the 30s.

In the West, mostly sunny skies prevailed in most areas except for the California coast, which was covered by morning fog.

In Oregon, light rain fell Sunday over Klamath Falls and Eugene, but dry and mild weather was forecast for the next few days.

MANILA, Philippines (MARCH 26) UPI - Suspected communist rebels in two vans hurled a grenade at a suburban police post Monday and then fired high-powered rifles, sparking a gun battle that killed five people, the military said.

Military officials said three constables, a guerrilla and a civilian bystander were killed in the 20-minute battle in the Novaliches district of Quezon city. The attackers fled after hurling a Molotov cocktail that set the outpost ablaze.

Police said about a dozen men, believed to be members of the communist-led New Peoples Army, hurled a grenade at the outpost and then opened fire with high-powered rifles from two vans. Constables then returned the fire.

At least 14 people have been killed in the capital over the past four days in ambushes believed to have been carried out by guerrillas.

Brig. Gen. Alexander Aguirre, military capital command chief, told reporters that captured documents showed the rebels planned to mount attacks to mark the 21st anniversary of the 19,000-strong guerrilla army on March 29.

''We have put up also our operation plan to counter their terroristic activities,'' Aguirre said.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (MARCH 26) UPI - Workmen cleared debris Monday in two Northern Ireland towns hit by bomb blasts that destroyed two police stations, damaged hundreds of houses and injured eight people, officials said.

The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the two Sunday attacks, one of which involved 2,240 pounds of explosives, making it the biggest device ever detonated by the extremists in their fight to end British rule in Northern ireland.

The bombs were both planted in vans abandoned outside police stations, and authorities said the devices would have caused extensive civilian casualties had not security personnel evacuated residents from both areas.

''These bombings just show the bombers' total contempt for human values,'' said Northern Ireland Security Minister Lord Roger Skelmersdale.

The worst blast occurred at 11 p.m. Sunday outside a police station in Castleberg, 80 miles northwest of Belfast.

Officers became suspicious when video cameras spotted a van abandoned outside their fortified facility, and they moved to evacuate nearby residents before the bomb exploded, ravaging the building, surrounding houses and a school.

The blast - heard 50 miles away - wounded four civilians, two soldiers and two police officers who were trying to evacuate residents. Officials said four of the wounded remained hospitalized.

Less than 24 hours before, a 1,000-pound bomb exploded about 3 a.m. outside a police station in Ballymena, 20 miles north of Belfast, damaging all buildings in its vicinity.

Workmen moved into the two towns to clear more than 200 homes and premises extensively damaged by the two bombs, which the Royal Ulster Constabulary said were homemade devices. They estimated the damage at more than $1.60 million, and said both security bases would have to be demolished.

Authorities predicted difficulties in rebuilding the facilities, because the IRA often threatens workmen who are given government work contracts.

''These attacks are just examples of how terrorists have shown total disregard for human life by planting massive bombs in heavily built-up areas,'' an RUC spokesman said.

''In both incidents, there could have been heavy civilian casualties if security forces had not spotted the bombs and evacuated hundreds of families,'' he said.

The attacks prompted a full security alert around all police and army bases across Northern Ireland.

Police sources said they believed the IRA was trying to prove its strength following the arrests of several key figures and the location of sizable caches of weaponry because of the apparent infiltration of the group by police informers.

(MARCH 26) UPI - One man charged and others might be for the worst mass murder in American history- a New York night club fire.

The Kremlin heightens the tension in Lithuania.

U-P-I has this and other top news today.

New York authorities are considering filing charges against the building owner and the operator of a Bronx night club where a fire killed 87 people.

The charges may include criminal negligence, manslaughter and possibly homicide. Officials say the Happy Land club was open despite orders to close in November of 1988... July of 1989... and November of 1989.

Officials called the building housing the social club a ''firetrap.''

Authorities already have charged 36-year-old Julio Gonzalez with arson and 87 counts of murder after witnesses- including his former girlfriend- implicated him.

Officials say Gonzalez is an unemployed Cuban emgire who came to the United States in the Mariel boatlift. He reportedly set the fire because he had been thrown out of the Happy Land after quarreling with his ex-girlfriend, who was a ticket taker at the night spot.

Officials say Gonzalez ''is remorseful.'' Quoting here... ''He has been crying.''

Buildings Commissioner Charles Smith says more than 230 similar social clubs operate throughout the city. He says the last eviction order for the Happy Land club... issued November 1st... is still in effect. Police and fire officials are checking similar clubs to make sure illegal ones are closed.

The fire marshal's report on exactly how the fire was set is expected today.

The 87 slain make the arson fire the worst mass slaying in U-S history.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Talks between leaders of Lithuania's nationalist movement and Soviet military officials are scheduled to resume today in an effort to ease tensions between the Kremlin and the rebellious Baltic republic.

Moscow increased the tension yesterday when Red Army soldiers took over two buildings belonging to Lithuania's independent communists and handed them over to pro-Moscow communists.

As one Soviet officer left last night's session between the Soviet military delegation and the Lithuanian leaders... he told reporters the Soviet army WON'T occupy any more buildings.

Nationalist President Vytautus Landsbergis has maintained his composure in the face of the heightened tensions with what he terms a foreign power.

Landsbergis says he does NOT expect the Soviets to use force. But he says... in these words... ''there is great potential for mindless action.''

The U-S government maintained a low posture on events in Lithuania.

Defense Secretary Cheney said any military action by the Soviets in the independence-minded Baltic state would erode U-S-Soviet relations. But Cheney insisted it would be premature for Washington to threaten retaliation for actions NOT yet taken.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Hungarian election officials say they should have final results later today from yesterday's parliamentary elections.

Early returns indicate the center-right Democratic Forum holds a slight edge over the liberal Alliance of Free Democrats.

But because of the large number of candidates vying for 176 of the 386 parliamentary seats... the assembly's ultimate composition will NOT be decided until run-offs are held next month.

Hungarian officials say about 70 percent of the country's nearly eight-Million eligible voters cast ballots in the East Bloc nation's first free elections in 43 years.

Political analysts say the vote ousted the communists from power- but there is doubt whether the leading opposition parties will unite to solve Hungary's severe economic problems.

The Democratic Forum favors establishing local self-government through municipal elections and continuation of affiliation with the Warsaw Pact alliance. The Free Democrats advocate a private property-based market economy and immediate measures to rein in inflation.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Prime Minister Hawke and his ruling Labor Party appear the likely winners of a slim victory in Australia's national elections.

Opposition leader Andrew Peacock says the chances of victory for his Liberal-National party coalition are slim... although he hopes to capture some Labor-held seats that remain in doubt.

When counting resumed this morning from Saturday's elections... Labor had 73 seats in races for the 148-seat Australian House of Representatives. The coalition had 68 seats, an independent held one and six seats remained undecided.

A 73-73 hung Parliament would allow two independent candidates to decide which of the two major groups would govern.

Australia's complicated system of counting... coupled with crucial absentee ballots still to be tallied... means that final results are NOT expected until late in the week.

(MARCH 26) UPI - The Japanese government has some advice for for U-S trade negotiators.

A letter from Tokyo listed 80 steps the United States could take to improve its economy... cut spending... increase savings... and help reduce the trade deficit. The 80 steps recommended Washington limit credit card ownership... raise the gasoline tax... impose a federal sales tax... and scrap the income tax deduction on home mortgages.

Japan's largest daily newspaper reports on the letter today. Japanese officials refuse to confirm details of the letter... but did say it was part of the ongoing U-S-Japanese trade talks.

A report last week in another newspaper said the United States drew up its own list of more than 200 proposals on how Japan can reform its economy to make it more open to U-S imports.

The U-S trade deficit with Japan has been stuck at around 50-BILLION dollars a year for several years.

In Tokyo, prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange zoomed ahead today with the key index posting its second-largest daily gain on record. The Nikkei Average of 225 selected issues suffered huge losses last week. Investors also shrugged off another steep decline of the yen against the dollar.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Investors shrugged off another steep decline of the yen against the dollar Monday, sending the Tokyo Stock Exchange Nikkei Average up almost five percent to its second-largest daily gain on record.

The Tokyo market, which plummeted last week to a 15-month low, saw the key Nikkei Average of 225 selected issues skyrocket 1,468.33 points or 4.83 percent to 31,840.49.

This followed the Nikkei's gain of 528.82 points Friday after huge losses earlier in the week, The advance was second only to the 2,037.32 point rise on Oct. 21, 1987, the day after the Black Monday stock market crash.

The broader-based Tokyo Stock Exchange Price Index of all major listed shares jumped 106.64 points to 2,313.63 after rising 33.82 points Friday.

Trading was moderate, with 700 million shares changing hands, compared with 669 million Friday. Advances pounded declines 840 to 199, while 71 issues remained unchanged.

"There was a lot of confidence in the market despite the fall in the Japanese yen to a 3 1/2 year low against the dollar," said Tad Lindsey, a trader for a major Japanese securities house.

The market surged higher at the opening bell, but paused around midday when the dollar crested above the 156 yen level. The dollar closed at 156.40 yen, up 1.33 yen from Friday's close on the Tokyo Foreign Exchange.

Analysts said bargain hunters returned to the market late in the session in droves on expectation that prices would rebound sharply after institutional investors finished their year-end selling. Monday was the final trading day for institutions which close their books Saturday.

"Market optimists tried to buy while prices were still low, assuming the market will rise as trading begins for the new fiscal yar," one dealer said.

Lindsey said index-arbitrage buying added to the market's momentum. Stock-index futures contracts rose the daily limits, making it profitable to sell futures against cash stocks.

On the trading floor, domestic-led stocks led the advance, paced by constructions and electric power issues.

Blue-chip electrical made big gains, paced by Sony and Kyocera. Steel stocks, led by Sumitomo Metal Industries and Nisshin Steel, also were major gainers along with department store stocks, including Isetan and Marui.

Elsewhere in Asia, stocks closed broadly higher on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange sending the key Hang Seng Index smashing through the 3,000 level for the first time in ten months.

The blue-chip Hang Seng Index, which climbed 25.49 points Friday, gained 39.86 points to 3,014.02. Utilities rose 49.38 points, financials gained 9.46, industrials gained 44.22 and properties closed up 72.84 points.

Turnover was a strong 1.73 billion shares, compared with 1.47 billion shares changing hands Friday.

Analysts said oversees demand for major issues boosted the Hang Seng Index to a high of 3,018.33 in the early trading and interest remained strong throughout the day.

They noted that many blue-chip companies have posted solid earnings recently and this, combined with strong overseas interest, helped boost prices.

"The good corporate results we have been seeing over the past week have renewed interest in the blue chips," a senior dealer at Morgan Grenfell said.

Stocks closed higher in moderate trading on the Singapore Stock Exchange boosted in part by the strong performance in Tokyo.

The key Straits Times Industrial Index, which gained 15.51 points Friday, rose 18.66 points to 1,604.08. The narrower All Singapore Index rose 6.70 points to 439.10.

Turnover was 218.5 million shares, more than double the 85 million traded Friday.

Analysts said late afternoon buying support pushed prices higher, noting that Tokyo is still the main factor affecting the market.

Keppel Corp. paced the advance, followed by United Overseas Bank (foreign shares), Sembawang Maritime, Isetan and Development Bank of Singapore.

Insurance Corporation of Singapore led the declining issues, followed by the ASEAN Fund (U.S.), Overseas Chinese Banking Corp. (foreign shares) and Shangri-la Hotel.

In Australia, stocks closed lower in light trading on the Sydney Sharemarket as investors stepped to the sidelines to await the final word on weekend elections.

The All Ordinaries Index, which gained 0.6 point Friday, was unchanged at 1,567.4.

Most of the action centered on the resources sector, where overseas investors, worried about the political uncertainty, played a major role in sending the All Resources index down 10.8 points to 924.9.

Turnover amounted to 68.9 million shares, compared with 89.4 million traded Friday.

Analysts said many investors stepped to the sidelines until the final results of the Australian election are determined. The election was at a standoff, with the ruling Labor Party slightly favored to be returned to office.

On the trading floor, Australia's premier gold miner, Western Mining, bore the brunt of the selling, falling 16 cents to $5.14 as the global price of bullion fell on world markets.

CRA Mining lost five cents to $12.15, MIM Mining eased three cents to $2.29, North BH lost four cents to $2.23 and uranium miner ERA slipped five cents to $9.78.

AGANA, Guam (MARCH 26) UPI - A federal judge in Guam Monday suspended enforcement of the most restrictive abortion law in the United States or its territories, saying the statute was ''obviously unconstitutional.''

U.S. District Court Judge Alex Munson postponed until May 8 a hearing on a class-action petition filed Friday challenging the constitutionality of the law, which had been in force since March 19 until Munson's action.

Attorney Anita Arriola, daughter of Sen. Elizabeth Arriola, who sponsored the bill signed into law by Gov. Joseph Ada, said that based on comments Munson made concerning her petition, ''I am confident that the law will be thrown out by the court.''

The new law, unanimously passed by the legislature March 9, bans abortions for any reason except when the woman's life is in jeopardy. The law also makes it a crime to give advise anyone on abortion, even in a doctor-patient relationship.

An official of the American Civil Liberties Union, Janet Benshoof, traveled to Guam on March 18 and on March 20 deliberately violated the new law by offering the names of Hawaiian abortion clinics during a Press Club meeting covered by the news media.

Benshoof, who later pleaded not guilty to the charges brought against her, said she violated the law so it could be challenged in court.

The law had required a Nov. 6 referendum giving residents a chance to affirm or rescind the legislation. A poll by a cable television company last week showed 77 percent of those contacted said they would vote to rescind the law.

Catholicism, which opposes abortion, is the predominant religion among Guam's estimated 128,000 citizens.

Attorney General Elizabeth Barrett-Anderson had advised the legislature and the governor that the bill was unconstiutional.

Munson said in court Monday, ''That was good counsel.''

The judge suggested that the legislature meet with the attorney general and work out a more acceptable measure.

''The government now will have a difficult time mustering constitutionality. It will be the easiest case I have decided in eight years because the provisions (of the new law) are obviously unconstitutional,'' the judge added.

Abortion rights groups praised the court decision and the judge's comments. Anti-abortion activists, however, vowed to fight all the way to the Supreme Court.

TOKYO (MARCH 26) UPI - A Labor Ministry official was convicted on bribery charges Monday in connection with the Recruit Co. affair, the nation's most serious financial scandal that toppled one prime minister and contributed to the resignation of another last year.

The conviction of Shingeru Kano was the first stemming from the scandal, which came to light in mid-1988 and involved payoffs in the form of cheap stock, contributions and entertainment to top politicians of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party as well as prominent business leaders.

The Tokyo District Court convicted Kano, 56, a former director at the Labor Ministry's Employment Service, on bribery charges for giving favors to the Recruit job placement conglomerate after being wined and dined by the company.

In exchange, Recruit Co. was given preferential treatment in government decisions involving its job placement and other activities, prosecutors said. Kano received a one-year suspended sentence and was fined $8,300. He was put on probation for three years.

The scandal forced the resignation of former Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita last summer and also contributed to the resignation of his successor, Souske Uno, who stepped down after the ruling party's defeat in upper house elections last July 23.

In Monday's ruling, Kano was found guilty of accepting bribes totaling $10,000 in the form of entertainment from Recruit on 41 occasions between April 1984 and May 1986. Kano allegedly took the favors in exchange for helping to ease restrictions on Recruit's employment magazines.

Presiding Judge Akinori Matsumoto said Kano accepted the lavish entertainment "without hesitation" and "bore heavy responsbility for damaging public trust in the nation's labor administration and civil service." Kano admitted the charges during his trial, claiming that three politicians urged him to give favorable treatment to Recruit.

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (MARCH 26) UPI - Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis accused Moscow Monday of trying to undermine him to stymie the Baltic republic's drive for independence.

''They want to make a split even at the top of our government,'' Landsbergis, founding father of the Sajudis independence movement, told Parliament.

Despite Landsbergis's election as president by Parliament March 11, Moscow has been having high-level contacts with the man he defeated for the post, Algirdas Brazauskas.

Brazauskas, head of Lithuania's now independent Communist Party, is currently a deputy prime minister in the new non-Communist government dominated by Sajudis.

Observers believe Brazauskas is the only Lithuanian politician with whom Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev would talk to resolve the crisis on the future of the republic arising from Moscow's unwillingness to recognize parliament's declaring Lithuania independent earlier this month.

The crisis has become a test of Gorbachev's new powers as president and his desire to control the process of secession of republics who want to leave.

The test of wills began March 11 when the 141-member Lithuanian parliament dominated by Sajudis members, declared the republic independent at its inaugural session, disregarding Gorbachev's entreaties to wait for a law on secession.

That parliament also elevated Landsbergis to the presidency over Brazauskas, 58, a fervent supporter of independence but favoring a more gradual approach.

Brazauskas, who declared the Lithuanian Communist Party independent of Moscow on Dec. 20, is immensely popular among Lithuanians.

Supporters of Brazauskas maintain that a vote by the Lithuanian people rather than parliament would have made him the president instead of Landsbergis.

Observers also have said that Brazauaskas, who Gorbachev respsects, could best carry out the negoations with Moscow on Lithuania's eventual secession.

Brazauskas's backers have spoken of gathering signatures to force a referendum on the presidential question.

Under Lithuania's law on referendums, petititoners must first gather enough signatures to put the referendum mechanism into process.

Then in the next stage, the question to be decided, such as a ntionwide vote on president, is put to the electorate.

Last Wednesday, Gorbachev issued a presidential order, instructing the KGB and Interior Ministry to reassert Soviet control.

Passed last Nov. 3 by Lithuanian legislators, the referendum mechanism has not been used yet.

Last Wednesday, Gorbachev ordered the KGB and Interior Ministry to reassert Soviet control over the republic.

He later directed the army to round up an estimated 1,500 Lithuanian deserters from the Soviet army.

Sometime this weekend or before, Lt. Gen. Valentin Varennikov, commander of of all Soviet ground forces, arrived in Vilnius, to deal with the Lithuanian crisis.

The first acknowledgment of Varennikov's presence was made by Landsbergis at a press conference early Monday.

Varennikov sent representatives to meet with the Lithuanian leadership, including Landsbergis, late Sunday night, the president said.

Landsbergis's emergency meeting with the three Soviet officers came hours hours after Soviet paratroops took over two buildings of the independent Lithuanian Communist party Sunday and handed them over to Moscow-loyal Communists.

After the meeting, Landsbergis said he believed there will be no direct military intervention to deter Lithuania's drive to regain its pre-World War II statehood.

''That would be a catastrophe for Mikhail Gorbachev,'' Landsbergis said.

''As long as some political mind is in control of events in the Soviet Union, that kind of action is impossible, because the Soviet Union would create a political catastrophe for itself,'' he said.

''But I also know that in this country there is great potential for mindless action,'' he said. ''So that no one can guarantee there will not be such mindless action.''

Landsbergis has charged the army has conducted a war of ''psychologial terror'' against Lithuania, including helicopters dropping leaflets urging citizens to disregard the declaration of independence and to demand instead a referendum on separation from Moscow.

As simlar examples of the war of nerves, he has cited military columns roaring through town, and low-flying jets buzzing the Lithuanian capital.

By JAN A. ZVERINA

DETROIT (MARCH 26) UPI - Despite the virtual traffic jam of new car models these days, it's time once again to revisit a car that is not so new, but still quite popular with more traditional buyers.

One such car is Oldsmobile's Eighty-Eight Royale sedan, which since 1986 has been based on General Motors' large, front-drive 'H-car' platform also shared by its Buick LeSabre and Pontiac Bonneville.

The Eighty-Eight, a nameplate used by Oldsmobile for 50 years, has for several years been the division's second best selling car behind its mid-sized Ciera, with sales of 130,540 units for 1989.

That is half the number of sales back in 1984, when the Eighty-Eight was a larger, rear-drive model. But with today's proliferation of new vehicles and intensified import competition, it is still a respectable amount.

Changes to the Eighty-Eight for 1990 are limited to minor mechanical tweaks like a stiffened body structure and improved brakes. For 1988 it was blessed with GM's 3.8 liter V6 engine that delivers 165 horsepower at 5,200 rpm and a 4-speed automatic transaxle.

A new front grille, tail lamps, and interior fabrics round out the cosmetic changes for 1990.

The Eighty-Eight Royale sedan starts at $15,895, up $700 from 1989. The plusher Royale Brougham sedan is $17,395, up by $1,000. Air conditioning, 4-speed automatic transaxle and AM-FM stereo are all standard.

However the model evaluated weighed in at $22,697, counting a $505 destination fee and nearly $4,800 worth of options - many of which one would expect to find as standard in a full-sized sedan like this.

Some of the big ticket extras included anti-lock brakes ($925) and driver's side supplemental air bag ($825). But items like intermittent wipers, cruise control, rear window defogger, power seats and power windows were part of a $2,051 package.

The Eighty-Eight's plush velour seating and brightwork on the door panels and dashboard are intended to preserve its appeal to more mature buyers.

It offers ample room to carry five passengers in comfort, with thoughtful conveniences like braille-type window switches and a cup holder that folds out from the center armrest.

The needle gauge speedometer is augmented by a digital trip computer (part of the optional $2,051 package) that provides data on engine speed, temperature, voltage and fuel with a press of a button.

Despite its 3,300-pound curb weight and 110.8-inch wheelbase, the Eighty-Eight sedan has a remarkably supple ride on all road surfaces and all speeds giving it a nice blend between comfort and control that several more expensive cars lack.

The key lies where the rubber meets the road - four P205/70R radials on aluminum 15x7 inch rims, which is well worth the extra $302 to replace the wimpy whitewall radials mounted on 14-inch rims.

Its engine is smooth, powerful and responsive under all conditions, underscoring how far V6 engine technology has come since the mid-1970s. It returned an observed fuel economy of 23.1 mpg after mostly freeway driving.

In short, the Eighty-Eight Royale has evolved into a competent sedan that blends the tastes and needs of Oldsmobile's traditional buyers while adding some nimble road manners.

The only concern has to do with the sticker on the window that says a family sedan from General Motors can cost nearly $23,000 if one desires the security of anti-lock brakes and an air bag.

No wonder GM has seen its share of this high volume market dwindle in recent years. And no wonder the entire auto industry cannot seem to get off the dope of buyer rebates.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Former National Security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and former West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt differ on just about everything, but they are in perfect agreement on one point: They can't stand each other.

The Brzezinkski-Schmidt feud is one of those basic organic dislikes, so deep that it appears to be genetic, sort of like the Nancy Reagan-Donald Regan hate affair.

And like Nancy and Don, Schmidt and Brzezinski have taken their feud into public print, first with Brzezinkski's 1981 book ''Power and Principle,'' in which he suggested, not very subtly, that Schmidt, the Socialist chancellor of West Germany until 1982, was about two quarts low, psychologically speaking, and that some of his public actions were the result of an almost pathological inferiority complex toward Americans.

In his new book ''Men and Power'' (Random House), Schmidt responds. He begins by suggesting that Brzezinski was a sort of buccaneer megalomaniac, a Rasputin-like hawk who hijacked the Carter foreign policy while Secretary of State Cyrus Vance - ''who we all respected'' - was passed over.

Schmidt writes, ''Brzezinski called on me twice in 1977; he presented himself unabashedly as the self-assured agent of a world power.'' He writes contemptuously of Brzezinski's ill-conceived hunger for publicity, which resulted in a picture of him at the Khyber Pass in Pakistan with an automatic rifle aimed in the direction of Afghanistan.

Schmidt remarks acerbically, ''I pointed out to Vance that Brzezinski and his submachine gun in the Pakistani refugee camp had sent the wrong signal to the Soviet Union.''

Schmidt suggests that Brzezinski's power grab was made possible by Carter's ''disarming'' naivete, mixed with the American president's penchant for seeking votes. ''I began to understand that what he (Carter) was after was domestic prestige. For the sake of his prestige, I was supposed to give up mine.''

All of these resentments boiled up one summer afternoon in Venice, where Schmidt was to meet Carter and his staff, including Brzezinski, during the 1978 economic summit of the leading Western nations.

As Schmidt describes the encounter, it was an ugly scene with him accusing Carter of insulting Germany, and undermining Schmidt's political power.

Schmidt quotes himself, speaking in English, for clarity and forcefulness: ''It cannot serve any useful purpose to insult an ally (Schmidt) who keeps his promises.''

Carter: ''I have no such suspicion.''

Schmidt: ''It is a regrettable fact that your letter commenting on Schmidt's policies and which was leaked to the press affected the German-American alliance.''

The nastiness between Carter and Schmidt then moves to a new level as Brzezinski jumps in, with language that sounds like a barroom brawl about to break out.

Brzezinski: ''You were critical of American policy in general!''

Schmidt: ''If necessary, I can fight with the best of them!''

Brzezinski: ''And we know how to fight back!''

Carter steps in at this point with a soothing, ''I think now we'll understand each other better,'' but the violence of the feeling reflected in the Schmidt-Brzezinksi memoirs makes one wonder what the Secret Service and West German security would do if a fist fight broke out between the American national security adviser and the chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany in the presence of the president of the United States.

Schmidt's recollections raise anew the central question that troubled American allies during the Carter years: They could never tell, with certainty, who was in charge of American foreign policy that week, or that day. Was it Brzezinki, the anti-Communist super-hawk? Or was it Vance, the courteous, reasonable man?

No foreign leader could say for sure. As a result, as Schmidt recounts it, they all pulled, silently or publicly, for Ronald Reagan, as one who may not have been ideologically in tune with the Europeans, but at least they knew where he stood.

By CHRIS GRAHAM

(MARCH 26) UPI - The office revolution carrying us into a new decade is led by two generals, CPU and FAX, who normally do not talk to each other. But that is changing as more ways are found to make computers and facsimile machines work together.

The link is between the massive storage power of a PC and the ability of a fax machine to instantly transmit to another machine anywhere around the world.

Domestic facsimile machine sales hit 1.35 million units last year, up 19 percent from 1988. And that works out to a market worth roughly $2 billion one of the fastest growing segments of a $300 billion electronics industry.

Fax is everywhere. You can order from a Connecticut catalog or a Chicago hot dog stand using the machines. The Trumps use one in their version of Divorce Wars. The dalai lama faxed his regrets for not being able to attend a college graduation ceremony in the United States.

SpectraFAX, a privately held company in Naples, Fla., was one of the early players in linking the fax and IBM-compatible PCs. It introduced the first commercially available color scanner in the fall of 1984.

It was out with the Faxcard early in 1987, allowing PC's to communicate with Group 3 fax machines. The same year found it working with the Intel Corp. to develop what is now the Connection CoProcessor.

The two then went their separate ways, with SpectraFAX producing its Personal Link general purpose communications device in 1989.

Personal Link adds a new twist to the PC-fax interface - a graphics editor that allows for custom production of highly specialized graphics or letters that are real attention grabbers.

Installation is a snap. Just plug the Personal Link board into the expansion slot of your computer and you're ready to run.

The manual is a joy , rapidly covering ground from installation to first test run with easy-to-follow instructions.

Personal Link works quietly in the background, ready to receive or send anywhere, anytime, while you work in other applications.

The receive mode is automatic, while Personal Link can be set to send data - to a remote computer or fax machine - at any time you want.

But it is the Graphics Editor that makes Personal Link more than just another pretty communications interface. It gives complete control over how your document will look.

The key is the ZSoft Paintbrush Plus. It takes very little time to get used to and the design possibilities are limited only by your imagination .

Six type faces are available, with six stroke types each. Add to that an endless array of graphics and anything is possible.

Personal Link supports a number of full-page scanners, allowing you to import copy or drawings. And it exports to most major printers.

The transmission quality is well beyond that of regular faxed items. And you use the storage power of your PC to save what you want, and use when you want.

Files stored on disk use the ZSoft PCX/DCX Image File format, giving an industry standard of movement between other applications.

And Personal Link accepts material from other applications.

This review was done at home on Microsoft Works and sent to the Personal Link file as printed text. It was combined with a cover logo, a cover letter and transmitted to my office on a delayed basis, arriving just as I finished a commute from the suburbs.

The $995 price is just $100 over SpectraFAX's regular Faxcard, certainly within the range of a regular fax machine that does no more than send or receive. And using your PC's printer is an advantage when it comes to keeping documents on something more permanent than fax paper.

Personal Link is an even bigger advantage if you need high-end graphics and font capabilities. You can do rough copy edits of documents and exchange them in a single telephone call. The same is true for highly detailed drawings.

And Personal Link is fast. Lightning fast. It provides Group III Fax capability at 2,400 to 9,600 baud. The Personal Link card also provides a slot for a snap-in, 2,400-baud Hayes compatible modem, a $245 option. And Personal Link will automatically recognize whether it is being connected to a fax or computer and handle the communications session appropriately.

Be warned of possible conflicts between Personal Link and other memory resident software.

I found that the Personal Link TSR (Transit and Stay Resident) did not like the DiskOptimizer housekeeping utility I use to keep file fragmentation to a minimum.

The two battled like unhappy siblings, but several calls to helpful support personnel at both companies solved the problem. I now load the housekeeper from a floppy instead of the hard disk, and the two work in relative peace.

Hardware: Personal Link, from SpectraFAX Corp., 209 South Airport Rd., Naples, Fla., 33942. System requirements: IBM compatible, one full-size expansion slot; 640K, hard disk, graphics card and graphics-capable monitor. Price: $995 . Optional 2400 baud modem, $245. Reviewer's evaluation: (on scale of 1 to 5) 5 - unqualified recommendation.

HOUSTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Domestic drilling declined last week while offshore drilling increased slightly, industry monitors reported.

Baker Hughes Inc. reported Sunday that 893 rotary rigs were working in the United States last week compared with 908 the previous week and 766 the same week a year ago.

Offshore Data Services reported one more rig went to work in the Gulf of Mexico last week, boosting the rig utilization rate to 69 percent with 149 rigs working out of a fleet of 216. That was an improvement from a year ago when the utilization rate was 50.2 percent with 112 rigs working out of a fleet of 223.

Offshore Data also reported two additional rigs working in European waters boosting the utilization rate there to 89.4 percent with 118 rigs working out of a fleet of 132.

There were 536 mobile offshore rigs working worldwide last week - one more than the previous week - out of a fleet of 669, for an utilization rate of 80.1 percent.

There were 333 rotary rigs working in Texas last week compared with 335 the week before and 234 the same week a year ago. Other rig counts: Louisiana, 138 last week, 147 the week before and 128 the same week a year ago; New Mexico, 33 last week, 31 the week before and 28 the same week a year ago; Oklahoma, 106 last week, 96 the week before and 118 the same week a year ago; and Canada, 190 last week, 227 the week before and 214 the same week a year ago.

GENEVA (MARCH 26) UPI - Political and economic pressure should be used to persuade six major holdout countries to sign the 20-year-old Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, a leading international arms control expert said Monday.

In a book marking the treaty's 20th anniversary, Jozef Goldblatt said other nations should deny supplies of nuclear material and equipment to Argentina, Brazil, India, Israel, Pakistan and South Africa.

Those six countries, Goldblatt said, operate ''unsafeguarded'' nuclear facilities capable of making weapon-usable material and also have missiles and other means of delivering nuclear weapons.

The nuclear plants in those countries should be placed under the control of the International Atomic Energy Agency, said Goldblatt, who said economic and political pressure should be applied to the six non-treaty nations.

The non-proliferation treaty was completed in 1968 at the multilateral Disarmament Conference in Geneva, came into force in 1970 and has 141 state parties. It bans countries with nuclear weapons from helping others acquire such arms and bars non-nuclear weapon countries from making or acquiring them.

''No material breaches have been recorded nor have any intentions to withdraw from it been announced but a serious problem is posed by the holdouts,'' Goldblatt wrote.

A former Polish disarmament negotiator, Goldblatt is a senior associate at the International Peace Research Institute in Oslo and a senior research fellow at the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva.

He said in his book that only India among the six countries has conducted a nuclear test explosion - ''a crude device'' in 1974 - but could produce sufficient plutunium ''for over 15 weapons a year.''

Pakistan ''may not yet have assembled a complete nuclear explosive device but ... has the capacity to produce enough material for one to four nuclear weapons annually.''

Goldblatt said there is no solid proof but there is ''a prevalent belief that Israel has a nuclear arsenal and that there are today six nuclear weapon states rather than five.''

The United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China are the countries known to have nuclear weapons.

Goldblatt said Israel's refusal to sign the treaty has been hardened by reports that chemical weapons are stockpiled and delivery missiles being acquired by Iraq, Iran, Egypt, Libya and Syria.

''However, nuclear deterrence can hardly guarantee Israel's security over the long term,'' Goldblatt said. Arab countries could follow suit and Israel because of its small size and dense population ''would have more to lose from a nuclear exchange than any neighboring state.''

South Africa for its part ''may have accumulated enough weapon-grade uranium for a small arsenal of nuclear explosive devices but it is not certain whether weapons have actually been assembled,'' Goldblatt said.

He added ''the recent relaxation of tensions in the southern part of the African continent may have diminished inclinations in South Africa to 'go nuclear.'''

Goldblatt said in Latin America ''the danger of nuclear weapon proliferation has been somewhat dampened'' with scientific, technical and economic cooperation ''reducing the traditional rivalry between Argentina and Brazil.''

Those two countries mainly refuse to sign the treaty because despite treaty terms, nuclear weapon states continue to make increasingly sophisticated arms through continued testing, he said.

NEW DELHI, INDIA (MARCH 26) UPI - The government said Monday it is looking into published reports that kickbacks were involved in the $1.4 billion sale of 31 European-made A-320 Airbus passenger jets to the administration of former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi.

Civil Aviation Minister Arif Mohammed Khan made the announcement in reply to a question in the upper house of Parliament on the purchase of 31 A-320 aircraft from French-based Airbus Industries.

The minister said the government is looking into news reports that said that kickbacks were paid in the 1986 sale of 19 A-320s and a June 1989 order for another 12 planes under an option in the first purchase. There were no immediate comments on Khan's statement from either the former ruling party or Airbus Industries.

The reports of alleged kickbacks appeared in several Indian news publications following the Feb. 14 crash of an Indian Airlines-owned A-320 outside the southern city of Bangalore in which 90 people died. The cause of the disaster has not been revealed.

Following the crash, the government grounded all of the remaining A-320s and ordered experts to investigate the safety of the planes and the efficiency of the ground infrastructure at Indian airports.

Khan told members of the upper house that state-owned Indian Airlines had signed in July 1984 a letter of intent to buy 12 Boeing 757 planes but later canceled the deal in favor of Airbus Industries.

Khan said the Gandhi administration, which was driven from power in late November elections by the National Front coalition of Prime Minister V.P. Singh, decided that the European-built planes were more fuel-efficient and provided greater passenger comfort.

However, he said that Indian Airlines frequently faced problems with the aircraft like smoke in the cabin and snags with its pressurization and hydraulic systems.

Pilots also have complained that the aircraft have sometimes lost power while descending, suffered computer malfunctions and that its advanced technology gave no option to cockpit crews to override the computer command in emergencies.

India Today magazine reported that official documents indicated that the Gandhi government pushed through the Airbus deal with undue haste, ignoring other options as well as warnings about the inadequacy of India's ground support systems.

The magazine reported that Indian Airlines and the Civil Aviation Ministry altered air traffic projections and the nature of the fleet requirements to favor the European planes and that a fresh offer from Boeing was spurned.

The A-320 selection was made by selected senior officials in contrast to the usual practice of rigorous examination by an expert committee, said the magazine, adding the Boeing-757 planes were rejected on the basis of data provided by unknown sources.

"The previous government seemed to be in a tearing hurry to ... all but turn over Indian airspace, both civilian and military, to the French," said the Statesman newspaper.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide at what point a desegregation order should be lifted for a public school that has achieved integration goals.

The justices will hear arguments next term in an appeal by the Oklahoma City school system, which contends confusion exists over a school system's obligation to a desegregation order once that order has been met.

The case before the court emerged after the Oklahoma City school board adopted a new plan in 1985, eight years after it had met court-ordered desegregation goals.

That plan, necessitated by what the school said were changing neighborhood demographics, curtailed cross-town busing of elementary school students, which effectively created nearly a dozen virtually all-black schools.

Parents of the students filed suit against the school board, but the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals eventually reversed a lower court ruling that had dissolved the original desegregation order.

The appeals court found in favor of the students, ruling that the demographic changes did not warrant dissolution of the desegregation order. The school board sought high court review of that decision.

The issue has drawn attention from the National School Boards Association, which contends school boards across the nation have little guidance in resolving such desegregation disputes.

They argued that, on one hand, the Justice Department has announced plans to dismiss more than 200 school desegregation cases in districts where court orders have been met, while on the other hand, legal attempts by school boards to dissolve desegregation orders that have been met are costly and could create ''community anxiety and unrest.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The Supreme Court refused Monday to become involved in a dispute over lawyer fees stemming from a five-year battle over a Virginia pornography law.

The court refused to hear the case brought by lawyers for a number of book sellers seeking review of a ruling by the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that denied them attorney fees.

The case stems from a 1985 law intended to protect minors from adult books by ordering book stores to segregate any materials that might be harmful to minors.

The case made its way to the Supreme Court, which eventually sent the case back to the Virginia Supreme Court to determine the scope of the law. The state court eventually narrowed the law and that determination was upheld by the federal appeals court.

However, the appeals court refused to order the state to pay lawyer fees.

The lawyers for the booksellers appealed and the Supreme Court Monday refused to review that ruling.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The Supreme Court refused Monday to become involved in a dispute arising from the McMartin Pre-School child molestation case, the longest and costliest criminal trial in U.S. history.

The justices, without comment, rejected an appeal from former teachers

Virginia McMartin, 82, and Peggy Ann Buckey, 33, the mother and daughter of former Martin Pre-School owner Peggy McMartin Buckey.

The elder McMartin and Peggy Ann Buckey were among five co-defendants dismissed from the case before the trial in which Peggy McMartin Buckey and her son, Raymond, were acquitted in January of 52 molestation counts involving children at their Manhattan Beach, Calif., preschool.

Raymond Buckey faces a retrial on Tuesday for eight other molestation counts on which jurors were deadlocked.

In the case rejected by the Supreme Court, Virginia McMartin and Peggy Ann Buckey argued they should be able to seek damages from physicians and therapists hired by Los Angeles County prosecutors since the women subsequently were dropped from the case.

Physicians and therapists from the Children's Institute International evaluated children who attended the preschool and relayed their suspicions of child sexual abuse to county authorities.

Defense lawyers long contended the therapists coached children into saying they were sexually abused by preschool teachers.

A trial court found the Children's Institute International employees were immune from liability, and the California appeals court upheld that ruling.

The January acquittals climaxed a nearly three-year, $13 million trial, making it the longest and most expensive criminal trial in U.S. history.

When first filed in 1984, the case was also the largest molestation case in U.S. history. However, scores of charges and the five co-defendants were dismissed before the first trial for insufficient evidence.

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND (MARCH 26) UPI - Delegates began Monday to draft proposals for an international conference in Paris in September on reversing the increasingly desperate plight of the world's 42 poorest countries.

A report to the two-week preparatory session said economic growth in the 1980s in the least developed countries (LDCs) averaged just 2.3 percent annually against a yearly target of 7.2 percent.

Food production actually declined 0.8 percent annually on a per capita basis while manufacturing only rose two percent against a projected nine percent. Population growth rose an average 2.4 percent annually in the 1980s.

"It is estimated that the population of the LDCs increased by almost 100 million during 1980-1990," the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development said in the report.

"For the period up to the year 2000, population growth is projected to further accelerate to an average ... of 2.9 percent per annum before slowing down gradually in the next century," it said.

"The combined effects of high fertility rates, declining infant mortality and prolonged life expectancy will increase the population of the LDCs to about 587 million by the end of the 1990s," it said. "If present demographic trends continue, the population of the LDCs is expecxted to double during the next 25 years as compared to an estimated 65 percent growth in the developing countries as a whole."

UNCTAD, the Third World's main platform within the United Nations system, hosted the preparatory session with high officials from around 100 countries attending.

John A. Sankey, British ambassador to the U.N. European headquarters in Geneva, was elected chairman of the meeting which is supposed to draw up "a comprehensive program of action" for the Paris conference Sept. 3-14.

The UNCTAD report called for a doubling this decade of official western financial aid for the 42 poorest nations and a substantial reduction as well as some write-offs of existing debt. But the LDCs must also help themselves and especially lower their birth rates, it said.

"It will be of the utmost importance for the governments of the least developed countries to turn around in the 1990s the alarming trend in high population growth," the report said. In 1988, UNCTAD said, the LDCs accounted for just 0.3 percent of total world exports against 1.4 percent 28 years earlier, in 1960.

Because primary commodities account for around two-thirds of their exports, falling prices for those goods resulted in an earnings shortfall of at least $604 million in the past ten years. There were 31 LDCs in 1981 but the number has now risen to 42, with 28 in Africa.

They were classified by per capita annual gross domestic product of little more than $200, with only one-third of their people having access to safe water and two-thirds illiterate.

Their combined population represents 12 percent of the world total but they produce just one percent of world GNP and consume only one percent of world energy.

"The 1980s can be considered in general as a period of setbacks and retrogression," UNCTAD said. "Most LDCs have had to cut back on imports, abandon national development plans, and undergo a process of forced adjustment with austerity." Combined LDC debt climbed from $35.8 billion in 1982 to $69.3 billion in 1988,representing 72 percent of their GNP.

UNCTAD said the LDCs could boost annual growth to some five percent in the 1990s if they gradually raise their domestic savings rates to seven percent of GDP and get official development aid of $36 billion, in 1988 prices, by the year 2000.

"This implies that the donors should double ODA to LDCs in the next five years as compared to current levels and provide, on the average, 0.20 percent of their gross national product by the end of the 1990s," UNCTAD proposed.

Currently donor nations provide an average of just 0.09 percent of their GNP to the LDCs against a target of 0.15 percent set at the first international conference on LDCs in 1981.

The 42 LDC's are: Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Benin, Bhutan, Botswana, Burkina Faso, Burundi, Cape Verde, Central African Republic, Chad, Comoros, North Yemen, Djibouti, Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Gambia, Guinea, Guinea Bissau, Haiti, Kiribati (Gilbert Islands), Laos, Lesotho, Malawi, Maldives Mali, Mauritania, Mozambique, Myanmar (Burma), Nepal, Niger, Rwanda, Samoa, Sao Tome, Sierra Leone, Somalia, Sudan, Togo, Tuvalu (Ellice Islands), Uganda, Tanzania, Vanuatu (New Hebrides), and South Yemen.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Leaders of the Air Line Pilot's Association say Eastern Airlines' union pilots will vote this week on whether to accept a temporary 25-percent pay cut. The fliers went on strike one year ago in sympathy with striking machinists but agreed to return to work in November. Eastern says it has filled the slots with NON-union labor and picket line-crossers.

Rival Christian militias have stepped up their intra-sectarian violence in east Beirut, all but erasing a March 2nd truce. Police say the latest round of fighting left six people dead and about one-dozen wounded. General Michel Aoun told his followers yesterday he has a secret plan to end the prolonged warfare.

The Philippine military suspects communist rebels were involved in an attack at a suburban Manila police post today that left five people dead. Rebels in two vans tossed a grenade which set the outpost on fire. The two sides then fought a 20-minute gun battle. 14 people have died in ambushes in Manila during the past four days.

An estimated one-BILLION people around the globe are expected to tune in for tonight's broadcast of the Academy Awards. For some, a gold statuette means recognition by one's peers for a job well done. For others, an Oscar means Millions of dollars at the box office.

BY VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (MARCH 26) UPI - The occult has an eerie fascination for a lot of people, even cynics who deny even the possibility of other-worldly phenomena.

That's why so many movies are made about spirits, ghosts, demons and satanists.

A genuine occult film is different from the horror-slasher genre, the ''Nightmares on Elm Street'' or ''The Texas Chainsaw Massacres.''

The true occult film causes your skin to prickle and your hair to quiver because of the things you DON'T see. The real article doesn't rely on guns knives and axes wielded by terrifying monsters.

A good occult movie allows the audience to conjure up its own horrors, which often are more dreadful than anything the special effects guys can dream up.

Among classic occult pictures were ''The Shining,'' ''The Omen,'' ''Poltergeist,'' ''The Thing,'' ''The Haunting'' and perhaps most chilling of all, ''The Exorcist.''

The successful occult film relies on the viewer's human frailty, going back thousands of years, in a belief in supernatural manifestations for which there are no logical or scientific explanations.

Superstition over the centuries has inculcated in most people a half-conviction that ghosts and poltergeists COULD exist. The possibility scares the hell out of us in theaters if a movie is competently made.

Some people absolutely believe in ghosts. One of them is actress Tracy Griffith, who co-stars in the new movie ''The First Power'' with Lou Diamond Phillips.

''The First Power'' is essentially an action-adventure film that deals only peripherally with psychic powers when Griffith appears on the scene.

Red-haired Tracy is the half-sister of actress Melanie Griffith. She is a level-headed young woman who was born in Manhattan. Her father is real estate man Peter Griffith, her mother, actress Nanita Greene.

Tracy is not the sort who would invent a ghost story, but she vows that she indeed lived with shades from beyond the pale - in a spooky old mansion on the island of St. John in the American Virgin Islands when she was growing up.

She plays a psychic in ''The First Power'' and interviewed a half-dozen or so professional psychics in Los Angeles to get the hang of things.

''I play a corporate psychic, a woman who takes her job seriously,'' she said. ''It was easy for me because I already believed in paranormal manifestations. I've read books on the subject.

''The psychics convinced me almost everyone can develop the ability to recognize psychic phenomena by opening themselves to receive other things beside their own thoughts. It's like tuning in feelings and images.

''I've always believed in different levels of consciousness and existence because I grew up in a haunted house where my father still lives.''

Unabashed by her confession, Griffith said she, her parents and her brother moved into the house when she was seven and lived there until her teens.

''From the beginning we heard natives singing in the house when there wasn't a native anywhere in sight,'' she said.

''When it first happened in the middle of the night my father shouted, 'Turn off that radio, you kids!' We were fascinated by the singing. Not frightened at all.

''There are other things, objects being moved around the house - things like coffee cups. And there are faint lights, like people carrying lanterns, that come and go at odd hours.

''Our huge stone house is in the jungle right on the beach. It originally was a 17th century sugar mill where natives worked. The natives tell us of seeing swirling white faces and of talking to friendly old people.

''The ghosts are protective. They like us and look out for our family. Most of the natives won't get near the house. The meter-reader won't come close enough to read the gauges. There are only 2,300 people on the island and we ran out of babysitters.

''I'm sure it wasn't our imaginations. Our dogs and cats get very upset when the singing starts. The dogs bark and run around in circles. We have guests who are frightened by it all and refused to stay with us.

''Psychics prowled around the house verifying the ghosts. It was weird but interesting. My father liked the ghosts, but my mother didn't. She moved back to New York.

''I still visit Dad. I took a friend recently and he wanted to leave. He couldn't stand the presence of the other beings. Some visitors know nothing about all this, but the minute they enter the house they get upset and leave. They can't catch their breaths.

''So my background made it pretty easy for me to keep an open mind about psychic phenomena when it came to playing the role in this picture.''

Although she is not as well-known as her half-sister, Griffith is not a newcomer to show business. She worked in ''The Guiding Light'' soap opera and in other TV shows, including ''Family Ties'' and ''The Catlins.'' Her film credits include ''The Good Mother,'' ''Fast Food,'' ''Sleepaway Camp'' and ''Fear City.''

Her leading-lady role in ''The First Power'' is her most important screen assignment yet.

''I know this sounds crazy,'' she concluded, ''but my roommate and I have reason to think our apartment here in Hollywood also has ghosts.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide if employers can bar women of child bearing age from certain jobs because the work could lead to birth defects.

The court will hear arguments in the fall in the case brought by a group of Wisconsin women seeking review of a ruling by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that upheld the ban. A decision is not expected before next year.

At issue is a clash between job safety and women's rights. The employer, Johnson Controls Inc., makes batteries of which the primary material used is lead, which is a recognized health hazard to workers. Medical experts also believe lead poses a serious threat to a developing fetus that can lead to stillbirth, reduced birth weight, and retardation. The company, which owns battery plants around the country, decided to bar potential child-bearing women from working with lead.

Such "fetal protection policies" have become increasingly widespread in industries where lead or other chemicals are used, and are a common feature in the high-tech semiconductor industry. Defenders say they're needed to prevent damage to the unborn child, and to shield a company from being sued as a consequence.

Women's groups and labor unions, however, say the policies discriminate against women by barring them from high-paid jobs on the mere belief they might become pregnant and the work might pose a danger to a fetus. While courts have generally stated such policies do discriminate against women, they have also said such policies can be justified.

In other action, the court:

- Agreed to decide at what point a desegregation order should be lifted for a public school that has achieved integration goals. The case concerns the Oklahoma City school system, which contends confusion exists over a school system's obligation to a desegregation order once that order has been met.

- Refused to become involved in a lawsuit arising from the McMartin Pre-School child molestation case, the longest and costliest criminal trial in U.S. history.

- Refused to enter a case involving a claim that a bank discriminated against a man for refusing to issue him a credit card because he was not a U.S. citizen.

In seeking high court review, lawyers for the women argued that previous lower court rulings significantly narrowed Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act that bars discrimination based on sex.

They also said that exposure to lead can also cause reproductive harm in men by lowering sperm counts and cause genetic damage that can lead to birth defects in offspring, contentions that were disputed by varying experts.

A number of women's groups and labor unions, in a friend-of-the-court brief, also urged the court to hear the case and said it could affect as many as 20 million women.

"The truth is that most women work because they have to; whether in single-parent or in two wage-earner households, women's contributions to family income are critical," they said. "Johnson Control's policy and others like it thus require women to make an impossible choice between their fertility and their jobs."

However, arguing against review, the company said that "while emphasizing that fetal protection policies are permissible only in extremely narrow circumstances and may not be based in any way upon notions of romantic paternalism or stereotyped characterizations of the sexes, the courts have unanimously recognized that Title 7 allows sex-based distinctions where necessary to industrial safety."

The case stems from Johnson Controls' decision to bar many women from working in sections of its battery division where lead is used to prevent birth defects to their children.

Liz Batemon, 56, said she lost wages of as much as $100 a week because she had been unable to transfer back to the lead-exposure area of the company's Milwaukee plant, a part of the operation in which she worked until 1982.

So Batemon and other women manufacturing employees charged the company was discriminating against them on the basis of sex. They have the backing of the AFL-CIO.

The Johnson Controls policy bars fertile women from sections of the plant where workers risk being exposed to lead used to make automobile batteries. The policy has been in effect since 1983.

Johnson Controls said an earlier voluntary policy failed, while the company has spent as much as $15 million to reduce lead in the factory. Women who were transferred received compensation to make up for some of their losses, but women remain barred from the higher paying jobs where lead is used.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The Supreme Court Monday refused to enter a case involving a claim that a bank discriminated against a man for refusing to issue him a credit card because he was not a U.S. citizen. The court refused to hear a case brought by Jeetendra Bhandari seeking review of a ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

At issue is the scope of two Civil War era laws, the Civil Rights Act of 1866 and the Voting Rights Act of 1870, generally refered to as Section 1981 of the U.S. Code.

The law grants the right to "make and enforce contracts ... enjoyed by white citizens" to all residents. Over the years, the law has proved to be a potent weapon in fighting discrimination by both government and private parties such as businesses. More recent civil rights laws are less comprehensive and do not provide for jury trials and damages.

The case before the court concerns whether the law protects non-citizens from discriminatory action by businesses in the same way it protects citizens. Two justices, Byron White and Sandra Day O'Connor, noted they would hear the case to settle the question of whether the law gives the same protection to citizens and non-citizens. It takes four justices to grant review.

The case began in 1983 when Bhandari, an accountant, native of India, and permanent resident of the United States, was turned down for a Visa credit card by the First National Bank of Commerce in Louisiana. The reason stated was "not a U.S. citizen." He eventually brought suit and over a period of years courts ruled that Section 1981 does not reach private discrimination against aliens.

Seeking high court review, lawyers for Bhandari said the rulings withdraw "an important legal protection from economically productive lawful residents of our nation of immigrants."

Arguing against review, lawyers for the bank said the court should not extend the law "beyond the boundaries delineated by Congress which historically has established different limits for racial and alienage discrimination."

The case first went to the high court last year but was sent back to the lower court for reconsideration. The lower court refused to alter its earlier ruling and Bhandari again took the case to the high court.

SEABROOK NH (MARCH 26) UPI - The Seabrook nuclear power plant has reached eight percent power, its highest level so far and just short of the reactor capacity needed to generate electricity, a plant spokesman said Monday.

Operators at the $6.45 billion project, which received its full-power license from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on March 15, began reactor operations last week. The process of bringing the reactor to full power is expected to take up the three months.

"Over the next week or two we'll be operating between eight and ten percent, preparing the steam turbines for the generation of electricity," said Ron Sher, a spokesman for Seabrook operator New Hampshire Yankee. "Right now the steam is bypassing the turbines and going directly to the condensors."

Sher said steam valves and other components of the plant are being tested prior to bringing the turbine on line. Seabrook is capable of generating electricity with the reactor at ten percent power.

"Within a week or two we will actually be conducting tests involving the turbine," Sher said. "That would mark the first time Seabrook generates electricity."

On Thursday, the plant was shut down while operating at three percent when a control rod power unit malfunctioned. The shutdown lasted about six hours while technicians replaced the faulty unit.

Sher said all procedures and tests carried out so far, including the shutdown to replace the control rod power unit, are considered normal practices associated with the plant's power ascension program.

At full power, Seabrook will generate 1,150 megawatts of power. Sher said the plant will generate power intermittently when the turbine is engaged and the reactor is operating at ten percent or more.

Seabrook will not be placed in commercial service until utility owners receive permission from state regulators to begin charging consumers for its power.

Seabrook has been the target of anti-nuclear activists since it first was proposed 18 years ago because of questions about its safety and location. The license was issued by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission one day after a federal appeals court rejected final appeals by the Massachusetts attorney general's office, the Seacoast Anti-Pollution League and the New England Coalition on Nuclear Pollution.

JERUSALEM (MARCH 26) UPI - Five Israelis who worked for the U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv have been charged with forging passports and entrance visas to the United States.

The five were charged Sunday in the Tel Aviv District Court with conspiracy to commit a crime, receiving bribes, forgery and illegal dealings in foreign currency.

Charges also were submitted against 12 others in connection with the affair. The 12 will stand trial for collaborating with the principal offenders and acting as mediators between the five Israelis who worked at the U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv and those who received the forged documents, the newspaper said.

According to the papers submitted by prosecuting attorney Navah Shiler, during 1989 the five suspects conspired to forge hundreds of visas and passports in return for hundreds of dollars per passport, the Israeli daily Ha'aretz reported.

During a search of one defendant's house, authorities discovered $61,000 that they believed he received for forged documents.

Shiler also stated in the charge sheet that the five had access to the U.S. Embassy's visa-stamping machine and were able to issue visas for people wishing to enter the United States.

''In this way, hundreds of people succeeded in illegally obtaining passports and entry visas,'' Shiler said.

Shiler said the circumstances of the affair were serious because it was an extensive operation that involved a nation with friendly relations with Israel.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The White House, keeping pressure on Moscow, warned Monday that a continued war of nerves in Lithuania ''could have adverse international repercussions and could be counterproductive for U.S.-Soviet relations.''

Concerned that the crisis has ''escalated on a daily basis,'' White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater accused the Soviet Union of waging a ''general pattern of intimidation'' against Lithuania's secession-minded leaders.

Following a weekend that saw Soviet armored personnel carriers, tanks and trucks rumble past parliament in the capital of Vilnius and Soviet troops take over two buildings of the independent Lithuanian Communist Party, Fitzwater repeated the almost daily U.S. call for ''a peaceful dialogue to resolve this issue.''

Though ''heartened'' by Soviet assurances that there would be no resort to force to quell the independence drive, Fitzwater urged both sides to ''maintain open communication and not take any actions that can be misinterpreted.''

In the same words used Friday by President Bush to urge moderation by Moscow, Fitzwater warned that ''any effort to coerce or intimidate the Lithuanian people is bound to backfire.''

''Further actions will not lead to a lessening of the tensions, could have adverse international repercussions and could be counterproductive for

U.S.-Soviet relations,'' he said.

With Lt. Gen. Valentin Varennikov, commander of all Soviet ground forces, in Vilnius, Fitzwater said the reported effort to settle the building occupations Sunday was ''a good sign'' but was ''far from resolving the whole issue.''

Fitzwater would not speculate on what specific consequences might result from the continuation of what Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis has condemned as a campaign of ''psychologial terror'' by the Soviet military.

However, the latest statement of American concern came in the midst of planning for a previously scheduled visit next week by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and efforts to arrange a full-fledged superpower summit for late June.

Shevardnadze will be in Washington to hold the latest in a series of meetings with Secretary of State James Baker on arms agreements and other agenda items for the expected summit between Bush and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

Fitzwater said the Baker-Shevardnadze talks, while certain to address the situation in Lithuania, would take place as scheduled. He also told reporters he knew of no complications the standoff had created for the summit.

ST. PAUL, MN (MARCH 26) UPI - Canceled airline flights reportedly rose 42 percent last year, stranding passengers on more than 41,000 domestic flights.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press reported Monday that federal figures show USAir was the greatest offender by far, canceling nearly 16,000 flights. American was second with 10,000 and United was third with 9,200. Twin Cities-based Northwest Airlines had nearly 5,100 canceled flights.

The newspaper said the figures, which show flights canceled by 12 major carriers for non-mechanical reasons rose by about 17,500 in the year ending Jan. 31, reflect the big carriers' problems with bad weather, growth and crew shortages.

NASHVILLE, TN (MARCH 27) UPI - Chris Hillman figures he's a lucky man.

After all, a lot of musicians and singers who started in the '60s are not around any more.

But Hillman and The Desert Rose Band are making waves in country music.

Since their formation four years ago, the group has had five No. 1 singles.

Hillman, who was a member of The Byrds and the Flying Burrito Brothers, says he has learned a lot in the 25 years he's been in the music business.

Asked what it takes to form a band and keep it fresh, Hillman replied:

''In a nutshell, you've got to have a leader. A baseball team needs a captain. I love it when groups get on a show and start talking about being a democracy. 'We all love each other.' Well, it doesn't work that way. One guy has got to be the team captain.''

Hillman said the relationships within a band have to be treated with the ''utmost professionalism.''

''You have to leave all your bad business on the street. It's like a marriage being in a group or working with other people. You have to constantly work at it every day. If there's a problem, before it becomes a major problem of dissent, you discuss it openly on the table.

''If there is a problem between band members, I always say go out and take a walk and talk it out. I don't have time for this. If we drop the ball, there is another act waiting to take our place.''

He said honesty among band memmbers is 95 percent of a successful relationship.

''If you want to make a marriage work, work on it every day and be honest with each other. You are in a creative endeavor together. You are all trying to focus on one vision to make that one vision or sound come across as a viable sincere effort. You have to be in sync with each other. I have been able to do that with The Desert Rose Band. I haven't always been able to do it with other acts I've been in.

''It's a constant learning process. It's not the easiest thing being in a group of people trying to make one thing happen,'' he added.

Hillman, whose influences have been rock, country and bluegrass, said country music began going beyond its traditional bounds five or six years ago.

''With The Desert Rose Band, if you are going to analyze us, we are firmly entrenched in traditional country music and bluegrass. But what we do is stretch the parameters a little bit. We put in other things. We don't consciously put them in. It's stuff we've listened to or played before as, in my case, The Byrds. You'll hear some of that sometimes. Or band member John Jorgenson, who is very up on rock music and plays a lot of that in his guitar stylings. But it is certainly no blasphemy to anything country because what we do is country.

''We're firmly rooted in traditional bluegrass. I don't think the fans care about labels. They are going on what they hear on the radio - what sound makes them feel good. They don't care who sang on what or what somebody did 20 years ago. If there's a sound that that person that makes them feel good or touches their soul in any way shape or form, they're gonna like you. They don't need to analyze it.''

Hillman said music and other art forms are ''escapism.''

''It takes you away from the tedium of just getting through your life every day.''

He is the first to acknowledge that radio has been very kind to The Desert Rose Band. ''We are at the whim of radio. They could decide next month they don't like us and we're off the air.''

The Desert Rose Band's new album, ''Pages of Life,'' represents an honest progress of the group's music, the leader said.

''There has to be some continuity in an album.The cardinal rule is that you don't want the person buying that record to get out of his chair and fast forward the tape,'' Hillman said.

Hillman said he had no idea that the band would be as successful as it has been thus far.

''I didn't know what would happen. I had been programmed by my past experience not to have great expectations. I didn't expect mediocrity. I'm very happy with the band. If it all fell apart tomorrow I know we attained a goal and that's all you can hope for in this life. That's what keeps you going every day. Otherwise what's the point.''

SEATTLE (MARCH 26) UPI - Final details were worked out Monday for a unique trade fair by the Small Business Administration to bring together small U.S. companies and foreign buyers as part of the effort to reduce America's trade deficit.

"Expo Export 90" is the first of its kind and was organized at the urging of congressional leaders, who believe small companies have been overlooked in the effort to counter the nation's trade imbalance with the rest of the world, said Hal Wolf, administrator for the SBA's Region 10, which covers Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Alaska.

The United States had a trade deficit of $113.2 billion with the rest of the world in 1989, the lowest since 1984. U.S. exports last year increased to $42.6 billion.

"This is the first-ever export show for small businesses only, and was mandated by Congress when it was looking for way to solve the trade deficit," said Wolf. "They said, 'What can we do to get small businesses involved?' They felt we needed an exhibition where small businesses could gather."

Wolf said the trade fair that runs Tuesday through Friday at the Washington State Convention and Trade Center in downtown Seattle has sold booths at $450 each to 296 businesses and 24 state agencies, most of them departments of trade.

There also will be an estimated 800 individual business people who paid $150 for the right to attend seminars and mingle with 220 buyers from 14 countries, including Canada, Egypt, Britain, Fiji, Bangladesh, France, West Germany, Japan, Korea, Mexico, Norway, New Zealand, Pakistan, and Taiwan.

The focus of the exhibition will be on three product areas - pollution control devices and systems, health and medical care technology, and computer hardware and software.

Wolf said those areas were chosen because "they are three of the hottest categories worldwide." However, he said exhibitors were not limited to showing products within those categories.

Seattle landed the exhibition largely due to the lobbying of Gov. Booth Gardner and other officials from Washington state, which has "come a long way to becoming a world center for international trade," Wolf said.

Wolf said the idea of holding a trade fair for small businesses under one roof was extremely attractive for foreign buyers who may be ready and willing to buy goods from small U.S. companies, but are usually at a loss for having a convenient way to contact them.

"One of the leading buyer delegations is JETRO," Wolf said, referring to the Japan External Trade Organization, which is sending about 60 representatives of leading Japanese manufacturing and trading companies to the fair. "JETRO is on Cloud Nine to be able to see under one roof all the examples of products in (the three main) categories," Wolf said.

Perhaps more importantly, Wolf said, is that the trade fair will give small American businesses the opportunities to make many contacts at a relatively cheap price.

He said trade show organizers also have the long-range goal of overcoming what they call "perceptual problems" among small U.S. business owners.

"Small businesses have a hangup that international trade is a big, costly enterprise that is only for the Boeings of the world," Wolf said. "There is the perception that they can't get to those markets without export managers and attorneys and going through red tape. They're afraid they'll go broke trying to get their products out.

"But the theme of this conference is, 'One container at a time.' That's all we're talking about. We can make a dent in the trade deficit with one container at a time," he said.

"There are a lot of good brains out there in little tiny companies. You know, there used to be what were called Yankee traders. We've lost that, but we think we can bring that spirit back," Wolf added.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - America's ailing savings and loan industry, in the midst of a major government crackdown, rang up record losses of $19.2 billion in 1989, federal regulators said Monday.

For the fourth quarter of the year, losses at the nation's 2,878 thrifts hit a record $6.5 billion, blamed mainly on bad loans, including huge holdings of high-risk junk bonds by failed institutions.

''1989 was clearly a year of retrenchment for the savings industry,'' said James Freund, deputy chief economist for the Office of Thrift Supervision. ''Most of the losses were in firms targeted for closing.''

Under sweeping legislation passed by Congress to clean up the savings industry, many institutions - unable to meet tough new capital requirements - have been placed under government conservatorship and either closed or sold.

The 281 thrifts taken over by the government lost $4.4 billion in October, November and December, the OTS said.

Savings and loans in the regions surrounding New York, Dallas and San Francisco racked up the biggest losses for the quarter. Bad real estate loans were responsible for most of the problems in New York and Dallas, while the failure of major thifts in the West accounted for the other losses.

''What you're looking at in these numbers is the bulk of the losses concentrated in the institutions that have been transferred or are about to be transferred into government hands,'' said James Grohl, a senior vice president for the U.S. League of Savings Institutions.

''I think by the third quarter of this year we should see a turnaround because by that time they should have flushed out the brain dead, or be close to it anyway,'' Grohl said.

Losses in the third quarter were $5 billion, in the second quarter, $4.1 billion, and in the first quarter $3.6 billion, the OTS said.

The savings industry's record $19.2 billion loss last year compares to losses of $13.4 billion in 1988 and $7.8 billion in 1987, the OTS said. The industry's last profitable year was 1986 when it was only $131 million in the black, the agency said.

''The industry continued to shrink in the fourth quarter,'' Freund said.

At the end of 1989 there were 2,878 savings and loans in operation in the United States, down from 3,136 in 1984 - the height of the high-flying years of real estate and securities speculation by many thrifts.

The OTS also reported that 70 percent of the 2,597 savings and loan associations not taken over by the government reported net earnings of $1.3 billion for the final quarter of 1989.

''The industry outside government control is generally profitable,'' Freund said. ''The healthy part of the industry is still acquiring deposits.''

But the other 30 percent of those institutions reported losses of $3.4 billion for the quarter, leading to a net loss of $2.1 billion for thrifts not under government conservatorship, the OTS said.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (MARCH 26) UPI - NASA reviewed a potential problem with an axle housing on the space shuttle Discovery Monday that could delay the scheduled April 12 launch of the long-awaited Hubble Space Telescope.

The problem stems from the housing around the axle on the landing gear on the shuttle's nose, officials said.

During an inspection prompted by the discovery of a cross-threaded nut on the landing gear of other shuttles, officials found indications the housing had come in contact with the axle during landings, possibly causing minor damage.

Fixing the problem would require rolling Discovery back to an assembly building and removing the ship from its external fuel tank, which would delay the flight at least a week and probably longer.

But NASA managers could elect to clear Discovery to fly as is based on an engineering analysis by NASA and its contractors.

Launch processing has been proceeding so smoothly that NASA managers have been considering moving the launch date up to April 10 or 11, but no final decisions are expected before a formal review Thursday and Friday.

The $1.5 billion Hubble telescope is expected to revolutionize astronomy by peering more deeply and with greater clarity into space than ever before.

The boxcar-sized telescope, the most expensive civilian satellite built so far in the shuttle era, was placed in a special canister and moved from a storage hangar to launch pad 39B Sunday.

NICOSIA, CYPRUS (MARCH 26) UPI - Iraq aims to increase its oil production capacity by 1.5 to two million barrels a day through a new effort using foreign companies, Iraqi Oil Minister Issam al Chalabi said in remarks published Monday.

"We have a range of 1.5 to two million barrels per day, but it will all depend on the approach, on the response and on the timing," Al Chalabi told the Nicosia, Cyprus-based Middle East Economic Survey.

The new program entails inviting foreign companies to develop new oil fields in Iraq, already discovered and appraised but as yet undeveloped, and to provide the necessary financing, with repayment to be made in crude oil production from the field in question.

The response so far, according to Al Chalabi, has been very positive. "I have not had a rejection from anyone," MEES quoted him as saying. "On the contrary, even those companies I did not expect to show interest have done so, even in writing."

"We are having a lot of meetings and visits ... and we are, through these discussions and talks, trying to formulate a framework," he was quoted as saying.

He added that U.S., Japanese and European companies had formed task forces and were seeking additional information from Iraq. Al Chalabi said the expansion program would include light as well as heavier crude.

"It will hopefully include the Yamama formation which contains light crudes," he said. "This is one of the biggest formations, but we are talking about deeper drilling over and above that at present ... over 3,000 meters deep."

LONDON (MARCH 26) UPI - Stock prices closed higher in light trading Monday on the London International stock exchange, gaining support from the Chancellor of the Exchequer's optimistic view of Britain's economy and a sharp rebound in Tokyo.

The blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which climbed 25.0 points Friday, closed up 14.3 points to 2,298.2. The narrower top 30 industrial average gained 17.4 points to 1,813.5.

Volume was around 306 million shares, compared with 442 million shares changing hands Friday.

Analysts said investors were encouraged by the positive view expressed over the weekend by Chancellor John Major, who offered hope that interest rates would be lowered next year as inflation fell.

Among the most widely traded stocks, Guinness brightened the breweries sector, gaining 12 cents to $11.17, after a brokerage house upgraded the company following last week's announcement of sharply higher profits.

Lancaster, the car company, surged 86 cents to $2.16 amid bid speculation. In the pharmaceuticals sector, Wellcome PLC gained 12 cents to $11.52 following a recent broker's review of its AIDS drug, Retrovir.

Among the day's other highlights, Thorn EMI eased 15 cents to $11.02 and Polly Peck gained 11 cents to $6.40.

NICOSIA, CYPRUS (MARCH 26) UPI - Iran is currently holding talks with international companies with the aim of contracting them for oil and gas development, an oil industry newsletter said Monday. But Iranian Oil Minister Gholamreza Aghazadeh told the Nicosia,-based Middle East Economic Survey that Iran ruled out production-sharing agreements.

Late Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ruled out foreign loans or investments for Iran, but President Hojatoles-lam Ali-Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani has said he wants to cooperate with foreign concerns, provided such cooperation served Iranian interests.

"We are at present talking with a lot of companies regarding the development of gas reservoirs, and oil reservoirs too. But this would not be under any kind of equity or production sharing arrangements," Aghazadeh said. "The companies would develop these resevoirs, and be paid from the production of these or other resevoirs," he said.

"A lot of companies have started discussions with us, and the prospects for this program are good," he added. "I think that during this year, we will have a lot of these development contracts with foreign companies."

The minister noted that Iran, like its Gulf war foe Iraq, had reserves known to contain oil and gas which had not yet been developed. Independent oil analysts have said Iran's reserves are mainly in natural gas rather than crude oil.

Aghazadeh said the emphasis at the moment was on gas, of which Iran had known reserves of 17 trillion cubic meters, the second largest after the Soviet Union. He specifically mentioned as candidates for development the offshore Pars gas field in the Persian Gulf.

In what may be an exageration, Aghazadeh said Iran expected to be able to pump some five million barrels of crude a day within the next five years. Analysts believe Iran doesn't have the facilities or reserves to produce much beyond the 3.1 million barrels-a-day limit it was given by the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

HANOI, VIETNAM (MARCH 26) UPI - Vietnam Monday asked Thailand's top military officer to help set up a new round of talks on Cambodia, bringing together the three main backers of the battling factions.

The officer, Gen. Chavalit Yongchaiyudh, Thai army commander in chief and acting supreme commander, was holding talks with senior Vietnamese leaders on the first visit to communist Vietnam by a Thai army commander.

Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach asked Chavalit to set up a meeting for China, Vietnam and Thailand to try to settle the 11-year-old conflict in Cambodia.

China and Thailand aid the U.N.-recognized resistance coalition while Vietnam supports the government it installed following its 1978 invasion.

Such a meeting was suggested earlier this month by resistance leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who said the competing Cambodian factions would never settle the conflict on their own.

''Thailand supports every way to build peace in Cambodia,'' Chavalit said. But, he said, further discussions would have to be held before the Thai government would formally agree to host such a meeting.

Thach told reporters Vietnamese diplomats in Beijing have reported that China has no objections to a three-way meeting.

Chavalit, who served in Vietnam on the side of the U.S.-backed government of South Vietnam during the Vietnam War, also held talks with Prime Minister Do Muoi, Defense Minister Gen. Le Duc An and Deputy Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Doan Khue during his one-day visit to Hanoi.

The afternoon discussions, which were open to the press, focused on efforts to improve bilateral relations and economic cooperation.

''I believe we have a common enemy - poverty,'' Thach said, and Chavalit quickly agreed.

Muoi said Vietnam did not have sufficient technology and managerial experience to build its economy and therefore would welcome assistance from Thailand and all other countries.

''We were enemies in the past but this was caused by others,'' Khue said in explanation of the conflicts during the Vietnam War and Vietnam's invasion of Cambodia.

LONDON (MARCH 26) UPI - A judge fined five British construction companies involved in a consortium to build the Channel Tunnel $80,000 pounds Monday for failing to ensure safe working conditions that led to an accident in which one tunnel worker was killed last year.

The five companies were fined $16,000 each after pleading guilty to a breach of the Health and Safety at Work Act of 1974, which requires companies "to ensure, so far as was reasonably practicable, the health, safety and welfare of all employees."

The case was brought against the five by the Health and Safety Executive, a government-appointed agency that oversees enforcement of occupational safety rules.

HSE spokesman Mark Wheeler said one tunnel worker, who was operating a tunnel-boring machine at the Folkestone entry point, died Feb. 6, 1989, when he was crushed against the framework of the massive machine by an overhead crane.

Wheeler said the five companies were not charged with causing the accident but with a general charge of failing to ensure the safety of their employees.

The companies - Balfour Beatty Construction Ltd., Costain Civil Engineering Ltd., Tarmac Construction Ltd., Taylor Woodrow Construction

Ltd., and Wimpey Major Projects Ltd. - were also ordered to pay $11,116 in costs to the HSE.

The five companies comprise the British half of Transmanche Link which, along with five French construction companies, is building the 31-mile Channel Tunnel rail link under the English Channel. Set for completion in 1993, the Channel Tunnel will be the first fixed link between Britain and continental Europe.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 26) UPI - A federal judge Monday refused to order baseball's umpires to halt their job action and return to spring training fields.

U.S. District Judge Norma Shapiro rejected a request by the National and American Leagues for a temporary restraining order that would have ordered the umpires back to work.

The Major League Umpires Association, with headquarters in Philadelphia, announced Friday its members would not work the spring training games, but they would allow minor league umpires to take their place.

The umpires contend they are being short-changed on salaries and benefits because of the shortened training season resulting from the baseball players' 33-day lockout that ended March 19.

In ruling against the ball clubs, Shapiro said they had failed to show they would be irreparably harmed by the umpires' job action.

The judge agreed to hold a hearing on a preliminary injunction, the next step after the restraining order request, against the umpires as early as Tuesday, depending on the availability of the clubs' and umpires' representatives.

The ball clubs Sunday filed a lawsuit in federal court requesting the temporary restraining order and a hearing was held Sunday. During the hearing, Shapiro ordered representatives of the ball clubs and umpires to try to settle the dispute.

Richie Phillips, attorney for the umpires' union, said he and Bill White, president of the National League, reached agreement early Monday on a proposed settlement but it was later rejected by Robert Brown, American League president.

Spring training games began Sunday with minor league umpires taking the place of the major league officials.

LONDON (MARCH 26) UPI - Big Ben stopped tolling the time Monday as work began to replace the worn-out bell hammer that produces the clock tower's world-renowned ''bong.''

The Property Services Agency, which runs the 131-year-old tower, said Big Ben's hourly tune, struck by a different set of bells, will start up again in a few days.

But for the next three months the sonorous clang of the bell will not be echoing on the hour and every quarter-hour from the tower above the houses of Parliament on the river Thames.

''You will get 'ding-dang, ding-dong, ding-ding-ding-dong,' but not the 'bong ... bong ... bong,''' said an official of the agency, mimicking the hourly tune and the tolling of the time that ordinarily follows.

The ditty - which recalls the lyrics, ''All through this hour, Lord be my guide, and by thy power, no foot shall slide'' - and the tolling of the time are virtually a trademark for London. The bells are used by the British Broadcasting Corp. on its world radio service in what, for many listeners, is a reminder that there will always be an England.

Authorities decided to remove the 448-pound hammer that strikes the 13.5-ton time bell because of metal fatigue.

Workmen waited for Monday's 8 a.m. chime, then began the three-day job of taking off the hammer, which will be used as a master for a copy to be made by craftsmen at a special steel forge. The copy will be installed in about three months.

''It is a specialized job, an exacting job, to say least, because Big Ben is one of the most accurate public clocks in the world,'' the official said.

The bell last fell silent for one week during routine maintenance in October 1987, and was out of commission for nine months during a full overhaul in 1976.

Big Ben first clanged as London's official timepiece on May 31, 1859, and is thought to have been named after Sir Benjamin Hall, a portly Welshman who, as London's commissioner of public works, oversaw the tricky installation of the bell and timepiece.

The time bell was originally 16 tons, but it cracked, and so was recast and reduced in size. Teams of men took 13 hours to pull up the tower a cradle bearing the iron instrument, which is 9 feet in circumference.

NEW ORLEANS (MARCH 26) UPI - The top-heavy Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets take what is basically a three-man attack into the Final Four this week.

With Dennis Scott, who scored 40 points; Kenny Anderson, who had 30; and Brian Oliver, slowed by injury but still good for 19, providing 95.7 percent of the scoring Sunday, the Yellow Jackets slipped past Minnesota 93-91 in the NCAA Southeast Region finals and qualified for their first Final Four.

Georgia Tech, with a school-record 28 victories against six losses this season, will face Nevada-Las Vegas, which claimed the West Region championship with a 131-101 win over Loyola Marymount, in the NCAA Tournament semefinals Saturday.

UNLV can use tapes of Georgia Tech's victory over Minnesota as a textbook in how the Yellow Jackets have played this season. Tech has been nearly that unbalanced in its scoring all year.

''Believe it or not, it's not that unusual to see this stat,'' Yellow Jackets Coach Bobby Cremins said in assessing Sunday's box score. ''I'll bet you that we have had this several times. Kenny (Anderson) said usually he could find Malcolm (Mackey) or Johnny (McNeil). For some reason he didn't find them today.

''But we do not do anything designated. It just happened like that. It's not something we do to say you get this many points and that amount of points. It's just something that comes natural.''

During the season the threesome of Scott, Oliver and Anderson averaged a combined 69.1 points a game of the 86.4-point total for the Yellow Jackets.

''We evaluated their box scores and they were scoring 82-84 percent of (the team's) points all season and that was really true (Sunday),'' said Minnesota Coach Clem Haskins, whose team finished with a 23-9 mark.

''Anderson is one of the better one on one players I've seen in the country and he can create his own shots. A guy like Scott shoots the ball extremely well from the outside, about four or five of those shots were beyond NBA (3-point) range.

''They're just truly amazing athletes. They work really well together - they fit like a glove - and they've got the patience to get the ball to those three shooters.''

Georgia Tech, coming off consecutive 20-victory seasons and having lost five players from last year's team, was expected to suffer a rebuilding year. The Yellow Jackets list six freshmen on their 13-man roster and just three seniors.

''We had so much doubt on us that we were going to lose in the first round and have a medicore year,'' said Scott, one of three juniors. ''I remember dreaming about going to the Final Four. Now to actually have a chance and be there for the first time. Right now, I'm kind of nervous and you feel like you're going to explode sometimes.''

He also said, ''People didn't expect us to do as well as we have done because we're all so young. But on the court we just believe in each other and coach believes in us. When you have a coach who believes in you and your ability, you have no choice but to give 110 percent to him and have fun while you're doing it.''

Cremins did not seem to be his usual exuberant self in post-game interviews and seemed to have a different agenda as he carries the good-luck shamrock of his father, who died in the past year, through the tournament.

''Getting to the Final Four has changed for me,'' he said. ''A few years ago as a young coach that was one of my dreams. But the attempts to get to the Final Four has hurt me a lot. It's hurt my coaching.

''I had to sit down and just realize that if it happens, it happens. There were too many distractions about why can't (Cremins) get to the Final Four why can't he do this.

''Now that I'm here, because of the way I feel it has taken away something. Three years ago I'd probably be jumping up and down and be soaking wet from being in the shower.''

Even a subdued Cremins, however, has to admit a certain excitement for his team.

''I'll say this: This is the best team I've every coached. I wouldn't say that until this moment and I've coached a couple of great teams, but this is the best team I've ever coached.''

OSLO, NORWAY (MARCH 26) UPI - It's more than three months since Christmas, but a bank cash machine has just discovered the spirit of holiday giving, paying out ten times the money customers asked for.

The machine, known in Norway as a ''mini-bank,'' provided weekend customers with a cash bonanza, dispensing 1,000 kroner notes instead of the usual 100 kroner denomination, a spokesman for the Kredittkassen bank said Monday.

Customers asking for 500 kroner, about $75, instead received 5,000 kroner, or about $750. The largest payout was 15,000 kroner, about $2,250, or six times the normal limit for a single withdrawal.

But the surprised customers won't get a spending spree funded by the machine's largesse, the bank spokesman said. The full amount paid will be deducted from their accounts, he said.

The spokesman said the bank did not yet know how much had been dispensed in error from the machine, but said the mini-bank was closed after customers reported the problem to police.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Hospital officials and anti-apartheid activists in South Africa say two people were killed and more than 350 others injured when police opened fire today in the black township of Sebokeng, south of Johannesburg. Officers blasted demonstrators with birdshot in an effort to disperse the crowd, which was marching to protest poor living conditions in the area. Police would NOT say what provoked the shooting.

Illegal social clubs in New York City are now the target of a massive crackdown. Authorities are moving to shut down the clubs in hopes of preventing the repeat of a weekend tragedy in which 87 people were killed in an arson inferno in a crowded UNlicensed nightspot. Cuban emigre Julio Gonzalez was held without bail at his arraignment this morning for allegedly setting the blaze... the worst mass murder in U-S history.

MOSCOW (MARCH 26) UPI - Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., met Monday with President Mikhail Gorbachev and warned the Soviet leader that U.S.-Soviet relations would be damaged if the Kremlin used the military to subdue Lithuania.

Kennedy, who arived Monday for a three-day visit, said Gorbachev told him he will only use force in Lithuania if lives are threatened.

The senator said Gorbachev stressed ''his commitment to a peaceful resolution to the issues which divide the people of the Soviet Union and that he wanted to see the issues resolved consistent with the Soviet constitution.''

''President Gorbachev indicated to me that the position of the Soviet Union was that there would be no use of force unless lives were threatened '' Kennedy said.

Kennedy was asked at the press conference whether President Bush had asked him to convey the warning that using force in the Batlic republic could damage U.S.-Soviet relations. He said it was a bipartisan warning from Congress.

Last week Bush warned Gorbachev against using force to intimidate the Lithuanians, saying any form of coercion would inevitably fail.

Throughout the Lithuanian crisis and his trip to the Baltic republic in January, Gorbachev has noted the need to protect the lives of the sizable minorities - 9 percent Russian and 9 percent Polish - while the majority Lithuanians seek independence.

Legislators from the sister Baltic republic of Latvia have openly said that another Nagorno Karabakh situation must not be allowed to develop, referring to the despatch of the Soviet army to stop Moslem Azerbaijani pogroms against Christian Armenians in January.

Although Gorbachev has held back from using outright force to slow the pace of Lithuania's independence march, he has used scare tactics that Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis called ''psychological terror.''

The operations have included helicopters dropping leaflets over Vilnius urging citizens to disregard the declaration of independence and to demand instead a referendum on separation from Moscow. On other occasions military columns have roared through town, and low-flying jets have buzzed the Lithuanian capital.

But Landsbergis said Monday he believed there will be no direct military intervention to deter Lithuania's drive to regain its pre-World War II statehood.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Four Americans died in a light plane crash in the Philippines today. Authorities say the Grumman Tiger aircraft went down about five minutes after taking off from the Baguio mountain resort heading for the U-S Clark Air Base near Manila. The Manila Rescue Co-ordination Center says the plane was flying in the wrong direction at the time of the crash. The victims were identified as Major Wayne Vodrow, Captain George Kennedy, his wife and daughter.

A survey conducted for the Health Insurance Association of America says 94 percent of the business executives polled oppose national health insurance as a way to bring the escalating cost of medical care under control. The poll found nearly two-thirds of the 100 business leaders asked favor private-sector efforts, with current government regulation, to limit health care costs. NO insurance industry executives were interviewed.

Health care in the United States currently costs about 500-BILLION dollars a year, the biggest share of gross national product of any industrial nation. About 85 percent of Americans receive health insurance from employers.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Higher mortgage rates pushed sales of existing homes down 2.3 percent in February to an annual rate of 3.4 million dwellings, the worst finish since August, the National Association of Realtors said Monday.

The median sales price of an existing single-family home was $95,400 last month, 0.9 percent below $96,300 in January, the association said in its monthly report.

Sales were especially hard hit in the Midwest and South, but scored sizeable increases in the West, the realtors said. Existing home sales in the Northeast remained unchanged last month.

The rate on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages, America's most popular form of home financing, jumped to 10.31 percent in February from 10.17 in January, according to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Co.

''Some buyers were cut out,'' said Norman Flynn, the president of the association. ''But we still saw a lot of players who chose to weather the rate increases and buy what they could afford.''

February's seasonally adjusted annual sales rate of 3.4 million existing single-family homes was 2.3 percent below the January resale rate of 3.5 million units, and 3.1 percent below February 1989, the realtors said.

It was also the worst showing since a rate of 3.4 million homes in August 1989, the association said.

In the West, the resale rate was 650,000 units last month, 14 percent higher than January's rate of 570,000 units. The price was $143,100 in February, down 0.9 percent from $144,400 in January, the realtors said.

In the Northeast, the rate was 560,000 dwellings in February, unchanged from January. February's median resale price was $143,400, down 2.5 percent from $147,100 in January.

''The fact that no ground was lost reflects remarkable stability, considering the sluggishness that has gripped high-cost areas in the Northeast,'' said John Tuccillo, the realtors' chief economist.

In the South, the resale rate of 1.3 million homes in February fell 6.4 percent from January's rate of 1.4 million units. The median price was $85,600, up 0.4 percent from $85,300 in January.

The rate in the Midwest, 930,000 units, was a 1.1 percent drop from January's rate of 940,000 units. The median price in the Midwest stood at $73,800, down 2.4 percent from $75,600 in January.

GENEVA, Switzerland (MARCH 26) UPI - There is ''justifiable'' fear that changes in the East Bloc are diverting attention and resources from the world's 42 poorest countries, the head of a United Nations development agency said Monday.

Kenneth Dadzie, secretary-general of the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development, also said crumbling living standards in those countries must be improved in order to avert a ''human tragedy.''

Opening a preparatory session for a full international conference on least developed nations in Paris Sept. 3-14, Dadzie said the new decade must not be allowed to reproduce the ''dismal'' 1980s.

''The deterioration of living standards in most least-developed countries is a human tragedy,'' said Dadzie, whose agency was hosting the session with officials from about 100 nations.

Democratic changes in Eastern Europe also may negatively affect poor nations as developed nations send aid to prop up weak East Bloc economies, he said.

''There are justifiable fears that the rising tide of change in Eastern Europe is diverting governmental and corporate attention and resources from the North-South agenda,'' Dadzie said.

All nations must now ''join in a committed partnership'' to reverse the worsening situation in poor nations, Dadzie said.

''Failure to achieve such a result (at Paris) might lead to a further marginalization of the South as a whole in the political and economic calculations of the North,'' he said.

Dadzie said the worsened plight of poor nations was caused by policy shortcomings in those nations themselves, insufficient international support, a growing burden of debt and a collapse of commodity prices. An UNCTAD report also blamed runaway population growth.

The countries' combined population represents 12 percent of the world total, but they produce just 1 percent of world gross national product and consume only 1 percent of world energy.

Dadzie said advanced nations should increase official financial aid to 0.20 percent of their gross national product compared to the current rate of just 0.09 percent and a 1981 target of 0.15 percent.

A report to the two-week preparatory session said economic growth in the 1980s in the least-developed countries averaged just 2.3 percent annually against a yearly target of 7.2 percent.

Food production actually declined 0.8 percent annually on a per capita basis while manufacturing only rose 2 percent against a projected 9 percent.

The UNCTAD report, while calling for a doubling of foreign aid and more forgiveness of foreign debt, said the nations must also help themselves and especially ''turn around in the 1990s the alarming trend in high population growth.''

Population growth rose an average 2.4 percent annually in the 1980s, when the estimated population ''increased by almost 100 million,'' the report said. It added the growth rate was expected to hit 2.9 percent per year until the year 2000 ''before slowing down gradually.''

The report cited ''the combined effects of high fertility rates, declining infant mortality and prolonged life expectancy'' to bring the population in the countries to ''about 587 million by the end of the 1990s.''

It warned, ''If present demographic trends continue, the population of the LDCs is expected to double during the next 25 years as compared to an estimated 65 percent growth in the developing countries as a whole.''

John A. Sankey, British ambassador to the U.N. European headquarters in Geneva, was elected chairman of the meeting which is supposed to draw up ''a comprehensive program of action'' for the Paris conference.

There were 31 least-developed countries in 1981, but the number has now risen to 42, with 28 in Africa. Their combined debt climbed from $35.8 billion in 1982 to $69.3 billion in 1988, representing 72 percent of their GNP.

They were classified by per capita annual gross domestic product of little more than $200, with only one-third of their people having access to safe water and two-thirds illiterate.

The 42 countries are: Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Benin, Bhutan, Botswana, Burkina Faso, Burundi, Cape Verde, Central African Republic, Chad, Comoros North Yemen, Djibouti, Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Gambia, Guinea, Guinea Bissau, Haiti, Kiribati (Gilbert Islands), Laos, Lesotho, Malawi, Maldives, Mali, Mauritania, Mozambique, Myanmar (Burma), Nepal, Niger, Rwanda, Samoa, Sao Tome, Sierra Leone, Somalia, Sudan, Togo, Tuvalu (Ellice Islands), Uganda, Tanzania, Vanuatu (New Hebrides) and South Yemen.

SAN ANTONIO, TX (MARCH 26) UPI - The nation's oil refiners Monday were told to move more aggressively to counter adverse public opinion in the search for environmentally sound energy policies that also make good economic sense.

U.S. refiners at the same time cannot afford to scrimp on research that can produce the technologies key to any solution to growing concern about pollutants created by their industry, Deputy Energy Secretary W. Henson Moore told the National Petroleum Refiners Association.

"You must view 'environment' as a byword and not a burden," Moore said. "Either we do it responsibly or those on the fringes will do it irresponsibly for us."

Citing the eventual dismantling of domestic refineries as a worst-case scenario, Moore urged the industry to "do a better job at taking on public opinion."

The public's outrage at the Exxon Valdez oil spill did not result in a slowing of tanker traffic and the risk of more spills, Moore said, but instead produced a halt to relatively safer offshore oil drilling activity.

One debate the industry must enter is that over proposed changes to the Clean Air Act, Moore said. The industry has proven in the past it can dramatically reduce air pollutants in its products, Moore said.

The refining industry is financially healthier following the "shakeout" of the early 1980s and the loss of about 120 refineries, Moore said, and now is more efficient and flexible.

Moore praised joint research efforts to develop cleaner-burning fuels, saying the initiative taken by the industry provides it more credibility in the national debate over future fuel use.

Moore, citing budget constraints and a Congress "loathe" to tinker with the tax code, said he doubted the tax code would be changed to encourage refinery changes. Besides, Moore, a former congressman from Louisiana, said, "the refining industry is not held in real high regard by (those) who write the tax laws."

L.D. Thomas, executive vice president of Chicago-based Amoco Corp., told the refiners that the problem with the expensive proposals for cleaner or alternative fuels now before Congress is that "little scientific data" exists to back them.

The "unprecedented" joint research by the oil and automotive industries on reformulating fuels will provide sound scientific data, Thomas said. The project's first phase, with its $15 million price tag, should be completed by the end of 1990, he said. The second, $15 million phase involving the testing of various fuels should take another three years, he said.

"In an ideal world, Congress would await the results of this research," Thomas said. Instead, Thomas said, the industry should redouble its efforts to convince the public of the adverse effects that might result from premature adoption of various proposals now before Congress.

Thomas also said he is becoming more convinced that any of the proposals involving automotive fuels will not substantially reduce smog because of the much larger effect on pollution from other sources. "Any alternative fuel is working to reduce the small end of the problem," he said.

Thomas did say reformulating gasoline would be much cheaper than converting to methanol.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The lavish lifestyle of former CenTrust Bank Chairman David L. Paul, which included a $7 million yacht and a $29 million art collection, could cost the government more than $2 billion, regulators said Monday.

''Our preliminary analysis thus far indicates that the failure of CenTrust will result in a substantial loss to the Resolution Trust Corp., probably in excess of $2 billion,'' said L. William Seidman, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The government already is paying about $2.5 billion to protect depositors of the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan Association, of Irvine, Calif.

Seidman's estimate of the government's latest thrift rescue was made before the House Banking Committee, which has opened an investigation into the failure of the Miami-based thrift.

CenTrust was placed into receivership Mar. 9 by the Office of Thrift Supervision after the agency determined it was being operated in an unsafe and unsound manner.

Last December, Florida banking regulators ordered the removal of Paul as CenTrust's chairman and chief executive officer.

Seidman attributed the loss at CenTrust to its prior management and ''poor operating procedures'' including a series of risky investments. But several committee members were quick to highlight Paul's excessive spending as a key to the institution's demise.

''David Paul lived a life of luxury on the backs of federally insured depositors,'' said Rep. Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio.

The lifestyle of the 50-year-old savings executive, financed largely by CenTrust, could earn the envy of the world's rich and famous.

Regulators said Paul was paid more than $16 million from 1984 to 1989. Last year, his executive perks included a chauffeured Mercedes, leased for $26,000; guard service at his home, $142,947; and a corporate jet, leased for $1.3 million.

In addition to the $29 million collection of ''Old Master'' artwork, other luxury expenditures by CenTrust included $208,000 for four Persian rugs; $22,427 for linen and $84,240 for Baccarat crystal for the corporate dining room.

Paul also had a $7 million yacht paid for by CenTrust and a $1.6 million mortgage from CenTrust he used to build a mansion.

''I don't think the institution should have been called Centrust. It should have been called SinTrust,'' said Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill.

STRATFORD, CT (MARCH 26) UPI - Sikorsky Aircraft, which has slashed 900 blue-collar and white-collar jobs since June 1989, told managers that month to downgrade employees ratings to justify laying them off, a published report said Monday.

The New Haven Register reported it has obtained an internal memo from Sikorsky dated June 7, 1989, when the helicopter manufacturer told managers to prepare to lay off ten percent of the company's salaried work force. The memo reportedly said, "Review your rating distributions and double the number of employees in the marginal and unsatisfactory categories."

Sikorsky officials Monday had no immediate comment on the memo or the report. Sikorsky is a division of United Technologies Corp. in Hartford. A former salaried Sikorsky employee whose identity was witheld told the Register the memo sparked a policy at Sikorsky to arbitrarily downgrade employees so they could be fired.

The former worker, who claims he was a victim of an arbitrary reclassification, said he was fired in February after receiving the worst rating in his six-year career at Sikorsky. His evaluation included "unsatisfactory" ratings in two or three categories and two "marginal" ratings. "I was shocked," the former employee said. "I never got such a review in all my life."

Since June, Sikorsky has cut 900 white-collar and blue-collar jobs, blaming the reductions on decreased defense spending and a slower than expected growth in international sales.

The company, which employs almost 12,000 workers worldwide, laid off 50 unionized employees last Friday and said another 50 blue-collar positions were being cut through attrition, including retirements and resignations.

In November 1989, Sikorsky laid off 150 blue-collar workers. The company also laid off 350 salaried employees in July 1989 and 300 salaried employees in February of this year.

James E. Sommerhauser, international president of the International Federation of Professional and Technical Engineers, said the downgrading as advised in the memo was unfair to workers but its use by business as a tool to cut positions was increasing. "It's a tactic we've observed many times," Sommerhauser said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Barbara Bush welcomed a shipment of broccoli Monday from California growers who have seen sales sprout since President Bush declared that - like new taxes - broccoli will never pass his lips.

''We're doing a brisk business and it's because of the president,'' said Steve Adlesh, director of sales at Apio Produce of Guadalupe, Calif. ''Broccoli has never enjoyed so much publicity.''

In a media event rivalling any at the White House this month, reporters, photographers and television crews scurried to the South Lawn to record the broccoli presentation. Bush, whose mother made him eat broccoli, remained inside.

''I love broccoli,'' the first lady said.

''We know, and we are grateful for that,'' said George Dunlop, president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. He wore a broccoli sprig on his lapel.

Mrs. Bush thanked the growers for three crates of broccoli, as well as the 10 tons of the high-fiber vegetable donated to area soup kitchens and a list of recipes Dunlop said might lure Bush ''into the wonderful world of broccoli.''

''I'm going to tell you the honest truth,'' Mrs. Bush said, holding a bouquet of broccoli wrapped with a white ribbon. ''The president is never going to eat broccoli again.''

''But,'' she said, ''I'm never going to eat pork rinds,'' a favorite snack of the president.

The edible escapade erupted last week with the revelation Bush had banned the vegetable from the presidential plate, both aboard Air Force One and in the White House.

California growers responded by sending a two trucks packed with broccoli to Washington. They also began cashing in - Adlesh said sales rose by about 10 percent.

Bush, stalked by questions about broccoli for days, firmly declared: ''I do not like broccoli. And, I haven't liked it since I was a little kid and my mother made me eat it.''

''I'm president of the United States,'' Bush said, his voice nearly steaming with conviction, ''and I'm not going to eat any more broccoli!''

Press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, who has announced the White House staff is four-square in broccoli's corner, watched Monday's presentation with amusement.

''We are innocent participants,'' said Fitzwater, noting that after U.S. News & World Report broke open the story of Bush's disdain for broccoli, the growers jumped on it and the rest of the news media just, ahhh - ate it up.

(MARCH 26) UPI - TODAY'S PEOPLE:

BAD MOON: The moon had hardly risen in Augusta, Ga., before police arrested drummer Tommy Lee of Motley Crue for dropping his pants and baring his rear end to the crowd at the heavy metal band's concert Sunday night. The band had been warned before the show about Augusta's obscenity law but that didn't stop Lee. ''They were told what they could and couldn't do and they did it anyway,'' a city official said. Lee, the husband of actress Heather Locklear, was charged with indecent exposure and performing a sexually explicit act and was was fined $1,647 Monday. A Motley Crue bodyguard, Vincent Taurone, also was fined $117 for trying to move a police officer out of the way at the show.

ROYAL SUIT: A nephew of Queen Elizabeth has become the first member of the royal family to sue for libel in high court. Viscount Linley, 28, the son of Princess Margaret, said a ''wholly invented'' story in the Today newspaper hurt him, his business and his family by claiming he got the royal heave-ho from a pub for throwing beer on his friends. During jury selection Monday, his lawyer, Charles Gray, told potential jurors the viscount was unfairly portrayed in the article as a ''Hooray Henry'' - a British term for a drunken highbrow lout. ''It suggests he was guilty of the worst kind of boorish behavior, giving offense to others seeking to have a quiet glass of beer,'' Gray said. The newspaper article quoted the pub's manager as the source of the story but the viscount says she denied making the allegations when he asked her about them.

PLAYER ACTS: New York Knicks star Patrick Ewing has talents other than basketball. Leonard Nimoy, the ''Star Trek'' star, says the 7-foot Ewing is ''actually very good, very natural'' when it comes to acting. Ewing has a role as the basketball-playing friend of Gene Wilder in ''Funny About Love,'' which Nimoy is directing. ''He can have an acting career anytime he wants,'' Nimoy said. Wilder, Ewing and Mary Stuart Masterson filmed some scenes last week and more footage was shot Saturday night as the Knicks lost to the Boston Celtics in Madison Square Garden.

HATS FOR SALE: Sports and entertainment celebrities Sunday took their hats off to the Starlight Foundation of Chicago - the charity founded by actress Emma Samms to help grant seriously ill children their fondest wishes. The biggest prize auctioned off at the Hat Dance club was a slightly battered football helmet that belonged to former Chicago Bears running back Matt Suhey. The helmet went for $350 while Samms's hat went for $80. Headgear from other sports figures were big money-makers. A hat signed by Chicago Bulls star Michael Jordan was sold for $120, Bears Coach Mike Ditka's hat went for $60, $5 more than Cub' Manager Don Zimmer's, and Mario Andretti's brought in $60. Other sales included a hat from David Letterman for $55, one from letter-turner Vanna White for $75 and a Dolly Parton for $75.

BROCCOLI BROUHAHA: Broccoli is still a hotter topic than the budget and the trade deficit in Washington. First lady Barbara Bush accepted a shipment of fresh broccoli from growers trying to capitalize on President Bush's disdain for the vegetable. Mrs. Bush confessed her love for broccoli but said, ''I'm going to tell you the honest truth. The president is never going to eat broccoli again. But I'm never going to eat pork rinds.'' Broccoli came up again Sunday night at the annual Ford's Theater fund-raiser when impressionist Jim Morris did his George Bush routine. ''Read my lips, no more broccoli,'' he said. The president and the first lady were in the crowd for the gala, which featured John Forsythe and Valerie Harper as hosts and entertainment from Tanya Tucker, the Gatlin Brothers, Roy Clark, Tommy Tune and Tony Bennett.

LUMBERTON, NC (MARCH 26) UPI - Plans have been made for the 1990 census to avoid the drastic undercount of American Indians that occurred in 1980, a tribal spokesman said Monday.

The National Advisory Council on Indian Education, in a new report, said that the changes will address the problems that caused the 1980 census to tally 1.4 million Indians nationwide, while the Indian population that year actually was about 6.7 million.

Census figures are often plugged into formulas that determine federal funding for state and local governments and Indian tribes.

''Nationwide, Indians are in the highest rates of poverty, infant mortality, unemployment, hunger, poor housing and illiteracy,'' said James Hardin, a spokesman for the Lumbee Indians, North Carolina's largest Indian tribe.

''We are very dependent on an accurate census count so the federal government can assist us in the next 10 years. It's critical for us,'' Hardin said. ''We're just like a city or county or state. We have to justify what our needs are.''

Hardin said the Census Bureau has worked to ensure an accurate count of Indians in the 1990 census, which began last week with an attempt to count the homeless and with the mailing of census forms to households nationwide.

''We now have people called 'census awareness specialists' to help Indians be counted. That type of thing did not happen in 1980,'' Hardin said.

Another reason for the 1980 miscount was an ''historical mistrust'' by Indians of strangers asking questions, Hardin said.

''Indians live in rural parts of the country. There are reservations and homes census takers just are not aware of,'' Hardin said. ''A lot of rural Indian households have historically had a lot of mistrust about anyone, especially non-Indians, coming into their homes and asking questions.''

KATMANDU, Nepal (MARCH 26) UPI - The government arrested two more newspaper editors Monday after Prime Minister Marish Man Singh Shrestha claimed the foreign media is the power behind the current movement demanding democracy in Nepal.

Jaya Prakash Ananda, editor of Movement News, an underground newspaper published by the banned Nepali Congress Party, and Padam Thakuathi, guest editor of the weekly newspaper Nepali Awaz, were arrested Monday, their offices and witnesses said.

The government gave no reasons for the arrests of Ananda, who sources said was arrested while walking on a street, or Thakuathi, who was said to have been taken into custody at his office.

The Nepal Journalists Association has said 36 journalists were being held by authorities, most or all in connection with the campaign for multi-party democracy launched Feb. 18 by the Congress Party.

The latest arrests came after Shrestha attacked the foreign media during a speech at an official rally Sunday in his home constituency of Salayan in western Nepal.

''The movement is not a movement and those creating chaos in the so-called movement demonstrate their power does not come from the people but from the foreign communications media through which they are trying to frighten us,'' Shrestha said.

''The movement organizers are mobilizing youth who do not understand the complexities of the foreign communications media and the problems of the country,'' he said in comments reported by the official national news agency.

''The politics of a few urban people who live in the capital with all the facilities and comforts or (who) have fled to a foreign country and not seen the rural areas and the people who live there could not be called peoples politics,'' he said.

Shrestha's mention of a ''foreign country'' was seen as a clear reference to India, which has come under sharp criticism by the Nepal government for its support of the opposition movement.

The movement has been aimed at forcing an end to Nepal's partyless system of panchayats, or elective councils on the local through national level, over which King Birendra has ultimate authority.

At least 13 people have been reported killed in demonstrations organized by opposition leaders over the past five weeks. The opposition claims about 5,000 of its supporters remain held in jail by the government.

Mukunda Regmi, a lawyer arrested Feb. 28, was released Sunday on orders of the Supreme Court, where a writ of habeas corpus had been filed challenging his detention.

Regmi later said five people with wounds were being confined in the central jail in Katmandu instead of being hospitalized. The inmates were hurt by police gunfire during a demonstration Feb. 19 in the Katmandu satellite town of Bhaktapur, he said.

Regmi also complained of a severe shortage of drinking water at the jail.

Also Monday, at least three people were arrested when they reprtedly began handing out anti-government pamphlets at an army function in downtown Katmandu attended by Birendra and several thousand other people, a witness said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas said Monday critics of President Bush's economic aid requests for Nicaragua and Panama want to ''turn our backs'' on the two emerging democracies in favor of Eastern Europe and Israel.

Dole said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., referred to Nicaragua and Panama last week as two countries of ''slight importance'' to the United States's overall security interests and their aid proposals may have to be reduced.

''It is distressing to hear that some senators from that (Democrats') side of the aisle are suggesting that we ought to basically turn our backs on the newly installed democratic government in Panama, and the one about to be sworn-in in Nicaragua, by cutting their proposed aid package by more than 60 percent,'' Dole told the Senate.

Leahy was not on the floor, and was not immediately available to comment on Dole's remarks.

Bush has asked Congress for $500 million as part of a $1 billion-plus aid package to help the U.S.-installed government of Panama revive an economy battered by U.S. economic sanctions and the invasion that toppled Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

On March 13, Bush asked for $300 million in separate assistance for Nicaragua, where democratic elections in February ousted the Soviet- and Cuban-supported Sandinista government after a decade of economic mismanagement and U.S.-supported guerrilla war.

At that time, Bush proposed the $800 million for Panama and Nicaragua be diverted from defense spending and called on Congress to reach agreement with the administration by March 27 on the specific programs to be cut.

Bush's hope of seeing the aid package approved by the Easter congressional recess has been complicated by Senate debate on an overhaul of the Clean Air Act, disagreement over defense budget offsets and the broader question of changing foreign aid priorities.

Foreign aid has always been unpopular politically, and in an era of budget deficits and cutbacks in domestic programs, it is even more so. It has been suggested that the requests for Nicaragua and Panama be cut back by more than 50 percent to help aid programs for Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and other Eastern European nations whose centrally planned economies and political systems are emerging from the dominance of the Soviet Union.

The comments by Dole and Leahy reflect the struggle in Congress to find sufficient money to help new democracies in Europe and Central America as well as promote U.S. security and human rights concerns in other countries. One of those nations, Israel, receives $3.6 billion in aid each year, or about $700 per capita, and is the highest recipient of U.S. foreign aid.

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA (MARCH 26) UPI - President Vaclav Havel is recovering from a weekend hernia operation and doctors do not know if he will be able to attend an April summit of East and West European leaders, a presidential spokesman said Monday.

Havel was reported to be recovering well from the operation Saturday.

Presidential spokesman Michael Zantovsky said doctors were not sure if Havel will be able to attend the Apr. 9 summit in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, that will bring together the heads of state of Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia and the foreign ministers of Austria, Yugoslavia and Italy.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The money that parents send to children serving as religious missionaries is an ordinary gift, not a tax-deductible contribution to charity, a government lawyer argued Monday before the Supreme Court.

''Just because someone is serving as a missionary ... the money donated to that person cannot be deductible,'' Assistant Attorney General Shirley Peterson told the justices.

But a lawyer for a Mormon couple from Idaho who want to write off money they sent their missionary sons argued they should get the tax break because the aid ultimately benefitted the church, not the sons.

The sons ''are no more beneficiaries of the missionary program in which they serve than Catholic nuns are the beneficiaries of the schools in which they teach,'' attorney Rex Lee told the court.

The case was brought by Harold and Enid Davis, who are appealing a decision by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals denying the couple a deduction for $9,000 they sent as support to their sons, Benjamin and Cecil, in 1980 and 1981.

A high court ruling is expected by this summer.

Both sons worked as unpaid, full-time volunteers - Benjamin Davis in New York and Cecil Davis in New Zealand and the Cook Islands. The Mormon Church currently has about 36,000 such missionaries serving worldwide.

The parents tried to deduct the $9,000 as charitable contributions, but the Internal Revenue Service rejected the bid. The IRS ruling was upheld by the courts.

Lee said the lower courts displayed ''a profound failure to understand even the most fundamental principles of the operations of the Mormon Church,'' and could seriously hinder its missionary activites.

Throughout its 160-year history, the church has preferred that financial support to its missionaries come directly from family members, with the church stepping in only when other efforts fail, Lee said.

In addition, the church sets strict guidelines for how much money its missionaries may accept for living expenses and the church exercises ''a great deal of control'' over how that money is spent, Lee said.

In effect, the missionaries have a ''fiduciary'' role as agents of the church, guaranteeing that such contributions ultimately advance the goals of the church, Lee said.

But Peterson countered, ''To the extent that these children are agents for the church, they are only agents for the purpose of receiving money from their parents.'' Those payments, she said, amount to non-deductible ''private donations.''

Such contribution do not exhibit ''the indefinite bounty that is the hallmark of a charitable contribution,'' Peterson added.

Also, control of the money is too loose to ensure that ''a public benefit is advanced,'' as the tax code requires for deductible contributions.

''If the parents made the contribution to the church, and the church had complete unfettered use of those funds in the missionary program, there is no doubt those funds would be deductible,'' she said.

Justice Byron White suggested at the end of the arguments that the church reorganize its missionary program to accept donations from family members and allocate that money itself.

NEW YORK (MARCH 26) UPI - Private law firms are paying as much as $83,000 a year to starting lawyers, almost as much as the U.S. attorney general earns, according to a National Law Journal survey published Monday.

The survey indicated the gap in salaries between lawyers in the public sector and those in the private sector continues to be very wide.

''Many of the lawyers who plied their practice in law firms around the country also reaped hefty monetary rewards,'' the survey said. ''Some first-time lawyers shared in the bonanza, too.

''In New York, this year, Milbank, Tweed, Ladley and McCloy is paying its first-year associates $83,000; at Washington, D.C.'s, Dow, Loynes and Albertson, the first-year associates make $67,000; and in St. Louis, Lewis Rice and Gingersh first-year attorneys are getting $50,000.''

The survey cited such top compensation in the nation as $985,000 for the average equity partner at New York's prestigious Davis Polk and Wardwell, and $407,136 for the general counsel of Ryder Systems in Miami, Fla. A seventh-year associate at New York's Sullivan & Cromwell earns $191,500.

In comparison, the survey said, the chief justice of the United States makes $124,000, the U.S. attorney general, the country's top law-enforcement officer, earns $99,500 and U.S. magistrates earn $88,872.

''Of course, not all lawyers make a mint,'' the survey said. ''Attorneys who work in public interest groups, state prosecutors' offices, the nation's courts and universities, among other places, receive considerably more modest salaries.''

As examples, the survey cited $20,000 as the salary of entry-level lawyers at the Delaware County, Pa., district attorney's office, and $36,684 for their counterparts in Alameda County, Calif., as typical. Entry-level attorneys at the Department of Justice earn $29,981.

In-house corporate work can be rewarding, with attorneys doing general corporate work earning an average of $125,000 and lawyers involved in bankruptcy practice making an average $61,492, the survey said.

OSLO, NORWAY (MARCH 26) UPI - It's more than three months since Christmas, but a bank cash machine has just discovered the spirit of holiday giving, paying out ten times the money customers asked for.

The machine, known in Norway as a "mini-bank," provided weekend customers with a cash bonanza, dispensing 1,000 kroner notes instead of the usual 100 kroner denomination, a spokesman for the Kredittkassen bank said Monday.

Customers asking for 500 kroner, about $75, instead received 5,000 kroner, or about $750. The largest payout was 15,000 kroner, about $2,250, or six times the normal limit for a single withdrawal.

But the surprised customers won't get a spending spree funded by the machine's largesse, the bank spokesman said. The full amount paid will be deducted from their accounts, he said.

The spokesman said the bank did not yet know how much had been dispensed in error from the machine, but said the mini-bank was closed after customers reported the problem to police.

(MARCH 26) UPI - South African police are NOT releasing any details on what provoked officers to open fire with birdshot on a crowd of anti-apartheid demonstrators in a township outside Johannesburg today. PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA (MARCH 26) UPI - Czechoslovak scientists are closer to making explosives such as Semtex - an extremely powerful device popular among terrorist groups - more detectable, a presidential spokesman said Monday.

Spokesman Michael Zantovsky said the new detection methods, which experts say would probably give the explosive a characteristic odor, should be adapted to the British-made PE-2 and the U.S.-manufactured C-4 explosives.

''If there were a unified system of markers, detection would be far easier '' Zantovsky said in response to a question at a regularly scheduled news conference.

President Vaclav Havel revealed last week that Czechoslovakia, under the former Communist Party leadership, had sold 960 tons of Semtex to Libya, which he said was the equivalent of a 150-year supply of the explosives.

Libya is known to supply weapons, explosives and funds to the outlawed Irish Republican Army and a host of Middle East-based terrorist organizations.

Semtex, a favorite explosive of terrorist organizations, also has industrial applications, such as in mining. The explosive is extremely powerful for its weight and is considered safe to manipulate.

The explosive gained worldwide notoriety for its use in blowing up civilian airliners, including Pan American Flight 103, which exploded over Lockerbie, Scotland in December 1988.

In the weeks following the Lockerbie attack, British and Czechoslovak scientists met to discuss ways to make Semtex more detectable.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - A proposed $1.1 billion renovation of the huge Pentagon building ran into trouble Monday with a warning from the senator in charge of military construction that the money is out of the question.

While conceding that the nearly 50-year-old structure is deteriorating, Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., chairman of the military construction subcommittee of the Senate's Appropriations Committee, told Pentagon officials that budget pressures make it unlikely the money will be available.

The Defense Department has asked for $10 million in the 1991 military construction budget to continue planning work for the renovation effort, and agency witnesses defended the rehabilitation job Monday, saying that over the long term the project would be a financial wash.

The Defense Department currently leases the building from the General Services Administration for about $60 million a year, but is due to take title to the building in a few weeks and would use the lease money towards the cost of rehabilitating the structure.

''Appropriating $1 billion or more to buy new offices for the Pentagon is just out of the question in the budget climate I see coming,'' Sasser told David Berteau, the deputy assistant defense secretary for logistics.

''The military construction bill is going to get smaller, not larger, and there's simply no room for such an undertaking,'' said Sasser.

''I'm not unmindful of the deteriorating condition of the Pentagon,'' Sasser added, ''but I'm not going to support $1 billion on building new offices.''

The project, forecast to take seven years of work after four years of planning, would add only 4,500 square feet of office space to the huge building, concentrating instead on rehabilitating a structure thrown up between August 1941 and January 1943 to consoldiate the headquarters of all the military services during World War II. The first offices were occupied in April 1942.

It is in poor repair, and at a hearing last week officials noted that half the building was without water a day earlier because of a broken water main. And, they said, the existing boilers cannot be fixed and rented ones are being used. Pentagon officials want to build an annex on the side of the building to house maintenance functions now relegated to a basement area, and then use the basement for office space as wedges of the building are rehabilitated in rotation.

Sasser chided the Pentagon for not pressing the GSA in prior years to make repairs to the building, which has, among other things, 17.5 miles of corridors, 4,900 plumbing fixtures, 7.1 acres of glass on 7,754 windows and 16,250 light fixtures.

Built on a combination of swampland and a dump site, the building itself cost $49.6 million at the time, and the entire project cost $83 million.

The building covers 29 acres of ground, its five outer walls are each 971 feet long, it has 67 acres of parking with 8,770 spaces, and it required the construction of 30 miles of highway and 21 bridges and overpasses around it.

The structure, with five rings of offices, contains 6.6 million square feet of floor space, with 3.7 million square feet usable as office space for the estimated 23,000 people who work there.

(MARCH 26) UPI - Authorities say an engine fire forced a Trans World Airlines jetliner to abort takeoff this morning from Boston's Logan International Airport. Seven people were slightly injured during an emergency evacuation. Officials say T-W-A Flight 31 was about to take off for St. Louis with 176 people aboard when a controller in the tower radioed the pilot saying he saw flames and smoke coming from the number-three engine.

The U-S Supreme Court this morning rejected an appeal from two co-defendants in the McMartin Pre-School child molestation case. The co-defendants were dismissed from the case before the trial and argued they should be able to seek damages since the case against them was dropped. The justices did NOT comment on their reason for rejecting the appeal.

The high court also agreed to hear a school desegregation case in which the justices could decide at what point a desegregation order should be lifted for a public school that has met integration goals. The court will hear arguments next term in the appeal by the Oklahoma City school system.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Total machine-tool orders for the month of February rose 17.1 percent above January's posting, for a 13.5 percent gain over the same month last year, the American Machine Tool Distributors' Association said Monday.

Metal-cutting new orders were credited with the increase in total February sales showing a 20.5 percent increase over January, and a 16 percent rise over February of 1989, the AMTDA said. In contrast, metal forming new orders dropped 16 percent in February from January and fell 13.2 percent from February 1989.

"The machine-tool industry continues to experience a steady sales trend, although this activity is not homogeneous for distributors across the nation," said Robert A. Gale, AMTDA president. The distributors' statistics measure U.S. machine-tool consumption and reflect both domestic and foreign sources of machine tools.

CHICAGO (MARCH 26) UPI - Professional buying dominated the activity in the grain market Monday in relatively slow trading.

Closing prices were higher on the Chicago Board of Trade, although the uncertainty over the political situation in Lithuania kept the market on the defensive.

Traders wondered how the involvement by the Soviet Union in Lithuania might affect future U.S. trade with the Soviets.

Fairly heavy rain during the weekend in South American soybean growing regions interrupted the harvest, which provided underlying support for soybean futures. Soybean oil and meal were higher, but gains were limited by light demand and the lack of export business.

Corn recovered from its early weakness and was moderately higher at the final bell.

Wheat also was higher, but was pressured by follow-through selling in a continuation of Friday's weakness.

Traders said the volume could be light this week ahead of the prospective plantings report scheduled for release Friday afternoon.

At the close, corn was up 1/4 to 2 1/4, soybeans up 5 to 7 1/2, wheat up 1/4 to 2 1/4 and oats up 1 to 1 3/4.

MOSCOW (MARCH 26) UPI - Armenian gunmen opened fire Monday on a bus filled with Azerbaijanis in the disputed enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh, killing one person and wounding four others, the official Tass news agency said.

It was the latest report of violence between Christian Armenians and Moslem Azerbaijanis following nearly two months of calm in the troubled region that was shattered during the weekend.

Soviet television also reported that rail traffic between Armenia and Azerbaijan was cut by an explosion in Armenia on Saturday, derailing a passenger train and ripping apart the rail tracks.

On Sunday, Tass said a locomotive and two cars were derailed but Soviet television showed the entire train derailed, and a TV announcer said: ''Rail traffic between the republics has been cut again.''

Armenians carried out attacks Saturday in a number of villages on the border between the two republics, leaving nine people dead, including five Azerbaijanis burned to death in their home in Barganis Airum village, Soviet news reports said.

''Monday, a bus carrying Azerbaijanis from Mir Bashir to Kelbadjar in Nagorno-Karabakh was fired on,'' Tass said. ''According to preliminary estimates, one person was killed and four were wounded.''

The report could not be confirmed independently.

Tass said the attackers used both automatic weapons and single-shot carbines.

The repored outbreaks of violence was the worst since the two republics raised volunteer armies in January to fight a civil war that was stopped by the Soviet army that entered Baku.

The Soviet intervention left more than 65 Azerbaijanis dead, but army officers then set about arranging truces between the vigilante armies that appear to have held.

Red Army Col. Pavel Bogodukhov told Tass the new violence is being carried out by ''extremist forces ... who do not want to see the conflict normalized.''

The Armenians and Azerbaijanis have been battling for two years over Nagorno-Karabakh, an enclave wholly inside Azerbaijan whose population is mainly Armenian.

PANAMA CITY, PANAMA (MARCH 26) UPI - Panama has resumed exporting sugar to the United States for the first time in six months, the U.S. Embassy in Panama announced Monday.

About 8,285 metric tons of Panamanian sugar, worth $4.3 million, were being shipped to ports in Savannah, Ga., Galveston, Texas, and New Orleans the U.S. Embassy said in a statement.

Panama's sugar quota to the United States was suspended in September 1989 after former strongman Manuel Noriega named Francisco Rodriguez, his high school friend, as provisional president of Panama. Earlier, Noriega had annulled the May 7, 1989 election, which the opposition appeared to be winning by a three-to-one margin.

Suspension of Panama's sugar quota was part of a series of U.S. economic sanctions over the past two years designed to put pressure on the Noriega regime, which was finally toppled Dec. 20, 1989, during the U.S. invasion. Panama's 1990 sugar quota to the United States is 69,312 metric tons, worth about $35 million, the statement said.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (MARCH 26) UPI - Police opened fire on thousands of anti-government demonstrators in a black township south of Johannesburg Monday, killing at least eight people and wounding more than 350 others, hospital sources said.

Witnesses said police fired bursts of shotgun and teargas canisters without provocation into a crowd of more than 30,000 swarming the Sebokeng township's municipal offices during a protest against poor living conditions.

''The situation is still volatile with police doing everything possible to stabilize the situation and restore law and order,'' a police statement said.

Law officers were under ''constant attack, mainly by stone-throwing mobs '' it said.

Witnesses said windows of vehicles were smashed and municipal office buildings set ablaze.

The incident was among the worst in unrest that escalated after President Frederik de Klerk's Feb. 2 decision to lift a 30-year ban on the African National Congress and negotiate a power-sharing deal with the black majority.

Responding to surge in white and black vigilante attacks in recent weeks, Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok warned South Africans Monday against taking the law into their own hands.

''This can become very dangerous,'' Vlok said after talks with Conservative Party officials and police in the conservative white mining town of Welkom in the central Orange Free State province.

''We request people seriously to desist from organizing into vigilante groups.''

Black vigilantes Sunday halted a mini-bus loaded with blacks on the outskirts of Welkom, then stabbed six to death and set the van ablaze. A week ago, an unidentified black wearing an ANC T-shirt was allegedly beaten to death by six whites, five of whom were later arrested.

Violence sweeping the country since the Feb. 11 release of black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela from 27 years imprisonment on sabotage charges also left seven dead on Sunday in the strife-torn province of Natal, according to a police report.

The Indian Ocean coastal province has been the scene of intense fighting between African National Congress-linked supporters and the moderate Zulu tribal movement Inkatha.

In Sebokeng, one of six black townships in Vaal Triangle mining belt south of Johannesburg where black rioting that gripped the country from 1984 to 1986 first erupted, officials reported eight dead in the police shooting by nightfall Monday.

Hospital Administrator Anne van der Spuy said Wednesday night five blacks were dead on arrival, and three others died of birdshot wounds. Two others were still listed in critical condition.

Of more than 350 people who swamped the hospital for treatement after the late-morning shooting, nearly all had been wounded by birdshot, Van der Spuy said. None suffered large caliber bullet wounds and only a few were treated for teargas inhalation, she said.

''It's quiet in the township at the moment. There have been no more shooting incidents,'' she said.

The area has been especially tense in recent weeks, with mobs of blacks ignoring ANC calls for calm. One white motorist traveling through the area two weeks ago was killed by blacks manning a roadblock in search of black vigilantes.

As many as 20,000 marchers in the nearby township of Sharpeville also were dispersed by police firing tear gas after demonstrators hurled stones at the local police station, witnesses said.

Police declared the marches illegal and refused to allow them to proceed.

Police also reported unidentified gunmen had used rocket-propelled grenades against municipal offices in the black satellite city of Soweto during the night, causing some damage to the council headquarters and a nearby house but no injuries.

In the Johannesburg industrial area of Langlaate, authorities reported three limpet mines exploded Sunday night, causing damage to power transformers. No groups claimed responsibility for the attacks.

EAST BERLIN (MARCH 26) UPI - The leader of East Germany's Social Democrats gave up his party job and his parliamentary seat Monday pending investigation of charges he worked for the security police of the Stalinist government ousted last fall.

The party official, Ibrahim Boehme, was among several senior East German politicians accused of having worked for the long-feared State Security police, known as Stasi.

Similar claims have been leveled against Prime Minister-designate Lothar de Maiziere, who led East German conservatives to electoral triumph in the country's first free elections March 18.

Boehme, 45, denied the allegations made against him by anonymous East German sources and by the West German news magazine Spiegel, which attributed its information to a former Stasi member.

''I personally declare that I never - and not through any third person - worked in the ministry for State Security or with the ministry for State Security or knowingly passed on any information to them,'' Boehme told reporters in East Berlin.

He reiterated his demand that any file about him be inspected by an independent body.

''I have suspended my leadership of the party until allegations that I worked for the Stasi are cleared up,'' he said. ''I will not take my place in the Volkskammer (the East German parliament) until I have cleared my name.

The Social Democratic leadership expressed its full support of Boehme.

''Anonymous accusations by former Stasi officials, not substantiated in any way, are not apt to affect the reputation and good standing of Ibrahim Boehme,'' party leaders said in a statement issued Monday.

De Maiziere, who heads the Christian Democratic Union, the largest of the three Alliance for Germany parties, has rejected similar accusations.

The 50-year-old lawyer said his only contacts with the security police had been of a professional nature.

Efforts to form a new coalition government in East Germany have been slowed by the allegations that several of the leading party members who could join the coalition had been Stasi informers.

But de Maiziere said it might be possible to form a new government within the next two weeks. He said he expected the new 400-seat parliament to convene next week.

The Alliance for Germany won 193 parliamentary seats, just short of an absolute majority. The conservative group has invited both the Social Democrats and a liberal alliance to discuss forming a coalition.

DAYTONA BEACH, FL (MARCH 26) UPI - Eating soybeans may reduce the risk of developing breast cancer, a researcher said Monday.

Substances in soybeans called phytoestrogens may be part of the reason women in Asia who eat soybean-rich diets are up to eight times less likely to develop breast cancer than American-born women, the researcher said.

But Dr. Stephen Barnes of the University of Alabama stressed that while phytoestrogens seem to inhibit the development of breast cancer in laboratory rats, there is no direct evidence of such action yet in humans.

''The question is, do you switch over to a diet dominated by soybeans? People shouldn't be encouraged to rush into this. But I don't think there is any harm in it,'' Barnes said at an American Cancer Society seminar.

Rats fed a diet containing powdered soybean chips developed up to 70 percent fewer breast cancer tumors after being injected with a cancer-causing agent than a comparison group that ate no soybeans, Barnes said.

Researchers believe many breast tumors need the hormone estrogen to grow. For that reason, doctors frequently treat breast cancer patients with an anti-estrogen drug known as tamoxifen.

Barnes speculated phytoestrogens may be a naturally-occurring version of tamoxifen, with a similar - if weaker - ability to inhibit tumor development.

Barnes cautioned, however, that many factors seem to play a role in breast cancer, including other nutritional influences such as low-fat diets.

Because Asian diets rich in soybeans are also low in fats, it may be very difficult to separate the comparative importance of fat restriction and soybeans in explaining lower breast cancer risks in Asian women, said Dr. Samuel Broder, director of the National Cancer Institute.

For example, while American Seventh Day Adventists who eat soybeans as a meat substitute also have lower breast cancer rates, they also abstain from smoking and have other habits that would lower their risks, Broder said.

Nevertheless, Barnes said the fact that daughters of Asian immigrant women who eat American diets have the same breast cancer risk as other Americans indicates diet as well as genetics plays a role in breast cancer.

Barnes said the inspiration for his research was a study at a zoo in Cincinatti that found estrogen production was inhibited in female cheetahs fed a diet containing soybeans. When the soybeans were removed from their food, the cheetahs began producing estrogen, he said.

In a related development, Dr. Christopher Benz said a new test may help doctors determine whether chemotherapy or hormone therapy is the best treatment for breast cancer patients who have undergone surgery.

Tamoxifen or some other hormonal drug is the preferred treatment in women whose tumors appear to be dependent on estrogen to spread, said Benz, a researcher at the University of California-San Francisco.

However, since hormone treatment is only effective in about 50 percent of these women, knowing in advance whether it will work is ''like flipping a coin,'' he said.

The new test is aimed at detecting tumors that seem likely to respond to an anti-hormone drug, but actually do not because of a genetic defect. Women with these tumors may have a better chance of long-term survival if they are treated with chemotherapy, he said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The United States will import fewer goods over the next two years but there appears little hope of narrowing the nation's huge trade deficit in 1990 and 1991, a government report said Monday.

In an annual trade projection to Congress, the Treasury Department and Office of the United States Trade Representative said, "U.S. economic growth is projected to be somewhat slower on average."

"Further moderate reduction of net imports should be achieved in real terms as the growth of goods and services continues to exceed that of imports," the report concluded.

The U.S. merchandise trade deficit fell to $113.2 billion in 1989, down from $127.2 billion in 1988 and the best showing since 1984, according to data compiled by the Commerce Department.

To narrow the deficit further, the report to Congress said the United States must also pay attention to foreign exchange rates, international price trends and other factors.

"In light of the projections for 1990 and 1991, the U.S. trade and current account deficits could improve further in 1990 and 1991, though improvement is not likely to be as significant as in the 1988-1989 period " it said. "Moreover, given the unusual forecasting uncertainties, the prospect of nominal deficit increases cannot be ruled out," the report said.

On trade with Japan, the report said "rising investment income earnings and a partial recovery of growth will probably limit the potential for further" improvement in the U.S. trade deficit.

As for trade with the Soviet bloc, the report said "dramatic developments in Eastern Europe could have potentially important effects on trade and investment patterns within and outside of Europe."

"Increased East European consumption and investment will have both trade-creating and trade-diverting effects and could, over time, contribute to stronger world trade growth and reduction of trade imbalances," the forecast said.

LONDON (MARCH 26) UPI - The world's major military powers are reducing defense spending by cutting manpower but are actually increasing their expenditure on weapons of mass destruction which involve formidable firepower, a study showed Monday.

The 1990 Directory of Nuclear, Biological and Chemical Arms and Disarmament said more research is now going into ''area-impact munitions '' which dispense large numbers of highly destructive ''bomblets'' over a wide area, but are not included in any arms reduction talks.

The study, written by two academics of Bradford University, said there were still grounds for caution, despite the vast improvements in U.S.-Soviet relations over the past five years and Moscow's realization that its vast military budget was undermining its economy.

It said the years of the Cold War ''gave pre-existing high levels of armaments activity a considerable boost and resulted in a momentum which will not be easily reduced.''

The study called for further arms control agreements and greater trust between potential adversaries to allow the ''really significant changes in military planning and production'' required to dismantle the system of nuclear deterrence.

It said defense cuts were mainly focusing on slicing manning levels, while there was a concurrent increase in expenditure on weapons of mass destruction.

''Developments in conventional firepower since the Second World War have resulted in new kinds of conventional weapons as devastating as low-yield nuclear devices,'' it said. ''The combination of rapid-fire missile systems and area-impact munitions are revolutionizing artillery capabilities.''

Among the new weapons it reviewed was a U.S. Navy cruise missile which can fly 800 miles and drop packages of cluster munitions on three different targets before diving onto and destroying a fourth target.

The study said the Soviet Union is developing similarly advanced area impact munitions, which may be deployed on the new SS-NX-24 sea-launched cruise missile. The 40-foot-long projectile has a 2,000-mile range and may be inducted this year, it said.

It said another example was the U.S.-made Multiple Launch Rocket System, currently deployed in West Germany and able to destroy a small town or a city district.

Chile, Brazil, Israel and South Africa are also producing area impact munitions, which combined with the proliferation of ballistic missiles represent a vast increase in world military firepower, it said.

''We can look forward to a future in which the progress being made in disarmament negotiations disguises new developments,'' wrote the authors, Paul Rogers and Malcom Dando. ''There is therefore an urgent need to extend disarmament negotiations to cover new forms of warfare.''

DETROIT (MARCH 26) UPI - General Motors Corp.'s Buick-Oldsmobile-Cadillac Group said Monday it was exploring a novel joint venture with the United Auto Workers union to rebuild engines, possibly at a GM plant in Michigan.

GM spokeswoman Karen Healy confirmed such a project is being investigated as part of B-O-C's "Grow the Business" team. That team is part of a business strategy created about four years ago between the group and the UAW that includes specific areas on powertrains, body panels, assembly, and tool and die operations, she said.

"A major portion of job security is not only to be competitive in the workplace now, but in trying to grow the business," Healy said. "This is one of many innovative ways to keep some folks working, or bring them back to work."

The venture, which would require sizeable financial investments from both the carmaker and union, would be the first of its kind because of the joint association, MetalWorking News, a weekly industry publication, said in its latest issue.

It would also create new jobs for idled hourly workers in a North American market that the publication said is worth nearly $1.2 billion a year, the weekly said. That industry provides remanufactured engines instead of new ones to reduce repair bills for car and truck owners.

Healy said she did not know how many jobs or where such a joint engine rebuilding venture might be set up, although MetalWorking News said space is available at GM's B-O-C plants in Lansing and Flint, Mich. A UAW spokesman had no immediate comment on the venture.

Joint ventures on remanufacturing would be a new concept, both for the automaker and union. It is believed a considerable amount of new tooling would be required, meaning a total investment of between $60 million and $100 million, the magazine said.

The venture might also create questions about the union's involvement in such a business because it and GM would be equal partners in management.

However, it would also take the concept of "teamwork" and "partnership" a step further by breaking down the traditionally adversarial roles between labor and management.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The government's failure to properly police the $33 billion-a-year weight-loss industry could threaten the health of the estimated 65 million Americans who are dieting, a congressman said Monday.

At a hearing into weight-loss programs, Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., chairman of a House Small Business subcommittee, said a recent survey found about 20 percent of American adults are ''constantly dieting,'' making them prime targets of the ''largely unregulated'' diet industry.

Wyden acknowledged pound-shedding potions have been around for generations. But he said, ''A new mix of questionable products, untrained providers and deceptive advertising is exposing our citizens to unexpected and unnecessary health risks.''

A survey, conducted for the committee by MarketData Enterprises, estimated the market for weight loss products is growing about 10.6 percent annually and will exceed $50 billion by 1995. The estimate included exercise spas, diet beverages and artificial sweeteners, as well as weight-loss programs and low-calorie formulas.

Wyden said the evidence indicates many products peddled by diet clinics are untested ''with little or no scientific proof of their safety and effectiveness.'' There are no minimum standards for staff training, although many employees are touted to the public as ''specialists,'' he said.

Nancy Wellman, president of the American Dietetic Association, stressed that rapid weight loss requires a doctor's supervision.

''The most significant drawback to an unsupervised, very low calorie diet is the potential for life-threatening side-effects,'' Wellman said. ''Loss of body protein may affect cardiac function and could be related to heart failure. Other potential side effects include anemia, light-headedness, constipation, diarrhea and menstrual irregularities.''

Last week, 19 Florida women filed suit against Nutri-System of Willow Grove, Pa., alleging the diet damaged their gallbladders. Nutri-System said Monday its programs ''meet accepted nutritional principles.''

Carol Householder, of Flagstaff, Ariz., testified how her 44-year-old husband suffered a cardiac arrest and brain damage after losing nearly 30 pounds on a Nutri-System diet.

Householder said doctors told her that her husband had early signs of coronary heart disease, but his attack probably was triggered by nutritional deficiencies and he should not have gone on a diet without medical supervision.

Wyden criticized the Food and Drug Administration and Federal Trade Commission for failing to investigate leaders in the weight-loss industry.

''It is no surprise that the 13 weight-loss cases the FTC has brought since 1980 focused on gadgets and gimmicks - the Gut Buster and the Fat Magnet to name a couple,'' he said. ''No FTC case to date has tackled the potentially greater threats - the fast-growing trends toward commercial weight loss clnics and physician-supervised diet programs.''

Janet Seiger, chairman of the FTC, said her staff is investigating advertising claims by diet clinic chains, as well as hospital- and doctor-based weight-loss plans.

An FDA proposal to survey various diet tactics has been sitting on the shelf for five years, Wyden said, despite FDA claims that lack of such information posed ''a serious handicap'' to helping consumers.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - The FBI, frustrated by a marathon manhunt but still determined to track down its man, unveiled a life-size updated bust Monday of the dean of its ''10 Most Wanted'' list.

This Sunday, the plaster projection of how an aging Leo Koury may now appear is to be shown to millions of potential tipsters on Fox Television's ''America's Most Wanted'' show, in effort to end a 12-year manhunt and nab the reputed killer and mobster.

''Let's just say I'm hopeful. Maybe this time we will get the call,'' said FBI agent Henry Handy, who has been stymied in numerous past efforts to catch the one-time Richmond, Va., card shark and gay restaurant owner.

Koury has been on the FBI's ''10 Most Wanted'' list since April 1979, longer than any of the nine other fugitives now in the notorious lineup.

Koury vanished on Oct. 30, 1978, supposedly with $1 million. Just days later, he was charged with two murders and three attempted contract slayings from 1975 to 1977, all involving rival gay bars.

He was also indicted on charges of racketeering, loansharking, insurance fraud and planning an aborted 1975 kidnapping of the president of the Richmond-based A.H. Robins Pharmaceutical Co.

The hunt for Koury, known to use the alias Mike Decker, has crisscrossed the United States, reached into South America and for a time focused on Lebanon, where Koury's father, a Lebanese immigrant, returned a generation ago.

Creation of the bust adds a new twist to the chase. It combines science, art and outright hunches to project how Koury, whose last confirmed sighting dates back to 1978, looks now.

If Koury is still alive - and the FBI suspects he is - the 5-foot-11 fugitive would be 55. The painted bust shows a chubby face, pug nose, stubbled beard, receding hairline and curly black hair touched with gray.

''This is Leo,'' said Frank Bender of Philadelphia, a commercial photographer and forensic artist who created the bust for $1,500.

Bender claims to be ''the only guy in the world who does three-dimensional fugitives,'' and said he did lots of leg work before starting to sculpt Koury.

He examined old Koury photos and recent ones of Koury's family. He considered Koury's diet and factored in his Lebanese heritage, lifestyle and medical history.

''He had diabetes. After taking insulin for 10 to 15 years, insulin affects the eyes,'' Bender said. ''So I put glasses on Leo.''

Photos of the bust released by the FBI's office in Richmond, Va., showed Koury without glasses. But he will be shown with and without them on TV.

''The key is showing different angles, in different lighting,'' said Bender, whose artistic busts have in the past led to federal busts.

In one widely publicized case last fall, Bender's work prompted the discovery and apprehension of John List, a fugitive for 18 years.

List, now on trial on New Jersey murder charges, was sought for the 1971 slayings of his wife, mother and three children. Within days of the display of a Bender bust on ''America's Most Wanted,'' List was arrested in Richmond.

In the past 14 months, Koury has been featured three times on two crime-solver programs, twice on NBC's ''Unsolved Mysteries,'' and once before on ''America's Most Wanted.'' That appearance prompted 200 tips, the FBI said.

''We never give up,'' said Will Garrett, FBI spokesman in Richmond. ''Any lead that comes to our attention ... we'll check it out.''

The appearances featured an FBI computer-aged photo of Koury, who for the past two years has had a $25,000 bounty on his head.

The FBI has long suspected that Koury began a new life somewhere in the United States, but now concedes he may be out of the country.

Handy said: ''I have no idea what he's doing. Usually in a fugitive investigation, you come to a point where you just missed him, or you are six months or a year behind him.''

''It hasn't happened in this case. He's low-profile, someplace. And he apparently has kept his nose clean.''

''I'm just hopeful that, just maybe, that one person who can help us, that one person who will do him, will call us this time,'' the agent said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Yields for 13-week and 26-week T-bills plunged Monday at the government's weekly auction.

The Treasury Department auctioned $8 billion of 13-week bills at an average discount of 7.85 percent, down from 7.97 percent at last week's auction and the lowest since Feb. 26, when the auction yielded 7.72 percent.

The government also sold $8 billion of 26-week bills at an average discount of 7.83 percent, down from 7.92 percent last week and the lowest rate since March 5, when the rate stood at 7.79 percent. The discount rate understates the actual yield to investors.

The investment, or coupon-equivalent, rate was 8.12 percent on the 13-week bills at an average price of $9,801.60 per $10,000 face value. The investment rate on the 26-week bill was 8.26 percent at an average of $9,604.20 per $10,000.

TACOMA, WA (MARCH 26) UPI - A man convicted of raping, choking and mutilating a 7-year-old boy was sentenced to 131 1/2 years in prison Monday by a judge who said he wanted to ensure the defendant is never freed.

Pierce County Superior Court Judge Thomas Sauriol imposed the extreme sentence upon Earl Shriner, 40, calling the attack ''deliberate, bizarre and cruel.''

''We propose a sentence, Mr. Shriner, which I hope and I believe will keep you in the Department of Corrections for the rest of your natural life,'' Sauriol said. ''I hope that any reviewing court gets this message very clearly. I don't ever want Mr. Shriner in the community ever again.''

The mother of the victim, who is now 8, addressed the court before the sentencing, saying she and her son could only feel safe if Shriner were locked up for the rest of his life.

''It's never really over for us,'' she told the judge. ''Every day, in some way, my son and I have to adjust. If we are ever able to consider forgiveness, it will come with knowing we are safe for the rest of his life.''

Shriner was convicted Feb. 7 of first-degree attempted murder, first-degree assault and two counts of first-degree rape in the May 20 attack. The boy was choked and raped repeatedly by his attacker, who then cut off his penis and left him for dead in a wooded area near the boy's home.

Deputy County Prosecutor Barbara Corey-Boulet had said she would seek a term of up to 600 years to make certain Shriner would spend at least 60 years in prison, more than the likely remainder of his life.

She cited the deliberate cruelty to the child, Shriner's sophisticated planning of the attack and his 24-year history of attacks on children.

Shriner's prior convictions include assault and kidnapping. At 16, he led police to the body of a strangled 15-year-old classmate, but he was too young to be charged with homicide under the laws of the state at the time. Instead, he was committed to two institutions.

CLIFTON, NJ (MARCH 26) UPI - The 17-month-old daughter of a deaf Polish immigrant and his deaf wife survived a week alone in the family's apartment with the decomposing bodies of her slain parents and grandfather eating cereal and drinking out of a toilet bowl, officials said Monday.

The girl, who also is hearing impaired, and the bodies of her parents and grandfather were found Sunday by the family's landlord, who then called police, said Ronald Fava, Passaic County prosecutor.

Neighbors of the family summoned the landlord when they realized the family had not been seen for at least a week, he said.

The victims were identified as Kazimierz Turzynski, 35, a rubber factory employee; his wife, Lee Kui-Yin Turzynski, 39; and Mieczyslaw Turzynski, 61, who also is deaf.

''The neighbors were concerned because they had not seen the family for some time and the van belonging to the family had been parked for a week without moving,'' Fava said.

There are no suspects in the killings, but ''we are investigating several leads,'' he said. ''Noises were heard in the apartment on Sunday, March the 18th, which may mean a fight or incident was in progress.''

The girl, Coleen Turzynski, was being treated for dehydration and diaper rash at St. Joseph's Hospital in Paterson where she was in fair condition, said Barbara Hopp, a hospital spokeswoman.

''We are getting flooded with offers to donate money and toys ... for her '' Hopp said. ''All of it is very nice. At this point it is mostly inquiries about where they can bring them.''

Fava said evidence found in the apartment indicated the girl ate cereal out of boxes and drank from the clean toilet bowl to survive.

Kazimierz Turzynski was found lying naked next to his bed, the victim of multiple stab wounds, while his Chinese-American wife was found fully clothed and sitting up in a chair by the bed with two stab wounds to the chest, Fava said.

The elder Turzynski was found in another bedroom, also stabbed to death, he said.

''There was some disarray in the apartment, but we are not certain it was ransacked,'' he said. ''Nothing indicates more than one perpetrator.''

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 26) UPI - Homosexual couples living together should check the ''unmarried partners'' category on their 1990 census forms to ensure governments will know gays are a sizable group in American society, a group of political and gay activists urged Monday.

''The 1990 census represents a first,'' State Sen. Milton Marks, D-San Francisco, said. ''It is the first time a gender-neutral question regarding family relationships has been asked. This question will allow us to express the diversity of American family life.''

Marks chairs the State Senate Committee on Elections and Reapportionment, which will play a large part in redistricting California for an expected seven more seats in the U.S. House of Representatives.

''If we don't have a complete count, we won't get seven seats,'' he said.

''The census is a money issue,'' Marks added. ''There's a question as to whether San Francisco will have enough money. Federal programs are based on the census.''

Roberta Achtenberg of the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force, said fear about disclosing sexual orientation will still lead to a ''woeful undercount,'' but it will be a start in forcing governments to acknowledge that alternate lifestyles exist. She noted that the government promises anonymity.

''We won't be making up statistics about the number of gays for the first time,'' she said. ''We will have something tangible to point to.''

She estimated there are 300,000 to 400,000 gay and lesbian couples living in California in committed relationships.

Carole Midgen, chair of the California Democratic Party Platform Committee said an accurate count would help San Francisco County in its lobbying efforts because of the city's assumed large numbers of gays and lesbians.

At the news conference, two couples checked the ''unmarried partner'' box on their census form and signed their names.

Tom Nolan, chairman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, signed with San Francisco architect Larry Friesen, with whom he said he has been living for 13 years.

''The census has finally caught up with reality on the American family,'' Nolan said, adding that he was ''proud of my gay relationship'' and that the census will acknowledge homosexuals in an official way.

The other couple was Laurie McBride and Donna Yutzy of San Francisco.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 26) UPI - Airline unions charged Monday the government endangered the retirement security of thousands of workers by failing to act while Texas Air Corp. illegally stripped millions of dollars from Eastern Airlines pension funds.

Testifying before a panel of the House Committee on Government Operations, the unions claimed Texas Air violated "multiple provisions" of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act by milking the Eastern pension funds after it took over Eastern in 1986.

"It's clear that the government blew it," said William Scheri, airline coordinator for the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

"All the information they needed to take action was handed to them several times on a silver platter, but they simply refused to act and only acquiesced to Texas Air's plans," Scheri told the committee's employment and housing subcommittee. Backing Scheri's IAM were officials of unions representing airline pilots and flight attendants, all involved ina strike against Eastern.

At issue was approval by the Internal Revenue Service and acquiescence of the federal Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. for three funding waivers sought by Eastern in the three years following the Texas Air takeover. The waivers allowed the company to forego millions of dollars in pension fund contributions.

Plagued by the employees strike, Eastern has since filed for bankruptcy protection, leaving in doubt the future ability of the weakened pension funds to cover full retirement benefits, according to airline union groups at the hearing.

"To (Texas Air chairman) Frank Lorenzo, Eastern's pension plans were just too tempting a piggy-bank to ignore," said Scheri, "so he raided them every chance he got."

Scheri said his union complained to the Department of Labor that Texas Air was violating regulations by diverting pension fund monies for "the improper purpose of funding a leveraged buyout (of Eastern)," but the department failed to act on the complaint.

The hearing was the subcommittee's third on federal policies governing private pension plans. Subcommitee chairman Rep.Tom Lantos, D-Calif., said the Eastern case raised concerns about whether laws are "too lenient" for companies with underfunded pension plans, and whether a company can "dump pension liabilities on the government and come out the other side of a Chapter 11 bankruptcy with an operational company."

Lantos said he was also concerned about the financial soundness of the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. in its ability to bail out failed pension funds.

"The system for most pension trusts works well," Lantos said. "But the small push it would take to rock PBGC's boat could have retiress as well as the ultimate guarantor, the American taxpayer, bailing out a punctured rowboat for decades to come."

Earlier, leaders of the Air Line Pilots Association said Eastern Airlines' union pilots will vote this week on whether to accept a temporary 25 percent pay cut.

The pilots' Master Executive Council decided Sunday to put the pay cut to a vote of the union's several thousand members. Pilots hired since the Eastern strike began March 4, 1989, will not be permitted to vote, said pilots spokesman E.J. Breen.

The salary cuts, along with cuts in pension contributions and other concessions, were part of a proposal made to the company last week by union negotiators.

The negotiators said they want to give the company the economic cuts it desires. In return, they hope federal mediators will encourage Eastern to preserve their jobs and seniority protection. The cuts would be effective until July 1.

Eastern spokesman Robin Matell said the company had been told earlier by the pilots that a vote of the membership was not necessary. "This is a continuation of the stalling that they have been pulling for 33 months in negotiations," Matell said.

WATERFORD, MI (MARCH 26) UPI - Gwen Dempsey is going to Boise with a half-empty bag of potatoes and a warning for Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus.

The 42-year-old real estate agent, a candidate for the Michigan Legislature, said Monday she intends to warn Andrus that if he signs a restrictive abortion bill approved by the Idaho Legislature last week, abortion-rights activists around the nation will boycott Idaho's No. 1 product.
